Varsity to Meet All-Star Team For Johnny Copp Memorial Fund

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Following closely the resignation of Gen. Hugh Johnston as head of the N.R.A., President Roosevelt yesterday personally took over the helm. He intimated that there were no sudden developments pending.

Pursuing his announced belief that Italy ought to have a greater population, Il Duce yesterday set legislation under way to deprive all marriageable women of their jobs. Other drastic steps were being contemplated, it was intimated.

Rumours at Ottawa say that the Conservative party of Canada is getting definite organization under way for the next general election.

Observers in New York were yesterday momentarily expecting a breakdown of Bruno Hauptmann, indicted for extortion in the Lindbergh case.

McGill University to-day were richer by a cool million dollars when an action seeking to break the will under which a bequest of that amount was to be paid was dismissed.

Ontario's divorce courts are under fire as a result of the alarming increase in business this past year or so and it is being rumoured that the present provincial government may shortly bring down some new legislation in the matter.

SOCIALISTS BAND ON MCGILL CAMPUS

Movement Rises as Offshoot of Student Christian Movement

CONDEMN CAPITALISM

Word comes from McGill University of the establishment of a Student Socialist Movement on that campus. The movement was born out of the Spring camp of the McGill Student Christian Movement held at the beginning of the summer. A number of students attending the conference felt themselves constrained as Christians to undertake the organization of an aggressive movement for social reconstruction along socialist lines; as a result, they grouped themselves together and adopted the name of the Student Socialist Movement. The members of the movement have been working steadily upon their programme and plan of action all summer and are now prepared to present the organization to university students.

Just what will be the relation of the Student Socialist Movement to the Student Christian Movement on the McGill campus has not yet been determined, since the new "S.S.M.", as it is known, got under way after the close of the school year. At the present time, however, the movement is merely tentative and under consideration by the McGill S.C.M.

The constitution prepared by the group this summer defines the movement thus: "The Student Socialist Movement is a group of students and graduates who pledge themselves to God and undertake to share in the building of His kingdom. They feel that Christianity can only be practised

GAME ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Warren Stevens to Quarter
All Stars in Exhibition Encounter

You all remember Johnny Copp. The popular football player, and student in medicine whose tragic death horrified Canada one year ago. Thanksgiving Day, October 8, the students and friends of the late Johnny Copp will turn out to make one last effort to perpetuate his memory. On that day a team of former Varsity football players, heroes of another day, will meet the current Varsity squad in an exhibition game at Varsity Stadium.

The proceeds of this venture, it is hoped, will make possible the memorial fund in his honour, to be called the Johnny Copp Memorial Fund. This will be a scholarship, donated yearly to students in his year (fourth year medicine) who possess the qualities which nearest resemble those possessed by Johnny Copp himself before his tragic death.

Although most of the so-called "Old Boys" games are of the pink tea variety, the Johnny Copp Memorial game will be of a decidedly different nature. The Old Boys have been informed that the Athletic Society will

'ORDEAL BY FIRE' FACES FRESHMEN

Many Original Methods of Reception to be Tried Out

BADGES REPLACE BERETS

These are the days when freshmen and freshettes begin to hear rumours of a certain ceremony of initiation, in which they are to be unwitting participants. And from all reports, their fears are not without grounds.

Victoria, instead of the much-vaunted flag rush which usually left the freshmen sadly humbled (?) have substituted what might be called a "push ball rush", with a six foot ball from Hart House for the main feature of the afternoon. Plans for the initiation of the freshettes are so shrouded in that a woman's mystery is half her secrecy—Vic sophs must have heard charm—that Vic freshies can only expect the worst.

The medical women, however, make no pretense at concealment. "The freshies are to carry empty paint cans decorated with skull and cross bones around with them morning, noon and night. No rest for the weary," The Varsity was told.

A member of S.P.S. 377 executive said solemnly, "We only want to welcome the freshmen and show them how a Schoolman should act. None of this rough-house stuff." Perhaps the spirit of goodwill is getting a foothold on the campus.

Evidence of this was visible at U.C. where the president of 377 said that the girls were wearing badges instead of the much hated berets and the only form of initiation would be a skit contest.

But the old spirit dies hard. St. Joseph's freshies wear huge green bows under their chins and St. Hilda's girls have to adhere strictly to the freshman rules. The Dents expect a "free-for-all", but the Meds remain silent on the subject of initiation. Perhaps they feel that they are unable to cope with a panic-stricken 378.

A Message from the President

September 26, 1934

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Through your columns I hasten to extend a welcome to the students of our University who are returning to their work or are coming for the first time. Our total numbers will probably be as large as last year. I trust that speedily new and old students will settle into the regular round of University activities. Your academic course has first claim upon you. Begin to study regularly at the commencement of the term, and then you will avoid the panic that sometimes overtakes one who postpones his scholastic activities to the end of the year. Take your fair share in the general enterprises of student life. To whatever faculty or college or department you belong, add to your immediate loyalty to it, the sense of belonging to the University of Toronto as one great unit. You are now members of a famous academic foundation. Be worthy of its past, and by your own achievements, add to the glory of its future.

The staff and the executive officers of the University are your friends and wish in every way possible to help and co-operate with you.

I hope we shall have a year marked by good discipline, good intellectual progress, reasonable athletic success, helpful comradeship, and ever-increasing goodwill and fitness to serve.

H. J. CODY,
President.

SENIORS ARE SUCKERS TO SUPER-SALESMAN

The super-salesman is back and Depression irrevocably banished. Last Saturday the U.C. Sophomores, female, stared the annual campaign to bulldoze unsuspecting Freshettes into paring with fifty cents for a red and white barred ribbon. Two innocents, in particular, took a lot of convincing before they came across, but the read-headed Soph Salesman had lots of determination and kept at them. "You've simply got to buy them," she argued, and their sales resistance collapsing, the pair paid up. However, they still looked mystified. Then, in the act of pinning on the gay tags, they feebly offered one more argument.

"But,—we're seniors."
They were.

Hitler's Devotion to Germany Worshipped by His Followers

ANOTHER PURGE COMING

"The second religion of the German people is the worship of chemical genius," Mr. Wilson Woodside quoted from the London Times to The Varsity in an interview yesterday. Mr. Woodside, who is on the staff of the Faculty of Engineering, has recently returned from a summer spent in Central Europe, where he witnessed episodes in the "June Purge" and the assassination of Doffuss.

"Hitler," said Mr. Woodside, "firmly believes in the ability of German chemists to create substitutes for such articles as rubber and cotton, materials which Germany must now import from abroad. From a political viewpoint a great number of the Nazis do not desire trade with foreigners. It brings with it too many international complications. Actually the export trade has

President Pleads for Loyalty of Faculties to University

PROVISION MADE FOR TRANSFERS TO PASS COURSE

At a recent meeting of the Council of the Faculty of Arts the following regulation was passed (effective for the session 1934-35):

A student who obtains standing in the First Year of an Honour Course may be allowed on petition to proceed to the Second Year of the Pass Course, provided the graduating department and the College concerned approve.

This regulation is drawn to the attention of students who have completed the First Year of an Honour Course.

Students who desire to take advantage of this regulation should apply for enrolment in the Second Year of the Pass Course and consult their College Registrars at once.

LINK ARTS, SCIENCE IN NEW COURSE

Mathematics and Physics and Engineering Combined in Experiment

LEADS TO B.A.Sc.

"Revolutionary, though quite bloodlessly so," is one professional comment on the new graduating course in engineering physics at the University of Toronto this year. This course combines mathematics, physics and engineering, and so involves both the Faculty of Arts and that of Applied Science and Engineering. In some universities of the United States, such a course has been on the calendars for many years, and it is understood that a similar experiment has been tried at Queen's; but this is the first time for anything of the sort to have been inaugurated at the University of Toronto.

The new course is open to those who have met the regular requirements for admission to the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering, and who, in addition, have obtained an average of seventy-five per cent in the mathematics (algebra, geometry, and trigonometry) of the honor matriculation examination.

The degree of Bachelor of Applied Science will be the reward of those who successfully complete the new four-year course.

THOSE BIRDS ON WIRE JUST TAIL OF FLYER

The shortest distance between the U.C. Tower and the Electrical Engineering Building is a copper aerial wire. The radio antennae has long been a landmark on, or over, the front campus, but many observers have become curious as to the strange collection of foreign matter that has recently appeared half way along the wire. At first sight one gets the impression of a row of starlings perched on high. Investigation, however, suggests a more probable explanation: Some little man has had a busy day, flying a kite. The kite got caught on the wire, but with determined tugging from below finally fluttered to earth, leaving its tail behind it.

That's all, except the Electrical Engineers don't like the looks of it. They'll see it's attended to.

NEW CHAIRS ESTABLISHED

Fine Arts, Chinese Archaeology
Are New Departments
Founded

"The real aim of a University, whether it be in Canada or China, in Timbuctoo or Texas, is to teach its students the meaning of things in their universal aspects," stated Canon Cody, President of the University of Toronto, in his welcoming address at Convocation Hall yesterday afternoon.

"There is a genius of the University of Toronto, and it is in your keeping," continued Dr. Cody. "I know you will be loyal to your college, to your faculty, to your department, but it is my special privilege as president to urge you to be loyal to the University as a whole."

"Why have you come to the University?" asked Dr. Cody and then enumerated three ideals which are possessed by college students. Some come with a decorative ideal of what a University is, believing that education is a bit of ornamentation stuck on. Others come with a commercial ideal, which is by no means an ignoble one, although not the highest. The highest and best is the creative ideal, the desire to improve one's whole self, to become stronger and better men and women capable of more and higher service. Even in the professional faculties more than technique is taught. The scientific foundations, the underlying general principles are stressed. The University must seek to be alive, to be open to

HART HOUSE BUSY IN SUMMER MONTHS

Dinner to Recipients of Honorary Degrees Colourful Function

HON. W. L. M. KING HERE

During the past few months Hart House has been the seat of many important conventions and dinners. On May 22nd the Symposium of Adult Education was held. The meetings took place in Convocation Hall and were attended by prominent Canadian educationalists who discussed the problems of adult education.

On May 30th the Ontario Medical Association held a very successful garden party. On June 4th and 5th the American Surgical Society Convention was held at Hart House, the meetings being held in Hart House Theatre. This society is one of the most exclusive of its kind and is made up of the most prominent surgeons of the United States and Canada. The convention was arranged by Dr. W. E. Gallie. The members of the society were entertained by the music of the earlinton in Soldiers' Tower and were favourably impressed by the accommodation and hospitality which Hart House offered to them.

A highlight of the summer season was the President's dinner to graduates receiving honorary degrees. This dinner was attended by Cardinal Villeneuve. The procession of graduates which proceeded from Hart House to Convocation Hall was a colourful and impressive pageant due to the presence of the Cardinal and his cortege in their robes of office. Cardinal Villeneuve was greatly impressed by the important part that Hart House played in the lives of the students and expressed sorrow at his inability to see it functioning during the academic term.

CONSISTENCY

It is not a light matter to have authority over the printed word, however limited the sphere may be. "Editorial responsibility" may be great or small, but in respect to all publications it exists. We who are entrusted with The Varsity are not unaware of that responsibility, and we are keenly sensitive to the problems which arise. What to omit from The Varsity is not an exceptionally difficult question. Apart from the standards of decency which of course bind us, there may be movements or phases of thought which are better not recorded in our columns, except for the purposes of criticism. If at any time there are omissions which seem striking, we ask you to remember that we are exercising deliberate judgment,—and also that we warned you!

For though The Varsity, as a University newspaper, represents a vast spectrum of thought, not all colours are meant for reproduction. Opportunities for expression of opinion will, of course, be given, so far as is thought in all conscience to be fitting. And this brings us to the more severe problem: what to plan and publish? We wish, as always, to maintain an efficient news and sports service; and to put the news columns to other useful purposes apart from the recording of indifferent events. In Art, Music, and Drama we earnestly desire to attain a high standard of criticism. What, then, of our editorials?

We will not at the moment anticipate the ideas which may be expounded there. It is certain that they will not meet with universal acclamation. This much, however, we may say: we intend, in our discussions of current problems—local or world-wide—and of modern trends of thought, to speak vigorously, and as consistently as possible. We do not pretend to reflect what is necessarily public opinion on the things we discuss,—though it is on occasion good to note and criticize it. The opinions must inevitably be our own. That we shall convert any to our views is a joyous, but romantic dream. That we may stimulate a little thinking, we hope to make a reality.

In the last analysis, of course, we depend upon your reading The Varsity. If we fail to attract any interest, it is a great shame upon us. But our pledge is to give sincere effort to the creation of a paper not altogether without value or attraction, and serious thoughts to the methods of criticism or exhortation we shall adopt. We hope you will enjoy your work, and respond in some measure to our attempt: it is, after all, your Varsity! But whatever happens, your appointed staff will not go about its task casually or cynically. Words, in any medium, are too precious.

AN APPEAL FROM THE WEST

The Editor, The Varsity.

For the sixth successive year this district has experienced drought and consequently crop failure. Our Minister of Agriculture, Hon. J. G. Taggart, says this is the worst year since the drought commenced. Can you visualize what this means to people who have passed through six years to meet each year with worn-out farm machinery, with inadequate clothing and bedding, and with many things in the home in need of replacement? It has been a heart breaking experience this past summer after such a promising start to see the crops wither and burn up under the scorching July sun.

The outlook for the future seems dark, and unless rains come this fall what hope is there for a crop in 1935? Sloughs are drying up, wells are giving out and many farmers are hauling water for miles to keep their stock alive. But we are people who live in HOPE, and we hope to be able to carry on until better times come, for surely the drought cannot last much longer.

For the past five years I have been engaged in relief work, and during these years have received help from many parts of Canada which I distributed to the needy people of this district. Last year much clothing, food and Christmas gifts to children were distributed; and were greatly appreciated by those who received them.

We are again planning to carry on our work and I am again appealing through The Varsity for help to carry on this most necessary work. We shall not soon forget all that the kind people of Canada have done for us during the past five years and it is this generous help which we have received in the past that makes me confident to make this further appeal.

It is impossible for me to describe the condition of many people in the drought area, but the least that can be said is that the condition is a most desperate one, and it is through no fault of their own that the people are faced with such hard times.

Will you kindly remember our work in your prayers, and if it is possible for you to assist us with money, used clothing and Christmas gifts for children, will you kindly do so?

Thanking you in anticipation of your sympathy and help, I remain, gratefully yours,

Rev. J. T. Gawthrop,
Minister, United Church.

Art, Music and Drama

Promenade Concerts

To the great mass of students swarming over the Campus this week after a summer of freedom, the "old stamping ground" seems pretty much the same. But there is one vital change that has taken place during the summer. The walls of Jericho have fallen. The citadel of rugby and hockey players has fallen to the blast of brass and the cooing of muted strings. In short, the Promenade Symphony Orchestra has taken Varsity Arena.

Early in the Spring, Reginald Stewart and the Toronto Musical Protective Association put their heads together to see if they could not do something about the dearth of good orchestral music during a Toronto summer—to say nothing of the dearth of employment for musicians. On paper the scheme looked feasible. They got the local orchestra musicians enthused over the idea—to go into it on a profit-sharing basis. Then they cornered "Tommy" Reed, Phil Loosemore and Ross Workman. They all thought the idea could be put across. Finally they called in Prof. Burton of the Physics department, and he put his stamp of approval on the Arena from the acoustical angle.

The concerts got under way early in July with the world premiere of Percival Price's Pulitzer Prize-winning work, "The St. Lawrence Symphony," with the composer leaving his Ottawa Peace Tower carillon to come to Toronto and direct his own work. From that night on, to quote Augustus Bridle of the Star, "See you at the Prom" was a much more frequently used expression than "Come up and see me some time" and a lot more sincere.

Every effort was made to have people feel comfortable at the "Prom" concerts. They were invited to "sit in their shirt-sleeves and smoke" and they did both enthusiastically. Mr. Stewart even got them singing "God Save the King" until Ross Workman expressed agitated fears about "lifting the roof off the place."

The selections of the programmes by Mr. Stewart were clearly motivated by his desire to have people enjoy music rather than be "uplifted." He made everyone happy. For some he played Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture—and they had noise to their hearts' content. (Continued on Page 6)

Among those sharing that feeling of loss and bereavement with Mr. Sop with these days are Warren Stevens and Jerry Laflamme. Graduation has robbed Stevens of eleven regulars, which Teddy Reeve things is a good few for a twelve man team, a loss which was felt keenly after Saturday's loss to St. Michael's duty-paid seniors. (The Bay Street college is supporting Mr. M. King in his fight for lower tariffs, by the way.) Mr. Laflamme lost almost an entire hockey team owing to an almost unanimous decision of the players to finish their education without the formality of a diploma.

C—C

However, these rank small in the list of those missing this fall, when one considers the bereavement of this column in the loss, at one fell stroke, of Chaz and Etaoin Shrdlu, whose graduation, though delayed, arrived with the inevitability of death and taxes.

C—C

To offset the effect of this announcement on our circulation, (speaking strictly in the newspaper sense of the word), we are pleased to announce the return of Chuck, after a year at purveying soap, advertising, etc., to an unresponsive market.

C—C

The present successor to Chaz spent the summer in the country, where the spectacle of a man remarking to a team of horses, "Haw, haw, HAW, blast you. I beg your pardon, I mean

OLYMPIC JUMPER ON VARSITY TEAM

Alex Munroe, Comes Here from Western; Went to Amsterdam in 1928

OTHER STARS

Preparations are already under way for the senior track meet to be held in Montreal on October 17th. The intermediate meet will be held here in Toronto a week later. "We have great expectations," said Frank Halbus, the ex-coach, when approached on the subject of Varsity's chances in the coming meet. Hector Phillips, the ex-Olympic star, who is coaching the team for the second year, was equally hopeful.

Alex Munroe, a member of the 1928 Amsterdam Olympic team, is attending O.C.E. this year and is regarded as a certain winner in the high jump. He is jumping about six feet, a height which is expected to bring another intercollegiate record to Varsity. Ron Westchuser, the discus thrower and shot putter, has been getting into shape all summer and has beaten the best man in Ontario, Zvonkin of Queen's. Bill Kiblewhite, another 1928 Olympic man, has returned to the team after a year's absence and is expected to do big things in the distance runs. W. F. McGladdery, VI Meds, last year's champion one and three miler, will again be on the team. Hogg, Thompson and McKeeracher are also good distance men.

In the quarter mile McGuire, V Meds, looks like a winner. He won the interfaculty last year, but failed to compete in the intercollegiate, due to a bad leg. Abe Conway and Norm Campbell are the half milers. Campbell has been training all summer and is doing the half in about two and a half minutes.

A new man, Walter Rice, III Meds, has turned out in the hurdles, the 220 and the high hurdles. Don Hamilton is also a hurdler as well as a pole vaulter. The McKay brothers will be competing in the pole vault. Less with two years' experience and Ross just beginning.

FROSH WELCOMED AT 'LIT' MEETING

Opening Meeting of U.C. Lit Proves Best in Years

At one of the most enthusiastic and best attended meetings of the "Lit" in recent years, U.C. freshmen were last night welcomed into the fold. Principal Wallace, Professor MacAndrew, the college registrar, and Professor Cochrane, the Dean of men in residence, were present.

The principle business of the evening consisted in the nominations for the office of Assistant Secretary of the Lit, and for the executive of the freshman year. The following were nominated: for assistant secretary, W. Smith, W. Wismer, A. Rankin, L. Grey; for president of 378: B. MacCullough, J. Taylor, QJ. Andrews, J. Ketchie, B. Gertstein. For secretary of 378: K. Hall, A. Schaffer, T. Cole, F. Plant. For treasurer of 378: J. Yankow, T. Dale, D. Elder.

The highlight of the meeting came in the form of the presentation, directed by Saul Rae, the social director, of the "U.C. Sophomore Blues," and the new University College song.

Men at Work

On your newspaper right now! But that doesn't mean there isn't room for you too. We need men and women—at once! —to fill up the usual vacancies in The Varsity staff at the beginning of the term. No previous experience necessary.

- Variety,—of experience, fun and thrills.
- Activity,—in the most important spare-time enterprise at the University.
- Remuneration,—for those who attain responsible positions.
- Special contacts,—you'd never make any other way.
- Interest,—something new every day.
- Training,—in reporting, reviewing, sports writing, technical newspaper work of all kinds.
- Yarns,—parties, and plenty of good times, when you get in with our congenial staff.

Women report to the Women's Varsity office, Room 42A, U.C., at 4 o'clock Monday, and learn more about it. Men, come around to The Varsity office, second floor, Hart House, at 1.30 Monday.

He-Men, Bed Bugs---Both Taboo When S.A.C. Finds Home for You

The most harassed individual in the University this week, at a time when the campus is practically a morass of harassed individuals, is undoubtedly G. G. "Gordy" Keith, III U.C., and Big Blue football stalwart.

The Varsity's War Correspondent (still, not Ex- Miss Teacups) found "Gordy" at a desk in the West Common Room, Hart House, besieged by out of town students who, having failed to obtain accommodations in residence, are forced to look elsewhere for board and lodgings. They are directed to Mr. Keith, who was appointed for the purpose by the S.A.C.

Gordy's troubles began three weeks ago when he started in to inspect and classify all rooms in the Spadina, Huron and St. George district that were offered for rent and whose proprietors had applied for admittance to the "preferred list". Location, size, furnishings, general appearance, and price, are a few of the essential items that much be recorded.

If the inspector must be particular about the rooms, the landladies are also fussy about their prospective roomers. "Please don't send me any more strong men!" was one woman's cry. "A great big fellow had my front room last year, and when he found the gas jet in his way he ripped it right off the wall, taking most of the plaster with it."

Mr. Keith had no sooner rung the bell of another house when the door opened and he was almost pulled bodily into the hall. "You tell them my husband isn't coming back. . . . He's gone for good now, and you tell them he won't come back!" The landlady's shrieking outburst left the inspector in a daze. Finally, however, it seems that the lady's husband had been able to get the story straight, run away with another woman, taking the profits of the rooming house with him. Now the landlady's worries seemed more financial than marital; for her greatest trouble was her husband's embarrassing habit of returning occasionally and throwing her boarders out onto the street. "Three times last year he came back and tried to put them all out. . . . But that won't happen again; you tell them he won't come back!"

Such experiences are naturally a strain on a Room Inspector, so that Mr. Keith is likely to get rather jumpy at his Hart House desk towards the end of this week. And when the 203rd freshman comes trailing along behind his dissatisfied parents, to try another (the seventh) suggested room from the list, they are likely to be startled by Gordy Keith's heartrending cry:

"Yes, yes, I have just the room you want. A large, front, upstairs room with southern exposure. You must guarantee you haven't the muscle of a dew worm and promise you won't make pretzel designs in the gas pipes,—but you'll be sure of undisturbed comfort because the landlady's husband absolutely will not come back!"

AS INEVITABLE

dwindled so much that it is impossible to obtain imports of rubber and the like in large quantities and at normal prices. Necessity demands that artificial substitutes be created.

It is the economic factor, according to Mr. Woodside, that will in a great measure lead to the downfall of Hitler. From twelve to fifteen millions of Germans depend on foreign trade. With exports declining at the rate of the last year these fifteen millions will feel the pinch.

"One of the most striking features of the German national character however is the ability to economize, to do without in order to keep up the struggle. It has been impressed upon them that the whole world is intent on keeping Germany down. Propaganda is constantly being produced to show the German nation hemmed in by the rest of the world. In the fight for the Fatherland the German will tighten his belt to the last notch."

"The present rulers of the Reich have capitalized on this docility. As a result of the propagandist organization of Goebbels," Mr. Woodside declared that from one half to two thirds of the German people believed that the action of Hitler in the June Purge saved Germany from civil war. The majority desire to emulate these sacrifices of the Fuehrer. It is his devotion to Germany that they worship.

"But the debacle is inevitable. In the next purge," Mr. Woodside said he had heard the opinion expressed, "either Goebbels will kill Goering or Goering will kill Goebbels. Dissension among the leaders, economic crises and the army will eventually cause the overthrow of the Nazis."

But after visiting Germany and watching the effects of the propaganda organizations upon the people, particularly the younger generation, what Mr. Woodside fears most is the fruit of this instillation in the future. The wholesale spreading of the Spengler doctrine of the brutality of man, of man's fighting nature, may at some time let chaos loose in Europe.

HART HOUSE BUSY IN SUMMER MONTHS

On June 8th the U. C. Alumni dinner was attended by a crowd which overflowed the Great Hall. The guest speaker was the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. On the same evening the graduates' reception and dance was held and was attended by a festive crowd of 2600. The perfect weather, the tasteful decorations and the special lighting effects in the quadrangle all combined to make the dance a gala occasion.

The Ontario Athletic Convention luncheon was held on June 9th and boys of High School age who were competing at the games at Varsity Stadium were taken on a conducted tour were shown through the house.

EXPECT STEWART AT FIRST RECITAL

Hart House String Quartette
Will Open Evening
Concert Series

OTHER ATTRACTIONS LOOM

The Music Committee of Hart House has made a tentative announcement of the series of Friday Afternoon Recitals for the coming season. Last year these recitals were arranged in historical order, beginning with plain song and proceeding down to the most modern music, and a somewhat similar scheme has been adopted again. The first concert in the series will be given on October 26. The Sunday Evening Concerts will be held on October 28, when, as is customary, the Hart House String Quartet will open the season. The second will follow on November 18, when Mr. Alberto Guerrero, well-known Toronto pianist, will be the artist. The Songsters will probably commence on November 4.

The artists for the Friday Afternoon Recitals cannot as yet be definitely announced, but it is expected that Mr. Reginald Stewart will give a Bach programme at the first concert. The second will consist of a Handel programme, presented by Murray Adaskin and Frances Adaskin. On November 9, a programme either of Seventeenth Century music, given by Joyce Hornyansky and Alberto Guerrero, will be heard. On November 23 S. Hersenhoren and the New World Chamber Ensemble will give a Mozart recital, and the following week Viggo Kihl will be heard in a Beethoven programme. During December Mr. Ettore Mazzoleni will demonstrate and lecture on Wagner, and the Glee Club will give a recital.

After Christmas there will be a series of more or less national programmes, which will include recitals of Russian, German, English, Canadian, Scandinavian, Spanish, and French music.

CANADIAN FICTION COURSE SET UP

Extension Course to Cover Best Canadian Novels of Recent Years

LED BY ISABEL JORDAN

"The course in Canadian fiction is new," said Miss Isabel Jordan, who is going to be lecturing on this subject in the evening tutorial classes conducted by the Department of Extension. "There have been courses on Canadian poetry in the past, but none on Canadian fiction. Recently, however, there have been a number of quite good Canadian novels written, and I think there are enough up to a standard meriting serious study. The major portion of the course will be concerned with contemporary novelists, because there have been some interesting developments which will bear close examination, and for anyone interested in the future of Canadian letters, yield much that is of value."

The Academy of Medicine convened at Hart House on June 11th in connection with their centennial and with the Toronto centennial. Slides of great historical interest to the medical profession were shown in Hart House Theatre. Dr. Elliot, Professor of History in the Department of Medicine, gave an outline of the progress of medical science in York County.

Hart House was honoured on June 18th by a visit from members of the Botanical Society of America who were en route to Bruce Peninsula to study the flora there. On June 29th the Graduate Nurses and Registered Nurses garden party and convention was attended by seven hundred.

the impressions, the movements, the thoughts, and the inspiration, of the manifold forces of the present."

Dr. Cody called attention to several new courses which are being instituted this year. In the Faculty of Applied Science there is a new course called Engineering Physics. Also, since the University has access to the marvellous Chinese collection in the Museum and as a large Chinese library is soon to be installed a chair of Chinese Archaeology was felt to be a necessity. Dr. W. C. White has been appointed professor in this department. A chair of Fine Arts has also been established, due largely to the generosity of the Carnegie Foundation. The aim is not to teach the technique of painting, which is taken care of by the Ontario College of Art, but to develop aesthetic taste and to teach the philosophy which lies behind art. Mr. John Allford comes from England to take this position and his lectures this year will be open to the general public.

In his closing words the President placed emphasis on that which is even than wisdom, character. "Moral greater than knowledge, and greater control, which really comes from divine control, is the last word," he said. "Idealism is the hall-mark of all your blessed tribe. Form an ideal high enough that you cannot achieve it overnight, one which will always beckon you on, and keep your ideal before you. The ideal is the gleam—follow the gleam."

Joe Breen, the Mustangs' coach, may also be on hand.

CO-EDS HEAVE WATER AS FROSH SERENADE

The flower of chivalry is far from dead. On Tuesday evening some sixteen gallants from the freshman crop at Knox College, after tapping ceremonies had been successfully concluded, yielded to their finer instincts, and at the instigation of a few older members of the college, set blithely forth to serenade the inmates of the various women's residences, much to the delight of the spectators, and the embarrassment of the objects of their attention.

Despite the smallness of the morning hours, the boys equipped themselves with a trombone, a cornet, two waste paper baskets, and sixteen bed sheets and went avisting—at the top of their voices. At Hutton House, the reception was negligible, but quite undaunted, the motley throng took up location in the quadrangle at Whitney Hall, where they were warmly received, and treated to several buckets of cold water from the upper windows. Seniors with flash lights provided an added attraction when they succeeded in illuminating several of the enthusiastic female audience, in their (very) evening clothes.

BLUES DISAPPOINT IN OPENING GAME BUT LOOK STRONG

Rival Squads Likely to Provide Real Battle for Title

QUEEN'S THE TEAM TO BEAT

Can Varsity make it three straight? or the past two years the Blue Squad have landed on top of the Intercollegiate football season and their followers are wondering if they will repeat this year. After Saturday's exhibition, when St. Mike's took them for the well known ride, some of the so-called supporters are remarking that they would be lucky to make the play-offs in a high school bazaar. Without belittling St. Mike's win, the result of the game Saturday, while surprising, can hardly be called disappointing. In the first place St. Mike's have been practising longer and they already had a game each this fall. Then Warren Stevens didn't put either Coulter or Upper into the game.

The most cheering feature from a Varsity viewpoint was the masterful kicking of Bob Isbister. He proved to one and all that he is quite capable of filling John Sinclair's educated shoes. While we admit it is too early in the season to make any rash forecasts, at least on paper the Blue Squad do not appear any weaker than last year.

Turning to the other teams in the Union, we find, at least from reports, that they appear to be stronger. Queens, who twice humbled Varsity last year in the regular schedule only to lose the play-off game, seem to have practically the same team with the notable addition of Johnny Munro, who did so well with Argos last season. After seeing the championship snatched from them last year when it seemed so sure, we think we will see Teddy Reeve's squad fighting in there every minute this year.

Last year Joe Breen had a large number of green players on his Western squad. Although they only won one game they lost two by only a single point. With last year's experience behind them they should provide sterner opposition to their rivals. Two Toronto boys, Charlie Box and Pete Beach, make their debut into Intercollegiate football with Western this fall and may be worth watching. Breen attended a coaching school in the States during the summer and whether he will introduce any new quints into the game remains to be seen.

McGill remain the mystery team of the league. As they haven't played any games yet it is rather difficult to size them up. Apparently they have been advertising the educational facilities of the Montreal centre rather extensively and as a result nine Americans, who incidentally play football, have registered.

As has been said before, it is too early to make rash forecasts, but perhaps on Nov. 17th one will again see Varsity and Queens in a play-off struggle. Who knows?

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

The Fall of '34 and all is well. And the Sports Staff of The Varsity says "hello" to the campus for another term. We hope to have the privilege of following the Blue and White for another successful season. So if the athletes will oblige us by executing their usual quota of deeds of valor and heroism, we will continue to use such as copy, bringing said deeds before the readers of The Varsity. We will of course make untold mistakes in so doing but as few as possible. All in all it looks like an eventful year. The only depressing fact to date is that they have raised the ante on the Hart House soup. Well, Greetings again, and here goes.

The football situation, which is of course the subject of immediate interest at the present time, is still somewhat hazy. True, most of the teams have been in action, but the action referred to has been more in the form of a practice and a test than any grim battle in which every team fought to the bitter end. The coaches welcomed the pre-season games as an opportunity to test many of their unknown players, and such experiments are not conducive to the best brand of football.

From McGill comes word of a great and growing Red team. Shag Shaughnessy, having announced that this is to be his last season as coach of the McGill team, it is determined to make one last bid for a title team. Shag has been in the business since 1912 and his retirement will leave Canadian football without the services of one of its shrewdest and most capable pilots.

Shag is, however, faced with the problem of building a championship team without a kicker. Herbie Westman, stellar hooper of last season, has migrated to Ottawa, and will be seen in the uniform of the Ottawa Rough Riders.

In other departments, the Redmen are strong. The appearance of several Americans, desirous of learning the Canadian language, has materially reinforced their line, while reports of brilliant backfielders have been issuing from that quarter. O.K. McGill.

Queen's and Teddy Reeve will also require attention. Here, in fact, is the team which looks like the one to beat for the laurels. Reeve has on hand Johnny Wing, alleged to be the equal of the great John Sinclair. He also has a husky line and a fast backfield. Such an aggregation, representing almost every football virtue, is certain to demand attention before the football tugs are packed away.

Up in London Joe Breen is having the best luck of years with his Mustangs. He has less rebuilding to do than any season for several past and although not rated as the strongest in the loop they will field a formidable team. Doc Stew Ward has left a vacancy but his place is ably filled by Charley Box, who is now located at Western and will possibly blossom out as a quarterback.

Up at the Stadium, Warren Stevens is drilling a squad who are likely to have something to say about the football future of Varsity. He has a good kicker, Bob Isbister, and two other hoofers who possess more than ordinary ability. He has several good line plungers and the ability to make a real team out of anything which faintly resembles good material. They will be heard from, that Varsity squad.

While on the subject of football we must pay our respects to Mr. Ross Workman. Ross came to bat for the harassed sports writers and has installed a telephone system from the players' bench to the press box. This means that a replacement or an injury will be reported to the press immediately and accurately, an event which will eliminate mistakes made by hurried guessing as the press men wire their stories for publication.

Gloomily watching the practices from the bleachers these days are two veterans of many gridiron battles, Maxie Fullerton and Charlie Sweeny. Both these boys were expected by Warren Stevens to bolster the Blue brigade but fate ruled otherwise. Maxie who wielded a wicked stick for the Mimico lacrosse team, suffered a badly broken leg near the end of the season. Exit Maxie as a football hope. He will, however, be back for the hockey season. Charlie Sweeny got further than that, reaching the football season, when he discovered he would not bounce, breaking an arm in the attempt.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Another year has rolled by and the slate is all set to chalk up a season of women's athletics just as successful as last year's—we are even venturing to prophecy that it will be bigger and better than ever. Here's hoping that several freshies such as Kay Brown was will be among those registered in 3T8.

Last year in the intercollegiate basketball playoffs at London, the blue and white sextet re-captured the Bronze Baby from McGill. But in the tennis tournament at Queen's we were not so successful. For two years now Queen's has been undefeated in this field. This winning streak must be broken and we are counting on Varsity to do it.

Jean Davey is calling a meeting of the Tennis Club to get plans underway for the interfaculty and intercollegiate tournaments. The former begins almost immediately. They are very vital as on them depends the team chosen to meet Queen's, McGill, Western and McMaster when they come here later on in the fall. Only by really strong competition in these preliminaries can Varsity turn out an aggregation sufficiently strong to win first place. Sign up right away for your own faculty tournament even if you know you are no star—strange things do happen!

The schedule of the intercollegiate tennis and basketball games has been re-arranged so that both tournaments will never be played at one university in the same year. With only one tournament on which to concentrate each university will be able to plan a super-reception for the visiting teams.

Any freshie who is at all interested in athletics is very necessary to this large season we have been talking about so confidently. We have lost several practically invaluable players but it seems one of the big tragedies of life that no one is so important or excellent that he can not be replaced. In this instance, this is rather a happy thought, so do your part, freshies, to fill up the ranks.

The Board of Governors has authorized the following announcement of a change made in the charge for the use of the Household Science Pool by women undergraduates:

"The regular annual fee for the use of the Household Science gymnasium or pool throughout the Session for any student or staff member who is not required to pay the fee for Medical Examination and Compulsory Physical Training is $4. This must be paid to the Bursar at the beginning of the Session. In the case of an undergraduate who wishes merely to use the pool a limited number of times for practice without instruction, tickets may be purchased from the pool attendant at the rate of 3 for $1. There will be no refunds on the $4 fee nor on the individual tickets."

A Message TO Students

The business or professional man knows the true value of a sound banking connection . . . it is an essential part of his daily life.

You, also—when college days are over—will learn the importance to you of your banker.

It is never too early for the student to form this contact. During college days a banking connection may be established which will prove useful now in helping you to build up a "savings" fund and as a place to deposit money from home, and of advantage later when you enter business or professional life.

The Bank of Montreal—Canada's oldest bank—welcomes your account while you are still at college, and—with its long experience, great resources and nation-wide organization—it is in a position to give you helpful service wherever you may live in later years.

ART, MUSIC &amp; DRAMA

For others he played the delicate Boccherini Minuet. But invariably every Prom-goer left the Arena with a tune he knew and enjoyed hearing again.

Nearly every week, Mr. Stewart has invited a guest artist to assist the Prom orchestra, and invariably his choice has been acclaimed by his audience. Malcolm and Golden (who helped to pack six thousand music lovers into the Arena); Adolph Wantroff, baritone, who was auditioned for Fortune Gallo of the 'San Carlo Opera Company on the strength of his "Prom" work; the Ukrainian singers and folk dancers, who had to play a return engagement; and so on through a long list of choirs, singers and dancers. But the most successful guest artist that Reginald Stewart, conductor, has chosen to date is Reginald Stewart, pianist. In fact he has had so many requests for solos that, as he says, if he tried to work them all into the Prom programme, he would have to make the orchestra stay home for a week or so. So he has decided to come down to the Arena by himself next Tuesday night and play a request programme of some fifteen numbers for his Promenade audiences.

In the meantime, to-night's programme promises to be one of the most interesting of the whole series. The guest artist will be Saida Gerrard, one of the first to plant the seed of the modern dance in Canada. Miss Gerrard returned to her native Toronto last year after long study in Europe. She is a former pupil of the great Mary Wigman of New York, having won the first scholarship ever offered at Miss Wigman's famous school, and has studied with such great masters of the Art as Sarah Mildred Strauss and Zemach.

At to-night's concert, the thirteenth in the Promenade series, the orchestra will play Finlandia by Sibelius, Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik, Gounod's March for the opera "Queen of Sheba," and the Canadian premiere of John Alden Carpenter's "Adventures in a Perambulator," with Carl Golden and Wilma Stevenson playing the piano parts.

The Coming Season

Those concerts, already booked, which have come to the notice of the Varsity music critic, promise a Fall and Winter season of unusual interest, musically. Of special appeal to the student body of the University is the Hart House String Quartet Student Series which will be given in Convocation Hall, each Friday evening preceding the usual Saturday concert series. Students will be given the privilege of buying an extra ticket for their friends and with such superb programmes planned and eminent artists such as Harold Bauer and Harriet Cohen engaged Convocation Hall should be filled to capacity. The first recital will be given on the evening of Oct. 26th.

Massey Hall will open its doors to music loving Toronto on Oct. 13th for another season of splendid concerts presenting the renowned Don Cossock Russian Male Chorus. This brilliant organization has sung at least four times in Toronto with phenomenal success.

The Toronto Symphony Orchestra Dr. Ernest MacMillan conducting, will present the young Canadian composer, Percival Price, as guest artist, on the first concert of Oct. 30th. On Oct. 23rd, at 4.15, the first of the Young People's Symphony Concerts by the Toronto Symphony will be given. It is with much pleasure that we note the distinguished artists which the Symphony has engaged this year. Among them are Sætti Lehmann, Hambourg, Guerrero Frantz.

Very fine artists have been booked by the Eaton Auditorium in their series this Fall. Among them are the great pianist Horowitz, the Metropolitan tenor, Nino Martin, and world famous contralto Sigfrid Olegin. The first concert will be given by the Metropolitan Quartet on Oct. 25. The tenor of this Quartet is the Canadian artist, Edward Johnson. The full list, up to Christmas, follows:

Oct. 13th—Don Cossock Russian Male Chorus.
Oct. 23rd, 4.15 p.m.—Young People's Symphony Concert. Toronto Symphony.

Dec. 17th—L'Argentina, Dancer.
(Where not otherwise stated, the concerts will be given in Massey Hall).

Hart House Theatre

Concurrent with the resumption of academic activity is the renewal of interest in extra-curricular distractions. In this regard many people have been wondering just what to expect from Hart House Theatre in the way of seasonal dramatic offering, and much speculation has been indulged in as to the ultimate fate of the drama as far as the Little Theatre movement is concerned here in Toronto. In an attempt to clarify the situation this department has been in communication with Mr. Melville Keay, director of the Hart House costume department, and newly appointed manager of Hart House Theatre proper, and his secretary, Willard Thompson.

With the personal supervision of Mr. Keay and under the guidance of various competent visiting directors who will be brought to Toronto from time to time for the express purpose of directing a current play, we may look forward during the 1934-35 season, to five Hart House plays, all to be announced after a duly organized board of Syndics has been set up. Although no new names can be mentioned at this writing, the present board of Syndics is to be enlarged.

NOMINATIONS TODAY FOR U.C. FRESHIES

Mass Meeting Called by W. U. A. for This Afternoon

The Women's Undergraduate Association of University College is inaugurating this season's activities by holding a Mass Meeting this afternoon at the Women's Union. This meeting should prove of great interest to all women students of the College, since its chief purpose is the nomination of several important officers. Freshies will have their great opportunity to make an auspicious debut on this occasion, as the entire Freshie Executive will be nominated. Other offices to be filled are those of the Athletic Director and Treasurer of the Women's Undergraduate Association, an Athletic Director and Social Service Representative of the second year. The women of the College are urged to attend this meeting.

In the meantime, Mr. Keay has been deluged with reservations for the theatre by local amateur musical and dramatic societies. The lights of the theatre will be raised for the first time this season on a production of the Shakespearean Henry VIII, under the direction of Mr. G. Wilson Knight, whose excellent work is well known here. This production is to be presented on the evenings of October 11, 12 and 13. Mr. Knight is also planning a production of Othello, to open on December the sixth.

The Green Room Players under St. John Betts will have an offering on the boards in November.

Interesting also is the announcement for November 29, 30 and December 1st, of the opera Eugen Onegin, by Tchaikowsky, to be directed by Madame Nina de Gedeonoff, late of the Imperial Opera in Petrograd. Mme. de Gedeonoff will be assisted in the choreography by Boris Volkoff, well known local impresario and dancing master.

Several recitals are scheduled for the theatre, the first to be in song, by Miss Enid Gray, on October 23rd.

This is a very sketchy outline of what promises to be an extremely busy and culturally replete season. This year as seldom before the requests for reservations besieging the theatre offices have rendered the problems of suitable nights a moot one. University institutions like Dent-Antics and Daffydil Nite will of course be along before Christmas and announcements will be forthcoming from time to time as the

OTHER INNOVATIONS

Members of Hart House will have discovered for themselves that the Great Hall is once more in full operation. Much time and thought have been given by the Hall Committee to the variety and type of food served as well as to the service, and The Varsity was assured yesterday, every effort will be made to offer a wide variety in the menus at lunch and dinner. To meet the convenience of members an innovation has been put into force. Coupons will be sold at the Hall Porter's desk to any amount and not necessarily, as heretofore, in 50c strips. The Hall Committee believe that this will meet the wishes of members in general.

At dinner in the evening smoking is permitted and more cheer is added in cool weather by a blazing fire. Mr. J. R. Johnston, a member of the staff of Hart House, and well known to students, will have dinner in the Great Hall regularly with the object of meeting undergraduates. It is hoped that as many members as possible who do not already know him will soon make his acquaintance.

The Varsity has been asked to give publicity to the fact that the Hall Committee, which exists as a link between the members and staff of Hart House, will always be glad to have any suggestions with regard to the meals or any other matters concerning the operation of the Great Hall. Such suggestions may be made to any member of the committee.

fully within a system based on equity and justice, and agree to a discipline of worship, study and group action as a means of contributing to the achievement of the Christian Socialist Community."

They interpret Socialism to mean "an order of society in which all the socially necessary means of production are collectively owned and controlled, and in which the regulative principle governing output, distribution and service is the welfare of all."

The Constitution further states that "The members recognize the essential conflict between Christianity and the ethics of capitalistic individualism. They agree that the present social order, binding all within it, is inadequate in that it places profit ahead of human worth. It condemns many to a condition of hardship, fear and despair, and thus frustrates any attempt to realize a good life. They are convinced that Christianity can be given full expression only within the discipline and freedom of the socialist state."

In addition to the discipline as regards worship, work attendance, political and missionary activity which entails upon membership in the S.S.M., members are required to discipline their expenditure in accordance with their commitment to the Christian social ideal. "It will involve the avoidance of extravagance, the devotion of a portion of one's income to movements promoting the cause of the underprivileged and oppressed classes, and a regular contribution towards the support of the S.S.M."

A feature of membership in the Student Socialist Movement is that it consists of two classes, full and novice. Admittance to full membership requires acceptance of the basis of agreement of the S.S.M., acceptance of the six points of discipline, and the completion of a course of study and the passing of a qualifying examination on the Christian basis of social reconstruction and the socialist plan for social reconstruction. The novice class contains those members desiring to become full members but who have not yet completed the above qualifications. During the period of "apprenticeship" they are required to submit to the discipline as regards worship, work (which includes study, participation in any corporate action decided upon by the group and the execution of special tasks) and attendance as well as receiving instruction in the course of study mentioned above.

Andy Henderson to Captain
Blue Team in Coming Campaign

FIRST GAME ON OCT. 6

Backfield is Strong as Ever Before; Many Juniors
Are Out

Although handicapped by the loss of eleven members of last year's championship intercollegiate senior rugby team, Warren Stevens expects to field once more a strong squad against the improved teams of McGill, Queen's and Western.

However, vacant positions are being capably filled by some of the new men who, although young and green, are showing signs of speed and strength. The personnel of the team which will face McGill at the stadium October 6 has not yet been chosen, but many men already stand out among the rest.

Among the athletes who are showing great promise are included Andy Henderson, who was elected captain and Gord Keith, both of whom are showing their ability as outsiders by their great tackling. Both have had previous experience on Varsity teams and will prove a decided asset to the team. Holden is another man who is showing up well at outside.

Three men who stand out as middles are Grady Laing, Gus Greco and Harris. Laing is the great plunger who helped carry the Blues to victory in 1932, but was indelible last year. Greco is another hard and dangerous plunger as he proved last year when he starred for the seniors. Harris has only recently turned out but has size and should be good for many yards.

Among the candidates for the inside positions who are showing good form are Brebner, Warren, Wright, and McWilliams. Brebner turned in many good games for the intermediates last year and is showing excellent form this year.

Hennessey and McMichael, flying wings, are coming along fine and should bolster the team offensively. Dawson, who has starred for previous Varsity teams, was injured at an early practice and is not expected to get into the game for a couple of weeks.

Coulter and Miller, two veterans of previous teams, are once more giving fine performances at the quarterback position and both will be infinitely valuable during the coming campaign. Coulter is also known for his tricky running.

For the backfield positions the Blues have a wealth of material and will show a lot of speed in that department. Bob Isbister and Cam Gray have taken up the kicking and are worthy successors to Jack Sinclair, are all of intercollegiate punters.

Taylor will again take his place as

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Harold J. Kirby, Liberal member-elect for Eglinton riding, is reported to have broken with party headquarters. He has denied submitting his resignation.

Washington—President Roosevelt has replaced Hugh Johnson's one-man control by two new boards.

Rome—Premier Benito Mussolini has taken charge of activities to make soldiers of all male Italians between the ages of eight and thirty-three.

London—A threatened strike which would involve 130,000 miners of South Wales is now believed averted. Miners and their employers have reached an agreement.

Geneva—Britain, France and Italy last night re-affirmed their declaration, made last February, that they would insist on Austrian independence.

HAVE NO FRIENDS IS GERMAN BELIEF

Hitlerism a Result of Desire for Security, Says
Woodside

ADDRESSES EMPIRE CLUB

"The Hitler movement is a development of the German belief that all the world is leagued against her," stated Willson Woodside, of the faculty of S.P.S., at the Empire Club yesterday. Germany, he thought, was a cauldron of emotionalism. "The Germans are in a terrible place. They have barely survived the crushing process that resulted after the last war. Germany was cut up, despoiled, and surrounded by enemies. She is not allowed to arm openly and she believes that she must gather strength and exert herself to keep alive. This is the explanation of the Hitler regime. Through propaganda, the government is able to dominate the minds of the people even while conditions are rapidly going downhill. 'The world is against us' is a fundamental belief of the German people."

"I have a great sympathy for the German people as a whole, none for the vicious hypocritical leaders," Mr. Woodside concluded. "And I would make an appeal for sympathy for the Germans if none for the Nazis."

Freshmen Fight in Frothy Fracas Frantic Freshies Fear For Future

Once again yesterday afternoon the annual official battle between freshmen and sophomores churned up the soil of Little Vic campus. This time the valiant gentlemen sold their lives dearly over the matter of a huge pushball (probably the property of Hart House) rather than the usual flag.

"'Twas indeed a thrilling and glorious sight to behold this epic conflict. Promptly at five o'clock the frosh emerged from their well-guarded meeting and were led by a number of very serious and earnest seniors out to the playing field, they were decidedly remiss of little lambskins being led to their awful doom but yet they did not shrink. Noble lads! It must have been rather disheartening to find the sophomore host eagerly awaiting them at the opposite end of the field, well equipped with the inevitable ripe and luscious tomatoes and "bombs" of flour. The misguided frosh had seen fit to arm themselves with clubs made of stuffed stockings—poor defence against well aimed tomatoes! At the whistle both armies rushed toward each other at a terrific speed

On your newspaper right now! But that doesn't mean there isn't room for you too. We need men and women—at once!—to fill up the usual vacancies in The Varsity staff at the beginning of the term. No previous experience necessary.

Variety,—of experience, fun and thrills.

Activity,—in the most important spare-time enterprise at the University.

Remuneration,—for those who attain responsible positions.

Special contacts,—you'd never make any other way.

Interest,—something new every day.

Training,—in reporting, reviewing, sports writing, technical newspaper work of all kinds.

Yarns,—parties, and plenty of good times, when you get in with our congenial staff.

Women report to the Women's Varsity office, Room 42A, U.C., at 4 o'clock Monday, and learn more about it. Men, come around to The Varsity office, second floor, Hart House, at 1.30 Monday.

CHANGES ARE NEEDED IN SOCIAL ORDER

"The supreme job of our civilization is to construct an economic and political order which will fit the present stage of our social and political development," stated Dr. Henry W. Wieman, professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago, in addressing the Central Area of the Student Christian Movement at Lake Couchiching last week. "This must be done or civilization will be thrown back. We have reached one of the great transitional points in society."

"This job," said Dr. Wieman, "can go by different names. One that can be applied to it is 'revolution'. We must have either revolution or decline. Revolution is the destruction of the old order by the growth of God." The speaker pointed out the importance of differentiating between true revolution and the overthrow of government without a change in the economic and social order.

The characteristics of this revolution are: in the first place, the forcing of a basic change in the political and economic order upon the ruling authorities against their will. In the second place, it is a change which the ruling class themselves cannot carry out because it requires another ruling class to carry it out. The present ruling class.

CO-EDS INVAD BOOK EXCHANGE

Three Find Way Past Hall
Porter into Male Sanctuary

MANY BOOKS SOLD

At this time of year used books from the shelves of countless students and ex-students of the University find a resting place on the shelves of the Book Exchange operated by the Student Christian Movement in Hart House.

The latest report is that this service is becoming so popular that Hart House, last refuge of the mere male, is being invaded by the all-conquering co-ed. In fact not one but three girl students have found their way past the Hall Porter and upstairs to the S.C.M. Library. The first, suspected of attendance at Victoria, ran the gauntlet alone, and was seen studying the exhibits on the Medical table. The other two who came together evidenced an interest in Spanish.

Although the sales seem to be rather slower than the crowded appearance of the room would indicate, the average daily total is from three to five hundred dollars. Total sales for the year 1933 were in the vicinity of three thousand dollars. The prices charged permit the purchase of books in really good condition at a saving of from 15 per cent to 25 per cent of the original cost.

FRESHIES TO ELECT EXECUTIVE TUESDAY

U.C. Women's Undergraduate Society Holds Meeting

The election of the Freshie executive of the Women's Undergraduate Society of University College will be held next Tuesday, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Women's Common Room, it was announced at a mass meeting yesterday afternoon.

Other members of the executive were elected by acclamation. They are as follows: athletic director, Ellen Parr; treasurer, Kay Denne; athletic director of fourth year, Lorna Reed; athletic director of second year, Elinor Kennedy; social service representative of second year, Nora Loeb. (Continued on Page 4)

S.A.C. MAY ASSUME PROVIDING OF JOBS

Employment Bureau May Be Transferred, Hints
E. A. Macdonald

RUMOUR UNCONFIRMED

It has been learned from semi-official sources that the Students' Employment Bureau is being transferred from the Alumni Federation to the Students' Administrative Council. Owing to the absence of Mr. Conn, secretary of the Alumni Federation, no confirmation of this rumour could be obtained. However, Mr. E. A. Macdonald, secretary-treasurer of the S.A.C., intimated that the change would in all likelihood take place. He said that the S.A.C. had always done a great deal of this work and had placed several students last year in temporary and also permanent positions.

In conclusion Mr. Macdonald stated that the question of finding part-time or permanent employment for students is too pressing a one to disregard, and he felt quite sure that if the work was discontinued by the Alumni Federation the S.A.C. would carry on.

WHITNEY-SCHOOL ESCORT PROVES ALLURING SPORT

Woe unto the Freshmen. More woe especially unto the "School" frosh. Life for them will be bitter. Here's how—

The sophomore class of S.P.S. boasts but one member of the gentler sex, and commencing this morning, the duty of escorting her and her books to the little red School house has been delegated to the green tied and wild eyed members of the incoming year—one each morning.

Since the announcement of the proposed plan, the Engineering Society's Store reports the sale of some seventy five green ties to the members of the third and fourth years. Sophomores are rumoured to have ordered a special job lot of delicate verde cravats, and the fighting ranks of the freshmen have been demoralized by internal strife.

Members of other faculties are advised that the list has already been completed to the end of the term. Undoubtedly this severe treatment of the newcomers should be stopped immediately—to give the rest of us a chance.

School Frosh Turn Out To Drill And Do Their 'Duty' With a Will

With that know-it-all look on their faces, but with knees knocking nevertheless, the freshmen of S.P.S. endeavoured to appear nonchalant as they passed through the double line of expectant sophomores waiting outside the "frosh" entrance.

Pseudo recruiting officers, from the second year ranks, lined up the unresisting freshmen in approved manner. A most beautiful drill that would have surpassed some of the C.O.T.C. activities, was cleverly executed, more or less under the special command of the ever-insistent sophs. A large number, unable to "form fours", were given the famous and effective "water cure". Displaying gallantry befitting noblemen of the middle ages, the S.P.S. freshmen, urged on by the second year men, with many bows and "Please—er—may—I—May I carry your

WELCOME DELIGHTS INCOMING FRESHIES

"Perfectly Marvellous" is the Opinion of House Parties

LOTS TO GO

"There was no time to be homesick," is the cry of this year's crop of freshmen after the "perfectly marvellous" house parties given by the seniors of Victoria and University Colleges to welcome the first year women to the university. The freshmen are all agreed that the house parties could not have been bettered, and only one felt the need of a "Bureau for stray freshmen." "I don't know what to do with myself between lectures," she explained.

"We thought it a wonderful way to be introduced to college," said Lois Langmore, I Victoria. "The seniors helped immensely, we didn't feel lost at all, but perfectly at home."

"Just marvellous," was the verdict of Jean Harvey and Betty Caudwell, I U.C. "We were tearing around doing something all the time, and we loved the tour of Hart House."

The house party at University College began Saturday with a luncheon for the seniors, where the freshmen were told about registration. At four o'clock there was a tea for both city and out-of-town newcomers in the Senior Common Room. Some time between the tea and dinner, the freshmen had to devise costumes for the grand "Miner's Ball" that night in the Women's Union. There were square dances, refreshments, prizes and a parade, some surprise being caused by the unexpected arrival of the Dionne quintuplets, complete with bottles, carriage (very wobbly about the wheels) and "Nurse" Anna Lewis.

The freshmen took their seniors to church on Sunday morning and in the afternoon 125 girls toured Hart House. A very successful musical, George Lambert singing and Clifford McCormick at the piano, was held later at the Women's Union. In the evening Principal Wallace welcomed the freshmen. Representatives of all the undergraduate societies said a few words, and the meeting ended with a welcome. (Continued on Page 4)

Burwash Student Discovers Blaze Soon After One A.M.

$300 DAMAGE

Damage Confined to South-West Corner of Gymnasium

By Martin Loeb

Fire broke out at an early hour this morning in the building of the "Little Vic" Skating Rink and was responsible for damages to the structure of approximately three hundred dollars. A few minutes after one a.m., Norm Nichol, a fourth year student living in South House of Burwash Hall, discovered and reported the fire while out to mail a letter.

Reels from stations two, three, and ten responded to the telephone call. The fire was quickly extinguished. Damage was confined to the southwest corner of the gymnasium which is used by the Victoria College Men's Athletic Union. Mr. D. E. Walker, president of the Athletic Union, felt that the fire was a serious blow to the athletic activity of the college but was assured that any such obstacle could be overcome.

Chief Herd from number ten station, who was in charge, was unable to trace the cause of the fire, although there were some rumours that a lighted cigarette butt was probably the cause of the blaze. The loss is covered by insurance. Police from No. 2 station investigated.

OTHER CHANGES IN STAFF

Beverly L. Owen, a graduate of Toronto in 1921, has been appointed General Secretary of the Student Christian Movement of Canada in the place of Murray Brooks, who resigned this month to assume the position of S.C.M. secretary on the McGill campus. Mr. Owen received his M.R.E. degree in Boston in 1923 and the degree of Bachelor of Divinity from Emmanuel College in the following year. He has been actively associated with the Student Christian Movement at the University of British Columbia in the past and comes to the Movement in Canada from the Student Division of the Y.M.C.A. on the Southern Pacific Coast, where he was executive secretary at the headquarters in Los Angeles. ### SUMMER JOBS SCARCE, BUT OFFERED VARIETY

The employment situation for the men appeared to be much the same as last year, with few obtaining really lucrative positions. Several School men were employed by the Ontario government for geological work, and many others worked in road camps for their board but little else. However the great majority who were interviewed answered with a laconic "unemployed" or an equally laconic "salesman".

There was the usual crop of life-guards boasting a beautiful sun-tan, a few playground instructors, two newspaper reporters and a dance-hall promoter. Summer hotels employed quite a number, although not as many as in previous years. Magazine sales crews were as numerous and as successful as usual, and there was the usual number who managed to cover most of Canada via the freight car and thumb route.

HOW FAR IS IT FROM ST. MICHAEL'S TO KNOX . . . ?

We are troubled about what we had to say yesterday. Here we are, placed in charge of a newspaper, which, small though it may be, appears with alarming frequency. And it is not as if we owned it. In such a case we should have, apart from circulation problems, nothing to answer to save our own consciences. But the fact of the matter is that everyone who seeks an undergraduate education here is obliged to pay for The Varsity. Therefore, if anybody takes exception to the policies we pursue, he is entitled to resent them. For this is what becomes of his money!

Now when the student body is as large as it is at Toronto, and as various in nature, it becomes impossible for a four-page daily newspaper to represent all kinds of opinion, or even to report everything. And even if that were possible, we would never be a party to such a horrible thing. However, we cannot stop for scruples on this point. The Varsity exists, and we must make the best of it. Things are as they are, and for the time being there is an end to the matter.

But what is really troubling us is the kind of general unity hoped for, and in a measure symbolized by The Varsity. The clubs of the University are not more diverse than the natures of the individual faculties. St. Michael's College and Victoria College are not far apart geographically, but how near are they intellectually? How much in common have the peculiar cultures of Trinity College and S.P.S.? What is the basis of union?

The federation, it is to be supposed, is legal. It may also be socially acceptable. Is there any intellectual advantage? Where does the presumption of a common basis lead? Nobody supposes that men should all think alike. Nobody has tried to pour all the varied thought of the constituent parts of the University into one ample mould. Yet, if that were done, there might be an entity, an intellectual viewpoint, however poor, which would justify an observer in saying, "This is a University!"

We see the answer forthcoming. The very fact that there are so many varying schools of thought at the University indicates that we are all truth-bent, in good earnest. It is the better part of learning, you will say, to be eclectic in your attitudes. You pay your money and you take your choice. Bring all the different thinkers together, let them agree on what they can, and agree to disagree on the rest. Let them all wonder whether there may not be something in the other fellow's point of view. Let them all tolerate the other fellow and wish him well. Let them be satisfied that it takes all kinds of people to make a world, and that to have a personal conviction is to evince mental stagnation.

This, of course, is a good thing. For instance, if any unbiased outsider were to climb the campus flagpole, he would look down on a mass of evolving, formless matter, known as truth. It must be truth, because it contains so many ingredients.

Yet there comes a time when eclecticism dies, and men become possessed by a great knowledge. There comes a time when men can be no longer spectators in the search for truth, but participants in truth. That time is now in Russia, in Germany, in Italy, and the world is struck with fear. But we have had no mighty knowledge. Nothing pounds in our ears, and we are not very much afraid. We have been compelled by no great truth. Yet we live in a world demoralized, and a world disintegrating,—disintegrating not in front of us but beneath us. We stand unclad while the air grows colder each moment. We trust to a civilization that cannot carry us very much farther, to an optimistic faith—blind, pathetic—which cannot support us very much longer. We shall find that the work of our hands will be but dust and ashes, and the confidence of our hearts will not suffice. "Truth for truth's sake" we say,—while the world is sick unto death?

There are convictions which seize men, and the world trembles. If we were seized now, would eclecticism avail us anything? Would our past broad-mindedness, our tolerance, our optimistic indifference remain? And in such a day, what would happen to a University such as ours? We cannot tell. The day may not be at hand for us, so we do not care. But waiting unprepared and unknowing, the doom may be upon us, and the institutions and attitudes which weaken under present stress will be destroyed utterly, in a moment. "Whosoever shall fall upon that stone shall be broken; but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder."

Literary note from the New Yorker. A novelization of the motion picture Treasure Island is appearing in the current number of Seren Romances. C-C

The Varsity waives its right to comment. C-C

Sign of the times: Dean Mitchell lays down the law. In his paper on How to Study, for S.P.S. freshmen, the Dean, in Article IV, page 1, decrees,—"ABILITY TO STUDY: Ability to study must be developed. This is the ability to carry on the intellectual labour required to solve a problem to think through a question or to master a method of doing something." C-C

What punctuation there is belongs to the original document. C-C

But this document fails to explain whether the ability must be developed immediately, or must merely be completed before graduation, like the practical work. C-C

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

All eyes will be turned on the Stadium on Saturday, where Toronto's four teams will be in action in their last game before plunging into the wars on the intercollegiate, O.R.F.U., and Big Four fronts. It will be a real test for the Irish, who defeated Varsity here last week for the first time in several years.

The Gaels have the best team of several seasons but just how good it really is will be seen when they tackle the Dominion Champions.

They will be facing a different type of football when they clash with Argos than they met against their fellow collegians. The Big Four and O.R.F.U. groups have long been considered considerably tougher opposition than intercollegiate teams. The difference is not in the calibre of football but in the manner in which they apply themselves. Last week Alex Murdoch received a broken jaw while playing against Argos and will probably be out of football for life. The injury which came close to concluding Am Box's career last year is merely another instance of injuries to Big Four players, which are seldom if ever found in the intercollegiate contests.

Prominent on the Argo backfield last week was Harold Arnpur the diminutive backfielder who starred with Varsity last year. Harold was calling signals and was just as effective as when he performed in college company.

The coming week will see the athletics around the campus once again in full swing. The tennis players will go into action up at the Toronto Tennis Club in their annual interfaculty tournament and at the conclusion of which they will have selected a team to represent Varsity against McGill two weeks later.

The following Saturday the rowing crew will meet McGill in the annual intercollegiate boat race. The McGill crews are getting better every year and may this year conclude the long list of victories credited to Varsity.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

At a meeting of the tennis club today a definite schedule was drawn up for the season. On Wednesday, October 10, the interfaculty tournament is to commence, and is to be run off by the end of the week. Then on Friday and Saturday, October 19 and 20, the intercollegiate tournament will be held with representatives of Queen's, McGill, Western and McMaster meeting with Varsity here. Both tournaments will be played at the Toronto Tennis Club.

Perhaps some of you wonder at the distinct lack of time between the interfaculty and intercollegiate tournaments. This is a deliberate move on the part of the tennis club to give those chosen for the University team a certain amount of rest before the finals.

Doreen Kenny, who for several years past has been the mainstay of the Queen's tennis team, graduated this year and is now at O.C.E. As far as Varsity's chances for the tennis tournament are concerned O.C.E. is a far better place for her than Queen's.

Jean Davey, president of the Tennis Club, is very emphatic as to the necessity of running off the interfaculty tournaments before Thanksgiving. Anyone who wishes to enter these tournaments must sign up immediately as the first rounds are definitely to commence no later than Tuesday, October 2. Tennis is one sport in particular in which a great number of University women have a chance to participate. The tournaments are planned to give everyone an opportunity; this opportunity is now knocking so listen to it and make the most of it.

The swimming meet does not come off until February or March but here is some news which is too important to keep until then. We have in our midst the Canadian women's 100 yard and 200 yard breast stroke champion, Phyllis Hanflin, a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan, who is registered in Social Science here. This summer Miss Hanflin took part in the British Empire games and only just missed winning the 220 yard breast stroke event. But she has it to her credit that she forced the Australian girl who came in first to break the world's record to beat her.

legged athletes who may be seen any afternoon scrimmaging, punting and passing on the back campus are a determined bunch. They have speed, weight and colour; they play a great game well. It is a treat to see the fast open-field playing which a game of British rugby offers. Those who watch the rugby team in action against McGill or Queen's will see a powerful Blue team that has every expectation of winning the intercollegiate title for the University of Toronto.

ALL SENIOR TEAMS TO PLAY SATURDAY

All Four Senior Toronto Outfits
Will Be Seen on Same Card

ST. MIKE'S VS. ARGOS

Saturday at Varsity Stadium, the Toronto followers of the football fortunes will see for the last time this year, all four Toronto senior teams on the same card. In the opener, Varsity will oppose Balmy Beach while in the second contest St. Michael's will tangle with Argos for the Reg DeGruchy Memorial Trophy, and the city title.

Considerable interest is felt for the main battle as it will disclose just how good the Irish squad really are. For the first time in years they turned the Varsity contingent back in the pre-season game and in tackling the Dominion champions they will have a real test.

In the second encounter, Warren Stevens will send a much stronger squad into action than he had on hand last week. The Blues were seriously handicapped in the first game, for lack of practice. Since that time they have been working well and have shown enough improvement to be rated among the best, and should be good enough to turn back the Blue and Gold of Balmy Beach.

Stevens will not have Dawson in there at flying wing but Stew Hennessy is expected to get this assignment. Dawson is out with a bad knee and is not expected back in the line-up for a few weeks.

However, the squad is steadily increasing and there will be over a dozen men in uniform Saturday who were missing a week ago. Bobby Coulter will be back in action and should strengthen the backfield. Fenner and Powell are also in uniform and ready to go.

Allison will be back at his old position of outside wing while Wright, a newcomer from O.A.C., will get a chance at inside. Wright played on the Aggies' title team last season and should catch a place.

BRITISH RUGBY TEAM FAST AND POWERFUL

With eleven of last year's British rugby team back there is every prospect that this fall Varsity will field a powerful squad. Greater enthusiasm than has been shown in years is evident; more men are turning out than ever before, and of the new players several have shown genuine promise.

English rugby, the spectacular style of play of which has lately won hosts of supporters in American colleges, has in the past received, unfortunately, scant recognition by Varsity sport fans. Coach Jimmy Boles promises all spectators first rate performances by a first rate team. His men tackle the Irish on the 6th, and play the Toronto Club on the 13th. The 20th will see Varsity clash with McGill at Montreal and the following week, on the 27th, the Blues play their home game against Queen's.

If, as was the case, Varsity had a good team last autumn, the present one should be excellent. The bare-

FRESHIES TO ELECT EXECUTIVE TUESDAY

Whether or not the sudden onslaught of the cold north wind yesterday afternoon frightened most of the women home, the fact remains that a mere handful attended this meeting, which concerned all women undergraduates of University College. Consequently, Miss Mary Salter, president of the organization considered the present nominating not representative of the whole year and announced that further nominations for the Freshie executive could be submitted in writing, signed by two sponsors.

The list of nominations as it now stands is as follows: for president—Donnie MacEachern, Audrey Neilson, Ruth Fletcher, Betty Caldwell; for athletic director—Aileen O'Brien, Mary Burson; for treasurer—Georgina Elliot; secretary—Margaret Carson, Barbara Stark, Mary Hodge; social service representative—Margaret Howe, Mary Evans, Eleanor Fuller.

At the evening service Sir Charles Stanford's service in B flat will be used. The Rev. W. Lyndon Smith, M.A., will preach. The Anthem will be Dr. Willard's "O King all Glorious". The Church being within easy walking distance to all University residences, a cordial invitation is extended to all University students to make St. Thomas' their Church home.

NEW BIOLOGY HEAD IS FETED BY STAFF

In honour of Doctor E. M. Walker, the newly appointed head of the Department of Biology, Professor and Mrs. R. B. Thomson entertained at a delightful tea in their home yesterday afternoon. Dr. and Mrs. Walker received with their hosts and the guests included the entire staff of the Department of Botany, their graduate students and the senior members in biology. Special guests were Mrs. Cody and Miss C. M. Bensley of the University of Chicago.

ability which will secure them a place on the team.

Taylor, who played for U.T.S., last year's champions, and Certinan, a coming star from St. Mike's, seem to be outstanding. Ben Shunkin, from Jarvis, will make a speedy end with a specialty of pass receiving. Jim Anderson from Galt, is another lad with plenty of speed. Don Schmidt of Kitchener, Hume Douglas, U.C.C., and Norm Beatty, from Ottawa, are husky boys who won't be pushed over easily. This is the biggest junior team in some years and this fact should enable them to go a long way.

A more definite idea of the team will probably be obtained next week when a practice tilt will take place on the back campus with some collegiate team. Then they will meet the Argo juniors the following week.

Mr. W. Winchell, of Broadway, has suddenly gone in for an extensive study of geography, judging by the column about Canada in the Sept. 22 issue of the Mirror. Perhaps he found it a safer, if less exciting study than the private life of Al Jolson.

Toronto, Mr. Winchell discovers, has 1,000,000 people, including no chorus girls and one night club.

Now, it isn't like Mayor Stewart to allow the population to sneak up on the million mark (and in centennial year) without letting us know about it.

And what will Jack Arthur think about that slur to his Imperialities?

A tennis fan arrived late at a tournament recently and, wanting to know the score, inquired, "Whose game?" and a sweet young thing murmured "I am."

class' way of doing things along the lines of the old system renders them incompetent, not necessarily unintelligent, since the old system gives them their viewpoint. "The ruling class is in a tragic position," said Dr. Wieman. "It is psychologically impossible for anyone who has tasted power, prestige and wealth to try to destroy the system which has given him these things." Thus the ruling class cannot be as passionate in their desire for change as the other class.

The third characteristic of revolution arises out of the other two. The ruling class must either be ousted or freely relinquish their power because they are incompetent, not unintelligent or insincere. They are then brought to the position where they must either bring crushing power to hold the old system or give it up voluntarily. Present day Germany affords an example of the former case.

Then, fourthly, some group must be developed and equipped to direct affairs when this crisis arises. If not, decline will sooner or later set in.

The revolution must accomplish a more equitable distribution of economic goods, it must destroy the profit system, it must make possible a wider experience, a better understanding and a wider scope of interaction between groups and individuals, and finally it must open the way for a freer, wider functioning of God in the world.

bryo physicists meeting students of Plato and Euripides on a common basis. The absence of the regular engineering texts is noteworthy. The probable reason being the fact that the texts are in demand for reference purposes after their normal use is completed. A good supply of reference books is on the shelves to be admired by many but rarely purchased. A considerable expanse of wall is taken up by assorted French texts most of which are out of date. In marked contrast is the interest displayed in the single short shelf devoted to German literature. It was also noticed that sales of books on English and Economics were much more frequent than of mathematics texts. Calculus in particular was without interest to prospective buyers.

FRESHETTES DELIGHTED

from Dr. W. R. Taylor. The house party broke up Monday morning, when the seniors took the freshies to register. Miss Mary Salter, president of the W.U.A., agreed with the freshmen that this year's party was an unqualified success.

Victoria seniors met their freshies at Annesley Hall on Friday night, having a sing-song after the introductions. After chapel on Saturday morning they went hiking to Armour Heights, where rain dampened the doughnuts, though not, apparently, the enthusiasm. Lois Matthews and Beth Owens said even the rain was fun—"big fat drops and everybody got drenched. Most of the girls hitch-hiked back to the street-car, and we sang and played the fool all the way home." Cocoa parties in each residence finished the day, with pyjamaed "ghosts" and the savour of cocoa being wafted impartially along the halls.

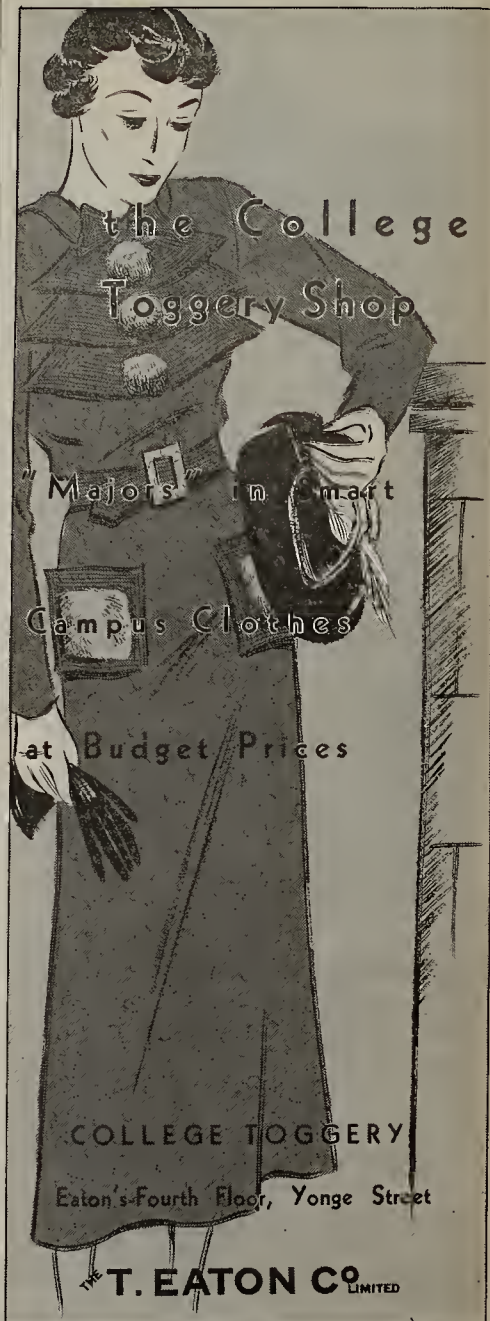

Dr. Wallace welcomed the freshmen at chapel on Sunday morning, explaining the "four Ps" of college life—Freedom, Friendship, Facts and Faith. In the afternoon the freshmen were shown the library. Later there was a tea at Annesley for the seniors, and at Wymilwood for the frosh. Dr. Marion Hilliard addressed them at night, followed by a vesper service at Wymilwood. Then more introductions and so to bed.

The provisions made for freshmen seemed adequate to two very much out-of-town freshies, Miriam Kronick and Margaret Aitken. Miss Kronick, who has just spent two years at college in Palestine, thought the freshmen were well taken care of, but the atmosphere much too formal, "bristling with introductions and unnecessary hats".

Miss Helen Kirkwood, Toronto '25, will be continued as editor of The Canadian Student for the coming year.

SOPH-FROSH ENCOUNTER

that the men of 3T7 had succeeded in pushing the ball about four feet from the centre towards the freshman line, in spite of being heavily outnumbered by the first year, something rather difficult to understand when one recalls that practically thousands of simply fabulous freshettes, arrayed in bows of yolk yellow (and their clothes, of course), lined the battleground and egged their gallant knights on to deeds heroic.

Speaking of the freshies reminds us that the Victoria damsels of '38 escaped the usual wash-cloth and carbol-soap paint removers which the ladies of the sophomore year wielded with such telling effect in years gone by. We have it on good authority, however, that their time is not yet come and adequate preparations are under way for perfectly ghastly initiation ceremonies in Annesley Hall a few days hence. Further, each sophette has been supplied with the name of at least one unfortunate freshie whom it will be her duty to make decidedly uncomfortable until the Bob. Sounds rather interesting, what?

BLUE AND WHITE BAND NOW HARD AT WORK

New faces, new music, and new stunts will characterize this year's Blue and White Band, but there will be nothing lacking of the enthusiasm and excellence of Varsity Bands of previous years. Weird noises emanating these afternoons from the basement of S.P.S. indicate that Capt. John Slatter, V.D., is hard at work grooming a new edition of the bands which have long been a colourful attraction at Varsity's rugby games.

The response to the appeal for recruits has been most gratifying and there is no lack of talent among those who have presented themselves. The process of weeding out those for whom there can be no place is a difficult one, and Capt. Slatter is convinced that the new band, liberally seasoned as it will be with veterans of last year, will be a source of inspiration to the students and a credit to the University of Toronto wherever it appears.

Students of real musical ability, especially those possessing their own instruments, are invited to turn out to practices for a trial with the band. A few additions will probably be made to the wood-wind section.

The band will perform publicly for the first time at the McGill-Varsity game on October 6th at Varsity Stadium. Its appearance will be noted with great interest by the student body.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Clinax to the recent growing friction between Col. George Drew, Securities Act Commissioner and Attorney-General Rebock came over the week-end with the announcement that the Commissioner's resignation would be requested at the next cabinet meeting.

Ottawa.—The largest refunding operation in Canada ever undertaken begins to-day when a loan of a quarter of a billion dollars is offered to the public by the Federal government. Official circles regarded its success assured.

Sudbury.—An early winter is forecast with the appearance of snow yesterday in the clay belt region.

In a vigorous appeal addressed to the American public by radio last night, his first radio talk of the kind since June, President Roosevelt asked employers and employees for an armistice in trade warfare to allow a reasonable trial of N.R.A. methods.

Retail milk prices are up in Toronto beginning to-day, it was announced last night. The new rate per quart is 12 cents. The price on pints stays at seven.

London, Eng.—Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to England, arrived to-day from Quebec.

More trouble on the Atlantic seaboard was reported over the week-end with the liner Konigstein reporting a fire in her hold, later extinguished without outside assistance, and the steamer New Bedford forced to beach from an unreported cause with all hands taken safely ashore.

Moscow.—New election laws declared by the Soviet government extend the franchise to over ten million more Russian citizens. A general election will commence on Nov. 10 to elect delegates to the seventh Soviet congress.

A halt on the issuing of authorities for the sale of beer in Toronto was asked by Mayor Stewart Saturday.

With Dizzy Dean pitching stout ball, St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 9-0 yesterday to take the National League pennant by a two game margin over the Giants, who lost to Brooklyn.

CONSERVATIVE CLUB PLANS ACTIVE YEAR

Will Discuss Benefits of Bennett Government at First Meeting

"During the following year, the main object of the Macdonald-Cartier Club will be that of bringing before the student body the benefit which Canada has received at the hands of the Bennett government," Mr. J. L. Jefferies, newly elected president of the club, told The Varsity, when asked for any special plans for the coming year.

The Macdonald-Cartier Club is the official Conservative organization of the University and as such, has affiliations with the Conservative Association in Ontario.

The practice of holding luncheon and evening meetings is to continue, The Varsity was told. An innovation in the usual programme features the formation of study groups. In this connection, members of the club will read papers on topics of political and economic interest.

WHITE FORD, AUSTIN, TWENTY-CENT MEAL ALL A MEMORY

While the rugby coaches are bemoaning the loss of stellar players, and the patrons of Hart House lamenting the extra nickel required for a meal in the Great Hall, parking spaces about the campus are likewise saddened by the disappearance of several old friends.

Students are commenting on the lack of individuality displayed by thosefortunates who possess mechanical means of transportation to and from their studies. New Fords there are aplenty, with '34 models of several leading makes in profusion as well, but nary a sign of the spotless white "Lizzie" of unknown vintage that was wont to rest its weary bones in the vicinity of the School of Science last year.

Where, too, is the infant Austin that formerly tempted the campus strong men to sundry tricks. And where the Rolls Royce with the liveried attendant that punctually awaited the fair oo-ed in U.C. in former years.

Sedans, tonnings, coupes, and coaches, are still to be seen, with rugby coaches, of course, still the most conspicuous at this season.

OPENS OCTOBER 20

For the first time in the history of the University members of the fairer sex who are on good terms with Lady Nicotine will have an opportunity of meeting her in the open. In other words the women of University College will this month be presented with a new common room in the Women's Union where ash trays will be spread about in convenient spots. The donors of this long sought gift are the University College Alumnae.

The Alumnae have put aside the sum of $650 from their Building Fund for the building over and furnishing of the room. Besides a number of comfortable chesterfields and chairs, and the numerous ash trays, there is to be put up a bridge table for the use of those women in the college who would like to spend their leisure time in this intelligent manner.

The main object of the new common room, however, is to provide a meeting place on the college campus for such groups as the German Study Club or the Classical Association, affording

Theme

DISCUSSIONS HELD

The largest and most representative attendance in years featured this year's conference of the Central Area of the Student Christian Movement at Y.M.C.A. Park, Lake Couchiching, from September 12th to 21st. Delegates came from the Universities of Toronto, Western, Queen's, McGill, O.A.C., Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia, Acadia and Dalhousie in Canada. There were also thirteen delegates from American movements. A total of 193 students, graduates, leaders and visitors were registered.

The speaker chosen to lead the discussion on the theme of the conference, "The Christian Message for To-day," was Dr. Henry N. Wieman, professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago. Dr. Wieman discussed the main topic in a series of lectures in which the spiritual and social aspects of religion were balanced. His addresses comprised, in order, the following topics: God at work in the world to-day, the religious needs of the individual to-day, the religious needs of society, how to connect with God, and how to connect with the work of God in society to-day.

Addresses were delivered by Dr. Westcott-Wieman, Dr. Gregory Vlastos of Queen's, Dr. W. J. Ross of Dartmouth College, Prof. T. W. L.

ISBISTER STARS

St. Mike's Put Up Stubborn Fight Before Bowing to Argonauts

By W. A. Crocker

Whitewash was the order of the day up at Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon as Lew Hayman's Canadian football champions won the Reg De Grouchy Memorial Trophy for the second year in succession, as they took the St. Michael's gridlers into camp, 7-0, and Warren Stevens' boys in Blue came up on the right side of a 12-0 count in the consolation contest with Balmy Beach. Both tilts, although still of the pre-season variety, furnished excellent entertainment for a fair crowd of five thousand eager fans, who cheered on their heroes with mid-season exuberance.

The result of the consolation game between Varsity and Balmy Beach was in the nature of an upset as the so-called experts had expected Balmy to give Stevens' lads a lesson in the fine points of rugby. However, Warren fielded a team which hardly resembled the one he used last Saturday against St. Michael's and the result was quite favourable for the Blues. As a matter of fact the Collegians often made the Easterners look bad.

The Blue squad started right in at the opening whistle, literally plunging, running and passing the pigskin around like Dominion champions. After five minutes of play an Isbister to Miller pass placed the ball on Balmy's twenty yard line. Fenner went through the centre for yards and on the next play made five more yards on an end run. Webber carrying the ball over the line for the first major score of the game. Miller converted to give the Collegians a 6-0 lead.

The Blues continued to force the pace in the second quarter and kept the Beachers on the run. An Isbister to Keth forward and two plunges again placed the ball on Balmy's twenty yard line. Coulter went for 15 yards on a fake placement and after Laing failed to cross the line on two successive plunges, Fenner skirted the end to count the second major score of the game, which he failed to convert. This ended the scoring in the first half.

In the second half the Beach squad came to life and showed to better advantage. Play saw-sawed back and forth

OENY BEER PROBLEM AMONG CO-EDS HERE

Officials See No Need for Action—Little Interest Shown

The question "To drink or not to drink" beer, is causing no consternation among the various heads of women at the University of Toronto. None of the deans of women approached for their opinion, had anything to say on the matter, except that so far they have not had to cope with the situation. All hoped that the question would not arise in the future.

One would conclude from this attitude that Varsity women are not given to frequenting beer parlours, although some freshies were mentioned by a downtown paper as having been seen in a beverage room, together with some sophs, but whether freshies or frosh was meant, cannot be determined.

To all appearances, however, the beer question is not a live issue among the women of Toronto University.

APPLAUSE

Toronto acquires itself of its well deserved reputation for a lack of cultural discernment. The wide and popular acclaim given the Promenade Symphony Concerts under the direction of Mr. Reginald Stewart is very gratifying. Last Thursday evening there were nearly seven and a half thousand persons rushing, pushing, and clamouring to listen to a varied musical programme ranging from Mozart to Sibelius. It was one of the outstanding events in the history of the Varsity arena, inasmuch as many people were turned away; and those who were fortunate enough to secure admission applauded so vociferously that the conductor found it necessary to plead for quiet.

The Promenade Concerts, when first begun, played to an audience of two thousand. During the summer months, while many citizens were away, the attendance steadily grew until now the arena can hold no more. Occasions like these help us to forget Toronto's well-known indifference to artistic pursuits. In a measure they also compensate for the fact that many great artists are ignored except by those few who nest in the cheap seats, and that there exists in Toronto no adequate repertory theatre.

The concerts are an achievement of which its sponsors, organizers, and participants may well be proud. Reginald Stewart and his colleagues are deserving of the unstinted praise and gratitude of the music lovers of this city, which they now enjoy.

S.C.M. CONFERENCE

MacDermott of the League of Nations Society at Ottawa, Prof. King Gordon of Montreal, Prof. G. Wasteneys of Toronto, Mr. Raymond Currier of the Student Volunteer Movement at New York, Mr. C. E. Silcox of Toronto, and Mr. J. B. Bickersteth of Hart House.

An innovation of the conference this year was that the discussion groups confined their study to the main theme of the conference. The groups were led by Prof. Martyn Estall of McMaster, Rev. E. L. Mason of Toronto, Dr. R. B. Liddy of Western, Mrs. Gregory Vlastos of Queen's, Mrs. E. M. Best of Toronto, Rev. L. A. Dixon, Murray Brooks, Mrs. Jean Hutchinson, Beverly Oaten and others.

Questions discussed at the open forums of the conference centred largely around the value of the Student Christian Movement to the University. Considerable interest was aroused by the presentation of the McGill Student Socialist Movement's programme by Miss Joan Clarke of that university. The conference recommended study of social issues and the social implications of Christianity to the study groups of the various units. The daily worship services were conducted by Wilfred Butcher of the University of Manitoba.

Three handsome oil paintings and two purses were presented at the conference to Miss Gertrude Rutherford and Murray Brooks by Prof. Martyn Estall and Miss Ruth Cunningham on behalf of the movement on the occasion of their resignation from the staff of the national headquarters of the S.C.M.

In this way we will be able to hold more meetings, and it is hoped that all members will be able to attend. At the evening meetings we serve cigarettes and refreshments, so we hope for a good average turn-out."

"The first smoker will be held the evening of October 11, when we are to have Professor Lewis of the German department at Trinity College as speaker. At the annual banquet in November we are trying to secure Mr. Graham Towers, president of the Central Bank of Canada, as guest speaker. The other big event of our year is the annual formal dance, which will be held this year on January 16, at the Royal York Hotel. We may also hold a tea-dance, or else an evening dance, after the Queen's game, as has been done in other years, but that is quite indefinite as yet."

Stewart Recital

To-morrow night will see one of the most interesting experiments yet made in the musical field. A solo piano-forte recital in a skating rink which holds over 8,000 people. For Reginald Stewart, who has been packing Varsity Arena every Thursday night all summer with the Promenade Symphony Concerts, is giving a programme of piano selections which his Prom fans have asked him to include in the Promenade Concert programmes. This was not feasible, however, for he could never find enough time to play them at the Thursday concerts. Accordingly he is giving a solo recital to-morrow night in which he will play fifteen numbers which he has been requested to play.

His programme will include: Air; Lully; Tambourin; Rameau; Jeux d'Eau; Ravel; Movement Perpetuel; Poulenc; The Little White Donkey; Ibert; Scherzo Valse; Chabrier; Prelude and Fugue in E Minor; Mendelssohn; Toccata, Opus 7, Schumann; Choral Prelude; Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring; Bach-Hess; his own arrangement of Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D Minor; and the following works of Debussy: Jardins Sous la Pluie, Doctor Gradus ad Parnassum, Reverie, Golliwog's Cakewalk, and Danse.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGure

It is beginning to look as though Warren Stevens has a real ball club wearing the Blue and White. Defeating a team like the Beaches is no small chore at any time, but white-washing them 12-0 as they did Saturday is rather convincing proof that the Varsity squad have a scoring punch that will carry them a long way in intercollegiate circles. They look one hundred per cent better than they did the week previous against St. Mike's, and were ready to play heads up ball all the way.

Big Bob Isbister, working on the difficult assignment of filling the vacancy left by Jack Sinclair, played like a veteran. He was booting them high and far and was gaining ground on every kicking exchange with Porter and Lipsett, who were hoofing them for the Beaches. Fenner also turned in a good game, proving himself to be a kicker of merit as well as doing some valuable plunging.

The youthful St. Mike's squad gave a great display of courage and football ability in holding the heavier Argos to seven points. Although defeated the Irish line was never crossed, and much of the credit must go to Johnny Metras, who could be seen untangling himself from the opposition every time a plunge was held. Even Tommy Burns failed to dent the Irish line to any extent. Incidentally, Mr. Thomas Burns is rapidly becoming the most unpopular player in these parts. The rough tactics he employs is mostly the cause of this, while his habit of picking squabbles helps his cause little, if any.

Tall tales came out of Montreal on Saturday of the deeds of one Joe Smith, a backfielder from the University of Southern California. Joe, now in the uniform of the McGill Redmen, ran wild against the R.M.C. team there Saturday. Granted that the cadets are an intermediate club, Smith must be good to rate the mention he received. He will be seen in action here next Saturday and if he is as good as reports, he may cause the Big Blue team plenty of grief.

Both Queen's and Western were defeated over the week-end, Queen's dropping a decision to Abe Eliowitz and Ottawa, while Western lost to Tigers. Varsity was the only college team to defeat a senior club.

Frankie Frisch has his St. Louis Cardinals in another world series. The Cards were at one time and not so long ago at that, seven games behind the Giants. The Dean brothers were, of course, the big factor in the last drive which sent the St. Louis team to a pennant in the last day of the schedule. One of the persons who will not be rejoicing over the victory of the Cards, is Mickey Cochrane, pilot of the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers captured the American League flag through their ability to hit rather than their pitching power, although, of course, their hurling staff has more than ordinary ability. Against the New York Giants, who consider five hits in one game, good going, the Tigers would have had a good chance of taking the honours. The Cards are a different crew. They have a better pitching staff than the Tigers and can also manufacture runs when needed. Cochrane will find it hard to stop them as they are now travelling at top speed.

There is no truth in the rumour that Bill Terry was to-day charged with the murder of a man who inquired if Brooklyn was still in the league.

TENNIS TOURNEY COMMENCES TODAY AT TORONTO CLUB

Varsity Team to be Chosen from Interfaculty

BEGINS AT 9 A.M.

This morning at 9.30 sharp, the annual interfaculty tennis tournament stars at the Toronto Tennis Club. Besides deciding on an interfaculty champion, the tournament will decide who will represent the university in the intercollegiate tournament at McGill on October 18-19-20.

All of last year's intercollegiate team are back again and will be fighting to hold the positions they earned last fall. Bill Pigott, the interfaculty champion, will be hard pressed by the other members of the team in the battle for the McEachern Cup.

bers of the team in the battle for the McEachern Cup.

The following is the draw for this (Monday) morning:

(All contestants must be on time—any players not in the draw may enter if they appear at the courts before the first round begins.)

9 a.m.—Pigott vs Hudson; Charles vs Irish; O'Connor vs Rae; Everitt vs Faux; Paine vs Sheffield; Boyd vs Slutskis; Fenner vs Dunlop; Acker vs Woolrich; McCrea vs Spence; Boland vs Morrison; Black vs Boyd C. G.; Grover vs Brewer; Campbell vs Tomlinson; Service vs Macnaughton; Thomson vs Brunke; Barnes vs Crowson.

10 a.m.—Coyne vs Bronskell; Sheffer vs Dickie; Hibloom vs Kelly; Wilkinson vs Huether; Eaton vs Eager; Sethi vs McGivern; Edwards vs Ouram; Young vs Zeldin; Hartford vs Rigby.

11 a.m.—All second round matches.

Toronto Maple Leafs dropped the second straight game to Columbus in the Little World's Series on Saturday by 7-4.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

To-day is your last chance to sign up for your own faculty tennis tournaments. No college has a very imposing list as yet and if the tournaments are to be successful there must be a fairly large number of entries. It is a well known fact that from the keenest competition the best teams are chosen so you will be doing your part even if you are eliminated; everyone cannot win.

Lorna Reid, president of the Basketball Club, plans to call a meeting of the club early in the week to discuss practice periods in order to get the various faculty teams in working order. She hopes that basketball will get under way earlier than usual this year because after all there really is not so very much time before the first games. Several of the props of last year's intercollegiate team are no longer with us and it will take plenty of practice plus a lot of native ability to fill their places. The interfaculty games the last few years have been won either by Vic or St. Hilda's. How about giving them livelier competition this year?

The year before last O.C.E. entered a team in the interfaculty basketball series but were forced to drop out since it required too much of their time. Doubtless they are regretting this move now since Bea Longley and Alice Butler—stellar Varsity players in the intercollegiate games—are registered there as well as Sally Farfanger, manager of Queen's senior team last year. In view of all this perhaps the present O.C.E. students will prove more adept at budgeting their time and will be able to find a certain amount of leisure to devote to basketball. At least we will see Bea and Al in action when the Grads meet the Seniors as they always do to provide practice for the latter before the play-offs.

PLEASANT RENDEZVOUS AT TRINITY FIRESIDE

For many years Trinity United Church at the corner of Bloor and Robert Streets, has been a rendezvous for University students on Sunday nights at what is called the Fireside Hour. There are folk all over Canada who look back at this Fireside Hour as one of their pleasant memories, while they lived in Toronto. The Fireside Hour originally started to give an evening to University students, and while students now attend in hundreds, it has been broadening to include any away from home, the lonely or those needing cheer.

BLUES TRIM BEACHES ARGOS TAKE TITLE

when, after an exchange of kicks Porter dropped Ishister's loft at the Beach twenty yard line, Alison recovering. Fenner's attempted placement was blocked, Balmly recovering. In the last quarter a bad pass by Porter to Lipsitt put the Easterners back on their three yard line and after an exchange of kicks Lipsitt was ranged for the final Varsity tally.

A summary of the game clearly shows that Varsity had the better of the play in every department, whereas the Beach gridders moved the yardsticks seven times, the Blues made first downs thirteen times. In forward passing neither team did any too well Varsity registering four out of eleven and Balmly completing one less in the same number of attempts. However, in the backfield the running of Coulter, Fenner, Tafts, Powell, Ishister and Webber was by far superior to that of the Purple and Gold squad.

To pick stars among the Varsity squad would be doing an injustice to those not singled out as the team as a whole turned in a great game even though Dawson and Henderson, two regulars, were out of the line-up. For Balmly, Lipsitt, Jervis and Grant turned in fine exhibitions.

In the second tilt the city champions put up a stern defence of their title. However, Bill Storen's game lads, led by Johnny Metras threw a great scare into Burns, Tindall and Co., and almost forward-passed the Scullers out of the game. The Bay St. lads, tossing the ball around with rare abandon, brought many a cheer from the crowd. For a time it looked as though the Irish were going to land the critics a second jolt but the Argos came back strong in the second half and Burns' placement and Box's educated toe counted seven points and victory. Although defeated the Irish were not humbled as even the great Burns and Morris failed to do much against their line.

Johnny Metras was undoubtedly the best player on the field. He was all over the field and it was due to his efforts that the Irish line was not crossed. Taylor of Argos was brilliant in spots.

Balmly Beach: Snyder, Loughheed, Jarvis, Lipsitt, Britnell, Bell, Reid, D. Cohen, Popple, W. Cohen, Barrett, Reynolds, Porter, Grant, Irwin, Willis, Makle, Keefe, and Bray.

Varsity: Hennessy, Webber, Fenner, Ishister, Miller, Warner, Perry, Laing, Greco, Holden, Alison, Coulter, Taylor, Brebner, Harris, Williams, Warren, Buck, Gibson, Powell, Wright, DeMuy.

Argonauts: Staughton, Box, Morris, Scott, Clark, Griffiths, Palmer, Chepe-suk, Cutler, Burns, Tindall, Arnup, Vail, Stevenson, Wilson, Ferris, Munro, Hales, Taylor, London, Young, Burkhart, Conquerwood.

"I would certainly not advise people against taking the course," said Dr. Pakenham. "There is no job more permanent than high school teaching, and the salaries are sure. The outlook is not any gloomier than it is in the church, in dentistry, or engineering. "The 500 unemployed teachers—the figure is only a guess—are mostly from the class of the year before this," continued Dr. Pakenham. "Some are teachers who have lost their positions in the last five years, some are graduates who thought they might as well have another certificate when their own occupations went with the depression."

Dr. Pakenham said there was a great deal in having "influence," but that scholastic success counted for more in getting a job. "Of course, if the town of A needs a teacher, and an A-towner has graduated, he will get the job. And it is unfortunate but there is a prejudice in this country in favour of men teachers."

Is It a Sign of Degeneration If Frosh Exhibit Trepidation?

Year after year on the campus sees a certain increase, in the students, of wisdom and understanding. To their somewhat sophisticated sensibilities the frosh seem yearly smaller, younger, greener, more helpless. It is a feeling that all students, from the second year upwards, experience, with a certain amount of satisfaction.

Still, we were unprepared to hear on our way towards Memorial Tower, an unusually child-like gurgle, and looked up to see a curly-headed baby countenance beaming from its carriage down upon us, from an upstairs window of Wycliffe College.

With mingled despair and shame we hid our face in our hands and continued on our way, too much overcome to investigate further. An obvious and time-worn remark, but inevitable here—what are we coming to?

The clock began to strike—it was eleven o'clock, Saturday morning, and the campus almost deserted, — as we approached the library. Students began to swarm from various buildings. Bits of yellow, blue and green bunting shone bravely through the haze—you remember, it was raining—as frosh toddled eagerly homeward, with a wary eye on

Varsity Has Been Winner of Last Six Boat Races

CLOSE FINISH LAST YEAR

Present Team is Heavier, but Has Suffered Many Changes

While the cool winds sweeping across the campus have directed most of the sporting interest around the school towards rugby and the other autumn pastimes, there is still one important aquatic title to be settled before the campus is completely covered with snow. This is the annual boat race between McGill and Varsity which will be held on the Lachine Canal on Saturday.

The event was first run in 1926 and McGill came home in front. The Montreal crew repeated in the following year, but for the last six years Professor T. R. Loudon has coached a winning Varsity crew. Last year's race was the closest on record when only

Upper and Coulter Expected to be Great Combination

By B. J. McGuire
Warren Stevens' gridiron warriors are in for a busy week-end. Saturday they plunge into the intercollegiate race when they face the McGill Redmen at the Stadium here. Monday they again go into action, but this time not for the glory of the game but for the good of a worthy cause. That cause is the Johnny Copp Memorial Fund.

In the Thanksgiving Day game the students will be facing former bearers of the Blue and White uniform, together once again in competition. The all star team will have no other than Warren Stevens at the quarter back position, directing the attack against his own charges. This promises to be a real game and is deserving of the student support.

In the meantime the Varsity squad are warming up for the opening exercises on Saturday. The best turnout of the season was on hand for the signal practice last night, and for the first time of the year there was not a single absentee from the practice. Daw-

Uniformed Watchman Installed to Check Undue Noise

CO-OPERATION REQUESTED

As a further effort to maintain quiet and order in the halls of Victoria College Library a uniformed watchman has been stationed in the lower corridor. The Varsity was informed yesterday by Dr. F. Louis Barber, Chief Librarian.

"The unfortunate acoustical properties of the library are originally at fault," Mr. Barber explained. "Voices and footsteps echo loudly all over the building and for this reason we do not wish to blame the students unnecessarily."

Miss Betty Lang Tells of Her Observations in Russia

"In Russia you can get paid to go to school," said Miss Betty Lang of O.C.E., who has just completed a year at the London School of Economics. "A married man can earn a sufficient wage to support his family, while obtaining a secondary school education. Men who went through the civil war, returned to their towns to find them in ruins, and built them up again with their own hands, are now being sent to school to make up for the lost years."

Freshettes Get Acquainted with Their Executives; Vote To-day

At 4.30 yesterday afternoon, the Women's Union was again the scene of the Annual Nominee Tea, which is the usual method of acquainting the freshettes with their would-be executives. Miss Ferguson and Mrs. Howard poured, while the guests, the sophomore assistants and nominees chatted and partook of the delicious refreshments.

The nominee speakers were introduced by Miss Freddie Chaman. The usual shy promises of doing their best and thanking for the honour, as well as some attempts at humour were

Knox Students Attack Parade from Ambush; Missiles Fill Air

TRINITY HOUSE ATTACKED

At 11.57 last night members of The Varsity staff sped forth to enquire as to the nature of a disturbance which appeared to be emanating from St. George Street, north of the Press.

Judging from the noise, the night staff feared a repetition of a previous attack on the freedom of the press, but were relieved to find police already on the scene.

Meanwhile it was discovered that this was merely the occasion of the Annual Bed Race from the University Residences on Hoskin Avenue to College and St. George Streets.

During the progress of the race the participants were subject to a barrage from Knox students lying in ambush. On the return trip, a counter attack was made on Knox College.

CANADIAN MANNERS UNDER CRITICISM

Suffer, Like American, from "National Cocksureness"

AGREE WITH LOWELL

"My thirteen years' experience in American universities leads me to think that James Russell Lowell's description of Americans as 'the most common schooled and least cultivated people in the world' is probably true," Professor T. J. Meek, of the Department of Oriental Languages, University College, told The Varsity.

"However," Professor Meek went on to say, "we Canadians have no reason to feel proud, as we undoubtedly run the Americans a close second in this respect. We're both too provincial and aware of our own greatness. This national cocksureness shows itself in the individual in what can well be termed poor manners."

The reference was to a speech made by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler at the opening of Columbia College, in which he seconded the opinion of James Russell Lowell, President of Yale University, regarding American manners.

Professor W. R. Taylor, also of the Oriental Department of University College, stated that such a condemnation of American manners was perhaps too broad. However, he was in entire agreement with another statement of Mr. Butler's, that the growing tendency on the part of the Americans is to ignore the works of Shakespeare and the Bible.

"When we begin to desert the standards of honesty and straightforwardness laid down by Shakespeare and the Biblical writers," he said, "we are sure to be affected, and as good manners naturally arise from the heart, the result will be as plain there as any place."

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

There is to be a meeting of the Basketball Club at 5 p.m. to-day in Room 82, U.C. It is important that the entire executive be present as the meeting is being called to arrange practice times and this cannot be done satisfactorily if anyone is absent. Early next week a further meeting of the executive will be held to draw up a schedule for the interfaculty games. Basketball seems to be getting definitely under way; it looks as though those in charge are firmly resolved to keep the "Bronze Baby" for another year.

As for the faculty tennis tournaments—St. Hilda's got off to a head start to-day and several matches have already been played, although the first round is still not completed. Vic and U.C. definitely plan to start to-day and hope to run the games off quickly. The U.C. tournament is being played on the Rusholme Courts. St. Mike's plan to get started to-day or to-morrow at the latest. Meds may not have sufficient numbers to warrant a tournament but they promise to have a team ready to enter in the interfaculty play-offs which commence October 10.

Weather and general slackness in getting matches played off are always the big handicaps in these faculty tournaments. The weather seems to be fairly ideal so it rests solely with those playing to get the rounds played speedily in order to have the teams chosen in plenty of time.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

A big week-end is in store for the followers of the pigskin parade. Saturday will see the intercollegiate football series open with Varsity entertaining the McGill Redmen at the Stadium. The intercollegiate series is always a colourful event and the presence of the Varsity band will help celebrate the occasion. Incidentally the current edition of the band is reported to be bigger and better than ever, which is quite an achievement as last year the Blue-clad buglers made quite a reputation for themselves in the intercollegiate circles.

Another event of major importance on the football calendar for the week-end is the exhibition game at the Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. On that occasion the Varsity Blues will meet an all-star team of former Varsity players. The purpose of this venture is to raise the necessary amount for the Johnny Copp Memorial Fund. The players who are behind this movement are setting as their objective $2,500, which is the smallest amount which will suffice. One year ago the student body stood aghast with the rest of the continent as they waited for word of the condition of the popular athlete who was so tragically injured. To-day these students are being asked to pay one last tribute to his memory by contributing to the memorial fund. It is quite fitting that the fund should be completed through the efforts of the football club, with which Johnny Copp was actively associated before his death.

The game should be an attraction in itself were it not for the cause involved. To see such former greats as Jack Sinclair and Warnie Snyder, teaming up on the field would be an event hard to equal. Warren Stevens will be in at quarter for the old boys, whose line-up contains the names of all the graduated stars of the past decade. Besides Snyder, there will be Mel Elson, Harry Bales, Harry Hobbs, Les Blackwell and many others acting either in the capacity of players or officials.

A student coupon plus the small donation of two bits (25c) is the price of admission and this proposition should have the fans and friends of the game out to the Varsity Stadium in thousands for the holiday contest.

The opening of the College loop Saturday will also settle several questions. It must be remembered that Shag Shaughnessy is making his valedictory appearance as coach of the McGill Redmen this season and he is making a big effort to field a winning team. Shag has been piloting the Red team since 1912 and for sentimental reasons, seeing him win would be welcomed by scores of fans. It is reported that he has one of the best teams in years and his squad is particularly strong in the backfield.

The appearance of many American stars on the McGill line-up has also strengthened their hopes. The appearance of Americans on the McGill teams is not new. In fact each year the University receives close to one thousand applications from American students desirous of attending McGill. Only a small percentage of these are accepted, and the majority of those who do gain admittance already possess degrees. It is not surprising then that some of these graduates turn out to be football players. A similar situation exists across the park at St. Mike's. In referring to the all-American team fielded by Bill Storen, most people forget that the greater percentage of the students at St. Mike's, is now and always has been, American. In the first year the percentage of Americans is close to 70.

To return to the subject of football, the big question now is who Warren Stevens will have on his backfield when the final choice is made. The appearance of Art Upper at the practice last night increased the number of players eligible for this position. Isbister, Coulter, Upper, Webber, Fenner, Jackson, Miller and Gray are all applying for the position and each one could possibly hold down a backfield berth on any team in senior company. Upper and Coulter teamed up before on the backfield and should go places, while Isbister looks to be the best booter in senior company. None of the rest can be overlooked, which would indicate that Varsity have one of the best backfields in the intercollegiate union.

Jack Sinclair, who is in charge of the intermediates, had only a small crew out last night, but more will probably be on hand before they go into action against the cadets in the double header at the Stadium Monday. This game will be played as the curtain raiser to the Varsity-All-Star game.

The end of the week will see Professor London sending his senior eight over the Lachine Canal in defence of the intercollegiate title they have held for the past six years. Forty thousand spectators are expected to look on while the McGill Redmen seek to wrest the crown from the Varsity team. This race may never have the significance of the Oxford-Cambridge race, but it certainly is becoming popular, particularly in the eastern city. The Blue team entered the Canadia Henley and it was the breaks rather than the opposition that defeated them. Last year the McGill team were beaten to the mark by the slim margin of two seconds. The crew this time are several pounds heavier per man and are reported to be in great shape.

GRAHAM SPRY MAY ADDRESS FIRST C.C.F. CLUB MEETING

shortcomings of the existing social order in an objective atmosphere, partially at least, removed from the dickerings of political strife," the president continued. "This is not to say that the organization is dilettantish but only that we try to keep proceedings on a high level and to carry them on sincerely. We welcome all those who realize that our existing social system is defective and wish to seek an honest solution among co-operative socialist minds."

It was further learned from Mr. Pinwick that the club hopes to have Mr. Graham Spry address the first open meeting of the year; this to take place in Hart House, on Wednesday evening, October 17th.

This organization is, relatively speaking, among the youngest around the campus. A few open meetings are planned, but most of the activity will be embraced by closed sessions, at which proceedings will take the form of debates and papers, also speeches from prominent leaders in that field.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

to make in a paragraph which appeared in Friday's "Sportswoman". The swimming star from the University of Saskatchewan who holds the Canadian 100 yard and 220 yard breast stroke records and has recently registered in Social Science here at Varsity was given an incorrect surname. She is really Phyllis Haslam. Many apologies!

Next week U.C. is holding an invitation golf tournament to which golfers from the other colleges are cordially invited. Anyone who has a handicap is asked to bring it, but those who do not have one can play also as there are to be both net and gross prizes. The event is to take place at the Ladies' Club (watch this column for definite information as to the date, time, etc.). Those entering are to pay the dollar green fee which will cover all expenses for the tournament in the morning, luncheon, and driving, approaching, and putting contests in the afternoon. U.C. is donating the prizes for all events and it promises to be a big day as well as something quite different in the line of women's athletics at Varsity.

two seconds separated the boats at the finish line. Varsity's win last year was somewhat in the nature of a surprise as they sent down a very light crew averaging one hundred and fifty pounds per man. The crew this year is heavier by ten pounds per man. The rowing crew probably do more work and obtain less credit than any other university team. They started training last January and have been hard at it ever since. They have been rounding into form during the last two weeks and their splendid team-work augurs well for the result on Saturday. Professor Loudon was effusive in his praise of the crew, stating, "Whatever the result is on Saturday, the crew deserve every credit. They have worked extremely hard and win or lose they will ably represent the University."

While indifference is the key note of the attitude of Toronto students towards the race, it is quite a different story down at Montreal. Approximately forty thousand spectators will line the banks of the canal to cheer their favourites. A large flotilla of small craft along the course will add a note of colour to the spectacle.

Varsity will be represented by practically a new team this year, as Willis at stroke, and Bradshaw in number one position are the only members of the team who have had intercollegiate experience. The other members of the team are: (7) Miller, (6) Eaton, (5) Jack Macdonald, (4) Haig, (3) Milyard, (2) Pete MacDonald, Cox, McClatchie.

son, stellar flying wing of the title team of last season, has recovered from his injury and was in uniform last night. Another player to gladden the heart of Warren Stevens with his presence was Art Upper. Just emerged from a strenuous ball season, Art is in great shape and ready to go places on the Varsity backfield. This team of Upper and Coulter were stars together before, and should be a great combination in this season's campaign. The backfield positions will be hard to hold around the Blue camp this season, as Stevens has a host of brilliant men after that position. Isbister, Jackson, Upper, Coulter, Miller, Webber and Penner are all after the assignment and all look good enough for any ball club in senior company.

U.C. MEN GRADUATION PICTURES

The graduation pictures this year are to be taken at Freeland's Studio, 89 Bloor Street West. There is a charge of two dollars at sitting to cover the cost of putting the picture in Torontoensis and for one copy per person of the entire group. Appointments will be made for each man and the times for these will appear in The Varsity. The following appointments have been made for Thursday, October 4: 4:00 p.m., R. H. Armstrong, 4:10 J. H. Chave, 4:20 M. E. Corlett, 4:30 J. R. Coulter, 4:40 W. E. Everitt, 4:50 J. D. Forsyth, 5:00 R. M. Fullerton, 5:10 W. J. Gibson, 5:20 W. J. Goddard.

T.I.C.C.U.

The Toronto Intercollegiate Christian Union meets at 5 p.m. to-day in Wycliffe College Common Room. Nominations will be accepted for the General Committee and students will recount summer experiences from the aspect "God guides—God provides".

There is no great scramble for line positions but there are several men of more than ordinary ability up there to do the plunging. Laing and Greco are of course the best prospects while Perry also looked good in Saturday's contest.

The intermediates are as yet an unknown quantity but Jack Sinclair will have plenty of material from which to choose a squad and with Hayman and Sinclair working together a good club should be the result.

sarily. However, we have done all we can to at least partially correct this condition, by building glass partitions and laying rugs in the hallways."

In addition to such measures, Mr. Barber further explained, the library must have the full co-operation of the students. Excessive talking or heavy tramping of feet disturb everyone working in the reading and study rooms and thus cannot be tolerated.

Last year the librarians on duty at the desk were given the unpleasant job of checking up on noisy students, but this year owing to the increased enrolment in the college and the greater number of students using the library, it was found necessary to make some better arrangements.

Dr. Barber expressed the hope that the students, realizing the necessity of maintaining quiet in the library, would give their fullest support to this endeavour.

a job" seems to be the motto of those who are cast upon the world to earn their daily bread. Fortunate are they who can return for another year or two to the sheltering walls of the University to pursue graduate studies. Judging from the records O.C.E. is a favourite haven for the undecided ones and so the number of unemployed teachers goes on increasing.

The Varsity decided to investigate the occupations of some of the more recent graduates to see how many were doing the things they wanted to do and how many had been forced by the depression into other fields. Many are keeping up with their subjects by teaching on the staffs of this and other Universities. Among these are Norah Bowers, and Louis Epstein, both U.C. '33 in psychology, Beatrice Abbott in French, and Norman DeWitt in classics. Two who have gone to other universities are Betty Gwyn, Trinity '32 in classics at Cincinnati, and Harry Steinhauer in German at the University of Saskatchewan.

Most of the graduates of Household Economics have succeeded, sooner or later, in obtaining the kind of position they were trained for. Miss Alice MacLean, U.C. '31, was for a time Food Supervisor at Simpson's and now dietitian in the Fitz clinic of the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. Among those who were able to make known in campus activities, has just returned from seven weeks spent in Russia and five days on a Russian ship, which she described as a miniature Soviet. The crew were expending their spare hours on mastering the binomial theorem, during Miss Lang's passage, in the hope of promotion to higher positions on the ship. They possessed a gramophone and a variety of records, including some modern Russian compositions of high quality, to which they listened with evident enjoyment and displayed to the passengers with pride.

She says: "Whatever course one takes is of value in subsequent work even if not directly used. It trains the mind to act quickly and methodically and enables one to speak on so many subjects. It is necessary to be a University graduate in the position I am in but I do not feel at all at a disadvantage from not having taken a commercial course. I am often able to make use of my knowledge of languages—odd bits of translation crop up now and then. Moreover, the business connections between countries, with South America, Germany, Quebec, makes a knowledge of foreign languages most useful if not indispensable."

Miss Lang had her headquarters in Moscow, from which she made expeditions into the farming districts, particularly the Ukraine and Karelia, where she managed to pick up a little Russian from the country people. She described the people throughout Russia as being excessively clean, well-clothed and pleasant looking, with their grey eyes and tanned skins. There were variety and style in the clothing, and cosmetics were in evidence. "Probably a by-product of some industry," she added.

Miss Lang commented enthusiastically on the Russian food and said that foreign workers coming into Russia were allowed a larger ration of bread than they could consume. Cigarettes, wines and vodka were usually available but had to be purchased at the independent stores. "Food rations are obtained," she explained, "at the co-operative connected with the enterprise to which you belong and there is also a kitchen where you can obtain a square meal for 85 kopeks to one rouble, about a quarter in Canadian money. The Varsity questioned Miss Lang about the health of children in the creches. "It is unusual," she said, "to find even a couple put in the sick bay to show off to visitors." Housing conditions varied, from as many as four people in a room to the comparative luxury of four rooms to a family.

There were a few beggars in evidence, but mainly orphans taking to summer holiday from their institutions. She explained that they would all be gathered up in the fall. "They beg for cigarettes mostly," she added, "and when you give them a whole package they run off and share it with their friends."

made. New election campaigning was illustrated by Miss Mary Burson, formerly of Bishop Strachan, who pleaded, "Don't vote for me, if you don't think I'm good enough!"

Bishop Strachan again made his contribution when Miss "Peggy" Carson, nominee for secretary, shyly stated "I haven't much experience in writing minutes but during the 'matric' I knew about writing hours."

One of the social service nominees, Miss Eleanor Ford, opened the last of the speeches by earnestly saying, "My speech will be feeble, but I hope it won't be worse than the rest." Then results of the humorous and otherwise speeches will be known after the elections to-day, which are to be held from 11 to 2 p.m. in the women's common room in U.C.

OWEN FOUNDATION ESSAY

In the essay contest conducted by the foundation in 1934, essays were submitted from all the provinces of the Dominion. The prize was won by James Brodgen of Edmonton, who was presented with the prize by the mayor of that city.

The Robert Owen Foundation was organized in 1931 for the purpose of promoting interest in the application of co-operative principles to our economic life, and more specifically encouraging and assisting industrial and community enterprises managed and operated along co-operative lines. It is named after Robert Owen, the great British pioneer of co-operation in industry, who lived a century ago. It was incorporated in the Dominion of Canada in 1932, with head office in Toronto.

The organization is concentrating its efforts upon preliminary educational work towards its object of transforming our economic life along co-operative lines into a new social structure. As a first undertaking along these lines it conducted the Dominion-wide essay contest of last year which was very successful. The Foundation now proposes to conduct similar contests every year.

volleys were let off at the sleeping windows. As no resistance was offered attention was devoted to Whitney Hall.

At 12:15 all that was left was a group clustered around a lamp-post reminiscing with a graduate of other years.

Returning to the scene of combat The Varsity interviewed a police sergeant who professed ignorance of the evening's entertainment. When queried as to the presence of inedible tomatoes on St. George Street he replied, "Worse things than that might happen."

At 12:35 The Varsity left the front in charge of a motorcycle officer.

Police Perturbed

Fire reels disturbed the calm of St. George Street at about 1 o'clock this morning. A fire was made of debris left by the attacking forces in front of Knox College. Firemen and police visited the scene.

EMMA GOLOMAN LECTURES

During the course of a lecture on "Living My Life", given in Foresters' Hall last night, Miss Emma Goldman traced the course of a struggle for her beliefs. The address was the first in a series that Miss Goldman is giving. The next subject she will discuss will be "Bernard Shaw, On the Rocks".

"THE VARSITY" AND PARTY POLITICS

The Varsity is not, and cannot be, an organ of any political party. It would be inconsistent with its character as the University publication to spread propaganda for any vested interest. Once this paper becomes the tool of any party, organization or recognized "school of thought" it betrays a trust to the institution it represents, and forfeits its peculiar genius. For this reason—and precisely for this reason—The Varsity is at liberty to criticize any government and any party.

It seems that our leading editorial of yesterday's issue, which, we confess, sarcastically referred to Premier Hepburn, left the impression that we were afflicted with political bias. As a matter of fact, the present incumbent of the editorial chair of The Varsity cast his vote in favour of Mr. Hepburn, and were the Premier to face the polls to-morrow, would in all probability do so again. But that does not deprive us of the privilege of calling into question anything Mr. Hepburn and his colleagues may do or say. The editor of The Varsity has absolutely no political axe to grind. If one would have recourse to our issues of last spring, he would discover that on occasions we have disputed the policies of Mr. Bennett and Mr. Woods-worth.

To the minds of some, however, yesterday's editorial may seem to have antagonized the provincial government at a time when it is obviously in the best interests of the University to be in the good graces of the powers that be. Such an attitude is so cowardly and dishonourable that it can only be dismissed with contempt. Yet it is a spirit which permeates our approach to politics. Is it astonishing that we have rotten governments when not only the hoi polloi but the intelligentsia are tarred with this foul brush? When principles are at stake one cannot curry favour or lick boots.

The Varsity is simply pleading for the same measure of freedom demanded by professors at this University. The virility of an institution dedicated to higher learning, and its ability to contribute to social progress depend upon its freedom of criticism.

But more than that—and this is precisely the principle contended for in yesterday's leading editorial—personality and character depend upon the freedom and responsibility of the individual. This is a fundamental fact which is disregarded by Fascism and Communism, and which even the Christian Socialists have never candidly faced. Dictatorships, and indeed any form of autocratic government, are concrete manifestations of the ignoring of man's essential nature.

Behind the banter of yesterday's article lay a real dread lest in these times of uncertainty, insecurity and helplessness, men should surrender their God-given right to freedom.

Let us not be deceived by the political form out of which has arisen this new phenomenon in Ontario politics. There is nothing more autocratic than a government established and sustained by mob spirit. The identical evil has emerged many times from the democracy of state government across the Border, and at the present time a spectacular example is furnished by Louisiana. This suggests an alarming connection between so-called democracy and the National Socialism of Germany. Perceiving this insidious peril, can any responsible journal hold its peace?

DENIAL GIVEN RUMOUR WHITNEY FAILURES HIGH

Academic Standard Said Higher Generally in Residence

A persistent rumour has been circulating around University College that fifty per cent of the Whitney Hall freshmen of last year failed to get their year. This rumour, however, was firmly denied by Miss Ferguson, Dean of Women for the college. The truth of the matter is that a smaller percentage failed in the Hall than in the college as a whole. About one-third of the women students in the college enrolled in the first year did not obtain standing in their year, whereas only one quarter of those that lived in residence were unsuccessful.

The rumour probably originated from the fact that in one of the houses in the Hall eight out of fourteen of the freshmen failed. These were practically all enrolled in the Pass Arts Course.

"It was not due to any lack of discipline or supervision that this particular House had so many failures," one of the head girls of the Hall declared. "It was just an accident that so many students in the Pass Course were put together, and students in this course have the tendency to feel that because their course is so easy it requires no

Reginald Stewart

Varsity Arena responded with what was probably its first full length piano recital, last night. The artist was Mr. Reginald Stewart, popular conductor of the newly instituted Promenade Symphony. The recital had much in common with the spirit of the Thursday night concerts. Its keynote was "popular appeal". Mr. Stewart has the enviable gift of inspiring enthusiasm and his audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy every moment of a recital particularly drafted as its own.

The programme, under the circumstances, was light and attractive, and included nothing of momentous importance. There are, in every one's repertoire, certain pieces which the artist has made peculiarly his own. And so we mention particularly the very fine work done in Ravel's "Jeux d'Eau" and the Bach-Hess Chorale Prelude, "Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring". This recital has the honour of inaugurating a season which promises to be especially rich in fine piano recitals and we look forward with interest to the art of the pianist.

QUARTET PREPARES FOR FALL CONCERTS

Re-United after Vacations
They Open Season Early in October

GUEST ARTISTS ASSIST

The end of September brings with it the "huddle" season. Varsity huskies going into huddles on the back campus and up at the Stadium. Students going into huddles in hallways to see who's got the softest time-table. Everybody going into huddles. And that goes for the Hart House String Quartet going into a heavy huddle getting ready for their fall series at Hart House and Convocation Hall.

During the summer, they've been all over the face of the earth. Milton Blackstone in Italy and Germany, Boris Hambourg in England and France, Geza de Kresz almost going to Austria (but the demise of Herr Dolfuss discouraged him), and Harry Adaskin going to the north woods to emerge months later with a long, soft, flowing beard.

But now they are all back, going into a huddle daily in a quiet studio, getting their signals straight for the fall season. After their return from a Maritime tour early in October, they will open their Toronto season at Hart House on October 27th. During the season, they will be assisted by the great Harold Bauer, and later by Harriet Cohen, who will make a special trip from England to play the first Canadian performance of Arnold Bax's new quintet.

GLEE CLUB SLATED FOR FRIDAY RECITAL

To Appear at Final Concert of Fall Term in Hart House

NEW CONDUCTOR

The University Men's Glee Club has been invited to give the last Friday afternoon recital of the session, on December 14, it was announced at the organization meeting on Thursday last. Members of the executive of the Glee Club expressed themselves as very much encouraged by the attendance of thirty at the first meeting.

The conductor of the Glee Club for this season is to be Mr. Charles Peaker, succeeding Mr. Allan Sly, who has left Toronto for the United States. Mr. Peaker, in addressing the members of the club on Thursday, outlining the musical policies of the club, expressed the hope that the music would all be good, but that it need not necessarily be profound. He specified further that there would be no further terrifying voice tests for prospective members, as has been customary in the past.

It is intended to get down to serious work on the year's musical programme at the next meeting on Thursday, October 4.

effort at all to pass the final examinations."

Only three of the fifteen freshmen in Whitney Hall that failed were enrolled in Honour Courses, and the women students of other years who were living in residences obtained excellent results on the average.

Since getting back to this quiet and bathroomless college town last week, we have been checking up to make sure that all has gone well during the summer months.

C-C

Mr. Hepburn's auction sale came off very successfully it seems, although Mitch didn't carry out his threat to put the Ex-Hon. Wm. Finlayson's palatial yacht on the block as well. Possibly he had good cause for this reneging, but we can find no reason why the old Ontario Waterwagon, which has been standing idle in the East Block Garage ever since Mr. Ferguson's time, shouldn't have been on sale with the rest of the superfluous vehicles. Surely that Jarvis Street congregation would have made lively the bidding, in a desire to present their leader with a Royal Coach from which to lead in pomp his Great Crusade.

C-C

Of recent weeks the Varsity Arena has been used for symphony concerts, while the Maple Leaf Gardens opened its doors (and box office) to Eddie Duchin and the dancing public. The balance should be restored, we feel, by the revival of wrestling in Massey Hall.

C-C

One of the lesser and yet noteworthy headaches hanging over from the Canadian Corps Reunion, was the controversy that raged upon the appearance of "Reunion in Valhalla" in The Barker (formerly Oh Oh Canada). The flood of letters from "Captain U.S.N.", "Friend of the Artist", "Canadian Veteran", and other indignants, was greedily swallowed by the Star and Mail, and constituted one of the coolest publicity stunts yet engineered in these unsuspecting parts.

C-C

So here it is October. "Centennial" gives way to "Hotel" as the word most often appearing in showcard and window. And the City Council have completely put out of mind the embarrassing problem, how to renovate Casa Loma.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

As per schedule the executive of the Basketball Club met at 5 p.m. yesterday and arranged practice times as they had hoped to do. Each college is going to get its prospective players out as soon as possible and by the end of next week the practices should be well under way.

U.C. is entering three teams in the interfaculty basketball series, Vic is sending out two, and St. Hilda's, St. Mike's, Meds, and Public Health each promise one aggregation. The personnel of the Vic and St. Hilda's teams which played that thrilling game for the championship last December will be decidedly changed. St. Hilda's have lost Al Butler, Mary Rose, and Mary Lambie. Vic will play this year without the stellar support of Bea Longley, Grace Becker, and Jean Fenton. U.C. also has lost a first class player, Eleanor Wallace.

Practices this year are as usual at the Lilian Massey and U.T.S. gyms. Public Health are using the Margaret Eaton gym. Be on the lookout for announcements as to your own faculty practices and start the year out properly by being on hand for the first one. As we said before, how about providing some real competition for Vic and St. Hilda's?

On Friday, October 12, U.C. is holding an invitation golf tournament to which members of the other faculties are very cordially invited. They hope that lots of people will enter; it will be good fun, and furthermore if it proves really successful chances will be very good for the continuation of golf as an interfaculty sport.

This big golf day is to take place at the Ladies' Golf Club at Thorn Hill and is to begin at 9.30. Those entering are to pay the green fee of $1.00 which automatically entitles them to the medal play in the morning, luncheon, and special driving, approaching, and putting competitions in the afternoon. And as a further inducement for those of a mercenary mind U.C. is awarding prizes for all events.

The tennis tournaments are coming right along and the fates seem to be with us in the matter of weather. It will take snappy playings, though, to get the rounds all off by Friday; but it will be serious if any matches drag on into next week.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

This is the season of tennis. Daily the local racketeers display their wares at the Toronto Tennis Club, hoping for an interfaculty title and the chance to represent Varsity in the intercollegiate tennis meet which is to be held at McGill on October 18-20. Right now it looks as though the team of last year will remain intact. The latest development is that they are to engage the services of a professional coach. This procedure, together with the experience the team derived in their intercollegiate tour during the summer should make them hard to beat when they line up at McGill two weeks hence.

The student tickets are now on sale. There is little need to draw to the attention of the student body the advisability of purchasing these season tickets. For the small sum of four bucks the student has a pass to every athletic activity on the campus. This incidentally includes close to forty games which, if our arithmetic is still reliable, makes an outlay of one dime per game. Another factor in their favour is that the students' section is without doubt one of the best at the stadium.

Ken Peacock, captain last year of the intercollegiate championship team, is now an Aromint. The husky snap has signed on the dotted line to play for Lionel Connacher's pro team, operating at the Maple Leaf Stadium. Another former Varsity man to reap the benefits of a college education is Warnie Snyder. Snyder, who now has the M.D. sign hanging from his door has also joined the ranks of the moneyed football players. Incidentally, Warnie took his work so seriously that Mike Rodden and Connacher had to advise him to take things easy in the early workouts. He is reported to be in great shape and anxious to get back into action. Both these men will be seen here in the memorial game on Monday.

Football, particularly the pro game, seems to be closely allied to the wrestling game, and if Peacock follows the example of several of his team-mates he may become the Tarzan of the mat, the Varsity villain or some such fear inspiring personality in the near future.

The football season will be officially opened this Saturday. Pre-season talk is always rather unreliable when it comes to picking a championship team and this year in particular each and every team is rated as the one to beat for the title. It looks like a race between McGill, Varsity and Queen's for the intercollegiate laurels. Saturday's game here will decide how good the Eastern squad really are. Queen's and Varsity will improve as the season goes on. In the Big Four loop, Argos are still the team to beat although they will have to improve over their last exhibition to get anywhere near a Dominion title this year. Ottawa and Montreal are strong while Tigers are expected to do some roaring before the season is out. Johnny Farrero, the Cornell graduate, who is now in Hamilton taking a hotel course, is inspiring a lot of hope around the Tiger town. He has still some of the old guard on hand but the most of his charges are recruits and will need more than one year to mould them into a championship organization. Sarnia, with their bigger and better edition are the favourites in the O.R.F.U., while Bill Storen and his St. Mike's entry are going to cause a lot of trouble. When it comes to colour, the Irish have it.

INTERFACULTY SQUADS BEGIN FALL PRACTICE

Mulock Cup Aspirants Now at Work, Trinity Good Bet

The band of football hopefuls, gaily decorated in the multi-coloured sweaters on the back campus these days are not necessarily aspirants for the intercollegiate teams, but rather the vanguard of the Mulock Cup brigade which is expected to go into action within the next two weeks.

To pick a winner at this stage of the proceedings would of course be a rather risky procedure but the team that rates the most mention right now is the Trinity squad. Les Blackwell is in charge again and has his eye on an interfaculty championship. The Red and Black colour bearers have been working faithfully for the past week and will certainly be the best conditioned team when the opening clash occurs two weeks hence. Les has had a contending team for several years, and last year it was a slow start that saw them drop from the race. This year he hopes to eliminate this danger and will be ready to go to the post on the opening day with his team in perfect shape.

Victoria, who are up there fighting for the laurels every year have made little stir to date and have had little response in the early practices. Dents and Forestry have had their squads out on the campus for the past two days while the engineers have been too busy initiating the freshmen and fighting the medicals to pay any attention to the football activities as yet. This is nothing new for them as their practice in the past has been to do their rehearsing during the battle.

The managers meet to-morrow and at that time they will draw up a schedule. When the dates of the games are announced the practices will begin in earnest.

Several Surprises as Singles Advance to the Eights

DOUBLES IN SEMI-FINALS

Play began yesterday in the doubles section of the interfaculty tennis tournament and the field in the singles was narrowed down to the eights. Piggott and Crowson, Black and Tomlinson, Eaton and Hermant advanced with ease to the semi-finals of the doubles. Several of the better players fell by the wayside in singles play, Fennor losing to Shultis, a former McMaster player, O'wram was defeated by Young and Tomlinson bowed to Crowson.

Several of the matches to-morrow should present some fine tennis as the surviving men have had to give good displays to reach the quarter finals. The feature matches will be between Black and Crowson at 2.30, a doubles tilt with Hermant and Eaton meeting Black and Tomlinson at 11.

The results:

Rae def. Faux 6-3, 6-2; Shultis def. Fennor 3-6, 7-5, 6-2; Kelly def. Scheffer 6-0, 6-3; Eaton def. Wilkinson 6-1, 6-0; Hermant def. Harford 6-2, 6-1; Young def. O'wram 6-3, 2-6, 6-4; Black def. Spence 6-1, 6-2; Crowson def. Tomlinson 6-4, 7-5; Piggott def. Rae 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles: Piggott and Crowson def. Walton and Kelly 6-2, 6-1; Morrison and Monzon def. Hibloom and Zelden (default); Black and Tomlinson def. Faux and Fennor 6-1, 6-2; Eaton and Hermant def. Rigby and Huether 6-1, 6-1.

The draw for to-morrow:

1.30—Piggott and Crowson vs Morrison and Monzon.
11.00—Black and Tomlinson vs Eaton and Hermant.
12.00—Piggott vs Shultis.

BRIGHT SPOT SEEN IN GENERAL GLOOM OVER HAZING BAN

While the boys up at Victoria are hard at work tearing each other's shirts and hurling the proverbial juicy tomatoes, the sophs in the little Red Schoolhouse are lamenting the fact that Dean Mitchell is planning further restrictions in the int—reception of the incoming year. Already the boys have been advised that this year's welcome must savour more of brain work and less of brawn. However, there is one bright spot on the horizon.

The one fair co-ed who graces the sophomore class is more than pleased with the innovation, whereby one unfortunate frosh escorts her over the dangerous path from Whitney to S.P.S.—a new and different frosh each morning. In her opinion, The Varsity learns, the plan is an unqualified success. Strange as it may seem—the freshmen are of the same opinion.

A meeting of the Stadium Ushers will be held in the Debates Room, Hart House, at 5 p.m., Thursday, October 5th. Passes will be given out and assignments made. A full attendance is imperative.

U.C. MEN GRADUATION PICTURES

The graduation pictures this year are to be taken at Freeland's Studio, 89 Bloor Street West. There is a charge of two dollars a sitting to cover the cost of putting the picture in Toronto-ensis and for one copy per person of the entire group. Appointments will be made for each man and the times for this will appear in The Varsity.

Biographical cards may be secured at Freeland's and must be filled out before leaving the studio. It is imperative that this be done. Don't miss it. The following appointments have been made for Friday, October 5th.

4.00 p.m. M. L. Hibloom, 4.10 J. A. Daly, 4.20 J. Dietrich, 4.30 R. M. Farmer, 4.40 E. L. Goodfellow, 4.50 G. C. Haig, 5.00 F. Harris, 5.10 J. W. Herold, 5.20 B. T. Lindley.

SUBSCRIPTION DANCE

A subscription dance will be held by the Alpha Chi Omega Fraternity on Saturday, October 6th at the Roof Garden of the Royal York Hotel. Dancing will take place from 9 to 12 p.m. Romanelli's orchestra. Subscription $2.00 per couple. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

ENGLISH AND HISTORY CLUB

The first and organization meeting of the English and History Club will be held the middle of next week. Prospective members are reminded that the membership is limited to 30 and the fee is $1.00.

spector had been sent from the superintendent's office in Simcoe Hall to investigate the damage.

General feeling at Knox was that the rioters should be called upon to pay for their fun, but a visit to Dr. Laidlaw, secretary of the university residences, brought for the opinion that the Knox students had ambushed the U.C. men, that the fight had been of their own picking, and that they would have to pay for the damage. However, he went on to say that the whole matter would be gone into by the Social Caput before any decision was reached.

Walking past Trinity House, The Varsity noticed that two windows had been broken, one of them in the apartment of the Dean of Residence, and that many others were covered by stains of tomatoes, as also were most of the windows of Whitney Hall. The tomatoes on Trinity House represented the reply of men from the U.C. residences to the plentiful supplies of water poured down on them by the Trinity House residents.

Baskets which had been used to carry ammunition formed the basis of a ceremonial fire in front of Knox in the early part of the afternoon.

affirmative, but added, "not nearly as hard as in other professions, although the ratio of graduates being offered jobs has dropped some 35-40 per cent since 1928. The temporary practical experience garnered by graduates of S.P.S. in other fields will be of some use later on." He also stated that the world will in the next three or four years, open once more, fields of opportunity to graduating students.

Dr. Ryerson when asked his opinion, said that the problem in the medical profession was not one of too many doctors, but rather of too many doctors in the same localities. "Whereas the sections of our country, more remote from the centres of population are needful of doctors, the great percentage of the profession have and are still settling in the now overcrowded cities," he said. He stated that medical graduates have not experienced any difficulty in procuring hospital positions. Due, however, to the present difficulty in establishing a practice, many of these men have remained in the hospital for a greater length of time than formerly was the custom. Dr. Ryerson approved of the attempt being made by legislature in British Columbia and Alberta to partially subsidize the medical profession. He also praised The Varsity for bringing the situation of overcrowded profession to light and courageously facing the issue.

of the post-war slacking of interest in Christianity and the rampant nationalism of Hitler. Now this faith counts two million adherents, and the aim is to capture the youth of the country and rear them in these new "Nordic" ideals. German idealism is shown in the abstraction of terms. God to them is no more than a symbol, and not the personification of a Father. Christianity is a thinking religion, theirs a feeling one. Christian morality is based on the hope of a reward, theirs on love and awe.

Several members of the cabinet are backing this scheme. Alfred Rosenberg, director of philosophy for the Reich, is seeking some basis for his theory in Nordic mythology and his book "Myth of the 20th Century" is second only to Hitler's "My Struggle".

He seeks to gain fifteen million converts from the "plastic youth" within the next fifteen years. He has set up schools to train his chosen few. His chances of success lie in the possibility of Germany remaining Nazi until the bulk of the junior population can be moulded to these conceptions.

man and sophomore years. There was a marked absence of anything in the nature of hazing, and the freshmen expressed themselves agreeably surprised at what some of them termed "royal" treatment at the hands of the senior years.

Welcoming the freshmen to the university, and more particularly to Hart House, Mr. J. B. Bickersteth advised them to make full use of Hart House during their leisure time. Stressing particularly the facilities offered by the House for the enjoyment of music, debates, art and drama, Mr. Bickersteth pledged his best efforts toward cultivating every side of a man's university life.

Professor G. O. Smith, of the Latin department in University College, and for many years Honorary President of the U.C. Lit, traced the highlights of University College history. Other speakers included Mr. S. M. Hermant, president of the University College Literary and Athletic Society, who welcomed the freshmen on behalf of the Lit, Mr. F. D. L. Stewart, sophomore president, and Jack Taylor, newly elected president of first year.

PHYSICS SEMINAR

One of the first physics seminars of the season will be held this Thursday afternoon at four o'clock when Dr. Elizabeth Allin will speak. The seminar, which is held under the auspices of the Department of Physics and the McLennan Laboratory, is open to all students who are interested, and will be held in Room 43 of the Physics Building.

Dr. Allin, who will speak on the subject of "Physics at the British Association meeting in Aberdeen, September 1934", has just returned from a year spent at Cambridge as holder of a fellowship of the Royal Society of Canada, and attended the meeting of the British Association just before leaving for home. Her address will begin at 4.30.

PHYSICISTS TO GIVE SERIES OF LECTURES

Ore Prospecting, Chemical Elements, Isotopes to be Discussed

FRIDAY EVENINGS

Of technical character, a series of lectures of especial interest to advanced science students and to science teachers is to be given this winter, on Friday evenings, in the Department of Physics of the University of Toronto. Though the lectures will be open to the public, it is pointed out that their nature will presuppose a knowledge of at least elementary physics and chemistry on the part of their hearers. The series is arranged by Prof. E. F. Burton, head of the Department of Physics.

The initial lecture is to be given on Oct. 4 by Prof. Lachlan Gilchrist, who will also speak the following two Fridays. His first lecture will be on magnetic methods in ore prospecting; his second on electrical methods in ore prospecting, and his third on a forecast of problems in geophysics. Professor Gilchrist, who has studied physical methods of prospecting for some years, has made many improvements in apparatus, and has devised new methods in the electrical and magnetic phases of this work.

Prof. W. H. Martin of the Department of Chemistry, and Dr. C. Barnes plan to combine in reviewing the relations developed in the classification of chemical elements. On Oct. 26, Professor Martin is to lecture on "The Chemical Elements", and on Nov. 2 and 9 Dr. Barnes's talks will be entitled, respectively, "Valence of Chemical Elements" and "Modern Theories of Valence."

The next three lectures are to be given by Dr. Elizabeth Allin, who has just come back from Cambridge, where she worked for a year under Prof. R. H. Fowler, while holding a Fellowship from the Royal Society of Canada. Dr. Allin's lectures on Nov. 16 is to be on "Isotopes and their discovery"; on Nov. 23, on "Methods in study of Isotopes", and on Nov. 30, on "The Importance of Isotopes."

The final trio of lectures in the series is to be given by Dr. Charles G. Fraser of Harbord Collegiate, who will discuss early sources in the study of physics, on Dec. 7, 14 and 21. Dr. Fraser is at present preparing a work on the early development of scientific experiments and theories, and he intends to utilize some of this material in his three lectures.

U. C. FRESHMEN ELECT EXECUTIVE

The freshman year of University College went to the polls yesterday to elect the first year executive for the year 1934-35. The election results, as announced at the Soph-Frosh banquet in the evening showed that the office of Assistant Secretary-Treasurer of the U.C. Literary and Athletic Society would be filled by Mr. Alex Rankin. Mr. Rankin was elected by a very close majority of only six votes. Jack Taylor was elected president of 3T8, and will have Tom Coles as his secretary, and Tome Dale as treasurer.

had carelessly been left on the boulevard for several days, became incensed at the efforts to remove the offending object. Threatening personal violence unless the boiler were replaced, and hurling obscene epithets from a third story window, the fraternity brothers telephoned twice for police aid, and swarmed down in their bare feet and night attire to overwhelm the defenceless boiler-rollers.

The arrival of police from No. 2 station prevented any violence, and after cross-questioning, the fraternity brothers were requested to remove the boiler from the street to the rear of the premises at their earliest possible opportunity, and after a few cautionary words Huron and Willocks corner resumed its customary air of quiet somnolence.

Enquiry revealed that no charges would be laid by the police.

FRATERNITY FINDS MISSING CREST

Prompt Results Secured by Advertisement in "The Varsity"

NEVER STOLEN

Many and varied have been the lost and found advertisements which have made their way into the columns of The Varsity, but one of the most unusual was that appearing last Thursday, when it was learned that the chapter coat of arms was lost, strayed or stolen from Beta Theta Pi Fraternity house. It had disappeared in the early hours of Sunday morning, and the finder was asked to return it, with "no questions asked."

The efficacy of Varsity advertising was attested to by the fact that the coat of arms was promptly returned upon the appearance of Thursday's issue of The Varsity. When questioned by The Varsity yesterday, a member of Beta Theta Pi explained that the crest was not really stolen but had merely been following an erratic course by one of the brothers to get a new sheet of glass in it, it was passed from hand to hand until finally lost track of. But now, the lost has been found, and Beta Theta Pi can again hold its meetings beneath the insignia immortal.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4th, 1934

No. 6

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

London—Prof. J. C. McLennan, O.B.E., Professor of Physics at University of Toronto, read a new method of storing radium energy to the International Conference of Physics. Professor McLennan has been carrying on his work in England for the past few years.

Winnipeg—The Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday was trying to recover after its harrowing experience of the past two days in which wheat dropped six cents a bushel.

Madrid—Following a report that a revolutionary coup would break out at any time, troops were ordered to their barracks. It is felt that as soon as the new premier, Lerroux, announced his cabinet, the Socialists will call a general strike.

Toronto—Hon. David Croft, Minister of Welfare in the Hepburn Government, announced a works relief programme yesterday totalling an amount of $2,273,260.

London, Eng.—The British Government has decided to demand payment from Berlin of the German debt before the end of 1934 and threatened to put up a clearing house against Germany if her demand was unheeded.

Detroit—St. Louis Cardinals defeated Detroit Tigers 8-3 yesterday afternoon in the first of the World Series baseball games.

Guelph—The Ontario Agricultural College initiations were not held yesterday as scheduled. It is rumoured that an order from the Minister of Agriculture was instrumental in stopping the initiation activities.

LAW THREATENS THOSE WHO LEAVE BEATEN PATH

"So far as our department is concerned, there will be no force exerted to prevent students from walking across Queen's Park anywhere," stated J. S. Matthews of the city Parks Department yesterday, when questioned by The Varsity with regard to students making cross-paths in the park. Notices are posted in several places stating that the making of cross-paths is forbidden. Continuing, Mr. Matthews asked the co-operation of all students and added that although seldom exercised the police nevertheless have power to issue summonses for the arrest of persons found violating this regulation. He understood the attitude of students in trying to take as many short-cuts as possible, but pointed out that the damage done was often quite serious.

Officials at the park said the ruling would be enforced as far as they were concerned.

From senior students it was learned that in wet weather the paths often become so muddy that adherence to the rule is almost impossible.

Irate Engineering "Gemmun" Tells Ed. "To Suck a Lemon"

The mystery of the advertisement for a freshman in the lost, strayed or stolen column of The Varsity has been cleared up at last.

Mr. D. G. Jamieson, II S.P.S., the sponsor of the advertisement, when questioned by The Varsity, absolutely refused to make any statement for publication. However, the secretary of the Engineering Society's office said that Jamieson was supposed to meet the aforementioned frosh at the station but had gone to the wrong place. Fear-

MUSIC SOOTHES BREASTS OF FROSH

St. Michael's Impress Freshmen with Harmony and Provide Culture

APPEAL TO INTELLIGENCE

Aptly quoting Dryden's famous phrase, "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," Mr. Bert McNerny, president of St. Michael's Student Council, summed up St. Michael's new attitude toward initiation. Music was the principal theme of the freshman reception held in Hart House last night and was given the whole-hearted acclaim of the student body as a much more cultural and more preferable form of initiation than any of a physical type.

Physical initiation is simply a reversion to the beast in man—this was the claim set forth in Mr. McNerny's introductory address. Hereafter St. Michael's initiations will appeal to the intelligence of the student, no longer will hazing be one of the discomforts endured by the lowly freshman. Instead his existence will be made one of cultural refinement, devoted rather to the development of his intellectual surroundings than to mere physical torture.

Two hundred and seventy-eight students, of whom forty per cent were freshmen, attended the reception and were entertained by a splendid array of musical talent. Chairman McNerny first introduced Mr. Campbell McInnes who, accompanied by Mr. Louis Crenar, led the assembled students in general singing. Reverend Father McCorkell, Superior of the college, then welcomed the new students in an enjoyable speech. Warden Bickersteth then addressed the assemblage and

PLAYERS' GUILD HOLD TEA AND MAKE PLANS FOR YEAR

The U.C. Players' Guild opened the season yesterday afternoon at the Women's Union with an unusually well attended tea. Miss Marnie Hill, the vice-president, welcomed the large number of new members as tea was served.

Mr. Martin Loeb outlined the probable course of events for the coming season. The plans include an evening production as well as the regular Wednesday afternoon presentations.

As Mr. T. R. Godfrey had resigned from the presidency, a new election was held, the result of which was that Mr. E. Seythes was elected as president for this year.

The Guild will be guided this year by a directorate which will be made up of experienced Guild members as well as Prof. Victor Lange and Prof. G. Wilson Knight. It is also expected that as usual, outstanding professional actors appearing downtown will come

PART OF EXTENSION WORK

The overwhelming success of the experimental course in English Diction and Speech given last spring for the first time in the University of Toronto, in connection with the University Extension, has resulted not only in its repetition this fall, again under the direction of Mr. J. Campbell McInnes, but also, according to Mr. W. J. Dunlop, Director of the University Extension, there is a probability that two classes will be formed this year—one for beginners and a more advanced course for last year's students.

"Our aim is to prevent people from mutilating the English language as they unfortunately seem inclined to do," said Mr. McInnes, who is professor of Reading and Public Speaking at Wyndcliffe College. "We want to get people interested in the beauty of the English language through a study of

The first meeting of the Joint Executive Students' Administrative Council for the current year was held in the Women's Council Room yesterday at 5 p.m. The following business was transacted:

1. Election of Mr. N. H. Shaw, U.C. '33, as President of the Council for the year 1934-35.
  2. Confirmation of the appointment of Mr. J. K. Thomas as Editor of Torontensis.
  3. Appointment of the Editorial Board of "The Varsity" as recommended by the Publications Committee.
  4. Appointment of Mr. Graydon Parmenter as Head Cheerleader.
  5. Appointment of a Committee to gather information in regard to the Student Employment Bureau previously conducted by the Alumnae Federation.
  6. Acceptance of the auditor's report for the year ending June 30th, which is to be published in "The Varsity".
  7. Acceptance of the budget presented by the Sporting Activities Committee covering the expenses of the Band and the Cheerleaders.

Freshies Find Few Men to Provide Adequate Male Support

"BLIND DATES" PREVALENT

Dating Bureau Considered As Only Means of Getting Acquainted

"I've got a man!" came the triumphant cry in the midst of the discussion and it met with due applause from the circle of beautiful young freshies in U.C. who were in the act of relating to a Varsity reporter the difficulty which they are experiencing in forming acquaintances with men students on the campus.

"It seems almost impossible to get acquainted unless one altogether forsakes dignity and convention," is the general sentiment among new women students in residence at Whitney Hall. Many, grown desperate after ten days' walking sedately around the campus with lady friends, are willing to "draw lots and take a chance on the result"—as one expressed it.

"Would you favour the establishment of a 'get-acquainted' or 'dating' bureau?" they were asked, and answered almost unanimously, "I don't see how we are going to get acquainted otherwise."

One suggested the introduction of a "date-box" into which girls could drop their name and telephone number with a "come up and see me" invitation implied, but others were afraid there would be attracted to patronize it only men of the more difficult type.

"There are so many boys on the campus in proportion to the number of girls that there should be no lack of opportunity for dates," said another and suggested that the men were equally as bashful, though equally as anxious to make acquaintances, as the girls.

SPAIN NEED FEAR NO CIVIL STRIFE

Socialist Influence is Small Outside Large Cities, Says Spanish Professor

MINDRITY RULE CONTINUES

"The new government in Spain may be mildly Socialist, but it will not be radical, while the possibility of civil war is absurd to anyone who is acquainted with the Spanish people," said Professor J. Cano of the Department of Spanish and Italian in University College, when interviewed today concerning the collapse of Premier Samper's Centrist Government on October 1, and the fear of disorders that followed.

There was, he said, some socialist and radical sentiment in the larger cities, but in spite of the large amount of notice it was attracting at the present time, its influence was small relatively to the rest of the country. The great majority of the Spanish people are very religious and individualistic, and among them any extremist movement would have difficulty in causing civil war. He expressed further doubts as to the danger of civil war arising out of the Separatist tendencies that have arisen in the autonomous province of Catalonia, where agrarian unrest has been prevalent.

Professor Cano pointed out at the same time, however, that standards of "radicalism" are different in Spain and Canada, and that in Spain, which was so long under an absolute monarchy, Continued on Page 4)

AFTER MODERNISM,—WHAT?

A well-known clergyman of this city once announced his conviction—as a result of prolonged and intensive thought—that “the future of Canada belongs with her young people.” Of the ratiocination which lay behind this statement we do not speak: it must have been profound indeed. Yet there have been others who have grasped the same idea, though not with the logical clarity of this acute intellect. And when such a proposition is put forward, it is generally given an optimistic turn. Virility, strength, courage in grappling with the problems of the future,—these are the virtues of youth which cause men to flash the signal “All clear ahead!” But there is another way of viewing this possession of the world by the rising generation. It may well hold a fearful meaning, out of which will spring in men's minds anxiety, doubt, strange forebodings.

So we stand at the threshold of the future? Aye, indeed we do. And it may be said that the times have been rare when the cleavage between the aging and the young was so portentous. The moral breakdown in us, which our elders deplore, is very real and in no respect exaggerated. We who are young in a world of ill find no inherent strength coming down to us from the past,—no strength, no cunning, no mastery of virtue, to sustain us in the unequal struggle. Former generations in a degree possessed these things and stood, self-sufficient. Our leaders were better men than we can be, and wiser, at least after the fashion of this world. We are weak, and know not even what is expedient; and no external discipline or self-examination will supply our tragic need. Our fathers had cloaks of moral excellence and the shield of piety. Our own nakedness is evident, and in the coldest days of the year.

We cannot evade this realism; and what will be the effects on the thought and actions of the future no man dares to say. But it is apparent that such a cleavage will become increasingly painful in the whole realm of human life. In a University, like ours, the separation will be revealed with special clarity. At present we receive instruction from men who talk to us across this widening gap. The sympathy, the very possibility of communication will diminish with the passage of time. The optimistic belief in truth for truth's sake, the hope that men will grow up in the accustomed ways of wisdom and poise, the assumption that moral goodness will flourish among us all,—these things belong to the near past, to the men who still govern and inform us. We who know our own helplessness cannot partake of this optimism, nor grant the assumption. We are different men, and face terrific reality. The issue will not be light, nor the pain easy to bear.

Yet it will be said that the University, like all other aspects of human activity, will inevitably fall into the hands of younger men. As time progresses, new people will rise with more sympathy, to meet the problems of the future. It will further be said that between the old and the young there is always a separation, natural and healthy, which is adjusted in the course of time, and marks progress! “It is held to be a good taunt, and somehow or other to clinch the question logically, when an old gentleman waggles his head and says: “Ah, so I thought when I was your age.” It is not thought an answer at all, if the young man retorts: “My venerable sir, so I shall most probably think when I am yours.” And yet the one is as good as the other: pass for pass, tit for tat, a Roland for an Oliver.” That is from Robert Louis Stevenson, and is witty enough. But while it is partly true, such arguments stress the relativity of truth without noting that crises in thought arise which have more significance than that of giving birth to some new and natural point of view. The meaning of a new intellectual position may be terrible and devastating. It may, in fact, overturn civilization,—which is stupendous enough, apart from its place in a psychological scheme of things.

There can be no peaceful evolution of thought at such a time as ours. Men, now conscious of futility, will be seized by an overpowering sense of truth, and all men will not be possessed by the same passions. We are not, while we write at this moment, putting forward any faith which may be in us. We are merely pointing out that when mighty knowledge rushes in to fill the vacuity of despair and helplessness, human institutions will not stand the awful strain. Communism or Fascism, Roman Catholicism or Calvinism, or any pagan faith however fantastic,—these phenomena and any others like them, which

Promenade Concert

The old “amateur night” system of choosing the winner by the amount of applause from the audience is the method Reginald Stewart, distinguished conductor of the Promenade Symphony Orchestra, has resorted to in selecting the programme for next Thursday's Promenade Concert to be held in Varsity Arena.

During the thirteen concerts of the Prom series already held, Mr. Stewart has made careful note of the orchestral works which have been most enthusiastically received by his 8,000 Prom-goers and at the fourteenth concert to be held next Thursday, “the audience has chosen the programme,” as Mr. Stewart puts it.

The numbers which the Promenade Symphony Orchestra (Canada's largest permanent musical organization) will play at this “demand repeat performance” will include Tchaikowsky's tremendous Fifth Symphony; Reginald Stewart's arrangement of Mendelssohn's Fugue in E Minor; Chabrier's Espina Rhapsody; Vorspiel and Liebestod from Richard Wagner's great opera “Tristan and Isolde”; and the gigantic 1812 Overture of Tchaikowsky.

FAMOUS INSTITUTIONS

One of the famous institutions at the University of Toronto is said to be Hart House. It is undoubtedly well known on the campus, few of the students being unaware of its location after their third week of college.

It is also rumoured that Hart House is well known to the rest of the world, documentary evidence in support of this theory being the guest-book, autographed by practically every celebrity who comes to town.

The architecture of Hart House is generally supposed to be a masterpiece, and is variously described as Collegiate Gothic or Early Collegiate (Jazz Age).

Owing to the foresight of its founder Hart House is barred to women excepting stenographers. Thanks to the generosity of the founder, this is not a subject to be discussed in mixed company. The discrimination is a sore point.

However, on certain occasions the ladies are admitted to the House.

The Warden usually has regained his equanimity by the third day after such orgies.

Despite the monastic atmosphere of the House, the Hart House masquerade is usually the finest party of the year (publicity cheques at business office, please). The small bench concealed behind the pillar by the turn on the East Staircase (right by the machine-gun) is reported to fall to the lot only of heavyweight wrestlers and inside wings. The location of other spots convenient for people fatigued by dancing will be supplied on payment of one dollar.

Hart House is the centre of intellectual activity at the University, a position maintained through the efforts of the Hart House players and the String Quartet, thus inconveniencing the undergraduate members as little as possible.

Athletics are fostered in Hart House by a staff of experts. Further information could not be obtained, as Dr. Porter has been out to lunch again today.

A staff of experts is also retained by the House to prepare meals for the student body. They have received mention at times in this column. We shall leave this rich source of material for our junior staff.

Other well known features of Hart House are the Warden, the Hall Porter, the Sergeant-Major, and the quadrangle sundial. They are all worthy of more mention than a general summary can afford them.

As it has always been the aim of the founders to allow the undergraduates control of the House, there is an annual election to decide on the personnel of the nine or ten committees which handle all executive functions.

In case they should overlook any measures, there is a Warden, a Warden's secretary, a Comptroller, sundry

O.C.E. STUDENT INDIGNANT
The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:
It is with the proverbial indignation of the too-sensitive individual that I write you regarding your editorial of October 2. Were I more astute I would recognize it as the old badger game of making some one faculty the unfortunate victim of the yearly editorial diatribe of The Varsity in an effort to stimulate the interest of the readers through the evoked correspondence of the outraged members of the said faculty.

However, I, being a blind believer in the nobility of mankind, feel that your remarks in this specific editorial were prompted by an honest if misguided attempt to analyse the situation of the large registration at O.C.E. The main idea that the members of the faculty might be attending with some sincere hope that teaching would be their chosen vocation and one for which they might be adapted; and the lucrative and perfectly natural, if less noble idea, of earning a living, must both be rejected on the grounds that they are ridiculously out-moded and therefore unworthy of consideration.

Admitting then, our eligibility for the category of “misfits”—how generous of you to confine your distribution of this charming title merely to the students of O.C.E. Could we not apply your refreshing theory to, for instance, Continued on Page 4)

SEEDER PLAYERS IN SEMI-FINALS

Hermant and Eaton Defeated in Doubles Match Provides Upset

As a result of yesterday's competition in the interfaculty tennis tournament four men were left in the singles and two doubles teams reached the finals. Tomorrow the singles players will complete the semi-final round and the finals of both sections will be played Saturday morning.

All of the seeded players advanced to the semi-finals. Hermant alone experienced difficulty in eliminating Young by 8-6, 6-4. The match between Eaton and Kelly, won by the former 6-2, 6-3, was the victory of better ground strokes over volleying. Both Piggott and Crowson won without being extended.

In the doubles the team of Eaton and Hermant was eliminated by Black and Tomlinson.

It was a case of two good singles players failing to team together. Both Eaton and Hermant possess better equipment than their opponents of yesterday but after gaining a lead of 3-1 in the first set they blew and were never again in the picture. In the other match Morrison and Monzon fell be-

OUTSTANDING MEN ON TEAM

Apart from vegetarians, among those who will be expected to refrain from gourmandizing over the Thanksgiving week-end are those who intend to compete in the interfaculty track meet, which will be held next Wednesday afternoon, October 10th, in the Varsity Stadium. A brilliant entry list promises keen competition to decide the champion faculty, and to determine berths on both the intercollegiate senior and intermediate track teams. Last year S.P.S. won the Rowell Memorial Cup for the faculty garnering the most points, but next week the engineers will have to struggle hard to retain possession of the trophy. The intercollegiate senior track team which makes the trip to Montreal to compete against McGill and Queen's on October 17th has every appearance of being powerful enough to win the award at stake, the McGill Trophy.

That former Olympic star, Coach Hec Phillips, has abundance of excellent material which he is rapidly whipping into shape. Varsity has more than a few first class men who are

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By W. A. Crochower

When Saturday's game between McGill and Varsity is a matter of history the 1934 intercollegiate senior football muddle will be cleared up. One will know just how many contending teams there will be in the college loop. Reports from McGill would lead one to believe that the Redmen have been underrated. It seems that the Red squad is of the type that is overlooked by the so-called experts in pre-season predictions but which later on manages to upset either or both of the favoured teams and thus get things in a snarl at the conclusion of the schedule. Reports of last Saturday's R.M.C.-McGill game would lead one to believe that in Joe Smith, new forward passing ace from California, Shag has just what it takes to make his squad a contender. However, since the veteran mentor would welcome a good kicker we have our doubts as to McGill's chances. Still, rather than make predictions, we would prefer to wait until Saturday afternoon.

After last night's private session up at the Stadium, when St. Michael's and Varsity met in scrimmage practice, two facts stand out like Dizzy Dean's lost modesty. One is that St. Michael's are going to make life miserable for the Sarnia Oilers. Another is that Steve's lads are weak on the defensive end of a forward pass. The Irish made the Blues look flat-footed on some of their beautifully executed passes. A little more schooling in knocking down forward passes seems to be in order. While weak defensively in this department the Blues are far from being so offensively and Saturday's game should see many Blue gains via the aerial route.

Art Upper was out again last night. It seems that Stevens issued an ultimatum—either Upper played football or he played baseball. Football seems to have been the choice. However, whether Saturday will find Art on the mound for G.W. Grads or on the gridiron seems to be in doubt as yet. In the scrimmage against the Irish Art showed all his former ability and should make a regular berth on the backfield. Speaking of backfielders, it seems that Stevens will have a big task in making his final selections in this department. However, one point is quite certain and that is that Steve will have as fine a kicking, passing, and plunging backfield as will be found anywhere in the loop. If we could say that about the Blue line we would hand Steve the title today.

Don Graham's junior squad seems to be taking form now. The first big cut was made after Tuesday's practice session, when the squad was cut down to 40 men. At the end of the week the squad will probably be down to the maximum 25. Although no outstanding material has turned up Don reports that this year's aggregation is the largest and heaviest in years, with Binkly, a middle, topping the squad at 210 pounds. Nothing definite in the way of a junior league has been drawn up as yet and the squad may be entered in O.R.F.U. competition if a college loop is not available. Graham has the nucleus of a good squad and may bring a third consecutive junior title to Varsity. In Mustard and Ripley he has two fair quarters. Jack Taylor and Cervidan will make a fine pair of middles. Ward, Beattie, Carruthers and Shuckin will look after the end duties pretty well. Jim Anderson of Galt and Ernie Buff, who used to co-star with Coulter at Runnymede, will probably be seen in action on the backfield. A better size-up of the squad will be available as soon as the squad has been reduced.

While on the subject of football we would like to correct an error which appeared in yesterday's issue of The Varsity. The student season tickets are still available and may be purchased in the West Common Room up to and including Friday.

Since the semi-finals have been reached in the interfaculty tennis tournament we can unofficially announce that Varsity's intercollegiate tennis squad which meets McGill two weeks hence will be composed of Piggott, Crowson, Hermant, and Eaton. The defeat of Eaton and Hermant in the doubles yesterday just means that a new partner will have to be found for Al Eaton. Hermant does not show to advantage in doubles play and the first job of the proposed professional coach for the team will be to fill Hermant's doubles position. Incidentally, Gord Shields, who carried off all the tennis honours in these parts last year only to be disqualified, is registered at Varsity this year but is ineligible for intercollegiate competition.

We're in receipt of a telegram from a former responsible member of The Varsity which informs us that it is rumoured in semi-official circles that McMaster University is being given senior rating in track and field sports by the Intercollegiate Athletic Union. Official confirmation is expected on Thursday by the McMaster University Athletic Board.

Coach Tommy Loudon and his senior rowing crew are going to attempt to make it four in a row when they meet McGill on the waters of the Lachine Canal on Saturday. Reports have it that this year's crew is as good as ever but disquieting reports are coming from the Redmen's camp. However, the members of the Varsity crew promise to carry on the good work of the three previous crews and we may look forward to Varsity's first intercollegiate title of the 1934-35 athletic season.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Invitations have been sent to Western, Queen's, McMaster and McGill to attend the tennis tournament which is to be held at Varsity this year on October 19. As yet no replies have been received, but there is no much chance of any of them turning us down. Varsity has taken rather a back seat in the tennis the last few years but there is no time like the present to start doing bigger and better things. The fact that Queen's will be playing without Doreen Kenny this year makes it very fine for us—though of course we would never wish Queen's any bad luck!

On Friday afternoon there is to be a meeting of the Baseball Club to arrange about practices and to draw up schedules for the season's games. The Vic nine were last year's champions but the loss of Billie Fowler and Marrie Faulds will make a vital difference. Baseball has never been one of the major women's sports on the campus, but the games are really good and do merit a lot more interest and enthusiasm than they have had in the past.

From 7-8 tonight St. Hilda's is holding its first basketball practice at the U.T.S. gym. Sally Ballard, who turned out a championship Saints' team last year is unable to undertake the coaching again. However, Jerry Wesley, who has very successfully coached the Saints for years, has consented to try her hand at it again which points to another big basketball season for St. Hilda's. It may be that one of the Saints' practice hours will have to be from 5-6. If this is the case Jerry will be unable to attend these practices. However, Al Butler, a stellar player on the 1934 intercollegiate team, is on hand, and will step into the breach if necessary.

The college tennis tournaments should be quickly reaching the final rounds which unfortunately is not happening. The Thanksgiving week-end coming just when it does is something of a drawback in completing the schedules as undoubtedly some of the girls due to play will be going out of town. The purpose of this digression is to point out that all matches really must be completed by Friday.

O.C.E. has certainly attracted a good majority of last year's graduates who were outstanding in the athletic world of Varsity and at some of the other universities. We have previously mentioned Al Butler, Bea Longley, Doreen Kenny and Sally Farfanger. But we have just learned that Jean Fenton, Billie Fowler, Pat Palmer, Ann Scott, Norma Beecroft, Audrey Jones, and Mary McKay have also joined the ranks of those who propose to spend their lives instructing the youth of the nation.

Do not forget to enter your name in the lists for the golf tournament if you are at all keen to play. It will be well worth while, and it would be splendid if a sufficient number signed up to warrant making golf an interfaculty sport.

plinary sophs and their victims but, slowly and surely, the long line of frosh dwindled as man after man was led away into the mysteries of the initiation.

Wriggling and stumbling, blindfolded, through long corridors and up and down stairs, the "worms" were led; on their way they were generously daubed with all the usual mixtures of paint, boot-blackening and paste that is applied under such circumstances. Such special treats as cold showers and blocks of ice all helped to make the scene more interesting.

At length, their sins atoned for and their weary paths trodden, the "worms" arrived at the West Common Room for the "Reading of the rules". Here they were instructed in the long list of forbidden pleasures and of restrictions and duties. Finally, at about 10 p.m., the proceedings were declared over and the business of washing up began. Poor frosh—when The Varsity left the scene they were still at it, scrubbing and soaping, scrubbing and soaping.

PROFESSORS LEAD ADULT GROUPS

York Township Collegiates Each to Have Twelve Free Lectures

MANY SUBJECTS ON LIST

A considerable forward stride in adult education was made last Monday with the inauguration of a series of public lectures to be held in the three collegiates of York Township. The course was opened at Vaughan Road Collegiate by Canon H. J. Cody, President of the University of Toronto; at York Memorial by Mr. W. J. Dunlop, Director of Extension Work and Publicity at the University here, and at Runnymede by the Deputy Minister of Education.

There will be twelve lectures in each collegiate, taking place every alternate Monday, and given mainly by members of the staff of the University of Toronto. The subjects, each to be given by one professor at each collegiate in turn, are as follows: psychology, economics, the international situation, how we are governed, the unemployment problem, liquid air, music, art, money, care of the human machine, how to know plants, and the life of our grandfathers.

The lectures are open to adults only. There is no fee, as the University and the Department of Education is to bear the expense.

A period for general discussion on the subject will follow each lecture. Afterwards a study group in that subject is to be formed, which may, if the participants so desire, meet once a week for the balance of the season. Arrangements will be made for books to be available on all the subjects covered.

The total attendance last Monday was about 1,000. If the response continues to be as favourable, it is hoped that lectures of this type will extend all over Ontario.

STUDENT SEASON TICKETS ARE STILL AVAILABLE

The Athletic Society is continuing the sale of the student season tickets. On Thursday from twelve to two o'clock they may be obtained by men in the West Common Room, Hart House, and by women in Room 82, University College. After this they will be on sale at the Students' Administrative Council office, Hart House.

The tickets will admit the purchaser to all Varsity home games at the Varsity Arena and Stadium, to the finals for both the Mulock Cup and the Jennings Cup, and to the Yale-Varsity hockey game. Besides these University sports the ticket also includes all the Argonaut home games.

All these admittances when bought by a season ticket cost only four dollars and the sale has certainly reflected the value. Although no figures could be had, the returns are definitely ahead of last year and there has been "a regular mob" after the tickets every day.

MUSEUM OFFERS COURSE IN HOME DECORATION

Back to the soil, or back to the home! They are two well-known injunctions, but such a change for many people, for example the Varsity student, or co-ed, would probably demand a great deal of preparation.

But the problem may be solved, if you so desire. A course in landscape gardening, beginning with the soil itself and its preparation, is one of the new courses of lectures to be begun at the Royal Ontario Museum, beginning October fifteenth.

Period furniture is the topic of another of these series. Miss Ruth Home, M.A., will be the lecturer. In this line too is architecture, under the direction of Mr. Gordon Adamson, and interior decorating, with Miss Evelyn Hamilton, B.A., lecturing.

All lectures will be illustrated by

Other men who are shaping up well include the fast-stepping Ashenhurst and Caldwell; a triplet of sturdy three milers in Thompson, McKerracher and Goulding; Russ Eaton, who flings the javelin; and Johnny McArthur and the brothers Mackay in the pole vault. Hamilton and O'Connor are stepping over the hurdles in great style, while McGladdery and Rankin have been turning in excellent times for the mile. Varsity has lost several of last year's stars, such as Dore in the sprints and Stewart, who won the pole vault at Queen's. The new men have, however, given evidence of superlative ability, and Coach Phillips has every reason to expect great things of his proteges.

The Varsity staff, the members of which could be catalogued as "misfits" of the other more virile organizations of the campus or that the personnel of the enormous registration in the Arts faculty are "misfits" of a bygone successful commercial era? In the light of your erudite analysis you will justly admit how appropriately your all-encompassing theory could be applied in any of several cases.

But to so gallantly use as a criterion of selection for dumping grounds our faculty of O.C.E. is too munificent a gesture—No, no, Mr. Editor, we must perform recognize the rights of all of you to this depression-coined title of "professionally misfit".

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

"I'VE GOT A MAN" IS FRESHIE BOAST

A fourth year student was of the opinion that the situation, for such a large institution, is "simply absurd" and stated that some channels should be established to enable men and women students to become acquainted more easily.

"As for getting acquainted in lectures," she said, "I found that practically impossible, and after lectures there seems to be no common meeting place unless one loiters idly about the halls and rotunda."

The proposal most in favour, to remedy the situation, suggests that a dance be held in the Women's University Building at which senior women students would act as hosts and supervise introductions between men students who cared to attend and the new girls.

Miss Ferguson, Dean of the University Women's Residences, said that there was no need for a Queen's Hall dance such as was held in November, 1930, since the freshman class hold a first year party and thus are given plenty of opportunity to make acquaintances.

"Blind dating" is perfectly proper in her opinion, she said, and, as far as she knows, is a prevalent custom among girls in residence.

"POOR FROSH" INITIATED AT BURWASH STUNT NITE

Stunt Nite at Burwash took place last night and the "Poor Frosh" were initiated into the mysterious life behind the prison walls. Featured by a peanut race, a boot-blackening contest, a beauty contest, a dramatic contest, and the annual "running of the fearful gauntlet", the night was a grand success from the standpoint of the sophs, juniors and seniors and one long to be remembered by the Frosh.

Although South were victors in three events, Middle, after a tough struggle finally went out with a score of 25 points.

Among those seen collecting a free shoeshine were Mr. Little, the senior tutor and chief judge, and the four dons, not to mention Mr. R. A. Christie, the recently appointed member of the Toronto Hydro Commission and Mr. Harry Wright, another prominent

It was also pointed out that one of the main benefits accrued from the Players' Guild was the opportunity of giving and hearing criticism from any member, all of which was a distinct aid in forming acting habits.

English literature and give them some appreciation of its musical qualities."

"This course, in common with the other extension courses, lasts for twenty weeks and every imaginable branch of diction will be covered—from the ordinary college slang and colloquialisms, which are not viewed with particular favour, to the more academic aspects of diction such as origins, dialects, enunciation and literary usage, all dealt with in great detail and from entirely new viewpoints."

Mr. McInnes and Mr. Dunlop agreed that there was a possibility of the course appearing in the regular arts curriculum "if enough students desired it". And the suggestion that it would undoubtedly prove of great value, considering the language of the average college student, met with their hearty endorsement.

EXPECT LEACOCK HERE FOR DEBATE

English Team to be Feature of Hart House

WOMEN ADMITTED

Debating in Hart House will open this year on Wednesday, October 24, with the second debate three weeks later. It is understood that the topic for the first session has not yet been chosen. The debates committee again this year are planning to have prominent speakers present at many of the debates, and it was announced yesterday that Prof. Stephen Leacock of McGill will be present at the January debate as honorary visitor.

The S.A.C. has co-operated with the National Federation of Canadian University Students, who are sponsoring a Canadian tour of English student debaters, in having the English students engage in the debate.

Several years ago a Canadian team of debaters chosen from students of the Canadian universities paid a visit to the United Kingdom. This year the Englishmen are touring Canada and the S.A.C. has been successful in their efforts to have these students speak at Hart House.

The subject for the debate has been chosen by consultation between the English debaters and the debates committee of Hart House. The debate will deal with Pacifism—as considered from a personal standpoint in time of war.

At this debate, since it is sponsored by the National Federation of Canadian University Students, a limited number of women students will be permitted to sit in the gallery.

The third debate for the year will be held at the end of November and a fourth at the end of January. Further debates to be held during the year will be announced at a later date.

The Hart House debates give the students of every faculty an opportunity to acquire the art of debating in parliamentary style and they stimulate an interest in topics of current interest.

Freshmen of every faculty are particularly welcome at all Hart House debates.

SUGGESTION OF DATING BUREAU RECEIVES ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORT

Freshmen Admit Difficulty in Finding Feminine Acquaintances

"JUST GIVE US A START"

University Clubs Make good Substitute for Bureau

At the University Men's Residences the subject of "getting to know women" is discussed with enthusiasm. All the freshmen admit that they have not met many girls. They would like to remedy the situation and schemes for increasing the number of their feminine acquaintances vitally interest them.

Nevertheless, the men seem on the whole anxious to meet more and more freshettes. "We want to know some of our more lovely counterparts," the first year men assured The Varsity.

"But no blind dates", is the chorus, everybody joining in. More parties where the sexes may gayly mingle and meet are what is wanted. The idea of first year receptions is endorsed by nearly all; but a Dating Bureau finds few exponents. An introduction is all that is desired; with that men feel that they can speak to the girls in the halls, at classes and so on, and get to know the ones they want to know.

"Just give us a start—we'll attend to the rest."

In a questionnaire sent to the Trinity men's residence The Varsity found that the men students here experienced no difficulty in getting acquainted with the fair sex, since Whitney Hall is just across the street. Sometimes, however, the ardour of a young hopeful is dampened by a shower from upper windows!

"The dating bureau," The Varsity was told, "should be used only as a last resort." "With my personal charm," stated one prominent senior, "I have no difficulty in attracting the fair sex." The popular belief of Trinity is that a date bureau is made unnecessary by the frequent receptions at St. Hilda's, although the ban placed on freshmen is a severe blow to them.

"Blind dating" is beneath the dignity of any Trinity man is the juniors' popular opinion, but the sophomores are not above the practice only as a final means of securing dates.

"It's worth a try anyway," The Varsity was advised wherever enquiry was made.

Only three men could be found who thought such a bureau would be "rather foolish" or "a lot of useless fuss." One young man wanted to know if he "could get any action by Saturday night." Others, who approved of the idea in the abstract, admitted that it would not concern them much because of "the girl they left behind them."

A few men registered in S.P.S., while referring enthusiastically to the quality of the young ladies in their classes, stated that quantity was indeed lacking. They also indicated a willingness to participate in anything which would bring them into the company of girls of other faculties.

"Very difficult" was the unanimous statement of three Vic freshmen, respondent in yellow ties, when asked if it was difficult to meet the opposite sex. A dating bureau took their fancy completely. "A fine idea, but no lemons in stock, please." Blind dates are condemned as "not so hot", and advocated more class parties.

Despite this agreement, however, the undergraduates did not all say that it was hard to become acquainted. It was suggested that the ideal way was for the students, male and female, who wished to meet members of the other sex was to join and attend the meetings of the various clubs in the University. This would allow the men and women to meet on a common, equal and natural basis.

Whitney Women Approve of Idea for Others, Not Themselves

BLIND DATES UNPOPULAR

Victoria Freshies Require Pictures, References and Details

Of fifty-eight girls taken at random in Whitney Hall, forty-two were in favour of a dating bureau, as suggested in yesterday's Varsity. The majority of affirmatives wavered considerably before finally emerging as approval. One fair "School" woman was most emphatic about her approval, saying that the idea had been tried out at S.P.S. last year with great success. In no case, she continued, were there any complaints, and many lasting friendships were in this way formed. No girl interviewed at Whitney Hall, freshette or otherwise, would want such an arrangement for herself.

Many and varied were the suggestions given to modify the "dating bureau" system. All seemed in favour of having some sort of opportunity to get acquainted before the actual date. They also commented that no really nice girl or boy would go out on a "blind date". Briefly, the opinion at Whitney Hall seemed to be that after all this is a free country, and if there are people desirous of forming acquaintances with the opposite sex in such a manner, it would harm no one but the party concerned, and nine out of ten (Continued on Page 4)

RECOGNIZE WORK OF PROF. JEANNERET

President H. J. Cody has received a letter signed by all the Ontario teachers who took the summer course at Silley, Quebec, pointing out what excellent work Professor F. C. A. Jeanneret of University College has done in organizing this course and in arranging lectures by so many distinguished French-Canadian scholars. These teachers say that they have all become ardent advocates of the Bon Entente.

FINAL OPPORTUNITY MONDAY TO BOOST COPP MEMORIAL FUND

Varsity Hosts to R. M. C. in First Game of Double Header

STEVENS WITH OLD BOYS

On Monday, October 8, the students will have their last opportunity to contribute their share for the Johnny Copp Memorial Fund by attending the double header football bill which will be held at the Stadium. The aim of the committee in charge of the Thanksgiving Day programme is to raise the remaining $2,500 necessary to establish a scholarship of the value of $200 annually, to be awarded to the student in fourth year medicine who exhibits qualities which most closely resemble those possessed by the late Johnny Copp.

The first game of the afternoon's programme will be the intercollegiate intermediate struggle between the R.M.C. and Varsity squads. The Blue Squad under the direction of Coaches Lew Hayman and Jack Sinclair promise to start off in the right manner and will field a fairly strong team. Syd Jackson, who showed so much promise last year on the senior squad will look after the backfield duties along with Tafts, B. Gray, McPherson and Lynch. On the line there will be B. Powell, Gibson, Wright, McLachlan, (Continued on Page 4)

FINAL CHANCE TO OBTAIN STUDENT TICKET BOOKS

The students are reminded that this is the last day for the purchase of the book of tickets on sale in the West Common Room. Students only are eligible to purchase these coupon books and must present their registration cards when making the purchase.

The book entitles the student to one admittance to every home game of the Varsity football team and hockey team. It also contains tickets to all track meets, Mulock Cup finals and every other sporting event around the campus. The price of the book is $4.00, and it contains tickets, admitting the bearer to the students' section of forty events.

Research at University of

DEALS WITH RADIUM RAYS

Another member of the staff of the University of Toronto has achieved world-wide fame in the discovery of a means of storing radium rays, by Dr. J. C. McLennan, Professor Emeritus of Physics at the University of Toronto.

Professor McLennan has resided for the past year in London, England. Here he has been carrying on his researches at the laboratories of the University of London.

These researches deal with the transference of radium rays to metals imprisoned with it in lead cells. Hitherto such metals could emanate the newly acquired rays for a short space of time only. Dr. McLennan's discovery extends the period of "secondary" emanation.

ANNOUNCE PROMOTIONS ON UNIVERSITY STAFF

President H. J. Cody announces that the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto has made the following appointments:

J. F. Parkinson, B.Com. and Miss I. M. Biss, M.A., have been promoted from the rank of lecturers to be assistant professors of political economy.

A. F. W. Plumtree, B.A., lecturer in political economy, has been appointed tutor in the University College Men's Residence. Mr. Plumtree will undertake this work along with his present duties as lecturer. He was formerly honorary President of the University College Literary Society and is well qualified for the tutorship.

Miss B. A. M. Ratz, B.A., Ph.D., has been appointed special lecturer in social science to take charge of the work formerly done by Dr. Cassidy. Miss Ratz last year held the Maurice Cody fellowship for her thesis on "Seasonal Occupations".

R. C. Hosie, B.Sc. F., who was lecturer in forestry, has been made assistant professor.

S.A.C. CONSIDERS STUDENT BUREAU

Alumni Employment Service
Closed; Not Enough Funds

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATES

A new student's employment bureau may appear shortly on the campus. In past years an employment service for students has been maintained by the Alumni Federation, but due to shortage of funds has been abandoned this year. A recent meeting of the Students' Administrative Council appointed a committee to investigate the advisability of the S.A.C. establishing a service to carry on this work. It is understood that the committee is to study methods used by the Alumni Federation in other years and to investigate the possibilities of finding new fields of part-time employment for students.

Mr. Macdonald informs The Varsity that the S.A.C. has been securing part-time position for students. He hopes that some bureau for student employment will be formed in the near future, since so many students are in need of employment.

Some students felt, when informed of the proposed change, that the Alumni Federation would be able to obtain more co-operation from prospective employers, many of whom are graduates. Others felt that this would be offset by the fact that the S.A.C. is in much closer contact with the undergraduate body.

BESTOCKINGO DRUGGISTS CELEBRATE ANNUAL DINNER

Headed by a fragment of Capt. Slatter's band and two pyjama-clad freshmen, the yellow and red stocking-ed Pharmacy freshmen started downtown Toronto by marching to the Hotel Carls-Rite. "Rolls pills—rolls pills" shook the foundation as over 200 sat down to the annual Soph-Fresh banquet.

Rebuilt Red Team Much Stronger Than Squad of Last Year

HAS EIGHT AMERICANS

Varsity at Full Strength Are Slight Favourites to Win Game

In the intercollegiate senior opener, Varsity, defending champions, play host to the McGill Redmen on the U. of T. grid Saturday in a game that may go far in displaying Warren Stevens' Blues' chances of making it three straight in the 1934 race for the college title.

The invading men of Shaughnessy are a rejuvenated squad as compared to the team that upset the Tricolour apple-eat last year with a 17-1 win in Montreal which put Varsity back in the running in a tie with Queen's. This year Shaq's outfit is bolstered by a formidable group of eight former U.S. gridlers, leaving four positions to Canuck talent. The outstanding threat who will warrant a lot of watching by the fleet Blue outsiders is Joe Smith of California State. The Varsity defence, especially that against the forward pass, has shown marked weakness which is being bolstered this week in preparation for the crucial opener.

Varsity will be at full strength for the first game with a team that has plenty of genius in every department and position. Every position has been keenly contested for and several are still undecided with the starting lineup still unannounced.

Warren Stevens will field a powerful backfield having six players to choose from with plenty of kicking, plunging and passing ability combined. Isbister is expected to have the kicking all his own way with Westman, the McGill booter, off the lineup. The aerial attack will come from the hands of Isbister, Coulter and Miller. Coulter is looked upon as being able to handle the team on the field in brilliant fashion, as can Whitney Miller, the other quarter. The line offensive should be good for yardage with Laing and Greco of former fame both at their peak. Dawson, the flying wing of two former championship teams, is ready to enter the fray at his old position. Hennessy and McMichael form a brace of wingmen that do not detract from the strength of that position when they are on the field either. Art Uppel will likely be in a Blue uniform also as he has decreed that the diamond will find him an absentee henceforth. With the return of Captain Andy Henderson to action the McGill backs will have additional worries when receiving. (Continued on Page 4)

HONORARY DEGREE TO SIR HENRY DALE

President Cody Outlined Dale's Career and Discoveries in Speech

FAMEO FOR RESEARCH

At Convocation Hall, in the presence of a distinguished body of the staff of the University of Toronto, and students, the honorary degree of Doctor of Medicine was conferred upon Sir Henry Hulton Dale.

In a short speech, Dr. H. J. Cody set forth the brilliant career of Sir Henry Dale, as well as his valuable discoveries in research in the fields of biochemistry, pharmacology and physiology. Then the Chancellor presented Sir Henry with the honorary degree.

Sir Henry responded to the request for an address and spoke to the assembly, expressing his gratitude and appreciation for the honour.

REVOLUTION OR EVOLUTION?

All civilized people are politically dependent. The course of their lives is affected by governmental policies; their rights are defended or denied by political leaders; their comfort ultimately depends upon the wisdom of their representatives. Even the policy of non-interference in the lives of law-abiding citizens is merely a political gesture preserved by the democratic principle of freedom. Yet the majority of citizens are notoriously indifferent to their political obligations. They are content to live unto themselves and to leave the formulation of policies to professional men. They are seldom enthusiastic about the abstract principle of justice. They do not investigate the value of party-platforms. Their ideas are formed by tradition, propaganda, or a momentarily awakened self-interest. The broader meaning of government escapes them. Society is only the frame in which they are set; the environment to which they must adjust themselves. They are ignorant of ethical values and unfamiliar with the problem of rights in the state. They merely desire the continuance of the order with which they are familiar (so long as it profits them) and the right to live their lives unaffected by ulterior interests.

Criticism of any party or policy is left to minority groups. Sometimes these are formed by an intelligent approach to the subject and a sincere desire to right obvious wrongs. More often they are controlled by the lowest ambitions or a disgruntled attitude. In either case powerful arguments are easily found. The theory of the minority is generally abstract and ideal, without any tradition of mistakes, and untainted by the psychological factor of human quirks, so destructive of the finest theories. It cannot be tested until established and then it is too late.

The established system, on the other hand, suffers from proximity. Its errors are obvious even to the disinterested. This is true of all political theories, but particularly true of our own democracy with its fundamental principle of individual liberty. Advantage is often taken of this privilege to corrupt the seat of government with selfish practices. When the people are indifferent to their duties the laws are broken or disregarded. The efficiency of the governmental machine is sacrificed to the perpetuation of a party. Sectional interests usurp the place of social interests. The criticisms of the minority are justified. A revision of the political scheme is imperative.

Revision is generally attempted by revolution, a method with many defects. The most obvious is the release of primitive passions in the establishing of the new order. Lives are sacrificed freely to the promotion of a policy or the securing of power. Opportunities for bloody revenge are clothed in the sanctity of uninterested enthusiasm. The obligations of the moral law are temporarily suspended. Many of the best policies of the old order are swept away in the renovating process. Men become insane with the lust for office. All these barbaric instincts have been vividly illustrated in the debacle of Europe and Russia.

The people of Canada do not desire these conditions nor do they consider them necessary. Political agitators accomplish little. Sanity prevails in the consideration of problems. Liberty and self-respect are not sacrificed to the demands of self-interest; they are combined by legitimate means. Progress where necessary, can be accomplished by an appeal to the finer instincts of the people and the power of the ballot-box. The psychological factor of individualism will be preserved against the encroachments of state feudalism in whatever garb it may appear.

We can eradicate corruption; revise our constitution to meet the revised conditions of our days; remove defects in our system wherever they are found, without resorting to violence. But this can only be accomplished by bestirring ourselves, conscientiously investigating our problems, and exercising the power which is our birthright as Canadian citizens. The students of this University, during their undergraduate days, have the best opportunity they will ever receive for appraising the values and defects of our systems. It is to be hoped, therefore, that each student, irrespective of his particular course, will seek an enlightened understanding of the present situation, its problems and their solutions. If this is done, we may expect to develop our inheritance by evolution rather than revolution.

St. Thomas Church

Thanksgiving and Harvest Festival will be observed at both the 11 o'clock and 7 p.m. services at St. Thomas' Church, Huron St., on Sunday. In the morning there will be a Procession and Solemn Eucharist set to music by John Ireland, and Rachmaninoff's motet "To Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul". In the evening there will be Solemn Evensong, set to music by Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, and an Harvest anthem, "Behold I have given you every herb", by Dr. Harris. During the processions well known hymns will be sung by the Choir and congregation. The following Sunday, Oct. 14th, a sacred Cantata "The Parables", by Dr. Eric Thiman, will be sung after Evensong.

Promenade Concert

Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony was heard last night in a magnificent setting. An enormous audience which had desired to hear it, coming in out of a cool Autumn night and cramming itself into the Varsity Arena, plunging itself into a haze of sentimental tobacco smoke, and bearing in mind the prospect of soft drinks and a walk in the open air when the intermission should come around, imbued meanwhile the melancholy of this famous Russian work. It is not hard for such an audience to enjoy the pathetic gloom which this composition induces in the ordinary listener.

It must certainly be said, however, that these remarkable concerts in the Arena evoke an enthusiasm which is contagious. The performances, if last night's be a sample, are of good quality and it is in a way refreshing to see great crowds assembled for events of this kind. One must not expect the atmosphere of the concert hall, the aesthetic elevation of more refined recitals. It is no doubt a good thing for people to be so gathered together, with the pleasures of sound mingled with other and various emotions. It is a good thing for us to seek relaxation in this more or less casual manner, listening with interest to Mendelssohn, Wagner, gems like Chabrier's Espana Rhapsody, or even Tschaikowsky! Let us hope that these unusual concerts will continue to draw popular support.

FAMOUS INSTITUTIONS

Queen Anne College often has claimed an equal right with the daily press to the title "Poor man's University". It was donated to the cause of higher learning in sums of from twenty-five to seventy-five cents by the "Blessed Us" Church of Ontario.

When it was finally collected into one place it was found to be in Slow-burg, and was erected around a geological formation known as the Slow-burg cornerstone.

When the building was completed numerous pieces of twine were seen extending from the various bricks and shingles, and disappearing into the distance. These were the strings which were attached to the donations, and were designed as a protection for the orthodoxy and morality of the youth of Ontario.

If and when, for instance, a student was caught smoking, the wall paper on the men's common room had to be Continued on Page 4)

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Much has been said of late of the American lads who come to Canada, don pads and qualify as stars of the gridiron game. Little ink, however, has been spilled over the American lads who come to Canada, don pads and fail even to catch a place on the second string team. Down at McGill they have eight members of former American College teams wearing the Red and White. This eight, Joe Smith, Pierce, Horning, Mack, Degan, Ruschin, Richert, and Hedge, will all be in action when the intercollegiate loop starts to roll here Saturday. However, seven members of American teams, who tried their hand at the Canadian game with McGill this fall will NOT be in action here this Saturday. The reason is that they did not make the club.

The seven who will not be seen and therefore unheard of unless something is said in their behalf at present are, Lane, Purney, Hackley, Gilbert, Freeman, California, and Olker. Lane hails from Oregon, Purney from Yale and Hackley from California State, while Gilbert comes from Stamford and Freeman from Occidental. Older and California were at one time registered in Southern California. As in our reading course, we have never encountered the names of the last mentioned players, or most of the first for that matter, we are unable to say whether or not they were football players for their divorced Alma Maters. Perhaps they were the mill run of grand stand quarterbacks, but at any rate they are alleged to be football players from the U.S. The only conclusion we can draw is that they learned their football on the train coming over or that the standard of football is considerably higher in Canada than when an unheard of U.S. player was a standout at the Canadian game.

The junior football situation is still in an undeveloped state. Today, however, it is hoped that the course of action will be known. The possibility of an intercollegiate junior series seems very remote at this stage, and if this series is discontinued Varsity will probably be playing in the Junior O.R.F.U. To us it appears that if possible, a junior group containing, say, Varsity, St. Mike's, McMaster and O.A.C. would be very attractive. The group could operate at a small expense and at the same time develop players of senior calibre. At present McMaster and O.A.C. are without junior teams but this is due to lack of competition rather than lack of material. Whatever course is decided upon today, Varsity Juniors will play an exhibition game with Argos Saturday.

And once again we call attention to the Johnny Copp Memorial Fund game Monday. The game will be the second of a double header, with Varsity seconds meeting R.M.C. in the curtain raiser. It is a cause worthy of the student support.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

We had hoped to be able to give some advance word as to the prospects of St. Hilda's basketball team today, but the practice called for last night had to be cancelled. However, it seems that a number of freshies are interested, and the Saints are hoping that their interest will be made more valuable by the addition of some real ability. Without Mary Rose, Marg Lamb, and Al Butler their team will look pretty sick unless JTB produces some real players. Of course, Edith Ardagh, Enid Palmer, Mary McDonald, and Ellen Wilson are still available, and they, in themselves, provide a very good foundation for any team.

Posters have been put up in the various colleges inviting each and every woman at Varsity who plays golf at all to attend the invitation tournament which U.C. is sponsoring. The big day is set for Friday, October 12. U.C. certainly deserves a large vote of thanks for hitting upon this brainy idea and carrying it into effect.

Tomorrow is practically the deadline for finishing the tennis tournament—Saturday at the latest. The matches are being played off quite satisfactorily, and the weather so far has been perfect. If only Varsity's team can be chosen equally successfully all will be well.

The thought of the Baseball Club meeting this afternoon to get that sport under way, and the arrangements which have been made about basketball once more make us realize how badly this University needs a women's gymnasium. Three different gyms are used for the basketball practices as well as Hart House for the finals, all of which involves the different faculties and colleges in a heavy expense. In this very column we have been urging people to join Lillian Massey and get started swimming. Frankly, it must be admitted that that little two by four pool does not offer very much incentive. This periodic grumbling does not seem to get us very far but if it is kept up steadily and long enough the year may come when we will have a gym to be proud of. And then Varsity women will "do things" in the athletic world—even with our poor facilities we manage to turn out very good teams.

It was also suggested that the men should read the advertisements in the magazines, such as that for Listerine.

REDMEN GO DOWN TO DEFEAT BEFORE STEVENS' MEN, 10-4

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Chaos reigned in Spain today with the capital in the throes of a violent revolution. A military dictatorship appeared to be the logical outcome of the disturbance.

A general strike which temporarily paralysed Havana yesterday was called off last night only after public service men refused to join in the movement. It was reported that one worker was killed and many injured during sporadic outbursts of fighting.

Further strike trouble was also reported from Iroquois Falls, Ont., where striking lumbermen invaded a camp and attempted to force workers there to quit. Two arrests were reported to have been made.

Columbus Red Birds scored five runs in the ninth innings of yesterday's Little World's Series game at Columbus to nose out Toronto Maple Leafs 9-8. The Leafs must now win two consecutive games to take the title.

Detroit ball fans yesterday saw Paul Dean outpitch Schoolboy Rowe and avenge Sunday's defeat of his older brother as the Cards won 4-3. The series is now tied at three-all and the winner of to-day's game will be World Champions.

AMAZING 'FACTS' COME OUT IN TEST

Ingenious Examination is Tried by Would-be O. C. E. Students

Did you know that Nicholas Murray Butler was a film star, that the Ark came to rest on Mt. Sinai, that Jezebel was Abraham's wife, and that the Tigris is the river of forgetfulness? These facts, along with others just as illuminating have been elicited from students at O.C.E. by the tests which Doctor Sandiford and the Bureau of Educational Research have been giving to the aspiring teachers.

The purpose of these tests, according to Doctor Sandiford, is to try and provide some means of disqualifying obviously unsuitable students before they go to the expense of time, money and energy in trying to get their teachers' certificates. "Scholarship," (Continued on Page 2)

Girls about the campus with a hankering for those big strong soldierly looking men will find their dreams have finally come true. And the boys who used to wind and rewind a putty sixteen times, only to have it fall apart in front of the inspecting officer, will never do it again. No longer will the members of the C.O.T.C. duck from one shadow to the next, when going to evening parades, for fear some friend will see them. Why? Because the much awaited, brand new, streamlined, knee action uniforms of the University of Toronto contingent, Canadian Officers' Training Corps, have finally arrived.

And what a uniform they turned out to be! Modelled after the regular offi-

SAYS REVOLUTION NECESSARY FACTOR

But Minimizes Election of Hepburn as Revolutionary Move

FORCE SOMETIMES NEEDED

"Revolution is really nothing more than a quickening of the process of evolution, and therefore a very necessary factor in life," said Professor A. Brady of the Economics department, commenting on The Varsity's Friday editorial, "Revolution or Evolution". Mr. Brady was the only one of nine professors visited by The Varsity who would comment on the subject. He claimed that evolution is slowly bringing us within the grasp of our ideals, but that stone walls lie in our path in the persons of public disinterest and crooked politicians. "Extra force," Prof. Brady declared, "is necessary to overcome these obstacles, and this extra force injected into the stream of evolution is no less than that which we call revolution."

In reply to the question, "Do you consider Hepburn's recent election a bloodless revolution?" Professor Brady gave a definite "No!" In his opinion Hepburn's election was merely a change of government and not at all in the same category as a revolution. (Continued on Page 3)

Toronto Boat Takes Lead at Start and Never Were Headed

ROWED IN POURING RAIN

Closing Drive of Montreal Crew Falls Short of Hard-Won Lead

(Special to The Varsity)
Montreal, Que., Oct. 6—Amid pouring rain and with a slight cross-wind the Blue and White oarsmen nosed out the machine-like Redmen by a length of open water on the Lachine Canal in the ninth Canadian Intercollegiate boat race Saturday. It was the seventh consecutive victory for the Blue and White. The race was won only after a gruelling two-mile pull against a strong current. Varsity never lost the lead although it was reduced at times by the never-tiring Redmen, who with their constant spurts kept Willis, the Varsity stroke, right on the job.

Excited crowds chiefly driving in buses and cars along the canal bank kept up a continual roar and followed the race abreast with the crews. McGill began at 42 strokes to the minute and Varsity at 40. Varsity were a length ahead at the half mile mark. Their stroke was decidedly slower and longer than McGill's, who kept up their amazing 40 the minute over the entire course. At the mile mark Varsity were 3 lengths ahead, rowing 34 strokes to McGill's 40 to the minute. Rounding the turn the wind caught the Varsity boat and McGill spurred, reducing the lead to one and one half lengths. At (Continued on Page 3)

FRENCH SOCIALIST SPEAKS HERE TODAY

Prominent Journalist Will Discuss Intricacies of French Politics

"The French Political Situation" will be the subject of a lecture and discussion by Louis Perigaud in the Debates Room of Hart House at one-thirty today. Monsieur Perigaud is one of the board of editors of Le Populaire, the official daily paper of the Socialist Party of France, and one of the leaders of the huge Workers' Party. He will discuss the complicated pattern of French internal politics which may well decide the future fate of Europe.

In his role as secretary of the World Committee against War and Fascism, which includes such noted men as Henri Barbusse, Romaine Rolland and Lord Marles, Monsieur Perigaud has been touring his continent. He is in Toronto for the formation of the Canadian Congress against War and Fascism and this will be his only speech particularly for university students.

Last Sunday and again next Sunday the French voters must decide on issues more clearly defined than has ever been the case before in the very complicated constitutional system of French democracy. Many small parties are now merging into the clear cut lines of the left and right wingers.

SAY DATE BUREAU WILL BE ORGANIZED

Assurance Given that Project Will Be Undertaken; Pattern from Queen's

TO CHARGE OIME-A-DATE

Definite assurance was given The Varsity on Saturday that a student date bureau, to be run on the same lines as the student date bureau at Queen's University, will be started here in the near future. It will be organized by a group of second year students, who for the time being prefer to remain anonymous.

When approached by The Varsity the leader of the group stated that little had been definitely planned except the system of registration. This will be practically a duplicate of the system now in effect at Queen's.

"The charge will be a dime for each date effected," he said, "regardless of whether it is sought by the boy or the girl. The bureau will not be run on a 'satisfaction or money refunded' basis, but will rely for its success on the fact that it will provide a means for the bulk of the freshman crop to get acquainted with the cream of the freshmen. Of course, the bureau will not be limited to first year people.

"All those interested in getting acquainted with one or more members of the other sex, will be asked to register, giving details such as height, age, weight, colour of hair, and preferences as to amusements, preferably enclosing a photograph. Then, their card will be filed, and when someone of their type is in demand, their phone number will be supplied. In this way, we hope that many lasting friendships will be created.

"The student bureau at Queen's is under semi-official patronage," he continued, "but we have not yet found (Continued on Page 4)

SINCLAIR BESTS ISBISTER

In the Johnny Copp Memorial Game played at the Stadium yesterday afternoon before a crowd, who, by their support, aided in swelling the Memorial Scholarship Fund, the Blue and White seniors defeated their predecessors 5-1. Following the two minute silence observed in the respect for Johnny Copp that will be eternal, the game started. Almost immediately the fine spirit that he always displayed pervaded the game and throughout the contest the cheering word was ever in evidence.

The fans were reminded of a sham battle at a veterans' reunion, but underneath the jovial mood lay a determination to show the fans some football. Both Warren Stevens' Blues and Les Blackwell's collection of former and present satellites, gave all they had even though the white-sweated and black-numbered lineup consisted of as many as thirteen and fourteen players at times. With the return of Jack Sinclair to the gridiron at the head of the Old Boys' team, displaying his old running, intercepting and booting form, this year's upholders of Varsity's football tradition had their (Continued on Page 4)

ANOTHER BUILDING ADDED TO CAMPUS

Aim to Buy All Property on East Side of St. George, College-Hoskin

A small building has recently been added to the University of Toronto, The Varsity learns from Col. A. D. LePan, superintendent of buildings. The purchase of the building, The Varsity was told, is a step towards the acquisition of all the property on the east side of St. George St. lying between Hoskin Ave. and College St. The building itself is a red brick structure, formerly a residence, situated at 75 St. George St. one door south of the Women's Union. It is vacant at present, and although no knowledge of its future use is yet available, it is likely that a few interior alterations will be necessary before it is opened.

DENIES RADICALS ARE IN MAJORITY

Form Merely a Group Among Theological Students in States

HAVE AIDED PICKETTERS

"Students at the Union Theological Seminary are influenced by the prophetic strain in religion rather than the ecclesiastical," Dr. Ward, a professor at the seminary in New York, who was here attending the Canadian Conference Against War and Fascism, declared in a special interview with The Varsity. "The prophetic strain in the Bible is always talking about social justice and social righteousness. The students at the Union only differ from other theological aspirants in that they take this prophetic strain seriously."

"Do the more radical students go so far as to maintain that a new social order will have to be preceded by a revolution?" Dr. Ward was asked.

"Their attitude," Prof. Ward said, "rests on the idea of basic justice as laid down in the teachings of Jesus. The working out of His principles requires a real revolution. The change from the present social order is so great that reform is not sufficient."

"Do the majority of students who enter the seminary graduate with a more or less radical viewpoint," The Varsity asked.

"No," he replied, "The Union is non-denominational, and the conservative (Continued on Page 4)

UPPER GETS SOLE TOUCH

Redmen Outplay Blues on Line; Both Weak in Passing

By W. A. Crochower

With the aid of Bob Isbister's tremendous hoists Warren Stevens' Blues started off in quest of their third successive title by downing the McGill Redmen 10 to 4 in the intercollegiate senior football opener at the Stadium on Saturday afternoon. Although very satisfactory from a Blue and White point of view, the game was not productive of more than spotty football and seldom did the crowd of ten thousand fans warm up to more than half-hearted cheers.

A pronounced feature of the game was the wonderful tackling of Varsity's splendid quartet of outsiders. Big Bob Isbister, kicking beautifully all through the game, was backed up by wonderful tackling on the part of Henderson, H. Alison, Keith and Holden. The Red and White backfielders ran kicks back for a total gain of only fifty yards, while the Blue halves; notably Fenner, Coulter and Uppar, made one hundred and thirty yards.

In the forward passing department neither team showed to advantage. The Blues failed to complete a pass in four tries while McGill chalked up seven out of twenty-one attempts for a total of 116 yards. At times the Redmen pressed hard with their forwards working beautifully but Varsity managed to intercept passes at four crucial moments and ease the pressure. In addition to this Shag's squad was penalized on one occasion for two successive incomplete passes and on another the passer was downed by an avalanche of Blue gridders twenty-one yards behind the line of scrimmage. Chalk Up 13-8 Victory Over Wanderers in First Match

Varsity's intercollegiate rugby team bung up their first win of the season Saturday on the back campus when they turned back the Wanderers, 13-8. The winners were at the peak of their form and every man was playing heads up ball. Seaborn and Hunter were the scorers for the Wanderers, while McCaffrey and Magner contributed tries for the Students, with Whillans converting the last two.

Captain Slatter and The Band Make a Hit With Cheering Stand

Living up to, and exceeding the expectations of an ardent cheering section, the Blue and White Band made its initial appearance at the Varsity-McGill game on Saturday, and was rated 100 per cent. Led by Captain John Slatter, V.D., and with Drum Major McCutcheon swinging a cunning baton, and the rest of the boys strutting and playing in fine style, the band presented a spectacle that drew rounds of applause from the stands.

Prior to the game the band circled the field to the lively tune of the "Booster" march, and while playing, formed the "U. of T." in front of the rooting section. While the drums rolled and the cornets played a fanfare in unison, the remainder of the band gave a snappy "Toronto", and then led the fans in the singing of the "Blue and White". Taking up the march again, the "M" was formed, and the McGill song played.

During half time, the band marched the length of the field in the "U. of T." formation, while playing the "Light of Foot" march, and after the game, which proved victorious for Varsity, took up the familiar tune which is best known as "Put on your Blue and White Sweater". Crowds lined the street to watch the band on its return march to the campus, and joined in the victorious "Blue and White".

Next week the band will travel to London with the team, and will give (Continued on Page 4)

BY HIS WORKS . . .

The Varsity joins with the members of the Architectural profession and lovers of Art, in mourning the loss of one of Canada's greatest creators of fine Architecture, in the person of the late Henry Sproatt, whose death last Thursday terminated a career marked with unusual achievement.

Best known to students as the designer of Hart House, Mr. Sproatt was considered one of the foremost authorities on Gothic Architecture, and his simple tastes, genuine love of Art, and sound knowledge of his profession guided him in the erection of such lasting memorials as Hart House, Burwash Hall, The Manufacturer's Life Building, and the Oxford University Press. These and many other notable structures stand as fitting tributes to a genius that surpassed the commonplace brick and stone, and revealed the kindly, appreciative nature of the man.

As a lover of art and a connoisseur of fine silver and furniture, he was widely known, and held the distinction of being elected to the presidency of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts, probably the only architect to hold this position. His capacity for learning, love of culture for its own sake, and simple sincerity won him a place of honour and respect in the hearts of those who knew him, and his passing brings a regret that is only exceeded by the high esteem which his faithful work and outstanding character compels. His epitaph has been written in stone in many places by many hands, and his memory will long be a guiding beacon for those who follow.

BLUES TAKE FIRST OF COLLEGE SERIES

The Blue and White line, although expected to do great things in a plunging sense, failed to come through and were thoroughly outplayed by the Red and White line. Although Varsity won handily they should have doubled their score, as on four separate occasions, Stevens' lads fairly threw chances away. On three different occasions Blue halves fumbled when it seemed that Stevens' men were in opportune positions. On the fourth occasion a bad snap on an attempted placement meant the loss of the ball at McGill's 20 yard line. The Red and White halves recovered every one of their fumbles.

The game marked the appearance of Joe Smith of California, who was reputed to be a one-man team. However, the Blues took special care to keep this young gentleman in his place and as a result he experienced a stormy session, being forced to retire at one point.

The first of the Blues' ten points came on a touch in goal and was swiftly followed by a brace of counters as a result of Isbister's superior hoofing. At the very start of the final quarter, Holden, who had been playing a splendid game, broke through to intercept a lateral pass and was finally brought down at McGill's 3 yard line.

Upper registered the only major of the game when he went around the end to cross the Red and White line with Carsley, a McGill outside, draped across his knees. Gray converted for the ninth point, the final Blue tally being registered by a ninety yard hoof on the part of Isbister. The McGill tallies came as a result of a neat placement effort and a rouge.

The teams:

AMAZING "FACTS" COME OUT IN TEST

stated Doctor Sandiford, "is not the only requisite for good teaching, as there are many whose scholarship is impeccable, but who fail as teachers because of something defective in their personality."

These tests comprise a "test of awareness", to see how much a student is alive to what is going on around him in advertising, sport, radio, newspaper topics and so forth; a test of Fine Arts ascertaining the student's appreciation of cultural subjects, two linguistic tests, because experience has shown these to be very reliable, tests on social sciences, foreign literature and the experimental sciences. "Many people have questioned the usefulness of the first test," he said, "because they do not see what use it is for a teacher to know, for example, the wavelength of certain radio stations. This test shows, psychologically speaking, whether a student is an extrovert or an introvert. Extroverts have been found to make better teachers, other things being equal."

Doctor Sandiford said that the tests are so difficult that he doubted whether there was any professor on the campus that could obtain a perfect score in any one of them. However, the students have no cause for fear this year as their scores will not be held against them. It is purely a research project, so far.

An alternative plan is to have the Minister of Education state, some time in May, how many certificates he intends to grant during the following session. The number of certificates could be limited to the number of positions available, along the lines of the French aggregation.

QUESTIONS USE OF REICHERT MICROSCOPE

Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

I would like to bring to the attention of the students, through the Correspondence Column, a matter of principle broken by the Faculty of Medicine.

You are no doubt aware that an international boycott is in effect against Hitler Germany, and the public, as a whole, is being requested not to buy goods made in Germany.

It is therefore surprising to find that, in one instance, the Faculty of Medicine, as an official body, is actually buying German goods in preference to other makes.

There is in existence in the Faculty of Medicine, a Committee for the Purchasing of Microscopes. This committee arranges the purchases of microscopes for second year students, permitting them to be bought, with University credit, in 3 yearly instalments.

Last year, this committee purchased a shipment of Reichert microscopes (Austrian make). These microscopes were sold to the students for $62-$65. They were found to be absolutely satisfactory, and met with the approval of the students of second and third.

This year the committee is offering for sale, through the University Press, a Leitz microscope, which is a German make. Moreover the price of this instrument is $95, yet there are no advantageous differences to account for the extra $30. True, the cost of shipping and exchange may be higher than that of last year, but certainly not to account for such a high price per microscope.

That the committee knew what they were doing is certain. They receive the estimates of various microscope firms, throughout the world, and consider Afar down the valley a lone ragman drove his chariot slowly, and chanted his plaintive lay. The wind moaned through the chimney pots, and the sun looked dimly down through the smoke, and the little red bird stood on the roof of the cowshed and scratched its neck.

The little bird stood on the roof of the cowshed and scratched its neck. Sadly the stray policeman in the grey distance swiped a banana from the cart of a passing Italian, and peeled it with a grimy hand. He was thinking, thinking. And the dead leaves still choked the tin spout above the rain barrel in the back yard.

The little red bird stood on the roof of the cowshed and scratched its neck. Adown the gutters in the lonely street ran murky puddles on their long, long journey to the distant sea. Borne on the wings of the sluggish breeze, came the far-off murmur of vagrant dogs in fierce combat, making life a hollow (Continued on Page 3) them, before deciding. It is, therefore, surprising that regardless of the boycott, and regardless of the extra price, with no added advantages, that students have to pay for Leitz microscopes, the committee decided in its favour. Perhaps an explanation for such a decision is in place?

Yours truly, L.C.S.

Editor's Note: The price has changed due to the fluctuation of the Canadian exchange. The Leitz Microscope is slightly more powerful than the Reichert. There is no official boycott of German goods.

"Sometimes I forget my hat. Sometimes I forget my glasses. And sometimes I forget my watch. But I never forget my Picobac. I always know I've got it on me somewhere, —one pocket or another."

"Do you know what Picobac means? The pick of Canada's Burley crop. Take a pouch or tin of Picobac home tonight with you. Try it—Till you're sure you'll never forget it. Why? Because it's such a mild . . . cool . . . sweet . . . smoke. That's why."

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

It was Varsity's week end. Four teams wearing the Blue and White went into action and not one defeat was registered against them. The only flaw in a perfect story was the intermediate team, who did their brethren wrong by letting R.M.C. tie the intercollegiate opener. The flag went up Saturday when McGill went down in the first game of the senior intercollegiate losing a 10-4 decision to Varsity. The Varsity senior eight then added another feather to the students' cap by winning the annual boat race with McGill by two and one half lengths. And the Varsity regulars then tangled with the Grads in the Memorial Fund game, winning by about the same amount.

However, despite their large quota of victories, the Big Blue team gave their supporters little if anything to enthuse about. Their play on Saturday was to say the least anything but brilliant. True, they defeated what was reported to be one of the strongest teams to wear the McGill colours in some time. But the manner in which they did it was anything but impressive. Had it not been for a lucky break in the final frame the score would have been very close despite the fact that they had many scoring chances earlier in the game. And then there was the insipid display of fumbling ability given by the intermediates. They fumbled with monotonous regularity, in fact had they been consistent throughout the game, the fumble which allowed R.M.C. to tie the score would have occurred three minutes earlier, an event which would have given Varsity time to recover one of the Cadets' fumbles and win the game.

The result of the Memorial Fund game was also disappointing. Only 2,500 came to the front to watch what proved to be a very interesting game, which could not want for a better cause. The Fund was enhanced by the sum of $1200, while the objective of the promoters was $2500. Just why the game failed to draw is hard to figure, except perhaps that holiday games seldom attract the crowd which turns out to a Saturday game. The fact that Wannie Snyder was not in action also would help the cause little. Another disappointing feature of the fixture was the failure of Stevens to appear. Steve was all dressed, ready to go, when informed by the authorities that he would endanger the amateur standing of the students, were he to compete. Just why he did not receive this word earlier, when it was publicly known that he was going to compete, is hard to imagine. Certainly the crowd was anxious to see him in action, and the authorities had ample time previous to the game to inform him that he would have to have permission.

Anyway, it was a great game. The Grads, some of them inclined to stoutness, and varying in degrees of baldness, had a lot of fun and incidentally played good football. Les Blackwell had them romping on and off the field at frequent intervals, but this failed as a preventative of fatigue. For the first few changes, the boys galloped on and off but towards the end it was a weary procession which wended its way into formation. Incidentally, Bob Isbister, who kicked beautifully on Saturday, failed to stand up to the competition given him by Sinclair. Jack is still without a peer as a kicking half.

For another season, the Barber pole, emblematic of intercollegiate boat racing supremacy, stays in Toronto. The Blue boatmen, added another triumph on Saturday, when they sent their shell across the line over two lengths ahead of the McGill scow. In no other branch of sport has Varsity been so long dominant as in this annual classic. Despite the rain, which poured down long during the event, close to twenty thousand saw the race over the Lachine Canal.

The performance of Queen's, in gaining a single point win over Western was also a surprise. The Kingston squad are on paper the best they have been in years and Western were not expected to figure in the fight. However, Reeve's brigade were slow in getting into action this year and will probably be at their best near the end of the season, when the big drive starts. Be that as it may Western must be stronger than expected and may yet be heard from.

And speaking of football heroes, we must not forget the gallant laddies from the residences who stood guard over the goal posts in the Stadium through the long and cheerless night previous to the McGill game. We know definitely that they never once left their posts.

Two of the interfaculty tennis teams have been chosen; the other two, Vic and St. Mike's, will be named today so as to be ready for the tournament which is to be played tomorrow at the Toronto Tennis Club. Vic and St. Mike's are getting well along with their matches but the former has been retarded due to the large number of entries. Forty Vic women signed up whereas U.C. only had 15 and St. Hilda's 21. Every college, though, has had a larger number of players than last year.

U.C. and St. Hilda's have both chosen their teams, although in neither case have the finals been played as yet due to the halt necessitated by the Thanksgiving week-end. U.C. is to be represented tomorrow by Leonore Fraser, Mary Salter, Joyce Tenbaum, Dot McCallum, Thaine Lamb and Madge Shaw.

At present the St. Hilda's team includes Mary Dignan, Mary Louise Carre, Charlotte Emery, Mary de Wynter, Hilda Macmorine, and Ellen Wilson. However, several girls who lost out in very close games plan to Again we are placed in the embarrassing position of having to apologize for an error, or rather an omission, in this column in Friday's Varsity. In mentioning the names of the Saints who will still be among those playing basketball this year we failed to mention Mary Louise Carre. This was really a serious mistake as Mary is the only Saint who has played on the senior intercollegiate team who is back again, and she is invaluable to their forward line.

Again we remind you of the golf tournament on Friday, October 12 at the Ladies' Club at Thornhill. The time is growing short; if you want to enter there is no time like the present to sign up.

hands full. The Arnpup to Sinclair forward passes made big gains in the last quarter.

In the first quarter the Grads had the ball twice on Varsity's 21 yard line only to lose it on fumbles. Sinclair opened the scoring with a single in the second quarter garnered by one of his spectacular hoists from the Seniors' 40 yard line. Varsity's five points were secured on a touch by Gus Greco when he plunged for fifteen yards, following a completed pass for 30 yards, Isbister to Coulter. The convert was blocked by Harrison. A series of power plays by the Blues followed it which couldn't be stopped by either of the two complete teams that Coach Blackwell trotted onto the field alternately. A very noticeable lack of condition in the Grad line was the apparent cause of this type of strategy.

Following Greco's major score Hennessy took the kickoff to Varsity's 45, Webber and Greco made yards, and Coulter completed a pass from Isbister for 17 more. A placement went wide and Billy Bell saved the Grads from a single being scored against them by getting it out in the clever fashion that reminded the crowd of his style of '31. Coulter ran the kick on first down back to Grads' 23 yard line; it was plunged to the seven but the forward pass on Varsity's third down failed. From then on until the game ended, play ranged back and forth in centre field with the only highlight being the backfield running of Jack Taylor of Argos, Elson, Ferguson and Gibson figured in some good tackling for the losers while the way Bill Twaites handled the miscellaneous gathering of all-stars was deserving of credit.

Lineups:

Grads — Arnpup, Boothe, Twaites, Bales, Bell, Stewart, Carrick, Dewar, Elson, Ferguson, Harrison, Henderson, Gibson, Morgan, Sullivan, Sinclair, Stollery, Taylor, McQuigge, Rodgus, Richardson, Warner, Hume, Baker, Burgoyne, Knowles and Galloway.
Varsity Seniors—Henderson, Laing, Coulter, Hennessy, Greco, Keith, Webber, Miller, Fenner, Holden, Warren, Isbister, Williams, Harris, Gibson, Alison, Brebner, G. Powell, B. Powell.

There will be an open meeting of the Victoria College Dramatic Club in Wymilwood tonight at eight o'clock. All years invited, particularly freshmen. A one-act play by A. A. Milne will be presented. Refreshments.

CAMPBELL, MACKAY TIE IN U.C. TRACK MEET

An unusually large turnout, keen competition and sterling performances featured the University College track meet held at Varsity Stadium Friday afternoon. Individual honours were divided between Norm Campbell and Les Mackay with 16 points each; Ross Mackay, sensational freshman, pressing close with 15 points. Z. Lash won the sprints and A. Rankin showed up well in the other three races.

100 yards: Z. Lash, H. M. Thomson, G. Thomson. 10.9 sec.

tive of the union on strike phoned the college to ask if some students would help to picket, as they thought the presence of some respectable people on the picket line would help to curb the ferocious advances of the police. Some boys went over and were very soon arrested. At 1 o'clock in the morning a reporter phoned the president of the college to say that some of his boys were arrested.

The president replied, "What of it?" "Do you think that this kind of action is proper for men planning to go into the ministry?" the reporter asked.

"Why not? Paul of Tarsus started it."

"Paul who?" the reporter asked, hoping to get an interview with the instigator of the trouble.

Connected with this nation-wide group are young workers, students and religious youth organizations of all descriptions. Although the youth section is autonomous in its administration, it is under the control of the adult section as regards its policy.

R.M.C. TIE SECONDS LOSE TO JUNIORS

Fumbles Mar Curtain-Raiser to Copp Memorial Game

In the curtain raiser to the Johnny Copp Memorial Game Monday afternoon the intermediates entertained R.M.C. at Varsity Stadium and acting as perfect hosts allowed them to walk off the field with a 4-4 tie. The juniors in the morning were not as kind to their opponents from the same college and played heads up rugby to win by an 18-0 score.

The game in the afternoon was marked by some of the sloppiest playing that has been seen around here in a long time. All of R.M.C.'s points were scored after Varsity fumbles and on the play deserved few of them but their ability to capitalize on their opponents errors brought them their tie which came in the last minute of play when MacBrien kicked a point from Varsity's 40 yard line following a fumble by George Powell.

Varsity attempted ten forward passes none of which were completed and never looked like that team of last year except for a scant few moments in the fourth quarter when they marched up the field and then kicked for their fourth point.

Gray and G. Powell, in spite of their fumbles, played good games for Varsity with their kicking and plunging, while MacBrien and Whittaker played well in the backfield for the Military College.

A fumble by Taylor paved the way for MacBrien to hoist a long one from centre to tie the score until Varsity got down to business and gained yards three times in a row after Gray ran back a kick thirty yards and then went on to put Varsity in the lead with one of his long hoists. In the last minute of the game, again after sloppy playing by the Blue team that gave them possession 40 yards out, R.M.C. tied the game up at 4-4 at which score it finished.

R.M.C.—McKibbin, Chase-Casgrain, Ripley, Wilson, Fee, Drury, Chubb, MacBrien, Birks, Sisson, Ready, Reynolds, Powell, Whittaker, Wotherpoon, Sterne, Hodson, Rowland.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Marseilles—The assassination of Alexander, King of Yugoslavia, was looked upon as a blow to the French bid for European rule.

Madrid—Embers of Spain's six-day Red revolt were still burning dangerously last night.

Gravenhurst—An attempt is to be made today to lift the steamer Waome, which sank with the loss of three lives Saturday morning.

Los Angeles—Harold Vermilyea has waived extradition and agreed to return to Toronto for questioning in connection with the axe-slaying of his mother.

Columbus last night defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs 13-8 to win the Junior World Series.

London, England—King George last night made Prince George Earl of St. Andrews and Duke of Kent.

Ottawa—Subscriptions to the Dominion refunding loan have reached $230,000,000, it was announced late last night.

Washington—It is feared that the results of the naval disarmament conversations, scheduled to begin at London in two weeks, may be adversely affected by the Marseilles assassination.

OLD INITIATION NOW ABOLISHED

McMaster Sophomores Must Observe Milder Tactics

STUDENTS APPROVE

McMaster University, Hamilton (CIP)—Traditional initiation ceremonies at McMaster University have been abolished. An official statement has been issued by the Students' Council in this regard and has been published in The Silhouette, the student paper of McMaster.

The statement reads as follows: "In view of the public sentiment that exists regarding initiations and the risk of physical or mental injury to participants of both the freshman and sophomore years, the Students' Council has unanimously moved that official initiations be suspended for the year 1934-35 and that a reception programme be substituted to be carried

Soph-Frosh Parade Meets Fate After a Lively Demonstration

Leaving Hart House after the annual medical soph-frosh banquet last night a parade of the combined forces of 319 and 470 wended their way downtown in ceremonial procession. Cautiously they avoided conflict with the police forces and it was not until they reached Elizabeth Street that they removed the first trolley pole from a street car.

Becoming more reckless after their success in disabling the T.T.C. the boys ventured forth onto Bay Street at a point just north of Shea's Theatre and poured into the Bay Street Hippodrome.

After their entrance, which was greeted with no opposition by the management, they settled down to giving the performers no end of applause. In fact so vociferous was their display that they vied with the stage show for the attention of the audience.

Too Much Emphasis May Be Placed on Making of Errors

"Many famous literary men are unable to spell correctly," said Professor Holt of the German Department, when asked to comment on the statement of C. L. Burton of Simpson's, who asserted that most people cannot spell. "Mr. William Butler Yeats, a relative of mine, is an atrociously bad speller. On one occasion, when asked to spell door, he spelled it 'doar', and could not be convinced otherwise. However, although the teaching of correct spelling is essential, too much importance has been attached to the making of errors."

"Most professors know how to spell correctly," said Dr. MacCurdy, of the Philosophy Department, in reply to Mr. Burton's assertion that "There are

QUEEN'S RECIPIENT OF CARNEGIE GRANT

Last of Three Grants To Be Received in Fall Term

LIBRARY FUND

(Special to "The Varsity")

Kingston—During the fall term Queen's University is scheduled to receive the last of three $5,000 grants as her share of an original grant of over $100,000 from the Carnegie Institute to Canadian universities and colleges.

This $100,000 grant was set aside by the Carnegie Corporation for the use of Canadian universities and colleges in 1932, to be divided among them according to their size. The largest were to obtain a grant of about $5,000 a year for three years and the smallest were to obtain a sum of $500 a year for the same period.

The money was given for the benefit of the students to assist in the purchase of books for general reading. It was not to be used for buying expensive works, nor for filling gaps in periodicals or sets of journals, nor in buying

QUEEN'S DATE BUREAU A SUCCESS BUT FACULTY HERE IS DOUBTFUL

"Dating Bureau" at Queen's is Operated by One Person

APPLICANTS NUMEROUS

"Queen's Journal" Co-Operates to Keep Operation Secret

(Special to "The Varsity")

Kingston, Oct. 9.—A student "date bureau" has been in operation at Queen's University since last spring. The bureau is patronized chiefly by the more socially inclined, since those who cannot get dates in the normal way are generally too shy to use its facilities. The patrons are drawn to a large extent from the students in science and medicine, who do not have sufficient time to meet many girls during the college year. When the bureau was started last year the applicants were mostly men, but this year most of the applications have been received from freshmen.

The bureau is operated by a single individual with the co-operation of the Queen's Journal. Men or women students wishing dates for shows or dances write to the bureau giving a description of their age, interests, sex, graduating year and faculty and other necessary information. The letter is mailed through the University post office and picked up with the mail for the Journal. In this way the identity of the operator is kept secret. The operator, on receiving an application, searches the files for a suitable date and makes arrangements by telephone. The girl is told Smith will call at the women's residence at a certain hour. Smith is told to call at the residence at the hour arranged and ask for Miss Jones. From then on the fate of the new friendship is in the lap of the gods.

LACK OF HAZING LAUDED BY CODY

Absence of Violence in Initiations Better Than Old System

MEDICALS ADDRESSED

"I must congratulate the men of the second year, for their substitution of a kindly word of advice for physical violence," President Cody told the first and second year medical students at their annual banquet in Hart House last night. "In view of the damages awarded against the University of Alberta last year hazing has been brought to the serious attention of university authorities throughout Canada."

Dean Fitzgerald of the Faculty of Medicine echoed the sentiments of the President when he said that combativeness can be carried too far. When he was an undergraduate initiations were quite severe and he thought that

University Should Remain Essentially Academic in Pursuits

BAN AT ST. JOSEPH'S

Dr. Kingston of Trinity Thinks "Bureau" Would Be Unnecessary

The date bureau, the presence of which on the campus is expected daily, may be causing quite a stir among those lonely hearts who crave the companionship of the opposite sex, but among "the powers that be" there seems little interest in the project.

Miss Ferguson, dean of women at University College, knew nothing about the proposed bureau, and after reading yesterday's account, refused to comment on the matter.

Dr. Gordon, in whose care is entrusted the well-being of University College women, did not consider the question from the health standpoint, but stated very emphatically that in her opinion "A university should remain essentially academic in its pursuits," and believed the organization would be quite superfluous.

The Varsity was unable to reach Miss McPherson, dean of women at Victoria College, but her secretary was sure Miss McPherson would express no opinion.

"Our type of life tells you how we regard such things," said Mother Saint Margaret, Dean of Loretto, when asked

LIBRARY PLANNED FOR PHARMACISTS

First Order of Books Has Already Been Received

WILL OPEN SOON

It was announced at the Ontario College of Pharmacy initiation banquet on Thursday last, by Mr. C. P. Playter, the president of the council of the college, that a library was to be started for the use of the students of the college. There has not been, heretofore, any reference library which dealt with pharmacy and its allied subjects exclusively. The pharmacy students are now to have a library under their own roof. There are already signs of activity in a room in the basement of the college, which is to be the home of the new library, and this fact, coupled with the definite statement of the president, would indicate that the library will be an established fact in the near future. Dean C. F. Hechner could not say definitely when the library would actually open, but the first order of books has already arrived.

The library committee which was appointed at the last college council meeting are Mr. C. P. Playter, Mr. E. C. Fielding, Mr. H. M. Corbett, and Mr. W. J. Abell. The librarian has not yet been appointed.

GORDON GUNN COSENS ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR

Mr. Gordon Gunn Cosens has been appointed Associate Professor, in the Faculty of Forestry, Dr. H. J. Cody, President of the University of Toronto, has announced. Mr. Cosens was graduated from the Faculty of Forestry here in 1923, and obtained an M.A. in 1927.

For the past six years he has been Chief Forester and Assistant Woods Manager to the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company at Kapuskasing, Ontario, where he has participated in all phases of work concerned with the production of more than 100,000 cords of pulpwood per year.

They will then return to Toronto to open their local season in Hart House Theatre and Convocation Hall on October 27th.

There will be a meeting of the staff of The Varsity this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the women's office.

FINAL DATE FIXED FOR APPLICATIONS

Applications for the Rhodes Scholarships Now Acceptable

NOVEMBER 10 LAST DAY

Applications for the Rhodes Scholarships must be filed with the Secretary of the Selection Committee for Ontario before November 10th. The Varsity has been informed by Mr. Henry Borden, secretary of the committee. The selection of two scholars to represent Ontario will take place towards the end of November.

A Rhodes scholarship is tenable at the University of Oxford and may be held for three years. The stipend of the scholarship is fixed at £400 a year. To be eligible a candidate must be a British subject with at least five years' domicile in Canada, unmarried, and between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five. He must also have completed at least two years in a Canadian university. For each province there is a Committee of Selection in whose hands, subject to ratification by the trustees, the nominations will rest. In that section of his will in which he defined the general type of scholar he desired Mr. Rhodes mentioned four groups of qualities, the first two of which he considered the most important, and it is upon this basis that the selection will be made. These qualities are: literary and scholastic attainments; qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship; exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates;

Middle Class is Banded into League Against War and Fascism

EUGENE PERIGAUD SPEAKS

Conference of Teachers' Union Threatens Strike As Weapon

Despite the activities of the Fascists in France, the predominating feeling of the French population is decidedly anti-Fascist. This was the keynote of the speech delivered yesterday afternoon in the Debates Room, of Hart House, by M. Eugene Perigaud, secretary of the world committee against war and Fascism.

"The middle class is against fascism—and when I speak of the middle class I mean the class of shopkeepers, professional men and teachers," he stated. "At a conference of the teachers' union—one of the largest—a resolution was passed threatening a strike of teachers against war and fascism. Three thousand professors also added their protest and affiliated with the teachers' union to teach the need of uniting

Hitler not Motivated by Personal Ambition, Says F. Winter

HAS GERMAN SUPPORT

Germany has no desire to become involved in war, is the opinion of Mr. Fritz Winter, the Davis Exchange Student from Germany, who is studying architecture at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Winter, a native of Dusseldorf, has studied the history of architecture, and the subject generally in Germany, and has received his engineering diploma from the University of Berlin. His impression of the architecture of Toronto is that, while it is entirely different from that of his former university centre, it has a uniformity of design which pleases him.

The idea conveyed by Mr. Winter was that Hitler is not motivated by

Rogues' Gallery Reveals Career When Day of Reckoning is Near

Thirty pale, perspiring faces. Thirty nervous suspects huddled under the glare of blazing klieg lights. Two grim officials going quietly and methodically about their work.

One after one the men are made to take their places before the flashing shutters—and the 1934 records for the University Rogues' Gallery, Commerce and Finance Division, are whisked away to the dark room.

The idea? One of these days the Economics Department will find themselves confronted with a pile of second year essays. A work-weary professor will pick up a neatly penned manuscript and read off the name, "John Q. Doe—him, that name is familiar but I can't place the fellow—so the professor reaches for the Rogues' Gallery. The photo of every student, postage stamp size, is mounted on a card. Each has a number, and below is the key to every name.

Every year the Department of Photographic Service of the University, Room 40 in the Engineering Building, makes a picture survey of the students in Science, Engineering, Meds and Dents. These faculties have availed themselves of the service for the past six years. The Arts departments have adopted the idea more recently. Professors whose classes are large find they can get to know their students better by use of the photographs. The Economics officials use the senior picture lineup to help the coming grads to secure employment.

LENIN OR CHRIST

In a recent issue the Toronto Daily Star gave prominence to an address by Dr. Willard Brewing, formerly bishop of the Reformed Episcopal Church, Toronto, and now of Vancouver. Glaring headlines quoted the speaker as declaring that "Lenin is Jesus' greatest rival for the world's love and devotion" and that "in Russia a godless people are building a godly order". The Observer, commenting in a subsequent issue of the same newspaper on the address in question, asks: "If Lenin can build up a better world for the masses than Jesus can, can Jesus be kept on His throne by singing 'All hail the power of Jesus' name'?" The Observer finds no objection to the conclusions reached by Dr. Brewing and writes enthusiastically as follows. "And with all my soul I believe Christian Canadians (with which I associate the followers of the Hebrew prophets) can build up a godlier order than Russia can, even if she is not so 'godless' as she seems".

We would not venture to question this conception of Christianity were it not that it is so widely propagated by the modern press and so generally accepted by students in our day. It all proceeds from a lamentable ignorance of the New Testament witness to the person of Jesus. And it ought always to be born in mind that we have only the Gospels and the Epistles to enlighten us concerning how Jesus thought of Himself and how He was regarded by the men of His day. According to the New Testament witness Jesus was a man, the historic Jesus. But He was also the Christ. But the truth that Jesus was "very God" was hidden, unknown and secret. Jesus in the flesh was not recognized as the Christ even by His disciples. His divinity was not self-evident, concrete, observable. That is to say, Jesus Christ was not rationally or experientially known. He is no extension of our human knowledge. This is undeniably the New Testament witness and also the Confession of the Church. Those who cannot tolerate the amazing paradox presented to us in the words "Jesus Christ" stand outside the only records we have of Him and outside the Church.

To speak of "building up a godly order" presupposes that we rationally know God, and therefore the nature of a "godly order". But if God is a part of our knowledge He is obviously merely one object among many objects, a thing among many things, the god of our own making, and therefore subordinate to our reason. Such a god is simply Man in capital letters, and utterly unable to judge us or to help and save us. When we speak of "building up a godly order" let us not deceive ourselves by using the language of the Bible and meaning thereby an order patterned after our own ideas about God. Of course, if we believe that God is only an idea, let us say so and not hide behind a cloak of Christianity. When the Observer proceeds to talk about building up a "godlier" order in Canada, we are led to wonder whether he is thinking of God or a piece of elastic. Moreover, all this talk of "bringing the Kingdom of God on earth" suggests that the Kingdom of God begins with our movements of reform. After all, whose Kingdom is it?

The Observer, we think, speaks very loosely of "Christian Canadians". We would ask what is his criterion for calling a certain individual "Christian". He would probably reply: "Those who follow the teachings of Jesus". This prompts us to ask, "What man has at any time followed the teachings of Jesus?" Or he might reply, "Those who accept the teachings of Jesus". Surely, it does not require to be pointed out to one such as the Observer that acceptance and practice are quite two different things. But all this is irrelevant to the New Testament witness. There the Christian is likewise a paradox,—the "I, yet not I" of the apostle. We would infer from Jesus' words to the publican, the sinner and the harlot that a Christian is one

Heard in the locker room:
"Gosh, I'd like to stroke that Varsity crew!"

"You might be fond of them, but don't carry it that far."

C—C

All readers of the Stadium Magazine were pleased to see the faith which many manufacturers have in the judgment of one Joseph Carruthers, trainer of Varsity Seniors. The faith, we might say, is mutual. Hardly do we turn a page without finding Mr. Carruthers' studied opinion of their various products in bold-faced type. First, there is a popular chocolate beverage, the health-giving qualities of which are well known to all T.T.C. passengers. There follows a liniment ad, right on the same page, bearing the same seal of approval.

C—C

The U.S. Bureau of Standards, and the Good Housekeeping Consumers' Research Board kept silence regarding this new rival in their field, and had taken no action at the time of going to press.

C—C

Just when we had concluded that chivalry was dead, and also at a moment on Saturday morning when sleep seemed particularly precious, a particularly vicious argument broke out beneath our window which would have defied the best efforts of even such a sleeper as R. V. Winkle. Two swains of about ten years of age were the chief debaters, and when the disagreement was settled for a couple of black eyes, the winner explained in ringing tones, "Aw, he thinks Shirley Temple's lousy."

C—C

Not wanting any black eyes, and still bound to Morpheus, we refrained from comment.

C—C

The W.C.T.U. has been enlisting the aid of science to determine whether the alcoholic content of lipstick is sufficient to make it intoxicating.

C—C

Quite gratuitously, we offer the results of our own investigations. Intoxication can be brought about by removing lipstick. Its application is harmless. The intoxication discovered was traced to causes other than the alcoholic content of the lipstick.

C—C

While on the subject, we might call attention to the notice printed on the beer list of a local hostelry. "Unconscious ladies will not be served in the beverage room. Only the finest lagers and ales."

C—C

Hm!

who only knows that he is not a Christian.

Obviously, "Jesus cannot be kept on His throne by singing 'All hail the power of Jesus' name'". The reality of Christ is not, and could not be established by our affirmations nor destroyed by our denials. A God who was dependent upon our arguments and our experiences would not be the living and eternal God. It is therefore absurd to speak of the Jesus of the Gospels—and what other Jesus do we know unless it be some figment of men's minds?—as a rival of Lenin. Jesus Christ, as the power of God, can neither be defeated nor be victorious! He is not in competition with the known powers of this world; He is the power by which the world has been overcome.

Nevertheless, the world must choose, and indeed is always making its choice between Christ and Lenin. Had Jesus turned the stones into bread, He would have been greater than Lenin, and perhaps for a time gained a larger devotion. But He would not have been Christ, the Son of God.

"THE CRIME AT BLOSSOMS" TO BE MAJOR PRODUCTION

Victoria Dramatic Society Outlines Year's Programme

"The Crime at Blossoms", a satirical drama, will be presented as the Victoria College Dramatic Society's major production this season. It was announced at the open meeting of the society held in Wymilwood last night. The play will be presented in Hart House Theatre on November 30th, December 1st and 2nd.

Norman Nichol, the president, took charge of the meeting, which was very well attended, and introduced the director, Mr. Frank Hemingway, to the new members. Mr. Hemingway was the director of last year's presentation, "The Goose Hangs High", and of Toronto's Centennial Pageant.

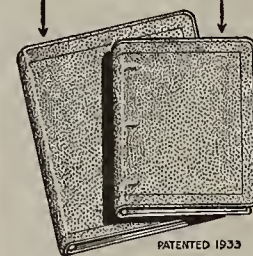

This year's executive consists of Evelyn Stewart, associate president; Rex Boyd, vice-president; Betty Boylen, secretary; and Gordon Jack, treasurer. The honorary president, Dr. J. D. Robbins, Principal and Mrs. Brown, Miss Muriel Manning, Miss Jessie McPherson, were present.

The club's activities will soon be in full swing, a large number having signed up for the one-act play groups and stage management groups. A. A. Milne's "The Man in the Carpet Slippers", a one act play, was enacted by Betty Boylen, George Hutchings, Osmond Rowe and Charlie Jolliffe. Refreshments completed the programme.

NEW "NUMBER" SYSTEM SAVES STUDENTS' TIME

Great savings in time and labour for students at the north end of the campus are expected with the introduction at Victoria College Library of a new system for filling out book application slips. On asking at the desk, each student will be given a Library Number. Then each time a book is taken out it will no longer be necessary to fill in the student's name, year, course, address and telephone number. By simply writing down his official number all this intricate detail will become unnecessary. The saving in ink, (generally supplied by the Library), and the lessening of wear and tear upon a thousand fountain pens, is beyond calculation.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

At 9.30 this morning the interfaculty tennis tournament gets under way with St. Hilda's, U.C., Vic, St. Mike's and Meds each entering six players—the cream of their crops selected by the tournaments run off last week. A keen interest than ever before has been shown by the large number of entries in the faculty tournaments which would point to better matches than ever today, tomorrow and Friday. And since the games are going to be on a finer scale, how about equaling it in enthusiastic support? In the past these players, from whom are to be chosen Varsity's intercollegiate tennis team, have performed before a pitifully small gallery. The tournament is being held at the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club, which is easily reached: from Yonge and Bloor take a Yonge car north to Price Street and walk east a short distance—and there is always the hope or chance you might get automobile transportation.

Today the first two rounds are being played and the entire tournament should be finished by Friday—always, of course, if the weather permits. On Monday and Tuesday anyone who was defeated in a close game or feels she failed to show herself to the best advantage can challenge in. However, by Tuesday evening, October 16, the intercollegiate team is to be definitely chosen. If the challenge games drag on longer the entire purpose in putting the tournament on earlier than usual will be defeated for the idea is to give the team a chance for plenty of rest and practice before the finals on the nineteenth. Varsity is out to win this year; we can prophesy more ably as to their chances when the first few rounds of the interfaculty play are completed.

The meeting of the Baseball Club which was called for Friday had to be postponed. It will be held sometime this week, but there is delay due to conflicts and trouble about practice hours.

Interfaculty sports are getting under way with a bang this week. As you have probably gathered by this time the tennis starts today. On Friday the golf tournament is scheduled. Those in charge had expected much enthusiasm and a rush of entries for so unique an event but, at present, they are very disappointed as very few names have been received to date. This tournament is really a marvellous opportunity and it will be nothing short of a disgrace if it proves to be a flop. Already two players have entered who are ladies' champions at their own clubs: Mary Jarvis, St. Hilda's, who holds the Grimsby Club championship, and Merle McBride, U.C., who is similarly ranked at the Big Bay Point Club. But you needn't be a champion to enter; it is quantity not quality we are looking for now.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The University College men's tennis tournament commences play this morning (Wednesday) at 9 a.m., on the courts of the U.T.S. athletic grounds (Aura Lee), off Avenue Road, first north of Pears Avenue. Saul Rae, last year's title holder is entered again, as are Jack Brunke, and Bert Barnes, and keen tournament play is expected. The following is the draw. Competitors will be defaulted after fifteen minutes from match time have elapsed.

Draw: S. . Rae vs T. F. C. Cole, W. Omand vs W. Kettlewell, K. Hall vs A. E. Macrae, C. Acheson vs M. Kert, H. T. Barnes vs C. W. Acker, S. A. Jennings vs B. Gerstein, L. E. Hampel vs J. J. D. Brunke, R. B. Hayes vs R. A. Daly.

KEEN COMPETITION EXPECTED AT MEET

School of Science Accorded Good Chance to Repeat

The interfaculty track meet will be held at Varsity Stadium this afternoon. School of Science, who won the Rowell Memorial Cup last year, are again fielding a strong team and will try to make it two wins in succession. When interviewed, Coach Hector Phillips, the ex-Olympic star, affirmed that the men were shaping up well and no injuries had been reported.

In the sprints Ashenbush, Caldwell and Harris are the leading contenders, while McGuire of Meds seems to have the quarter mile clinched.

Norm Campbell, Conway, Little and Rodzig will make the half mile an interesting race, and in the mile McGladerry, last year's champion, should be extended to the limit by Rankine.

The field events will provide plenty of competition. Alex Monroe, the ex-Olympic high jumper, is regarded as a sure winner in his event, but Milne from Hamilton will give him plenty of opposition. Ron Westheuser is expected to do big things in the discus and shot put.

Other men who will bear watching are Hickey and Hamilton in the hurdles, Eaton in the javelin throw, the MacKay brothers and Innes in the pole vault.

SUTTON, WILLIAMS, WURTS, WIN IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Bill Sutton, Ken Williams, and Gord Wurts, yesterday came home in front of the pack at the Lambton Golf Club, and as a result will occupy the three remaining positions on the intercollegiate golf team which will represent Varsity in the annual intercollegiate tournament which begins Friday. The winners turned in cards of 81, 82, and 83, respectively, defeating Johnson, Woodbridge, Pettall, Gleason, and Fortnum.

The winners will team up with Stan Biggs, Carl Burton, and George Steward, when the annual tourney opens later in the week. On Friday, entries from almost every University in eastern Canada, will meet in a 36 hole medal play for the individual intercollegiate title. Saturday, a six man team, from McGill will meet the Varsity team in an 18 hole, two ball foursome for the Rutnam Cup and the intercollegiate team title. The teams will play over the Lambton course.

BLUE SOCCER TEAM BEGINS WORK-OUTS

For some time now the interfaculty soccer teams have been out on the front campus practicing for the coming season, but this afternoon the intercollegiate team makes its first appearance. With a team riddled by graduations it is going to be a large job to round out a formidable contender. However, Varsity is lucky to have Art Halliwell as coach. Mr. Halliwell is one of Toronto's leading soccerites and a well known Canadian sportsman.

Although McCullough, Davidson and Goudy are gone there remain Davey, Rowland, Bowen, Jack, McPherson, Shuett and Rawlinson from last year's squad. The remainder of the team will be made up of some of the leading interfaculty players and some promising freshmen. In former years Knox has made the greatest contribution to the team but this year it is expected that other faculties will come to the front. Among these, School is counted on for a goodly portion.

Varsity has won the intercollegiate title for the last three years and hopes run high for this year's team.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

The world's series are over; both of them. And from now till next year the baseball will be played around the camps stove. One thing the series proved was that baseball can never belong in the silly class. The casualty list in the Detroit-Cardinal session was second only in magnitude to the textile strike affair. Poor old Mickey Cochrane; slashed and battered, he led his Tigers yesterday to one of the worst beatings they have consumed since they started their race for the American League flag last spring. The way the Cardinals were battering his pitchers around yesterday must have caused him more pain than the leg injury which kept him in the hospital the previous night. Blasting five pitchers from the box is something which seldom occurs in ordinary ball. But that series was of the extraordinary variety.

However, it is rather difficult to work up any undue sympathy on behalf of the Tigers when they are about now collecting a check for what most of us would welcome as a paid up salary for the next ten years. They are certainly well supplied with what it takes to compensate for such a loss. The entry of Joe E. Brown into the series was just an added attraction and another source of copy. If the Cardinals are smart they will sign the 135 lb. bone crusher up for several years for the express purpose of shaking hands with rival pitchers of dangerous ability. Despite the jinx Joey placed on the Tigers by shaking hands with Schoolboy Rowe, the fact remains that it was in the pitching department that the Detroit team failed. Personally we would have preferred to see the Tigers win. This is partially because we know a guy, who knows a guy, who once met one of the Tiger players and as a result we feel we are personally interested in the welfare of the Tigers. The big reason, however, is that we were looking forward to reading what David Walsh, Henry McLenore, Danzig, Hemmingway and such writers would say about a team who won the pennant for the first time in forty years. The Cardinals are in the habit of winning and as a result there is not near the scope for feature stories which a Tiger win would have permitted.

And while the Tigers were taking it on the chin and the Leafs were taking it in Columbus, the Varsity Blues are preparing for their first away game. They tangle with Joe Breen's Mustangs in London Saturday and from the battle the Mustangs gave Queen's Saturday, they must still possess quite a kick, despite the fact that they were reported to be rather weak. Incidentally the Mustangs usually reserve their home game with Varsity for their blue ribbon performance. All of which indicates that the Blue team will have to play different football to that of last week or they will be in the category of also rans before the season ends.

The way of the tennis player around Varsity is hard. Throughout America, tennis is considered as a major sport, and doubtless more than fifty per cent of the students at the University play the game. And yet there are no University courts. The tournaments are conducted at the Toronto Tennis Club, which is several miles from the University. This condition could stand to be remedied. Many fine players have left Varsity but there has been little effort made to produce successors to them.

CROWSON WINNER OF TENNIS MEET

Defeats W. P. Piggott, Former Varsity Champion, in Finals

SCORE 6-2, 6-4, 6-4

The interfaculty tennis championship passed from the hands of W. P. Piggott yesterday when he went down to defeat at the hands of H. C. Crowson of Dents in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. The new champion gave a good display of tactical tennis to hold Piggott in check throughout the match.

In the first set Crowson broke through service four times to win at 6-2 and at no time did Piggott threaten. Piggott was working on Crowson's backhand to little avail and his own service was not holding.

It was only in the second set that the loser commanded a lead. He broke through Crowson in the fourth game to lead 3-1, only to lose the next three, Crowson running out the set at 6-4.

In the last set Piggott was broken through in the first game and was unable to pull himself up again. Seven match points went by before the title changed hands, two on Piggott's service and five on Crowson's. The last game went to deuce nine times before Piggott lost out.

McGill University students have turned out in such numbers for ping pong matches at the school that a special bleacher section has been erected to accommodate all spectators.

HEAVY TRAINING BEGUN FOR MULOCK CUP GAMES

Senior and Junior School and Junior Meds Strong

This year's competition for the Mulock Cup has every appearance of being keener than ever. All teams have settled down to a severe training grind and should be in good condition for the opening games next week.

The faculties have been paying more attention to the obtaining of good coaches. Several new names appear in this list. Among the more noteworthy are Mel Elson, former Varsity star, who will guide Senior S.P.S.; Martin, flying wing with Argos, Dominion champions, will tutor Junior School, while "Flicker" Richardson has received the Junior Meds appointment.

These three teams loom up as probably the strongest in the interfaculty. The defending champions will lose many outstanding stars, among them Webber and Bridgeland. The latter's services as a kicker are lost to that team because of a "new" ruling, not allowing students in graduate studies to play with any other faculty. This is a severe blow to any hopes they may have of retaining their laurels.

Junior School are depending on a great deal of new material from collegiates in and around Toronto and should present a strong lineup. In the opinion of their manager, Ross Clark, a man of wide gridiron experience, they should "go places".

The presence of Newton and McKee, last year's intermediate stars, as well as Medlock and Berrens, two husky line men, should make Junior Meds real contenders.

Favourable reports have been emanating from the camps of Dents and U.C. While from O.A.C. we are in receipt of specially good news, chiefly in regard to their heavy line.

Trinity, last year's semi-finalists, have most of the old team back. In an exhibition game against Upper Canada College yesterday, however, although winning 13-0, they looked far

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

personal ambition, but by the desire for the good of his country. He stated that practically the whole of the German nation is behind him, and confirmed his statement by the fact that over 90 per cent had voted for him in the latest election.

When Hitler assumed Von Hindenburg's position, it was because there was no other person in Germany more fit, and because he was the choice of Von Hindenburg himself for his successor.

That Germany is eager for peace, was Mr. Winter's impression. Defensive purposes is her sole reason for increasing her army. She would not have withdrawn from the League of Nations had she been granted equal rights.

When questioned about the feeling of his country toward Britain, Mr. Winter replied that it is more friendly than to some other members of the League, and asked if he thought this might be due to a fundamental similarity in the tastes of the German and British peoples, he replied in the affirmative.

The Dean of St. Joseph's seemed amused by the idea, but the girls at her college will not patronize the bureau and that is definite. Both sisters felt that their shyer freshmen met plenty of young men at the Newman Club.

Miss Cartwright, Dean of St. Hilda's thoroughly disapproves of the project. She admitted that in a smaller opportunity to make friends. However, one does not come to the University the new students had more opportunity to make acquaintances in that way and I think the idea is ridiculous," she said in regard to the dating bureau.

When asked by The Varsity concerning his opinions of the proposed dating bureau, the Reverend Dr. Kingston, Dean of Residence of Trinity College, summed up his attitude in one clear sentence, "I don't think we are interested."

"So far as Trinity goes," said Dr. Kingston, "the students of both sexes have ample opportunity to meet at the regular receptions, year parties, and college dances. Each year has its own party where all the members of that class unite in a formal dance, as well as the regular college functions."

Dean Kingston remarked that there might be a need for the bureau in some colleges, but with regard to cles and committees; we must fight them back with the weapons they use themselves."

Speaking of the world movement against war and fascism M. Perigaud stated that he believed it to be very strong. The danger in England is not very great, he remarked, because the English were indifferent to fascism. "Oswald Mosley will have to wait," was his opinion, "but some day the English will wake up. In other countries we have to work harder than here." In Germany, he continued, the committee is sending newspapers written in German across the border, and the circulation has increased from 10,000 to 50,000. The movement has not gained much headway in Italy, he contended, because the Fascists had gotten in there before they had. He cited a case in Bulgaria where the premier would not allow the delegation of the committee to visit the king, despite the latter's written permission.

The time will come when President Roosevelt will be forced to make his choice between the workers and the capitalists, he concluded, and his choice will inevitably commit him to a form of Fascism. The workers, he explained, refuse to accept a thirty hour week without a proportionate increase in pay, while the industrialists refuse to pay higher wages for less work.

professors at the University who don't know how to spell." "The only people who can't spell are those that can't read," he said. "It is probably true that business men have to rely on their stenographers to write their letters for them, just as professors have some-one proof-read their manuscripts. I, myself am careful about my spelling, but I know the words I am apt to misspell, for instance judgment with an 'e', but by checking it over, I usually eliminate any errors. In my experience I have found university students uniformly good spellers."

One second year student who refused to be quoted stated that contrary to public opinion, the more one reads, the better one spells. She said that she has a sister of high school age who is a voracious reader, and yet is an abominable speller.

"Spelling is a knack," was the opinion of Pearl Garstein, third year Arts. "It is a gift which you either have or have not." On the other hand, Ruth Penson, U.C. II, gave it as her opinion that "Spelling is not a natural gift. It is one of the many things a person has to learn, but fortunately the main principles are drilled into one at an early age and it seems like second nature to be able to spell correctly."

out by the sophomores in conjunction with the Students' Council. It is felt that the same benefits will be derived from this programme as from former initiations, without incurring the hazards involved in other years."

In accordance with the resolution, the sophomore year planned and carried out a picnic and theatre party for the freshmen. The only item of discipline imposed on the class of '38 is the wearing of green hats and ties for a limited period.

An editorial in The Silhouette says that this action "demanded a great deal of courage on the part of the Council" and commends the idea and the spirit in which it was accepted by the sophomore year.

the present idea, laying less stress on violence, was all for the better.

Both speakers were loud in their praise of the men who made up the staff in medicine. "Both on this continent and in the Old Country," President Cody declared, "the Faculty of Medicine in Toronto is held in high regard." The president of the Medical Society, Mr. Roy G. Clark, also attested to the excellence of the staff, who with the aid of the Rockefeller Foundation, had made Toronto one of the best medical schools on the continent.

Dr. Fitzgerald in reply to the toast to the Faculty remarked on the number of medical students. "I view with misapprehension the large registration in medicine," he said, "it is larger than in any other university in North America."

In giving the toast to the University, Mr. J. A. Weddell, president of 470 spoke of the problems of the freshmen and thanked the sophomores for their kindness.

books beyond the comprehension of the ordinary student. Each university was left to interpret these conditions for itself. In addition the heads of each department have suggested books that might properly be bought under the grant. In almost every case these suggestions have been followed.

In the making of initial purchases with this grant, the curators of the library were very much helped by three students who were appointed to consider along with members of a sub-committee. Many of these suggestions are still on file and when the hoped-for browsing room at the library is opened, those books will be purchased in order to fill it. For this purpose, a large portion of the second instalment is being held.

HAMILTON LEADS IN OENTS' MEET

Despite the cool weather an increased number of participants were reported at the Dentistry track meet. Though partly due to the compulsory attendance of frosh, it is still a hopeful sign. One of the interesting, but less athletic events, was the walking race, contested by grease covered frosh and won by C. Downs, the only finisher.

I. Hamilton amassed the largest total of points with R. Partridge and N. Weldon tying for second place.

Results: 100 yards, J. Brown, G. McKewan, W. Joynt, 220 yards, G. McKewan, W. Joynt, O. Brown, 440 yards, W. Joynt, R. Partridge, C. Downs, 880, R. Partridge, B. Veitch, K. Shultis, Mile, R. ## EUROPEAN SITUATION NOT GRAVE BUT INFLUENCES FRENCH POLICY

Assassination Not Considered as Important as that of 1914

DIFFICULT TO PREDICT

Chaotic Condition of Europe Only Understood by Ruling Cliques

The assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia in Marseilles on Tuesday is not likely to have political repercussions as momentous as those of the shot at Sarajevo that set the world on fire some twenty ago, stated Professor N. A. Mackenzie, of the Department of Law, in a brief interview with The Varsity yesterday.

The consequences of the assassination of the King and of Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France will, however, vitally affect French foreign policy as well as all Yugoslavian policies.

In France, the result will be to set back Barthou's policy of keeping France dominant on the continent by recreating alliances with the smaller powers, France, having lost Poland, Continued on Page 4)

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Belgrade—The populace of Slovenia are in a state of turmoil over the supposed implication of Italians in the assassination of King Alexander. Police intervention prevented much bloodshed. Great unrest has been aroused by rumours that the helm of government will be seized by a military directorate under the control of a Serbian army clique. Queen Marie meets the new boy-king Peter II in Paris to confer on uncertain future.

Madrid—The worst of the revolt in Spain being over the government today announced the mobilization of troops to dislodge rebel forces in the northern mountain district.

Havana—The home of Mayor Gomez and the Central Police Station were targets for bombs and hand grenades hurled by terrorists today. Six persons were injured and police arrested over 100 suspects. (Continued on Page 2)

NEW PALESTINE THRIVING LAND

Student from Tel Aviv Tells Story of Home Country

IN SOCIOLOGY HERE

Within the last twenty-five years Palestine has undergone a great change to become at the present time a thriving community, with anticipation of increasingly great progress to come. Miss Miriam Kronick, first year student of Sociology here, who has just returned from a two-year sojourn in Palestine, bore witness to this in an interview with The Varsity.

In the modernistic city of Tel Aviv, the twenty-five year old Jewish city not far from old-world Jerusalem, Miss Kronick spent two years at the seminary where teachers in Hebrew for public schools throughout Palestine are trained.

When asked if she intended to return to Palestine after graduation here Miss Kronick answered, "Most assuredly yes, if it is at all possible. There is at present, and probably will be in five years' time, a great need for social service workers, for in spite of the fact that there is no unemployment problem in Palestine, there are many unemployables of eastern races who live in abject poverty without giving a thought to helping themselves and bettering their mode of living. These people, however, are not Jews.

CO-EDS AT McMASTER WON'T HAVE SMOKER

"The Varsity" Inaugurates Date Bureau

A student "Date Bureau" will be introduced at the University of Toronto, and operated through The Varsity, it was decided yesterday. The Date Bureau will embody the best points found in a survey of similar organizations at other Canadian and American universities.

The decision of The Varsity to operate a Date Bureau was made in view of the widespread demand which was evidenced by the student body, and because it was felt that the student paper would provide the only medium for contact with every faculty on the campus.

Students wishing to take advantage of the service offered by the Date Bureau are asked to fill in the registration blank which will be found elsewhere on this page, enclosing a photograph if possible. Enclose this with ten cents, in an envelope addressed to the Date Bureau, care of The Varsity, Hart House. The registration fee of ten cents will be refunded if a "date" is not arranged within two weeks from registration. This is the only charge which will be made.

The Date Bureau is operated by one person, and one person only. All correspondence is confidential. The identity of this individual will not be divulged.

THIS IS NEITHER A HOAX NOR A PUBLICITY STUNT. It is a conscientious effort on the part of The Varsity to remedy an evil which is at present an integral part of the social structure of this university. THERE IS NO REASON WHY ANY STUDENT SHOULD SIT AT HOME ALONE BECAUSE NO OPPORTUNITY FOR MAKING FRIENDS HAS BEEN PROVIDED. The Varsity is making an effort to obviate this evil, and your co-operation is needed to make it a success.

BEST BIDDER BUYS MAGAZINES

Periodicals from Reading Room to be Sold by Auction on Monday

FAIR ARRANGEMENT

An innovation is being made this year by the Library Committee of Hart House in the manner of disposing of the periodicals subscribed to by the House.

Each year the periodicals used in the reading room and the graduate common room are sold to the highest bidder at the beginning of the academic year. In previous years it has been the custom to place a bid list at the Hall Porter's desk on which the members of Hart House may record their bids for the various magazines and papers used in the House. The bid list closed at a stated hour and the highest bidder received the copies as they were withdrawn from the reading room throughout the year. This arrangement, however, Continued on Page 4)

Members of Faculty Make Comment on "Varsity Editorial"

KNOX, TRINITY SILENT

"Christ is the revelation of God," said Professor Cousland of Emmanuel College, expressing his opinion of the editorial appearing in The Varsity regarding the impossibility of building up a Godlike order, on the grounds that we do not rationally know God.

"By that I mean that Christ was sent for the purpose of revealing God to us," Professor Cousland continued, "and unless one is prepared to deny the keystone effect of the Christian religion, that Jesus is Christ, no distinction can be drawn between a society founded on Christian ideals and a Godlike society."

"However, so much of the thinking today acknowledges that there is a God, but refuses to admit that he is a God." Continued on Page 4)

SPECIAL RATES FOR LONDON TRIP

S.A.C. Makes Arrangements for Low Price Excursion Saturday

BAND TO PARADE

Arrangements have been made by the S.A.C. to obtain special excursion rates at a considerable saving for railway transportation to London, according to a report to The Varsity from Mr. E. A. Macdonald, general secretary. The regular excursion includes only points west of London, but this difficulty has been overcome by arranging the purchase of tickets to Mount Bridges, a small station just west of London, at a very reduced figure. The train may be boarded and left in London itself.

The Varsity band is making the trip with fifty members, and a parade at London has been arranged, as in previous years. It is anticipated that a large number of the students will give the team their support at the game. (Continued on Page 2)

THIRTY MEDICAL STUDENTS INCLUDING RUGBY STARS TO FACE STUDENT COURT

Alma Mater Society Has No Choice but to Prevent Members of Nu Sigma Nu from Entering Rugby Contests

CASE MAY BE ALTERED BY 50 PER CENT STUDENT VOTE

Teddy Reeves Refuses to Comment, Although Threatened with Loss of Three of Team's Nucleus, No Statement from Players

(Special to "The Varsity")

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 10 (C.I.P.)—The dispute between Queen's medical students and the Alma Mater Society, student government organization, has come to a standstill today. Thirty medical students have been charged with joining the Nu Sigma Nu, international medical fraternity, in spite of a ban against all Greek letter societies. Officers of the student court are now organizing for the trial which must take place within eight days.

The Alma Mater Society is understood to definitely regret having to take action, but under regulations adopted last spring all medical fraternity members are subject to loss of any participation in social, political, and athletic activities. Five members of Queen's Intercollegiate rugby squad are affected. They are How Hamlin, Bill Glass, Red McNichol, Earle and Dafoe. McNichol is away with scarlet fever and so will be no loss to the team.

All the players involved refused to comment for publication, but there is no doubt much that they will admit their guilt and automatically be barred from playing rugby. Hamlin and Glass stated last spring to a mass meeting on the fraternity question that in case of a showdown they would give up rugby.

ANTICIPATE BATTLE FOR SATURDAY GAME

Western Will Prove Real Menace for Senior Blue Team

SHIRK CAN HOOF

On Saturday the Varsity team journey to London to tangle with the Western University Mustangs. Coach Stevens is expecting no easy or one-sided victory over the reputed weak team from Western Ontario. The latter gave Queen's highly rated team a real scare last Saturday and thoroughly enjoyed doing it. We can conceive of nothing Western would prefer doing than to hand Varsity a drubbing and consequently upset the pre-season dope.

That game at Kingston last Saturday proved that Western are not going to be so easy to topple as was previously imagined. They have a powerful line and a great hoover in Shirk, who should provide plenty of opposition for Bob Isbister. The local team came Continued on Page 4)

Anticipate A Brilliant Social Season This Line-up Gives a Real Good Reason

Information given The Varsity yesterday by various societies and committees on the campus indicates that the coming social season for the University of Toronto will be one of the most brilliant ever enjoyed by students of this university.

The highlight and chief social function of this term will be, as ever, the annual Hart House Masquerade, which will be held on November 16th. Indications are that this dance will be definitely of the high standard of former years.

University College will make its entrance into the season with a first year party to be held shortly in the Women's Union. This will be a "get-acquainted" party where the first year students wear nameplates and "steerers" make it their business to introduce freshmen and freshmen. The low cost will make it possible for every member of first year to attend. On October 26th the students of University College will gather at the Royal York Hotel, where Jack Slatter and his band will provide the music. The chief entertainment of the fall will be the U.C. Follies at Hart House on November 30th. This affair provides, as well as dancing, skits by each of the years in competition for a trophy. A Senior Dance for members of the graduating year is being planned by the Continued on Page 4)

"VANITY OF VANITIES"

The world is mad. Our civilizations are mad-houses in which the frenzied capers of the people are dignified with the lofty title of progress and the most insane policies are captioned wisdom. Our days are spent in bemoaning our folly and perpetuating it. The sins of the fathers are eagerly pursued by their sons. Even the reformer, although not touched by conventional insanity, is insane in dreaming of an ideal existence for people who are unfit for it.

War is our greatest folly. Men cannot live in different cultures, speak different languages, and dwell together in amity if the borders of their countries touch. The slightest excuse is sufficient to fire enthusiastic patriotism. Ten million men were sacrificed, in the last catastrophe, to atone for an assassin's bullet. Other millions were permanently disabled. The foundation of morals was uprooted. The entire structure of the world's economic life was overthrown. The drama of evolution re-staged its primitive scenes. Chaos and anarchy arose triumphant throughout the western world. The Far East learned a new way to find its place in the sun. The world was again reduced to ashes. The combatants gained nothing from the struggle. Victors and vanquished suffered equally in the resultant hardships. Suspicion and duplicity became the only heritage. The systems of government successfully defended against the encroachments of the Hohenzollerns have fallen before the demands of the post-war generation.

We ought to have learned our lesson but we have not done so. The nations are no closer to an amicable solution of their problems than they ever were. Law-courts preserve peace and dispense justice in the narrow limits of the particular state but this principle of deciding problems is not satisfactory to those men who must bolster up their policies with an appeal to the primitive. We seek peace by increasing armaments. Abortive conferences are our closest approach to sanity. The dove of peace is besmirched with the foul smoke from our guns. Mars laughs at the folly of his marionettes while the puzzled ministers of peace ask but one question: "Why do men engage in war?" The insane can give no reasons for their actions!

Modern science has made many valuable contributions to our comfort and knowledge. But when we consider the incapacity of men to use these gifts aright we feel that science is either premature or should never have arisen. The automobile was designed to minister to our comfort, eliminate difficulties of travel, and to add to our happiness. We have turned it into a machine of death. More people are maimed or killed through the carelessness and insanity of irresponsible drivers than by any other single agency. Furthermore, science has invented the most miraculous machinery to eliminate the drudgery of work but we are unable to adjust our economic system to gain the benefit of this new condition. Invention has increased unemployment and consequent hardships. Worst of all, this very ministry for good has succumbed to the demands of our folly. Many of the most brilliant brains are devoted to the creation of new and more efficient weapons of destruction. Lethal gas, powerful guns, and aeroplanes have brought all non-combatants into the range of battle and removed any glamour which war may ever have contained. Science has reduced it to a butchery with the nation possessing most money and the greatest number of potential victims almost sure of success.

Education is another benefit we have misused. It has only served to disseminate our discontent. The ranks of the politically disgruntled are rapidly increasing without any unity of ideals. The most contrary theories are offered for the cure of civilization's ills. Each of them is offered as a panacea by its interested promoters. Men have grown weary of logic and resorted to force. Ardent pacifists believe in revolution. Hundreds of men are killing and being killed for the right to live. Fascism and Communism demand political freedom of speech to criticise the established order although their own systems are definitely safeguarded by the suppression of all free speech. The pages of history have been turned back and the most despotic tyrannies erected in the name of progress.

What of the other follies? We pay millions of dollars for the support of churches to instruct and inspire us in the way of morality and then expose ourselves to the vulgarity of Hollywood. Elevators

ART, MUSIC AND DRAMA

Promenade Concert

Tonight's Promenade Symphony Concert promises to be one of the brightest spots of the "Prom" series. Alberto Guerrero, one of Canada's most distinguished musicians, is to be the guest artist and will play the famous Grieg concerto in A minor for piano.

Reginald Stewart, the popular conductor of the Promenade Symphony Orchestra, will direct his splendid musicians in a programme of tremendously appealing music. The featured symphonic work will be the Italian Symphony of Mendelssohn. Mr. Stewart reports that as far as can be ascertained, this will be the first time this great work has ever been performed by a symphony orchestra in Canada.

Other works to be included in the Promenade Concert programme will be Tchaikowsky's thrilling Marche Slave and the overture to Ambroise Thomas' best-known opera, "Mignon".

CORRESPONDENCE

"LENIN OR CHRIST?"

To the Editor of The Varsity, Toronto.

May I congratulate you on your Wednesday's article, "Lenin or Christ?"

Long ago, in the reign of Chaz, before years of depression had scared and hardened the outlook of all the citizens, when optimism was still alive, it was customary for the Cat occasionally to print a plea for Contributions. Every morning the Feature Editor scanned his mail with a sunny face, hoping to find some sparkling bit of humour to live up his column.

It never came.
And still he hoped.

Hope died, and he graduated, a hard, cynical, misanthropic egg, to seek his fun by putting cinders on children's slides, and frightening babies in their perambulators.

But now, when Hope has broken the last string on her little harp and given up in disgust, now, without any appeal, no less than two contributions have turned up in our mail. We thank the correspondent from Trinity for his poem, and regret, etc.

However, the Dental correspondent brings up a personal question. He suggests that the scansion of his lyric fits it for use with "The Christian Sunday School". (The tune, not the movement.) It follows:

Joab was a general
King David's private 'tec;
And those whom Davey didn't like
He quickly made a wreck.
He got away with murder—
At least so it is said—
But he put on an act with 'Nijah
AND he didn't die in bed.
So they had a Joab in the Bible too.

are full of wheat and children starve for want of food; cotton-crops are ploughed under or burned while citizens face the rigours of winter dressed in rags. We select men of honest intention to represent our interests in parliament and promote the good of the country; we appoint other men to set up commissions to investigate their depredations. We attend university in search of learning and require constant supervision and the threat of examinations to make us work. There remains only one pertinent question; are we creating a culture or merely cutting paper-dolls? . . .

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By W. A. Crochower

As we looked up into the stands at the interfaculty track meet yesterday afternoon and counted as many as fifty spectators—this count is absolutely unofficial since we probably counted some fans twice since they kept moving all over the place—we were once more convinced that this world of ours, particularly the part which is made up of sports fans, goes on in just the same old manner in spite of beverage rooms, date bureaux and other diversions. Our reason for feeling so optimistic was that last year there were forty-nine track fans and, if anything, the students were awakening to the benefits to be derived from watching a track meet. Personally, we never did enjoy a track meet and never will and therefore we will not comment on the entertainment value of yesterday's meet. Besides, the purpose of this paragraph was to inform all you lads that the cause of yesterday's afternoon holiday was a track meet. Fancy that.

The final results gave S.P.S. the Rowell Memorial Cup for the second year in succession with Meds twelve points behind and U.C. in third position seven points behind the Meds. Two interfaculty records were broken when Westheuser sent the discus 127' 10", beating the old record by 4' 2 1/4" and Munroe beat the high jump record by 1 1/16" in leaping 5' 9 5/8". There were three double-winners declared, Cooper of Victoria, Caldwell of Meds and Munroe of O.C.E. Incidentally this lad Caldwell turned in the best two performances of the afternoon to win both sprint events.

We did enjoy one thing at the meet and that was the dispatch with which the events were run off. The officials seemed to look after their end very well and for a change the view of the spectators was not blocked due to the large number of officials—some of you smart lads will at once say that this was so because there were no spectators. Incidentally while on the subject of officials we would like to point out the fine record of Mr. J. W. Geddes who has been an official at the interfaculty track meet for the last forty years.

Things are fairly popping down at Queen's about the fraternity situation. It seems that membership in a Greek letter society has been forbidden by the Alma Mater Society, the student government organization. However, some thirty medical students refused to obey the rule and participated in initiation proceedings. As a result of this these students are to be tried for their offence. Now the fly in the ointment is that five Queen's football players are included among the thirty accused and since the athletic board of control is pledged to uphold the verdict of the trial, these five lads will be put off the football squad if found guilty. The students have practically admitted their guilt and as a result How Hamlin, Red McNichol, Bill Glass, regulars, and Earle and Dafee will be put off the squad. McNichol has scarlet fever so that his case isn't important. However, Ted Reeve will suffer a hard blow as he was counting on the other four players. Their removal from the squad will give Stevens' Blues the title for the third successive year but we feel sure that Steve would rather win it the hard way. There is no glory in winning a title by a courtroom decision.

At yesterday's weekly scrimmage with St. Michael's Warren Stevens' intercollegiate senior squad once again were shown that they are very weak on the line. Harris was not out due to an arm injury sustained in Monday's game and this didn't help matters at all. The team as a whole feels sure of a victory at London this Saturday and should come through as expected. We have been told that for a very modest sum the students can travel to Western and give the boys the odd yell—"very modest" if said students fail to do business with the government. So let's see a big turnout at London fellows. A win this Saturday will put the Blues in a good position for the crucial series with Queen's.

Judging from the grunts which we heard coming from Lew Hayman's throat last night we can safely say that the Seconds are showing a change of form. Although rated highly the intermediates last Saturday turned in as sloppy a game as we have ever seen. With practice the squad is sure to improve and should put up a good fight against the Queen's squad this Saturday. It is expected that the fight for the title will be between the Queen's aggregation and the Blues. As a result Saturday's game should see the Blues in top form.

A very flattering interest is being shown in Squash this season, and a great many new players are taking up the game. The Squash Committee plans a busy season for Hart House squash teams, and efforts are being made to bring about a match with McGill University. In consideration of this rivalry is likely to be keen among the devotees of the game. The ranking lists are being prepared at present, and old players and freshmen alike should sign the lists which have been posted on the Squash Bulletin Board for this purpose.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

The first two rounds of the tennis tournament were run off yesterday, leaving eight players to battle through to the finish today and tomorrow. There were no startling upsets except Lenore Fraser, who ranked high in the U.C. tournament, but lost out in the second round yesterday in two close sets which Marjorie Mosbaugh, St. Mike's, took 9-7, and 6-4.

Jean Davey and Agnes Gardner will be on the courts again tomorrow, and from the exhibitions which they gave today there seems little doubt but what they will retain their positions on the intercollegiate team. Madge Shaw also showed herself to be a real player. In the first round she defeated Macia Campbell in two love sets. Her second match with Alma Burfield was close throughout—chiefly a baseline game. For the fourth place on the team it will probably be a toss-up between survivors!

Running Broad Jump Proves Close Contest, Won by Quarter Inch

MEDS, U.C., RUNNERS UP

S.P.S. successfully defended the Rowell Memorial Cup yesterday afternoon when they piled up the largest number of points in the interfaculty track meet. Meds and U.C. placed second and third respectively.

Alex Monroe garnered the individual honours with Cooper, Caldwell and Westheuser pressing close behind. The running broad jump provided the closest contest of the day when Cooper won the event by one-quarter of an inch, U.C. pulled off a spectacular win in the relay when Campbell running as anchor man overcame a ten yard lead to beat the Engineer's entry.

ANTICIPATE BATTLE FOR SATURDAY GAME

through that weird McGill fixture unseated and all the players will be available on Saturday. In addition, Perry, Powell and Taylor will be back in the line-up. With another week's practice tucked away the Varsity team should play football far superior to their previous effort against McGill.
However, that was the opening game of the schedule and with it in the win column should at least provide Varsity with a good stimulant for their tussle.
Meanwhile Coach Breen is preparing the Mustangs for the fray in an attempt to open the home season with a victory. The resultant game looms up as an interesting one and should conclusively demonstrate just how strong the Western team really are.

Down at the other end of the circuit McGill play host to Queen's in what should be a close, exciting contest. The title aspirations of the Sha-men received a severe jolt here, and they will be all out to hand Teddy Reeves and his gang of football gallants their initial setback. McGill's line showed to distinct advantage here and if their backfield takes on the necessary punch Queen's are in for a battle.
Against Western the Tricolor line was woefully weak and strengthening is needed here. So until Saturday's games we'll see you at the Date Bureau.

dance tickets. These are now being held by the authorities pending settlement. It is understood that the articles will be returned to the students if they pay the admission price to the theatre which they had evaded in their mad rush to the scene of the enter-

"We regard the action of the students in Shea's Hippodrome Theatre last Tuesday night as an unimportant occurrence, caused probably by natural exuberance. We will take no action," the police officials stated in discussing the affair, which followed the Meds soph-frosh banquet in Hart House.

The desk sergeant at No. 2 Station did not consider the matter important.
"It is the custom to be lenient with university students as a concession to their obvious inadequate learning and training," he said.

All the data on the case has been turned over to the University authorities for investigation.

FACULTY DISCUSSES CHRISTIAN ORDER

personal one. In that case, an argument could arise on this subject."

Professor MacLeod, also of Emmanuel College, stated that in his belief, the quotation from Dr. Brewster's speech was misunderstood. "His statement that the Russians are building a Godly order among a Godless people is, of course, a contradiction in terms," said Professor MacLeod. "One of the contributions of the Christian religion is that it revalues human personality, and efforts to create a Godly order must always respect this."

Professor MacLeod declared that the real dynamic force for a good society lay in what the individual believed God to be, and the Christian religion was meant to provide the means of revealing the nature of God to man.

Professors in Trinity and Knox Colleges declined to make any statement on the editorial.

FRATERNITY QUESTION MAY ELIMINATE QUEEN'S PLAYERS

not his business and refused to comment. It is generally admitted that with five of their players missing, Queen's will stand little chance of getting far this season. John Kostuik, captain of the senior team, is one of the Control Committee of the A.M.S. which brought about the investigation. He expressed the opinion that the court is nonsense, but is legally bound to force action against the offenders.

Student opinion on the question is vague as yet, but a referendum may be taken within a few days to find out what stand is taken by students this year. In such a case, 50 per cent of the student body must cast ballots in order that any opinion should take effect.

The dispute started last winter when after months of heated discussion, a supervisory committee was organized in February to control the social activities of students. The committee consisted of representatives of the Alma Mater Society executive, the student body in each of the three different faculties, and the staff. Both factions of student opinion agreed to abide by its decisions. The decision was the placing of a ban on all fraternities.

EUROPEAN SITUATION NOT CONSIDERED GRAVE

wants to have an understanding with Italy, and yet does not wish to lose the friendship of Yugoslavia and the Little Entente. This was probably the reason for King Alexander's visit to France. Barthou himself was to go to Rome in November to confer with Mussolini.

The question of who is to rule Jugoslavia will likely be settled for the present by having some group form a regency to continue the military dictatorship. Further developments, said Professor Mackenzie, were hard to foresee, but they might include a move for secession by the Croats. In that case Italy may be tempted to expand into the Adriatic region, or Hungary may attempt to regain some territory.

"The situation is chaotic and it is impossible for any ordinary mortal to make a prediction on European affairs," said Professor Lewis of the German Department, Trinity College, when asked for opinions by The Varsity concerning the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

"The intrigues between countries in Europe are not known to the masses but only to exclusive cliques in certain of the capital cities. The happenings of Tuesday are only another proof of the uncertainty of the situation."

Professor Lewis stated that he felt quite baffled when confronted with the thought of Europe's future and he believed that it was only the authorities in foreign offices who were at all acquainted with the subject of what will happen next and even they were ignorant at times.

"I don't think that this assassination has at all the same significance as the memorable one before the last war, since it was carried out by one of his own subjects." Professor Lewis also pointed out the fact that if affairs had appeared as dangerous as they turned out to be the French would have taken more precautions to guard the king as he rode in the procession on Tuesday.

He said that he was more at home with the German situation but even there the unexpected happened as was shown by the massacre on June 30 which was entirely unperceived.

Professor Lewis is going to address the Commerce Club tonight and he will comment on the German situation.

BRILLIANT SOCIAL SEASON

Women's Undergraduate Association.

Victoria College will contribute to the social season with three informal Scarlet and Gold Dances, the first of which will be held in Wymilwood on the twentieth of this month. In addition to these there will be four parties, one for each year, and the At-Home dances of the various residences. The women of the Victoria College Union are also planning a tea dance to be held shortly. Later on, in mid winter, will take place the event of Victoria's social season, the annual At-Home, as well as those of the Music Club, the Dramatic Society and the Athletic Union, and more year parties.

The Faculty of Dentistry will entertain at an informal Halloween Dance on October 31st, which will be followed by the festival known as Noctem Cuckoo. On October 26th the Medical Soph-Frosh dance will take place in the ballroom of the Royal York Hotel, at which the first year men entertain their seniors.

School Night, the big night for S.P.S., will take place about midterm although a definite date has not yet been selected. There will also be a Soph-Frosh dance for Schoolmen and a number of year parties.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Sarajevo—Population inflamed by the announcement that the slayers of King Alexander were Italian. French police arrest alleged conspirators; Italians disclaim responsibility for the tragedy, stating that passports of suspects were forged.

London—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson sails today for Canada with Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Professor O. D. Skelton. This announcement caused some surprise at Ottawa and its accuracy is doubted.

Ottawa—Rate of interest on saving deposits by Dominion government, post office savings banks will be reduced to 2 per cent on November 1.

London, Ont.—Dr. Herbert M. Little, professor of obstetrics at McGill University, died of heart disease a few minutes after leaving the court house where his three brothers faced charges of fraud.

Kingston—The Alma Mater Society may defer action against the 30 medical student members of an international fraternity pending the taking of a referendum by the students.

DOUBLE HEADER COMES TO STADIUM

Intermediates Promise Thrilling Games for Saturday

Those who cannot afford to accompany the Big Blue team to London this week-end may be consoled by the fact that one of the best double headers in years is scheduled for Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon. The first game brings together Varsity and Queen's intermediates, while Lew Hayman's champion Argonauts meet the Ottawa "Michigans" in the second contest.

In spite of the fact that the Big Four battle has been getting all the publicity, the intermediate game looks almost as attractive. The results of last week's games prove that Toronto will not have such an easy task in winning the group title as they did last year, and Queen's loom up as their chief opposition. The Tricolor have several players in their lineup who would be in senior company were it not for the freshman rule, and after their one sided victory over Ottawa College, they expect to take Varsity in their stride.

Date Bureau Now in Operation

The Date Bureau, inaugurated yesterday by The Varsity, has been given a very satisfactory reception, it was stated by the operator of the Bureau last night. A number of registration forms have been received at The Varsity office, the majority of them from male students. It is expected that many registration forms from co-eds are now in the mails, and will be received today.

Students wishing to take advantage of the service offered by the Date Bureau are asked to fill in the registration blank below, enclosing a photograph if possible, and a registration fee of ten cents. This fee will be the only charge made for the service, and will be refunded if a date is not arranged within two weeks after registration. The Date Bureau is operated by one person and one person only. The identity of this person will not be divulged. All correspondence is confidential.

Again The Varsity wishes to state definitely that this is neither a hoax nor a publicity stunt. It is a serious effort on the part of The Varsity to remedy an evil which, unfortunately, is now a part of our social organization at the University. THERE IS NO REASON WHY ANY STUDENT SHOULD SUFFER BECAUSE NO OPPORTUNITY FOR MAKING FRIENDS HAS BEEN PROVIDED. If you are interested in making friends with members of the other sex, you are urged to co-operate by mailing your registration today to the Date Bureau, Care of The Varsity, Hart House.

FOUR YOUNG MEN ORGANIZE C.C.Y.M.

To Awaken Interest in Unemployment Problems in Canada

ALREADY 10,000 MEMBERS

A talk by Professor F. H. Underhill of the department of History of the university on the subject of "Youth and Politics" will be a feature of a meeting to be held by the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement in the Labour Temple, Church Street, on Saturday evening. This meeting is a part of the programme of a conference being held by the movement next Saturday and Sunday in Cumberland Hall, Yonge Street above Bloor Street.

Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement is now being organized in Ontario under the leadership of four young men who went to Winnipeg last summer to attend a conference of the western section of the movement in that city. The movement is a separately organized and separately controlled affiliate of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation. A large number of district groups have already been organized in Ontario, with an aggregate membership of 10,000. The aim of the movement is to awaken the interest of young people in the problems of government and of unemployment.

Further information may be secured from Murray Gotteril, Midway 3480, or Bill Grant, Kingsdale 8172.

ENGLISH SYSTEM DUE FOR CHANGE

Oxford and Cambridge Are to Give Place to London

MANY DISAGREE

"Bunk!" This was the opinion of Professor F. R. Crocombe of the department of Political Science, in an interview with The Varsity concerning a statement by Sir Michael Sadler, retiring master of University College, Oxford. Sir Michael said that he believed Oxford and Cambridge were doomed as centres of academic life, that London University would one day be the most famous and influential of English universities.

Professor Crocombe, a Cambridge man, felt himself out of touch with the universities in England but said, "There is an influence and atmosphere at Cambridge that one does not get in a newer university. There is no chance of the older universities losing their grip. New industrial developments, however, will give London and Birmingham great advantage, as the students will be on the spot to see the practical side."

Professor Flenley of the History department, thought it an exaggeration to suggest that Oxford and Cambridge were declining. "Higher education is spreading. There is a more accessible educational ladder, with more accessible rungs, and being in greater demand there will be more centres of learning."

Professor Brett of University College thought the whole question was a peculiar one. "London is essentially an examining university by its own tradition, whereas Oxford and Cambridge are residential tutorial institutions, so that they satisfy different ideals of educational method. In his judgment the fact that London University might have 50,000 students some day was a 'form of condemnation sufficient in itself'. He doubted whether London would ever be successful in its bid for supremacy as the educational centre of England."

When Professor McDougall of the History department was asked if he thought London University would gain ascendancy in England over Oxford and Cambridge, he replied: "That is what they said 100 years ago when the Charter was granted to London University."

Staff Meeting

The first business meeting of The Varsity staff will be held at the Women's Union at 5 p.m. today. Tea will be served at 4.30; everyone is expected to attend.

WEIGHTY MATTERS TO BE DISCUSSED IN PARLIAMENT

Rt. Hon. Nathan M. Pivnick Takes Chair at First Meeting

HERMANT OUTLINES POLICY

Death Dues, Capital Levy Included in Scheme for Collecting Funds

The University College Parliamentary Club held its first, weekly meeting for the season yesterday afternoon in the Junior Common Room, with brilliant success. A well attended House, with the Rt. Hon. Nathan Maxwell Pivnick newly elected to the chair, on hand to greet His Excellency the Governor-General, Lord Sidney of Hermant, who arrived in state at 4.16 p.m. The speech from the throne, containing an outline of government policy for the coming session, was warmly received and hotly discussed. The points put forward included a scheme for collecting funds (by death duties and a capital levy), a "back to the land" movement, and a reform of the constitution. This involved the abolition of the army and navy—tremendous applause—and of Privy Council appeals; re-organizing of the Senate; and repealing of section 98 in the criminal code. The government also would strengthen the federal control of industry.

Comments from the House were made by a great number, among others the Rt. Hon. Mr. A. C. Smith, who picked out flaws in the government's economic ideas and developed his own, stressing inflation. The dangers of this latter were expounded in a lengthy reply by the Rt. Hon. Mr. Beamish. Other speakers pled the farmers' cause. The question of the army alienated many from the opposition benches; and in the end the government was sustained.

SOCIAL INTERESTS NOT PARAMOUNT

Academic Work Claims Most of Undergraduates' Time at Queen's

"GAY LIFE" DENIED

Queen's University, far from being an illustration for a "College Humour" story, has less social life than the University of Toronto, according to Queen's graduates now at Varsity. The Queen's students are not the social butterflies that rumour at this University would have them.

"I don't believe there is as much social life at Queen's as there is here," said Miss Helen Kennedy, former women's editor of the Queen's Journal, and now at the Library School. "There are no sororities, and the girls there are generally more around the women's residences. There are not a great many dances—each of the three faculties has a formal dance, and only one college dance is allowed a week." The Queen's Dating Bureau, which has given rise to much of the gossip about Queen's "gay life", operated quite successfully last year, according to Miss Kennedy, but the majority of dates were with town girls rather than with girls in residence.

Miss A. B. Brodie, a Queen's graduate, thought much of the publicity about Queen's social life was due to the fact that the university is smaller, and so "everybody goes to everything." "The freshettes, who all live in residence, are only allowed one late leave a week," Miss Brodie stated. "As for eight o'clock—it was a bit difficult to go out and stand them too—but we managed."

ITALIAN INSTITUTE NOW AT COLUMBIA

Italy Considers Toronto for Establishment of New Centre

KEEN INTEREST NECESSARY

The keen interest of the Italian Government in fostering the study of Italian art and culture is exemplified in the establishment of the Instituto di Cultura Italiana in New York at Columbia University. The purpose of the Institute is to give first hand information to all students interested in Italy's contribution to the world since the meteoric heights attained in ancient times in the realm of science and fine arts and culture, as well as bringing to mind the important discoveries of the present day along these lines.

Realizing the importance of the University of Toronto as being the intellectual centre of Canada, with its enrolment of 8,000 students, the Italian Government has under consideration the establishment of such a centre at the University of Toronto. The importance of this lies in the fact that to all student classes of Canada would be available an immense fund of Italian knowledge. To warrant such an undertaking there would have to be an immense interest shown in Italian art and culture otherwise it would be useless. As yet there is nothing definite in carrying out this tremendous project, but of a certainty the University of Toronto will be duly honoured in the future when these plans materialize.

STUDENT SERVICE ENTERS NEW FIELD

German Emigre Students and Professors Receive Aid

OUTLAY OF $15,000

The International Student Service is an organization established for the interchange of students among various countries as a means of fostering a clearer understanding between various ethnic groups.

The activities of this association include the maintenance of work camps, where foreign students are enabled by the work-a-day contact to secure a finer appreciation of each other, the organization of student travel groups, enabling students to travel.

During the past year a new phase was added to the I.S.S. activities by the inauguration of a system of financial aid for German emigre students and professors, who were compelled to abandon their studies and researches. In a period of nine months about 1000 refugees received assistance. A financial outlay of $15,000 was involved by this work, which centred about Geneva, Paris, and London, and which was supported by committees in Holland, Scotland, the United States, Belgium, Italy, Palestine, Spain and Turkey.

Many Players Don Mustang Uniforms for First Time

Varsity BACKFIELD STRONG

Bill Bryant and Stu Carver Will Lead Western Into Action

On Saturday morning the Varsity senior football team entrain for London, where they will tangle with Joe Breen's Mustangs in an effort to make it two straight and one rung further up the ladder to that third consecutive intercollegiate championship.

The Blue line looked anything but impressive in the college opener against the Redmen and after Wednesday night's lethargic performance against St. Michael's, Warren Stevens took time out to watch the intermediates drill, probably with the thought of using one or two against the Purples on Saturday.

The backfield has been playing heads up ball and with Bob Isbister booting the pigskin for the proverbial mile and throwing his deadly passes, the Mustangs will find the going far from easy.

Captain Bill Bryant and his fellow backs will be capably looked after by Andy Henderson and his fleet outsidies. These boys are fast and tacklers of the shoe string variety.

The quarterback duties will, in all probability, be shared by Bobbie Coulter and Miller. Both have proven themselves as four star field generals in the heaviest going.

The big Purple team have practically a whole new backfield led by Captain Bill Bryant and supported by "Stu" Carver, a graduate of the Oshawa Blue Devils, also Parker and Campbell, two new men from the intermediates. Charlie Box, brother of Ab Box of Argo fame, will handle the quarterback position, while Sherk will do the booting.

COURT ARTISTS SEEK TENNIS TITLE

Varsity Team Receiving Professional Instruction This Week

PLAY AT MONTREAL

On Thursday the 18th, Varsity's senior tennis players, Crowson, Piggott, Eaton, Hermant and Black, will invade Montreal in their quest for the intercollegiate title. Competition will be supplied by the representatives of McGill, Queen's, and the University of Montreal.

The local team, which is made up of the semi-finalists in the interfaculty tournament, and Ken Black, who won the doubles with Tomlinson. All five have been entered in various tournaments throughout the past summer. Eaton, Piggott and Hermant made a tour of the eastern states, Crowson won the Ottawa championship, and Black, who hails from the west, is holder of the Saskatchewan doubles crown.

McGill, who were winners last year, have been weakened by the graduation of Laird Watt, the Davis Copper. They still have in Bobby Murray, the singles champion of Quebec, the foundation for a strong team.

Little is known of the potential strength of the U. of M. on whose courts the matches will be played. With the coaching of Marcel Rainville they ought to be able to put up a good showing.

The Toronto team has been receiving professional instruction at the tennis club this week and will leave at the beginning of next week for Montreal where they will have a few days to become acclimatized.

HUMOUR AND POLITICS

Shortly after his involuntary retirement from the Presidency of the United States, Mr. Hoover was asked as to how he now spent his time. He replied to the effect that he spent the morning reading the despatches from Washington, and the rest of the day laughing. The ex-President may have passed the boundaries of good taste, but he at least said something very funny. We might gladly trade some of the dignity and weight associated with public utterance for a little more genuine humour. But not only was Mr. Hoover's remark witty: it was also profound. He himself, of course, did not grasp the full meaning of his own words, for as far as he was concerned they were simply begotten of intense bitterness. But in reality he laid down an eminently sound principle for political observers. When we have learned that the chief end of government is to stimulate mirth, we may be on the road to wisdom.

It is a doubtful point whether the legal or the political profession most conceals the irony inherent in its trade. But at least there is a large lay public to scoff, whenever the thought occurs, at the foibles of lawyers, while almost no one considers himself sufficiently detached from the body politic to emit an unbiased laugh. Hence the pomposity, the magnification of petty issues, the unsmiling seriousness of debate which characterise political argument in general. We all feel so closely bound to that all-important institution, government, that even academic disinterestedness is rare. Our future, our very existence, hinges on this or that policy or that party! If one of the parties in a general election brought forward a platform of universal suicide, the debate might be more clamorous, but it could hardly be more serious than when the issue is half a degree's difference in the height of the tariff barrier.

We do sometimes find cause for amusement in the complications of European politics. Cartoonists are apt at drawing pictures to expose the sheer ridiculousness of the intrigues which set Europe writhing. Such cartoons always distinguish the politicians of the separate nations with the utmost clarity, by means of suitable moustaches, beards, teeth, or other highly personal characteristics. All these figures are calculated to arouse instant mirth, except in some cases the drawing of stolid John Bull, which usually sobers patriotic Canadians. Far be it from us to discourage such merriment, which is healthy and just. But our amusing contemporaries in Europe are in any case dealing hourly with matters more critical than we have ever encountered here. Yet the hollow seriousness of our own political life continues to absorb the very people who may rejoice to be living outside Europe, and even at Universities, institutions like the Macdonald-Cartier Club and the Liberal Club and the C.C.F. Club have not been laughed out of existence. And indeed, at Universities the most sober, as well as the most omniscient people are those who have lifted themselves above the common herd of men who are swayed by political emotions and prejudices, and have gone seeking the exact and indubitable truth about Political Science!

Yet, this seriousness can go beyond the superficially amusing, beyond mere pomposity. It is easy to laugh at an absorption in mock efficiency and in policies that hardly matter. It is not so light a thing, when men exalt the State with terrific earnestness, and make a rarefied politics the arbiter of human life. In the eighteenth century it was believed by many that the form and activity of the State would mould character and produce a better breed of men. In these latter days many believe it again, and Communism and Fascism rise up to re-make humanity. The State and the science of the State loom up large and horrible; for the theory runs that in the State we altogether live and move and have our being. We are no longer individuals, personalities, but elements in this monstrous, all-inclusive entity.

The theory is appalling, and fraught with practical consequences which will be far from pleasant. Yet we may do well to reflect that this fierce exaltation of high politics is in the end as unsubstantial as the old, time-worn parties and policies which we mock. Men, finding themselves in direst need, turn to this State which rises so imposing in the mind's eye. But life is not contained in the State, nor ever can be. It is but an imagined bulwark against destruction and despair, a last stand made by human beings against ultimate reality. Wiser men would know in advance that an horse is a vain thing for safety, and that we cannot evade human necessity by any kind of device we may create. In Germany, in Russia, desperate men rush into a new and fantastic house of politics. Self-entertained guests, they will eat the bread that does not satisfy, and at last the walls will fall upon them.

To what, then, are we driven? Living with one another as human creatures under the sun, can we find no scheme, no understanding which may give us security and peace? We do not dare to answer. But of all things that may stand between us and ultimate failure, politics are the frailest of shadows, phantoms which, however, multitudes unhappily rely. Politics are but the mechanics of human affairs, and to seek salvation by adjusting them is a childish and illogical plan. If all roads lead to destruction, will any steering-wheel suffice?

ART, MUSIC & DRAMA

Promenade Concert

Last night, the 15th concert of the Promenade Symphony Orchestra, assisted by Alberto Guerrero, pianist, was one of the most brilliant of the season.

The featured symphonic work, performed for the first time by a Canadian orchestra, was Mendelssohn's "Italian Symphony in A Major". The second movement in a minor key was plaintive and solemn. Throughout the third movement, however, ran a brighter note.

From a dynamic beginning, the Grieg "Concerto in A Minor", the pianoforte part of which was played by Senor Alberto Guerrero, moved on to a sweeping theme which produced

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Today's play will decide the inter-faculty tennis title. In the semi-finals Genevieve Logan is matched with Ellen Wilson, and Madge Shaw has drawn Agnes Gardner, present Varsity women's tennis champion.

Before any challenge matches will be permitted the semi-finals are to be run off. Only those who have fallen before the steady play of a semi-finalist are entitled to challenge the four girls who tentatively, at least, comprise the intercollegiate team. Furthermore they must challenge one of the other three players and not the girl by whom they were defeated. Challenge matches must not go on after Tuesday as the team is to have ample chance for rest and practice before the intercollegiate tournament begins on Friday.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

In the ordinary course of events the mathematics will at the end of Saturday's games begin calculating to several places of decimals, the exact chance each football team has, or has not of winning in their respective titles. All of which brings forth the fact that the Intercollegiate Union has declined the invitation to proceed in the C.R.U. playdowns. Many and varied have been the opinions of the commentators on this subject. However, the attitude adopted by the Intercollegiate Union is quite logical.

When Varsity stepped out of the playdowns last season they did so at the request and wishes of the members of the team. As the players are a rather important part of any football campaign it is only fitting that their wishes be respected. They withdrew last season on the grounds that football had already taken too much of their time and to further prolong the season would be academic suicide, if there is a suicide by that name. This season the situation would have been even worse. The C.R.U. decided that the finals were to be played in the West. The slogan, "Go West young man, go West", obviously was not written for students, midway through an academic year. It would be impossible for even football heroes to attend labs in Toronto while playing football in Regina. And as labs in Toronto are of more importance to students than football games in Regina, the football was sacrificed. The suggestion that the C.R.U. assess the winning team $500.00 should they fail to make the trip west was the deciding factor in the withdrawal of the intercollegiate body.

Then it was decided for one year only to adopt the idea of the two winning teams in the intercollegiate loop playing off for the college title. The idea, far from being one of commercialism, as has been stated in some quarters, is merely to keep the interest in the race through a short season. In the past, a team making a slow start had little, if any chance of overtaking the leaders in the six game schedule. The playoff idea will give every team a reasonable chance, and insure the popularity of the series right until the finish. As for the profits of the playoff games, they are being divided between the four teams in the loop, with the winner getting only a fraction more than the other teams in the group.

Early next week, football players from ten faculties will clash, head on, in the annual interfaculty series. Many and varied will be the types of football displayed by this league before the snow flies and the Mulock Cup is located for another year. There is nothing of a sissy nature about this series. They play just as hard and more often than the senior college teams. They do not get the attention nor the support of the senior teams, yet for the past forty years they have been fighting it out in this loop, making up in enthusiasm what they lack in ability. In spite of this they are invariably playing real ball before the series ends and when they meet some time in November to decide whose shield is to be pasted to the mug as a token of victory for 1934, we want to be there.

This is the big day of U.C.'s invitation golf tournament. Twenty-two golfers have entered much to the joy of all concerned as ten of these only summoned the nerve, or something, at the very last minute.

Two encores were played by Mr. Guerrero, in response to popular demand, the first being the brilliant Chopin "Walse in E Minor". A direct contrast to this was formed by the second, "Le Soiree dans Guenade", by Debussy. This seemed peculiarly fitted to Mr. Guerrero's South American temperament.

Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slave", containing a well known theme, formed a fitting conclusion to this brilliant programme. As the audience was leaving the hall, it was surprised by the orchestra's rendering of "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn.

St. Thomas Church

After Evensong on Sunday a short Cantata for Tenor and Baritone soli, Chorus and Organ will be sung at St. Thomas' Church, Huron Street. The work opens with a Choral "O Christ, the Lord and life and light", set to a 16th century melody harmonized and arranged in a most arresting way. The Choir comes in unaccompanied after brilliant interludes from the organ. The work is based upon the Parables of the Harvest, The Ten Virgins, and The Good Shepherd, with a prologue and epilogue, and is from the pen of a contemporary English composer, Dr. Eric Thiman. At the 11 o'clock Eucharist Dr. Willan's "Missa Sancta Maria Magdalena" with his "Missa Brevis in E flat" will be sung, and the Motet "Into this world of sorrow" by Dr. Percy Buck. At Choral evensong at 7 p.m. Ippoloff-Ivanoff's well known "Bless Thou the Lord, O my soul" will be heard.

Hart House Theatre

The second production of the Shakespeare Society of Toronto of Henry VIII as presented last evening in Hart House Theatre was one of vivid and moving beauty. Under the direction of Mr. G. Wilson Knight, this extremely difficult play received understanding treatment and interpretation.
Requiring as it does a cast of approximately eight-five persons, wide scope was given the talents of this energetic and enterprising society. In the title role Professor A. E. Dale lent the part new dignity and poise. Far removed from the popular conception of the "bluff" ruler, we are shown an overburdened and saddened man, yet one who is ruthless in the attainment and establishment of Tudor dominance. Against the richly coloured background Mr. and Mrs. Rostance as Queen Katherine and Cardinal Wolsey gave most adequate performances and Vivien Medland was a winsome and graceful Anne Boleyn if somewhat lacking in the traditional boldness.

The banquet scene lacked a certain spontaneity which one associates with Elizabethan revelry. The volatile spirits of the guests depended only too obviously on the action cues. However, Mr. Knight's fine rendition of Buckingham's last speech was received with a semblance of more genuine emotion.

As this production did not see the original production of this epic last April, no comparison can be made, but there is no doubt that the present offering, to be given again tonight and Saturday night, is well worth the attention of Shakespeare lovers. The pagantry and movement of the presentation should not be passed over without special mention and we recommend a play that is only too seldom seen on amateur or professional stage.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Belgrade—Jugoslavia police have identified King Alexander's assassin as Vlada Guerickeff, a Bulgarian Macedonian terrorist and the instigator of the plot as a Belgrade-born aide of the leader of the Ustashi terrorist organization. A detailed investigation of the assassin's past life reveals years of terrorist activity.

Berlin—The situation again became strained as 16,000 German pastors violently opposed the Nazi domination of the nation's churches. Police and secret service men mingled with the congregations while the clergy preached defiance of Hitler.

Pecs, Hungary—1,200 miners threatened mass suicide by suffocation in a coal mine here if no increase in wages was received. Forty-four of these are remaining underground without food, threatening to cut off the air pumps if their demands are not granted.

Hamilton—The Glendale Golf Club was burned to the ground with a loss of $40,000 early Sunday morning.

Berlin—In an address yesterday Julius Streicher, Nazi publisher, claimed that a murderer had been bought for 50,000 francs to slay Hitler at the Nurnberg Party Congress.

Washington—Announcement of a new transpacific air service was made yesterday by Pan American Airways Inc.

SAYS GRADUATES MADE 'YES-MEN'

Canada an Old Man's Country in Opinion of Professor Frank Underhill

NO "DEFENSIVE WAR"

"Canada is an old man's country," declared Professor Underhill, of the History Department, addressing two hundred members of the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement at the Labour Temple Saturday night. The universities were turning out "yes-men" trained in the tradition that it was indecent for them to assert themselves in the presence of their elders. The country's government and finances were controlled by graybeards suffering from "hardening of the mental arteries and softening of the mental muscles."

Six Couples Brought Together By Date Bureau Over Weekend

Six happy couples were united in what it is to be hoped will become undying friendship, through the newly-organized Date Bureau over the weekend. Several other couples have already been "hooked-up" in the Bureau's files, but have not as yet been notified.

The Varsity has been asked to point out that the Date Bureau is in no way an activity of the Students' Administrative Council. It is run by an individual, with the active co-operation of The Varsity, and has been inaugurated to perform a service which is believed to be of paramount importance in student circles. ### QUEEN'S OFFENSE STRONG

Jackson and Thomas Bear the Brunt of the Varsity Offensive

By Ken Burn

Playing in the curtain-raiser at Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon, Varsity seconds trounced Queen's 11 to 3 in an intermediate rugby fixture. The Blues showed a complete reversal of form from last week's performance and their display augurs well for their chances of taking the title.

While the calibre of rugby could hardly be called excellent, it was a most interesting game to watch. Both teams were on their toes throughout the game and during the final half Queen's repeatedly threatened to make a major score that would put them within fighting distance of a victory.

Led by Murray Griffin, who was pensioned off from St. Mike's last year the Queen's backfield put on a display of ball handling the like of which has not been seen at the Bloor St. Stadium. (Continued on Page 4)

BALMY BEACH SQUAD LOSES TO ST. MIKE'S

Beaches Put Up Great Game
but Are Defeated
15-5

Balmy Beach saw their last chance of an O.R.F.U. title fade away at Ulster Stadium Saturday as they went down to their second defeat of the season before the passing attack of St. Michael's College. The Saints, with their 15-5 win Saturday remain undefeated in the league schedule and are still abreast of the Sarnia squad in the race for the league title.

Balmy Beach, with their backs to the wall, gave a stubborn battle before yielding to the Bay Street team. With Bobby Porter kicking his usual brilliant game, the east enders, gained continually on the exchanges and for the first half of the struggle piled up a three point margin, scoring each time on single points.

The Saints were trailing 5-0 in the third period, when they worked into scoring position, late in the quarter. Connelly tried a drop but failed, but (Continued on Page 4)

$150,000 Grant Given University

An additional grant of $150,000 was given to the University on Friday morning. This brings the University's income from the government up to $1,150,000 for the current year.

"When the annual grant was made last spring, it was necessary for the University to cut its budget considerably," said President H. J. Cody to "The Varsity". "By cutting some salaries it was brought down to about $1,280,000. A surplus of about $100,000 from the previous year was added to the million dollar grant in the spring, so that the present grant is necessary to balance our grant for the year."

ADVANCES NEEDED IN WELFARE WORK

Greatly Needed, is Claim

G. D. STODDARD LECTURES

"No parent and no teacher is so low in aspiration not to want to do something in child welfare; we all possess some kind of drive to do the right thing by the next generation. Unfortunately, although we all have this inclination, we don't know what to do about it, and we go on in sentimental and futile ignorance," declared Professor G. D. Stoddard, of the University of Iowa, in Convocation Hall on Friday night.

Professor Stoddard went on to describe conditions in the United States, especially in his own state.

Although the Iowa station of child welfare was established in 1917 and great strides have been made along that line there is still much to be done. They have not applied their knowledge to some very crucial problems, notably that of child legislation. He quoted statistics which showed an appalling number of children deformed in hearing, sight, or body. In an examination made of representative children of the state fifty-two per cent had never had a health examination, while over eighty per cent had never had a dental examination or been immunized against smallpox or diphtheria.

TORONTO SLUMS REQUIRE REMEDY SAYS DR. BRUCE

SEVEN IN SINGLE ROOM

Tuberculosis and Juvenile Delinquency Increased by Overcrowding

"Many of us are reluctant to think that there are slums in Toronto, and there are no slums in the sense of the slum districts of old European cities, but right about us there is a city of at least two thousand dwellings with a population of more than ten thousand where the decades of life are non-existent, families living in poverty and squalor," declared Lieutenant-Governor Bruce, at the opening meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, in the Eaton Auditorium on Friday afternoon. Dr. Bruce, who is the chairman of the Housing Committee, spoke on "Slums".

"During the past seven months an expert committee has devoted much time to the study of slum conditions. One is hesitant to state exact figures, but the report shows that there are far too many homes that do not meet the required standard." There is great overcrowding in many of the homes. Dr. Bruce instanced the case of a family of seven living in one room, and told of a four roomed cottage which housed a family of eleven. "These things mean sickness, disease, death." ## TRUST ESTABLISHED UNDER BINGHAM WILL

A trust fund to the amount of $5,000 has been left to the Alumni Federation of the University of Toronto, through the will of Margaret E. Bingham, the widow of George A. Bingham. This fund has been set aside to be used only for helping needy students, and is to be distributed in small amounts which are stipulated in the will. The trust fund is set up in the name of Dr. Bingham.

Trustees of the estate have also been asked to continue the Dr. Bingham annual prizes for nurses in the graduating classes of the General Hospital. A trust fund providing $50 annually for this purpose is to be set up. Other bequests in the will provided $15.00 per week for Oliver Jackson, coloured houseman, the General Hospital, the Sick Children's Hospital and the United Church of Canada.

Bands, Rooters, Touchdowns, Din All Present As Gridders Win

By Ken G. Robb

On Saturday afternoon London was invaded by the Blue and White gridders, two "Varsity" bands, and a hale and hearty rooting section, and came back home with everything but the city hall clock and the chief of police. "Veni, vidi, vici."

The official score of the game is not exactly known, as the official scorer claimed he had earned his money by the time Varsity had tallied up 25 counters, and he went off in a huff. Unofficial reports claim that it was somewhere between 30 and 50.

Playing like champions, almost unable to make a mistake, Varsity Blues last Saturday walked off the field with one of the most decisive wins registered in intercollegiate rugby, as they trimmed Western Mustangs by 34-1. Never since it entered the league five seasons ago, has Western been forced to swallow such a terrific beating, especially on its own field.

SIXTY-SECOND PRODUCTION

On Friday evening a wildly enthusiastic crowd packed Burwash Hall to the doors for the sixty-second annual production of the "Bob", the Victoria College freshman initiation, which is said to be unique among college initiations. The programme consisted of four (Continued on Page 4)

With forward passes clicking, extensions working to perfection, effective plunging, and with the lengthy hoists from the boots of Bob Isbister and Cam Gray, Varsity time after time walked through the Western team to their second consecutive win in league games, and third of the season.

Varsity's line, which had been the worry of many, held off the worst attacks of the Mustangs, and very early were the kickers rushed. Western, however, fielded a rather weak wing line, and especially was this true of the outsides, as shown by the number of Varsity extensions that gained yard after yard.

Varsity's backfield was brilliant in catching, running and kicking. The surprise of the game was the playing of Cam Gray, moved up from the intermediates. He subbed for Bob Isbister and filled the big boy's shoes well. He was especially effective on the receiving end of forward passes, and scored fifteen of Varsity's points. His field goal kicking was good for ten points, and he only missed twice in seven attempts.

TOO EASY ACCESS TO DRUGS HINTED

Report Charges Many Becoming Drug Addicts as a Direct Result

FEAR FOR FUTURE

Hundreds of young men, girls, returned soldiers, and unemployed men are becoming drug addicts because of the ease with which they may legitimately purchase certain drugs, such as cocaine. This, in effect, was the charge levelled in a report read before the conference of the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement on Saturday last. From ten to twenty ounces of cocaine are sold in certain Toronto drug stores every month, according to the report. Rubbing alcohol and "canned heat" are also used for drinking purposes to a very large extent.

The prediction that an increasing number of young men and women "wrecked by our social system", would find their way into insane asylums, was made by D. M. LeBourdais.

He urged that youth should immediately organize, for the double purpose of finding its own feet and of exerting full influence upon the task ahead.

The C.C.Y.M. unanimously expressed its sympathy with the aims of the Spanish revolutionaries.

TOWN PLANNING

To the average university student, situated in a comfortable home, the slum menace seems far removed from Toronto. Yet the recently disclosed findings of the Housing Committee show this to be false. In Toronto there are sections where conditions of slum life are in full evidence, where a high percentage of the houses fall below the minimum health standard, where disease and immorality and crime are bred. Nor can we find comfort in the thought that it is the foreign element in the population which is reproducing here the slum conditions of Europe. Seventy-five per cent of those living in unfit homes are of Canadian or British origin. The investigation has shown that the overcrowding and unsanitary conditions lead to tuberculosis, infant mortality, a higher death rate, and juvenile delinquency. Toronto has long been regarded as law abiding. These slums are potential breeding places for crime and as such should not be tolerated. The intermingling of sex and lack of privacy in overcrowded dwellings lead to loss of self-respect, broken homes and child neglect.

The Housing Committee has not merely pointed out the faults of the existing situation, but they have outlined a threefold plan for reconstruction which includes a Town Planning scheme by which a master plan will be adopted as a guide to city development for some years, the demolition of the houses which they have found to be unfit, and the construction of new housing facilities.

The Moss Park Area, which is bounded by Oak, Simcoe, Dundas and Sackville Streets has been chosen a suitable field for reconstruction, in that the area is not required for business purposes, yet the employment areas are near, the land costs are relatively low, and the present buildings are of frame and mostly below the minimum health standard, which makes their demolition almost imperative.

The suggested schemes which the architects have drawn up for this district include one which shows a number of three-and-a-half story apartment houses built about an open square. These houses in turn surround a large central court. This would provide for light and air and recreational facilities. Balconies and roof space represent further opportunities for rest and recreation.

Present city regulations are insufficient against the slum menace. Responsibility is divided among too many different departments. This responsibility must be centralized. Such action too, would require support from both the provincial and federal authorities with regard to legislation, relief, advice and leadership. A reconstruction programme as suggested would be important in national welfare, and carried out over a period of years it would not only relieve the housing question but it would stimulate employment and reduce the need for relief. With the land cost relatively low, the amount paid for labour could be increased, and the plan might serve as a partial palliative of unemployment.

It is to be hoped that this plan will receive the support it deserves and that the rehousing problem may be vigorously attacked.

ENGINEERING TRIUMPHS SUBJECTS OF LECTURE

"New Engineering Achievements" will be the subject of the address to the opening meeting of the Engineering Society this afternoon which will be given by Dean Mitchell of the Faculty of Applied Science, following the introduction of the officers of the society.

The meeting, which will be held in Room 22 of the mining building at 4 o'clock, begins a series in which prominent speakers in various branches of science and industry will address the students on a wide range of popular topics.

Prior to the meeting, the usual "School" songs, which have a reputation in themselves, will be sung, and freshmen in particular are expected to be present to enjoy the sing song, and the welcome from Dean Mitchell.

Massey Hall

Ablly led by the diminutive Serge Jaroff, who seemed the very essence of that group of darkly clad men wearing the characteristic high boots of the Russians, the Don Cossacks opened the season at Massey Hall on Saturday night with a greater triumph than ever before.

Without any perceptible motion of either lips or body, the soprano singers seemed to exude from the very depths of their throats, a peculiarly muffled effect. Particularly outstanding also, in several songs, was a lone, deep, melodious bass voice of fine timbre.

"A golden cloud stayed overnight", by Dargomizsky was, without a doubt, the highlight of the evening. Plaintive soprano voices formed a fitting accompaniment for a solo tenor which manipulated skilfully a trumpet effect and then, a distinctly perceptible wail. Deep bass voices enhanced this sorrowful effect.

The first of two "Cossack Songs" brought a smile to the lips of even the most sophisticated, when a plaintive treble voice representing "a young lady in distress" and seeming particularly incongruous with those austere black costumes and serious visages, was distinctly heard.

Much stamping of feet brought three encores, in the first of which the chorus accompanied two azure-capped bombastic dancers. The feature of the second was the playfulness of a tenor voice which, as the song progressed became analogous to the plucking of cello strings. A mellow call ringing out from afar, skilfully manipulated by a lone soprano voice, characterized the third.

Labour Lyceum

Eisenstein's latest Russian film, "Ten Days that Shook the World", is breathing, hair-raising, epoch-making, stupendous and gigantic, not to say colossal, according to New York press reports. The first public showing in Canada under the auspices of the Student League, was a financial success.

Saturday night's performance at the Labour Lyceum should convince Messrs. Clavir and the Student League that several things are not only customary but almost necessary to a moving picture performance. A screen, someone to run the projection machines, and a no smoking rule among others, have a basis in logic, and are not merely bourgeois institutions. It is also good to use film larger than 16 mm. in a room larger than most small theatres.

There are undoubtedly many fine and powerful things about this picture, but through Saturday's smoke screen we could not find out what they were. Perhaps another opportunity will be given, but to our uninspired soul, Saturday's showing, run off in such a hurry, on a small and wrinkled screen, in a hot and smoky auditorium, and to the cheers of the multitude, merely provided one of the most successful antidotes to any overdose of Russian propaganda to which we were exposed, and left a taste in the mouth which was only removed by a couple of Altman's Roumanian Postromis and two very black cups of Turkish brew.

THE BAND STAND C-C

The Band Stand, which is situated in the central part of the rear portion of Queen's Park, is known as a Landmark. It has been there for many many years, and may be there for many many years yet.

One day, many many years ago, a Great Explorer named Simcoe set out to find a spot to start a City, which he was going to call York. He found a bay with an island in front of it, and a lot of first class moonshine swamps in the island. Near this was another bay which he called Ashbridges because they dumped their garbage there. On the first Bay he started the City which he called York. Shortly after this the C.P.R. built a tavern called the Royal York, so the name of the City was changed to Toronto.

When Simcoe had decided on the spot for his City, he picked out a nice Beaver Meadow and called it Queen's Park, because no queen had ever seen it. In the front of the Park he put up a lot of statues, and a big red barn, and in the back he put up the Bandstand, and played the National Anthem and said "This city belongs to England". Nobody contested the fact, so the Bandstand was permitted to stay. It is there yet.

The Bandstand is made of Wood, and is constructed after the Norman Period. Owing to its priceless historical value, no band is ever permitted to set foot in it. The lower half of the Bandstand is used for various purposes including the stabling of Lawn Mowers, although the Bottom Half is more historical than the Top-Half, being built first. When Simcoe built the Bandstand and he dug Muddy trenches out from it in several directions, which he called Paths, and set up a By-Law forbidding anyone to come and look at his Bandstand unless they waded through the Trenches. Although there are now no more Beavers in that part of the Meadow, the Bi-Law is still in force. All the Beavers are now kept in the Big Red Barn, in the other part of the Park.

Some years ago a Bill was introduced by the Ferguson Government to give the Bandstand, which was Falling Apart, some re-enforcement with a Coat of Paint. It was defeated though, on the grounds that the country could not build a new White Barn, and paint the Bandstand at the same time.

The Henry Government, with reckless abandon, ratified an Order-in-Council to give the Bandstand Three coats of White Paint. Before this could be done, the Hebrun Government began the Rule of Economy, and refused to paint the Bandstand. It is still unpainted.

The directors of the Royal Ontario Museum have made attempts to move the Bandstand to the Basement of the Building, but as they could not get it through the front door, gave up the attempt, and put Indians there instead. A New Section is being added to the Museum to house this Landmark.

The Bandstand may be found by walking West from Hart House, following the Road north till you reach a Muddy Trench, and then following the Trench to the Bandstand. And when you get there you will wonder what you went for.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

We read somewhere last week that the Varsity team was daily growing dumber. What the scribe must have meant was that they were developing one track minds. At any rate they could think of nothing but scoring points Saturday and as a result collected 34 of them. It is beyond our recollection when a senior intercollegiate fixture produced results to compare with the score card turned in Saturday. We are familiar with seeing a 34 mark resulting from a French test but it is new to us in senior college football.

And the Queen's game was also somewhat surprising. Teddy Reeve had what appeared to be the strongest team in the series at the beginning of the year, but although they have two victories in as many starts they are not of the impressive variety. However, we still consider this squad as the big threat in the College Union and expect to see them play better ball as the season progresses.

The Ottawa Roughriders also were thrown rather easily by the Argos. The Capital City team appears to be composed of Abe Eliowitz and some other guys as far as ability is concerned. We don't know how many games the Riders will win with Eliowitz but we know how far they would get without him.

Incidentally the performance to date of the college teams would tend to indicate that the Union was wise in stepping from the C.R.U. playdowns. From the way the Big Four teams are being built up, and the type of football they have been playing the students could be conceded little if any chance against the winners of the other loop, should they meet in the playdowns. To us it looks like a big saving in time and effort.

SAINT MICHAEL'S DEFEAT JUNIORS

Varsity Bows in Defeat to the Bay St. Collegians
5 to 4

MURRAY BOOTS WELL

Varsity juniors lost to St. Mike's with a score of 5-4 Saturday morning on the back campus. This was Varsity's first game in the Junior O.R.F.U. series. Both teams were full of pep and vigour and fought hard, but the Griffin to Sullivan forward pass beat Varsity. The Varsity line appeared to have the upper hand in the first quarter, but lost the ball several times through fumbles. However, St. Mike's also made several fumbles so the quarter ended with no score.

In the second quarter all the scoring was done. Recovering a fumble by Griffin and pushing through two smashing line plunges, Varsity kicked for one point. After more fumbles on both sides, Varsity reached a scoring position, enabling Murray to lift a placement over the bar. Near the end of the quarter St. Mike's secured the ball on a fumble, twenty yards out. A Griffin to Sullivan pass over the goal line gave St. Mike's their only score.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

She has done it again—she mean Agnes Gardiner, III St. Mike's, who on Saturday captured the intercollegiate tennis title for the second consecutive year by defeating Ellen Wilson, II Trinity.

And where were all you enthusiastic fans? It is your loss, for you missed a sterling game, the best of the season. "Ellie" fought every inch of the way, and by no means outclassed, but was bound to fall before the defending champion's fine handling of the backhand shot, her line playing which was almost on a professional level, and her high serve which has a nasty cut. The final score was 6-4, 6-2.

It was certainly a treat to watch those girls place shots right on the line close to the net, their corner to corner backhand volleys, and their parallel line drives. Agnes is left handed and the way her serves and returns flew over that net, left one wondering just where they came from. Incidentally if Ellen and Agnes team up, with the former's net ability and the champion's back-court attacks, Queen's will meet competition such as they have been spared in recent years.

As things now stand the Varsity tennis team includes four players of whom we are expecting big things: Agnes Gardiner, Ellen Wilson, Madge Shaw and Genevieve Logan. Today and tomorrow are open for challenge matches and of course, there may be some upsets although this is not likely unless Jean Davey's neuritis is on the mend and she gets back into her old stride. Friday and Saturday will mark the culmination of the tennis season, so let us finish it up with a bang, and cheer the Varsity quartet on to the intercollegiate championships.

Friday was an ideal day for the intercollegiate golf tournament although it was rather too cold for any particularly spectacular playing. Anyway everyone had a good time, and Eileen Parr deserves a great big hand for engineering it in such a successful manner. The stage is all set for one of the other colleges to sponsor the event next year, and by working up to it gradually we may finally establish it as an accepted intercollegiate sport.

The cup awarded for the low gross score went to Ruth Leavens, II U.C., and the second prize in this division was won by Mary Jarvis, III St. Hilda's. Elaine Knight, I Trinity, got the low net, and Mary Hore of the same faculty got the high gross. In the special competitions Mary Saller, IV U.C., secured the putting championship, Marg Dawson, III U.C., the approaching, and Enid Palmer, IV St. Hilda's, the driving. All in all, this has been a big week in the women's sports world—and here's to lots more just like it.

RUGBY GAME ENDS IN TIE

The Toronto Club held Varsity 3-3 in the rugby game played on the back campus on Saturday.

MCGILL RETAINS GOLFING TROPHY

Ruttan Cup Again Won by the Red and White Team

The intercollegiate golf crown will be worn by McGill for another year. Friday and Saturday saw the Red and White standard bearers successfully defend the Ruttan Cup, and the intercollegiate title at the Lambton Golf Club. At the conclusion of the tournament, the McGill team had amassed a total of 19 points, while the most the Varsity team could collect was 7.

In the individual play Friday, four McGill men led the way, with W. A. Bush taking the title, touring the course in 75 on the first round and 83 on the second. Bill Sutton turned in 84 on the first round.

TRINITY TRACK MEET

The annual Trinity track meet was held at the Varsity Stadium on Friday.

TORONTO SLUMS

REQUIRE REMEDY

They reflect not only on those who endure them, but on us all. The evil effects are demonstrated by the relation between bad housing and tuberculosis. In one section of one ward the tubercular rate is sixty-four per ten thousand population. Infant mortality also is influenced to a high degree. That good housing lowers the death rate was proved in Edinburgh where the death rate was materially lowered after rehousing work there.

The address was illustrated and there were present architects' models for the suggested reconstruction. Dr. Bruce paid tribute to the members of the Housing Committee who have so generously given of their time and talents.

In an emergency they could not think fast enough. Stevens was a comparative infant and his enquiry was due to his feeling his youth in the presence of all the old men.

Professor Underhill deplored the lack of a radical tradition in Canada. "Canada," he declared, "is still under the blight of the United Empire Loyalists." The Loyalists were the type of people opposed to progress. He urged the youth to go out and organize the workers, for without workers' support the movement could not succeed.

Dealing with the question of youth and war he said, "Britain, France and Germany have never fought any but defensive wars." He urged the youth not to be fooled by the talk of "defensive wars." War was inevitable under the capitalist system, the outcome of the race for markets by rival imperialist powers. In the imprisonment of the communists in 1931 he saw an indication of the growth of fascism in Canada, as it was growing in every country in the world. He saw in the breakdown of the N.R.A. an indication that fascism was coming to the United States.

ium for some time. Time and again a Griffin to Young to Turner extension brought the crowd to its feet as the trio handled the ball as if it were a red hot iron. On one occasion Griffin received Penner's kick and then threw a thirty yard lateral to Young, who streaked for a big gap. Although the Queen's men had their share of the play in centre field, the Varsity line strengthened appreciably within their twenty five yard line and prevented the Tricolour squad from crossing for a major.

The bulk of the Varsity offensive fell upon the shoulders of Jackson and Thomas who on numerous occasions carried the ball for the necessary yardage. Thomas scored the only touch of the game late in the second quarter after Jackson had carried the ball to the one yard line. Penner accounted for the balance of Varsity's points, getting a field goal, a convert and two singles. Stollery kicked three singles for the Tricolour's only points.

Varsity: Flying wing, MacPherson; halves, B. Gray, Penner, Jackson; quarter, Miller; snap, Jacobs; insides, Williams, Gibson; middles, Thomas, Bridle; outsides, Buck, Willoughby; subs, Ripley, B. Powell, Tafts, T. Powell, MacLachlan, Kuntz.

Queen's: Flying wing, Stollery; halves, Young, Turner, Scott; quarter, Griffin; snap, Lewis; insides, Byrne, Thompson; middles, Thomas, Doherty; outsides, McLean, Alsop; subs, MacManus, Hare, Hesley, Breckenbridge, Kerr, Shepard, Dennis.

was read from the Young Communists' League urging the C.C.Y.M. to cooperate with the Young Communists in seeking, among other reforms, the abolition of the C.O.T.C., and better educational facilities for the working groups.

The conferences met at the Cumberland Hall, at Yonge and Cumberland Streets.

Professor Havelock, the other speaker, explained that the C.C.Y.M. had been organized for the post-war generation, that had grown up in a world of insecurity and moral degeneration, and therefore did not have the same views as their elders. Youth, he said, if it did not remain altogether inert, had the choice of two alternatives. Living in a world where moral values and capitalist society were in conflict, they could either throw out all moral values and take up fascism, or demand the overthrow of a system fundamentally opposed to their moral ideals. "Better that these things should perish," he said, "rather than that man should perish." He finally urged the delegates that their chief task was to overthrow Canadian capitalism, and not to waste their energies in efforts to prevent a European war, that was in any case not likely to happen under the balance of power that now exists.

The rest of the meeting was taken up with the election of committees and other routine business.

The first music group will be held in Wymilwood today, Monday, October 15th, at 5 p.m. Mme. de Kresz, assisted by Mr. Leo Smith, cellist, will give a programme of Italian music. It has been decided to admit men to this group and those interested will be welcome.

BLUES SWAMP WESTERN WITH 34-1 VICTORY

Greco was always good for four yards or so and two or three times scored yards on successive plunges. Webber and Greco were a very effective pair from the plunging end. Upper also aided along this line as well as playing in the backfield.

Although reported weak, Varsity were strong both offensively and defensively in the passing game. Seven out of eight tries were completed, while they intercepted two of Western's passes and the latter were unable to make any good.

Bobby Coulter handled the team well as quarter and his broken field running was again one of the features of the game. He shared the throwing honours with Bob Isbister, who outkicked the Western star, Sherk, by far, and was always dangerous on the extension, scoring Varsity's first touch this way. Isbister was instrumental in keeping Varsity in the lead in the first quarter, but when the game was put beyond reach, he was given a rest.

Sherk was the standout of the Western team. He kicked, passed and ran, always being a dangerous threat. Veroni and Bryant were effective as plungers for the Mustangs and certainly deserve recognition of such.

Varsity opened the score when Coulter kicked a field goal after Bob's fumble. A Varsity penalty for holding gave Western their first point as Sherk kicked to Coulter, who was downed in his tracks. In the second quarter, Bob Isbister went over the line on a pass five yards out. Webber scored the next major after Williams recovered a Western fumble and Gray on an extension was run out with one yard to go. Both touches were converted to give Varsity a 15-1 lead.

Coulter ran through a broken field for 30 yards, and Gray on an attempted placement scored Varsity's first point in the second half. Bob Isbister added one more when he hoisted a long one from Western's forty. The last quarter saw Varsity chalk up 7 more points. Gray kicked two placements, Brebner blocked a kick at Western's goal and Keith fell on it for the third major of the game, and then later Gray went over after a beautiful pass from Coulter. Two of the three touches were converted to make the final score 34-1.

Varsity: Halves, Webber, Upper, Isbister; quarter, Coulter; snap, Williams; insides, Warren, Perry; middles, Laing, Greco; outsides, Henderson, Alison; flying wing, Dawson; subs, Keith, Taylor, McMichael, Edwards, Gray, Holden, Harris, Brebner, Powell, Wright.

ADVANCES NEEDED

child relationships," said Professor Stoddard. "One of the greatest integrating forces in social welfare is the fact that our business leaders—the Insulls and the Kregers—have impregnated our youth with their doctrine that the main thing is to build up a large fortune. Another is that we always seem to be on the brink of war, and a third that religion has faded from Puritanism to its present state of seeming inability to divorce itself from the sources of great wealth."

But Professor Stoddard can see a few bright rays coming over the horizon. Most of the undesirable leaders have committed suicide or are in jail. The problem of war so far has no solution. In the matter of education a great deal is being done. "We shall return to a cleaner and better and simpler world," says Professor Stoddard, "by going after it, it will not be handed down to us like the Garden of Eden."

politely ignored. Although both bands played, neither took the field—which was left for the balance of the game. It was still there at an early hour this morning.

Varsity's second band, composed of dishpans, etc., and vocal sections, was reported to be a revival of the well-known Red - and - White-U. C. Tub-Thumpers, and was conducted by the notorious Mr. Otto Emmel Ferment. Despite this latter fact, the band completely captured the hearts of the fans, and nearly captured a set of Purple goal posts. Irate Western students prevented this by nearly capturing several sets of U.C. pants. A nice time was had by all.

A frantic search of the high school rooting section by Joe Breen at half time, failed to turn up any sub players to save the situation.

Reports that the Varsity Cricket Team had turned in 34 runs for a loss of one wicket on the opening afternoon were vigorously denied by Warren Stevens, who stated that a rugby ball had been used by players throughout the game, and as cricket bats were disallowed, they were forced to pile up the score with nothing but their hands and Isbister's feet. Official photographs verified this fact.

Cherleader Parmenter has his "flips" down pat. All he has to do now is to learn how to get them up again. The Western trio on the same job were "Head-over-heels" in love with their occupation. And the Western rooters could make more noise than a stock market in 1929.

Correct this sentence:—"For their splendid display in the parade following the game, the Varsity Band was presented with a key to the city, and another to the brewer's warehouse. The latter was politely returned."

Drastic changes have been made in the lower floor of Hotel London since last fall. Some saw this fact, and others could almost see it.

Clarence Darrow says that 999 out of 1,000 students get a good time out of their college education and that the other one gets the real education.

Unless our halls of learning are real temples which are to be approached by our youth in an attitude of reverence, consecrated by the worship of truth, they will end in delusion.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Pees, Hungary—Goaded into action by public opinion the owners of the coal mine here where 12,000 miners are threatening mass suicide, agreed to grant the demand for wage increases. It was feared, however, that the condition of the half-starved men may render conferences with them impossible.

Paris—A third suspect in the Jugoslavian assassination case was seized by police as he emerged from Fontainebleau forest where he had been hiding for five days.

Munich, Bavaria—Religious passions aroused by Bishop Meiser's ousting from his church rose higher at the news of his re-arrest last night.

Falmouth, Mass.—Mrs. Daphne Muir, once-blind British novelist, now sees with parts of another woman's eyes as a result of operations performed by Dr. Tudor Thomas, famed Welsh specialist.

Ottawa—P. D. Ross, member of the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission and proprietor of the Ottawa Journal, has refused to resign at the request of T. Stewart Lyon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission.

Manila—Heavy damage to property and shipping was caused by a typhoon which struck here early today. A foot of water covered the streets of Manila.

LINGUISTS DISCUSS NEW BASIC ENGLISH

International Tongue Said to be Required for Trade

HANDY WAY OF LEARNING

A meeting is being held in New York City, of linguistic experts from several countries who seek to determine the smallest number of words with which a person can make himself understood in English.

According to Dr. Janet Aiken of Columbia University, an international language is urgently required for use in world trade, diplomacy, periodicals, scientific studies, and other uses.

When questioned on the subject Mr. N. J. Endicott of the English Department stated that it has been used successfully both in teaching English and foreign languages. He explained that it is considered preferable to teach a limited vocabulary rather than grammar points, or literary values. The latter aspect, however, has been emphasized in a translation into basic English of "Carl and Anna".

Professor W. H. Clawson of University College, thought that the idea was a good one for practical purposes. Professor R. S. Knox, also of University College, was of the opinion that something approximating a universal language might be useful. He cannot, however, see it taking the place of current English. It is not, he stated, "a good idea to teach foreigners what is merely a basic language, but it might be a handy and quick method to get a first acquaintance with English."

Professor G. H. Needer of the German Department at University College, when asked whether or not he agreed with the principles of a basic language, stated that it was not a matter of agreeing or disagreeing, and added, "It would be of some use, but it's not going to produce any Shakespeares, is it?"

Date Bureau Gets Results

University Directory

Every University student is asked to make sure, at once, that his correct Toronto address and telephone number are entered upon his registration card in the office of the University Registrar, Simcoe Hall, or of his College Registrar or Faculty Secretary. The University Directory is now being prepared for the press, and it is of greatest importance that all addresses and telephone numbers be correct.

STERLING PRAISES THIS UNIVERSITY

Hart House Stands Alone Among University Clubs

IS TOURING CANAOA

The Varsity lately interviewed Professor T. S. Sterling, M.A., M.B.E., formerly of the University of Calcutta and secretary of the Universities Bureau of the British Empire. For the past four years he has been the professor of English in the University of Cairo. Recently retired, the professor is making an informal tour of Canada, studying university methods and, at the same time, displaying keen interest in child emigration.

According to Mr. Sterling, who has toured many countries, and is himself a Cambridge man, the University of Toronto ranks very high among the universities of the world. "I am much impressed by the efficiency of the University of Toronto, by the quiet way in which they do things, and by their dignified yet thorough methods," The Varsity was told.

"I have never seen anything so wonderful, especially in student welfare and general culture as Hart House affords the university students. There

JUNIOR COLLEGE IDEA DISCUSSED

Ontario Situation Differs Greatly from Western Says Principal

DIFFICULT TO STANDARDIZE

"It is a very complex problem," said Principal Wallace of University College in discussing the idea of a Junior College to bridge the gap between high school and college which has been arousing much discussion in western University circles. "Local conditions have a great deal to do with determining the procedure to follow and the situation in Ontario is entirely different from that of the west. There they have many large centres far from the universities which have set up their own schools and these have gained such importance that it would seem a satisfactory solution to make them into junior colleges."

These colleges would be both a finishing school for those who did not intend to continue their schooling and also a preparatory training for students who were too immature to tackle the university course. As Dr. Wallace pointed out, however, in the west they have generally only three years of high school, and a junior college would be of great assistance to students in adjusting themselves to their new environment.

"The chief difficulty," said Dr. Wallace, "as far as I can see, would be in "Thirteen couples to date", was the reply to the Date Bureau operator last night, when asked what results the Bureau had secured so far. "We could have made a larger number of connections but we are trying to fill all specifications in every detail, and sometimes this is very difficult. Particularly since some of the women have specified that they want a man who has a car."

"At present the men who have registered outnumber the women by exactly two to one, but the co-eds are catching up fast. There is an acute shortage of girls who live in residence, or near the University, and also of Jewish men," he continued. "This is particularly unfortunate, since many men have specified that they want girls in residence for particular dates this coming weekend. There are eleven men who want girls for rugby games and the S.P.S. soph-frosh dance within the next week."

The Date Bureau, which was introduced last week through the columns of The Varsity, has been formed with the express purpose of helping undergraduates to get acquainted with members of the other sex. It is a perfectly serious effort on the part of The Varsity, and has been very well received by the student body to date. Anyone wishing to take advantage of the service

RAPID CHANGES IN RUSSIAN SYSTEM

Scrapping of Impracticable Schemes Called Encouraging Factor

MR. MacGREGOR SPEAKS

"I think it remains to be shown that Socialism has fewer misfits than the capitalistic system," said Professor Donald McGregor of the Economics department in an address at the opening meeting of the Friends of the Soviet Union (Student Branch) last night at 24 Grenville Street.

Professor McGregor has recently returned from a trip to Russia and his address was the educational feature of the programme last night. He stated that everywhere he went in Russia he found churches and worshippers, although there were more churches than necessary, since the younger generation did not attend in very great numbers. He went on to explain that the rift between the old and the young in Russia is the most important factor in her social life today.

On the whole the most encouraging factor in the Russian system is the rapidity with which changes have been made; as soon as one system proves impracticable, it is scrapped and a new

Artful Auctioneer Does Well When He Has Magazines to Sell

Late yesterday afternoon a red-nosed individual clad in a Prince Albert and sporting a grey cravat mounted a table in the East Common Room of Hart House, and with the aid of a wooden mallet proceeded to dispose of various items of current literature. The event was the auction of Hart House periodicals and the master of ceremonies was Mr. Ross Workman.

Twenty-one magazines fell under the hammer before the session was adjourned. Only the Illustrated Canadian Forest and Outdoors was relegated to the dustbin. Prices ranged from $6.40 for a year's subscription to the Illustrated London News to twenty cents for the Canadian Magazine.

Mr. Workman displayed a great command of rhetoric in moving his audience to better things. He showed an in-

QUEEN'S BANO OUTFITS RIVAL THE VARSITY BLUE MUSICIANS

Kingston, October 15 (CIP) — An anonymous graduate of Queen's has made a gift of $300 to the Queen's band for the purchase of new uniforms, it was announced at the last meeting of the Alma Mater Society executive.

The graduate who has given this donation to the band suggested that the new uniforms have blue serge trousers with a gold stripe, a blue tunic, jacket style, with red and gold trimmings on the cuffs and lapels, and brass buttons. The members will also be provided with waterproof capes which may be blue with gold lining. Forage caps will be worn, as at present, to match the suggested design. A committee has been appointed to choose a suitable design and to receive estimates as to cost, and act accordingly.

VARSLTY ENJOYS WIDE CIRCULATION

Regular Exchange Service is Maintained with Other Universities

READ BY PROMINENT MEN

A survey of The Varsity's mailing lists reveals the fact that The Varsity enjoys a widespread circulation among graduates and ex-members of the staff, and is read regularly by men prominent in the life of Toronto.

In the opinion of T. L. Church, K.C., prominent Toronto lawyer and member of the Dominion Parliament, The Varsity is a bright and entertaining paper. He said, "I think The Varsity is doing a very useful work and it covers a great many fields of activity, especially among the student body."

Among the subscribers are many well-known graduates, notably Gordon Skilling, winner of last year's Rhodes Scholarship, who is now continuing his studies at Christ Church College, Oxford.

Members of the Faculty, ten in all, who subscribe to the University paper are limited to the staff of University College and the Department of Biology.

A regular exchange service with other university newspapers throughout the United States and Canada is maintained. Copies are mailed to the library at the Ontario College of Education, to the Royal Ontario Museum and to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Starting this year copies are available at the Departments of Occupational Therapy and Physiotherapy. The Canadian Press Clipping Bureau subscribes for the purpose of clipping interesting news items and sending them through the channels of the Canadian Press.

Kostuik's Resignation not Official; Possibility Arises that the Fraternity Question May be Election Issue

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 16 (Tuesday).—Psi Delta Phi fraternity did not at any time abandon attempts to seek international affiliation even after the control committee had been set up here last February according to latest evidence brought to light in the fraternity case. A representative of the Medical group has informed the Queen's Journal that at the meetings held here last February which culminated in the setting up of a control committee, officials of the fraternity in question clearly stated they would continue to seek international affiliation. This was not generally known before and is regarded as possible important evidence in the case.

OWEN FOUNDATION ANNOUNCE COTEST

All Persons Over Seventeen and Under Thirty Eligible

ANNOUNCE VARIOUS TOPICS

The Robert Owen Foundation announces its annual national essay contest, open to all persons over seventeen and under thirty years of age, living in Canada.

The essay is to be written on one of the following subjects: 1, Democracy in Industrial Management, and Its Relation to Efficiency; 2, How can a Canadian government, federal or provincial, encourage and support co-operative enterprise; 3, Co-operative goal versus State Socialism.

The essays should not exceed thirty thousand words in length, and must be received before January 15th, 1935, by the president of the Robert Owen Foundation, Mr. H. E. Langford, 97 Gough Ave., Toronto, from whom all further information may be obtained.

In the contest of 1934, essays were submitted from all over Canada. A copy of the winning essay may be secured from the Foundation.

MISS HOME GIVES MUSEUM LECTURE

Fifteenth Century Houses Bear Resemblance to Jails, She Says

STUOY FURNITURE

"The houses of the fifteenth century bear a distinct resemblance to a jail and incidentally to Central Technical School," stated Ruth M. Home in the first of a series of twenty lectures on period furniture. The house of the Medici was bare looking and fortified. It had barred windows and outside staircases.

In the study of furniture we start with the Italian Renaissance. It is the start of all modern times. The furniture is influenced by the Mohammedans, the barbarian hordes from the north, and the Byzantine culture. All these forces work through the years and come to the fore in the fourteenth century. The result is a series of complications. Venice was influenced more by the East than Florence. Rome was exposed to classical culture.

The different influences are observed all over. The Taj Mahal and St. Marks Summonses were issued last night for the appearance of the twenty four medical students before the Supreme Court of the Alma Mater Society here tonight at seven o'clock. All of the defendants refused any comment on the case until the court convenes.

Official sources denied any knowledge of Kostuik's resignation and Nora McGinnis (vice-president of the Alma Mater Society), told The Journal that it was believed his resignation, which has been widely rumoured, was not in yet.

While no attempt has been made to test student opinion by a referendum, a possibility of the fraternity question as an election issue was seen in the announcement that the Arts-Levanna-Theology party has adopted an anti-affiliation platform for the coming A.M.S. election on October 25th. The Meds-Science party platform is as yet unknown.

Today is the first day for settling your account with the S.C.M. Book Exchange, according to Mr. Hlatton, director of the Exchange. The office will be open from ten-thirty to one and from three-thirty to five-fifteen each day for the balance of the week.

As usual the exchange had a successful year. Last season the turnover amounted to $3,000; and the figure this year is expected to be about the same, despite the fact that a great many more books were left over. The S.C.M., it is announced, will continue this useful service in 1935.

The Exchange is patronized by every college and faculty on the campus with the notable exception of Dentistry. For some reason, not a single would-be dentist entered the portals of the library. The kindred medical faculty, however,

THE PASSING OF THE UNIVERSITY GRANT

The Hepburn government having made drastic reductions in every department of its activity, it was feared in some quarters that the University of Toronto would be included in the programme of economy. It is therefore with genuine relief and gratification that the University learns of the passing of the additional $150,000 grant by the Department of Education. It is no secret that considerable speculation as to the attitude which the new government would take towards the provincial University obtained in official circles. Unfortunately, the erroneous opinion has been widely circulated that the Conservative Party was more friendly to this institution than the Liberals. The passing of the grant silences such unjust and unfounded criticism.

This move may be taken as an assurance that the present government recognizes the prime importance of education in society, and that in the days to come the University will be positively the last department of its public service to suffer from the admitted necessity of slashing costs. Meanwhile, we feel that we are expressing the feeling of the University of Toronto in acknowledging the generosity and vision of the Hepburn government on this occasion.

EXTENSION COURSE IN TWO DIVISIONS

Some Try Illegitimate Economy by Posing as Manual Workers

The department of University Extension gives its evening courses in two classes, a "white collar" class at five dollars a subject and a workers' class at two dollars a subject. This division brings to light some interesting facts. One is that some persons hot in the pursuit of learning but anxious to economize are trying to palm themselves off as manual workers when they are not such, in order to receive the lower rate. Fortunately, authorities are usually able to spot these people and they are asked to leave, forfeiting the money they have paid.

Candidates for learning are thus not anxious to exaggerate their positions. The prospective student who would once have put himself down on his application form as a shipping manager now admits being a parceling clerk.

Workers and "white collars" have distinctly different methods of studying, it seems. The "white collars" concentrate on taking notes during the lecture, letting it go at that, while the workers take no notes but bombard the lecturer with questions and contradictions at the end of his lecture.

COURSE TO BE GIVEN IN PARENT EDUCATION

A new course in parent education sponsored by the Department of University Extension of the University of Toronto will begin this week at the St. George School for Child Study.

The course, open to all interested, discusses how children learn, how parents may plan effectively for their child's development, how the child should be trained in bodily appetites, and the questions of sleep, eating, elimination, sex, play and emotional control.

The course is to consist of ten lectures, one every fortnight. The lecturers will be members of the school. Mrs. H. Johnson, Mrs. S. Cohen and Miss Mae Fleming.

LISMER GIVES LECTURE ON FRENCH PAINTINGS

Works of Degas and Renoir on Exhibition in Art Gallery

"Why have you never painted an angel?" Degas, a French painter of the 19th century, was asked. In reply he answered, "Because I have never seen one."

Arthur Lismer, in a lecture at the Art Gallery on Friday afternoon, pointed out that this remark was typical of the new movement in French painting. Renoir and Degas, whose works are now on exhibition at the Art Gallery, are the leading artists of the period. They destroyed the idea that a grand subject made a grand picture. Both men were alike in their ideas of simplicity of subject. Everything and anything associated with industrial life could be the subject of a painting. These simple subjects, not classical in any respect, created a furore in academic circles, because the French, more than any others, have kept traditions alive. Mr. Lismer remarked here that, "we, in the tradition of today, do not realize the revolutionary idea behind this simplicity."

ENGINEERS HEAR DEAN MITCHELL SPEAK

A packed house greeted the initial meeting of the Engineering Society of the Faculty of Applied Science, which was held yesterday afternoon. A large number of freshmen were among the vociferous Schoolmen who sang school songs and applauded the opening address of the year, which was given by Dean Mitchell on the subject "New Engineering Achievements".

The lecture by Dean Mitchell covered a wide range of topics in engineering, and was illustrated with lantern slides. Architecture, chemistry, mining and metallurgical and other branches were discussed, and an interesting feature was an illustrated talk on the launching of the "Queen Mary", the giant Cunard liner.

Let's Go Places

Ever since Screen Romances began to tell of its production, Cleopatra has been eagerly awaited by many people. Some of these were Cecil B. DeMille fans, with memories of Ben Hur in their heads, some were Claudette Colbert fans, with ideas about the world's greatest love story, and others were interested either in seeing what kind of a historical plot would result, or how much would be borrowed from the bard, and how well.

As a spectacle, and as a love story, Cleopatra showed DeMille and Colbert at their best. Dramatically, it was well arranged, with promiscuous borrowings from Julius Caesar and Antony and Cleopatra, and, while historically the plot was packed with anachronisms and fiction, the history student would not come away disappointed.

This is chiefly to be credited to the genius who had the inspiration to cast Julius Caesar in a role which corresponded with the character of the man as we find it in his own writings and the history of the period. Probably the scenario writer had read John Buchan's little biography of Caesar, with gratifying results, and in addition, a masterpiece of make-up turned Warren Williams into a living portrait of the well known British Museum bust of the noblest Roman of them all.

Just as the motives of Caesar in his relations with Cleopatra are shown to be business motives, Cleopatra is also represented as a person seeking to promote her own interests without regard for mere emotion, to a degree remarkable in a film which features an established siren of the calibre of Claudette.

The really poor picture of Octavius is the one great disappointment. His age is misrepresented in that he is shown as a middle aged man during the life of Caesar. Mistake two—he criticizes Caesar for being softened by his connection with Cleopatra for which there is no foundation. Number three, he is shown as a near-sighted individual (!). Some Ziegfeld folly acts on the barge, some Parisian dress designs on Roman ladies, and a little of the customary jumbling of motives (i.e., Cleopatra shown as placing the welfare of her people ahead of personal ambition) and the aforementioned fictitious history complete the catalogue of sins.

Some of the shots of warfare on the sea, and sieges with battering rams, and chariots going into action against a line of bowmen are alone worth the price of admission, and far outweigh any little faults which one may find with the scenario. After all, a historical play is like a bustle—a fictitious tale founded on a stern reality, and a little fiction only serves to make the picture live. It is far above the quality of the average motion picture.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE GROUPS ANNOUNCED

The preliminary meetings of the Student Christian Movement study groups for women in University College will be as follows: Life of Jesus, Part One: Group led by Miss Margaret Kinney in Amesley Hall on Tuesday, October 16th, at 4.30 o'clock. Art of Living: Group led by the Rev. E. L. Wasson at the S.C.M. office in the Household Science Building on Wednesday, October 17th at 5 o'clock. This group is for men and women. Also the group led by Mrs. McCurdy at the S.C.M. office in the Household Science Building on Thursday, October 18th at 1.30 o'clock.

Economics: Group led by Miss Biss, in her room in Falconer House on Wednesday, October 17th at 5 o'clock. All interested are welcome to come to any of these meetings, whether you have signed for a group or not.

TRINITY COLLEGE DEBATE

"Canadian Entanglement in International Affairs" is the subject of a debate to be held this week under the auspices of the Trinity College Literary Institute, it was decided at their meeting held last Friday evening.

A feature of the meeting was the annual freshmen concert. The freshmen sworn in to the Lit. were afterwards required to entertain the other members.

FAMOUS INSTITUTIONS

Although many institutions about the campus date their history back to the days when Queen Victoria still had a figure, the library is said to have more history attached to it than any other building.

This report is entirely erroneous, as all available histories are out on loan to members of the faculty at Baldwin House.

In order to encourage students to take part in sport and other campus activities, a special committee was called to design the library building. Their success was prodigious.

They instituted the forced draft ventilation system, the no draft heating system, and introduced acoustical effects copied directly from the whispering gallery and the Bar of Dionysius.

A technical adviser from the fire department was consulted in installing the alarm system of radiators.

So, successful was the work of the committee that the heating system was discontinued when it was discovered that the library was used only during the month of May.

After a careful study of the institution known as Morton's Fork, used by Henry VII, the ransom notes of Three Fingers Abe, and Phil O. Bluster's heartless extortion (see Gray, La Petite Orpheline Ame), an elaborate system of fines was worked out.

After two weeks' trial of the system, the University was able to dispense with the provincial grant.

When it was noticed that many people were using the library to acquire an education, as it was popularly called, a staff of librarians was installed. Such restrictions are now placed upon the borrowing of books that the faculty is again unchallenged as the supreme source. (See Catholic Encyclopedia, Infalibility).

The building is scientifically designed, as to drafts, materials, etc., so as to keep the News Editor of The Varsity in constant trepidation lest the fire should not occur in the interval between the publication of the Globe and that of The Varsity.

The library may be found to the north of the Medical Building, or by following a course due east from Knox College. It serves to screen off the view of the campus from the Parliament Buildings.

VARSITY TRACK TEAM SHOWS PROMISE

In Discus Throw Westheuser Beats Intercollegiate Record

If the performances turned in at the interfaculty track meet can be taken as any criterion, Varsity will have one of the strongest track teams of some years to send over the cinder paths at McGill this week end. Several of the men gave brilliant displays last week, with Ronnie Westheuser, turning in the best effort, when he bettered the intercollegiate mark by several feet in the discus throw. Munro, who captured the high jump event is also a man of more than ordinary ability, having performed for Canada in this event in the 1928 Olympics. The complete team is as follows:

100 Yards: Caldwell, Ashenhurst.
220 Yards: Caldwell, Ashenhurst.
440 Yards: Maguire, Campbell and Little.
880 Yards: Campbell, Conway and Little.
One Mile: Rankin, Magladdery.
120 Yard Hurdles: Hickey, O'Connor.
220 Yard Hurdles: O'Connor, Hamilton, Hickey.
High Jump: Munro, Weldon.
Long Jump: Cooper, Maguire.
Discus: Westheuser, Eaton.
Javelin: Munro, Eaton.
Shot Put: Westheuser, Munro.
Pole Vault: Cooper, Hamilton.
Relay: Campbell, Conway, Maguire, Little.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Well, here's hoping that Agnes Gardiner, Ellen Wilson, Madge Shaw, and Genevieve Logan will prove as terrifying and formidable to the teams that McMaster, Western and Queen's send down on Friday as they have to those who "also ran" in the Varsity inter-faculty tournament. It was ruled that the deadline for challenge games was 6 p.m. yesterday and no games were played up to that date. One Vic player did not understand the ruling and did challenge just too late. Special concession may be made to her in which case the line-up for Friday's and Saturday's play may be altered. However, it will take real skill to nose out any of these four tennis stars, for we regard them as the cream of our crop and are looking for championship playing from them in the final matches.

Tomorrow we will be able to give you the point standings of the various colleges in the interfaculty tournament. St. Mike's is probably the winner as Agnes Gardiner herself piled up a large score.

Again we are placed in the humiliating position of acknowledging and apologizing for an error in this column yesterday. Jean Leavens, who won the cup for the low gross score in the golf tournament is from II Victoria, and not U.C. as we had mistakenly understood.

There are to be meetings of both the Basketball and Baseball Clubs today. The latter is still having difficulties about arranging practice times but hope to get everything worked out this afternoon so as to get the baseball started this week to prevent it from overlapping too much with the basketball season.

The Basketball Club is to get after the matter of game schedules which they hope to complete this week. Basketball practices have got under way in all the faculties and everything points to a super-season. The faculty games are excellent workouts for the intercollegiate team, and we are counting on an aggregation which will keep the "Bronze Baby" here in Toronto for another year—at least.

U.C. has every hope for three first-rate teams. The freshie turnout has been especially encouraging for seventeen of them were out at the first practice, full of pep and displaying the qualities which mark real basketball players.

The freshies at U.C. have nothing over those at St. Hilda's. At the practice last Thursday there were a number of first year Saints who were very enthusiastic and did not seem to be hampered by preconceived ideas which have to be drummed out before coaching in college basketball can take effect. With this new material added to the excellent players from previous teams who are still in the running there seems little doubt but what St. Hilda's will be represented by as snappy a team as ever.

S.P.S. TEAM DEFEATS SENIOR MEDS 1 TO 0

An Exhibition of Pre-Season Rugby; Variety of Plays Limited

BOTH TEAMS BELOW FORM

Senior S.P.S., defenders of the historic Mulock Cup, took the initial contest from Senior Meds, 1-0, in a see-saw game of football on the back campus yesterday afternoon. The winning counter came four minutes before the final whistle.

The game was decidedly an exhibition of pre-season rugby with both teams away below form. Their variety of plays seemed limited and the timing was invariably behind time. However, there was seldom a dull minute as is the case when these two campus rivals meet or rather clash, battle and slug, in any form of sport.

The Medicals vainly attempted to gain yards via the aerial route but either the receivers were romping around elsewhere or the Schoolmen dashed through the lines of the Red, black and white to nab the passer before he could get rid of the pigskin. The embryo engineers were content to play old style ball with bucks, end-runs and a punt. They only tossed two forwards completing the second for a gain of 15 yards, Clark to Sherwood.

School scored the only point after a march from their 40 yard line to the Medicals' 25 yard line, by plunging yards, a Medical offside and Hamilton carrying the ball 23 yards on a fake kick. Hamilton kicked the point.

In the second quarter Medicals had the ball of School's 30 yard line but tried a placement which was short rather than boot for a lone tally.

McArthur, Bridgen and Clark played the best ball for the winners while King smashed the School line on three occasions for the losers. S.P.S. had the advantage in kicking.

S.P.S.—Flying wing, Lilley; halves, Hamilton, Gartshore, MacArthur; quarter, Clark; snap, Wood; insides, Pettis, Thompson; middles, Brunette, Brigham; outsides, Sherwood, Gooch; subs, Foster, Baker, Gross, Ledingham, Saunders, Wilson, Lottimer, Royal, Dando, Bryce.

Meds.—Flying wing, Snelling; halves, King, Lottimer, Smith; quarter, Stearns; snap, Neilson; insides, Jung and Hodges; subs, Doyle, Lomley, Luborsky.

Officials: Oille, Leachman, Campbell.

ENGINEERS TAKE FIRST SOCCER GAME

Overwhelming Victory for S.P.S. Opens Interfaculty Soccer Series

JOHNSON, FRASER SCORE

Senior School opened the interfaculty soccer season last night on the front campus with an overwhelming victory of 4-0 over Dents. Never pressed, the Engineers had the play all their own way and kept Dents for the greater part of the game hemmed in their half of the field.

Two goals were scored in each period, and all of them came after clever combination that baffled the Dent backs and left Cowan, the goalie, without a

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

The tennis team, forming the vanguard of the Varsity invaders, left for Montreal and McGill last night. By the end of the week the transient population of that city will be increased by members of the British Rugby team, the senior track team, the soccer team and the tennis team, who will be plying their trade in interfaculty fixtures. All of which points to a wild time in the old town some night.

Back in 1893, Sir William Mulock donated a cup to be given to the interfaculty team who proved themselves the most proficient at the many art of playing football. Last night the teams, still in quest of the same old cup, started the long grind from which one will emerge, some time in November, with the interfaculty championship.

From now until the cup is located for the next year the teams will be battling through their group games with all the vim and vigour of clubs fighting through a world series. Trinity looks to be the class of the present crop and have been training for several weeks. They are being piloted by Les Blackwell and that is another factor in their favour. Also they have perhaps suffered least of any of the faculties, from graduation. Not that graduation is a novelty around Trinity, but it so happens that last year few of the football players were in the graduation draft.

Senior School held their first workout of the season last night, while Meds were out for the second time. The fact that they were facing each other in the opening game did not deter them from enjoying the game. Incidentally, the Engineers won the game, with a single point in the final session. The one feature of the game which was not pleasing was the fact that they were late in starting. This is a situation which should be avoided as it is difficult to conclude the games before dark even when they start on time.

The football situation will have a different complexion at the conclusion of this week's games. In the intercollegiate series, Queen's are still abreast of the Varsity yards and have as yet to be defeated. However, they won both their games with a total of eight points which does not indicate any great scoring power. It will be recalled that they got a single point decision over both Western and McGill. Varsity had the slim margin of 33 points in their conquest of the Mustangs, while they were well out in front of McGill. However, the Tricolour squad are a tough crew to beat, on their own field, and while Varsity must be given better than an even chance Saturday, they will have no picnic, with the Kingston squad.

In the O.R.F.U. St. Mike's are tied with Sarnia, a situation which will also probably be altered this week end. The Irish, although stronger than they have ever been before will go into the battle with the best wishes of many but not favourites to win. However, they defeated the Sarnia crew in decisive fashion last year, and are much stronger this season than last, and may again surprise. In the Big Four the Argos are the only team with two victories to their credit in as many starts. This week Johnny Ferraro brings the latest model of the Tiger tanks to town to do battle with the Argos. Johnny is the lad from Cornell who liked the hotel business in Hamilton and is now selling his services to the Royal Connaught. He must be a real coach at that, for his Tigers are composed of some slightly used members and many youngsters. With Bus Blum, a Colgate product, added to this collection, they defeated the Roughriders and held the Wheelers to a draw. Not such a bad record at that.

Tonight Mac McCutcheon will assemble his basketeers for the first practice of the season. Mac always did like to get away to a good start and should have a real contending team when the series opens.

Waterpoloists Start Practices to Choose Intercollegiate Team

HOPE TO BEAT MCGILL

The initial practices for the swimming and water polo teams were started last week under the direction of Mr. Winterburn. A large squad answered the first summons and the coach is faced with the difficult task of selecting a team for intercollegiate competition.

Varsity lost the water polo series last year to McGill by two goals. The games this year will be held here on December 8 and at Montreal on the 15th. It is also expected that Varsity will be represented in the Toronto and District League by junior and senior teams. An interfaculty league will be inaugurated after Christmas.

McGill won the swimming and diving championship last winter by the narrow margin of three points. It

Nazis Coordinate Protestant Church

By John C. DeWilde

(Reprinted from Foreign Policy Bulletin)

On September 23, after riding roughshod over all opposition, Reich Bishop Mueller was consecrated head of the German Protestant Church. His consecration marks, at least officially, the culmination of a long struggle for church unity waged since his election to the office of Reich Bishop by a National Synod on September 27, 1933. It also signals the formal triumph of the German Christians and their conception of the Church as an instrument for the inculcation of National Socialist ideology. Henceforth the authorities will enforce the Aryan paragraph barring from church offices all who are of Jewish descent or have married Jews.

That this victory is far from complete is evident from a statement issued on the day of consecration by the Free Confessional Synod, a body opposing the Reich Bishop and representing about a third of the Protestant pastors in the Reich. This statement, read from the pulpit by many opposition pastors, championed the idea of a free church and condemned church unification under Nazi auspices as an attempt to submerge the various Protestant confessions and impose a "Nordic-Christian hybrid religion". The investment of Dr. Mueller, it said, should fill every Evangelical Christian "with deepest shame and sorrow".

The final "co-ordination" of the Protestant Church was accomplished only after the application of drastic measures to the opposition. On August 9 the National Synod, dominated by the German Christians, approved a series of laws sanctioning Dr. Mueller's acts and requiring all pastors on pain of dismissal to take an oath of allegiance to Hitler and to act "in accordance with instructions issued by the German Evangelical Church". Aided by Reich civil administrator, Dr. August Jaeger, the Reich Bishop proceeded to enforce obedience by the various state churches and to suspend recalcitrant pastors. In Baden a church synod which opposed co-ordination was dissolved and a new one appointed which promptly voted submission. The subordination of the Bavarian and Wurttemberg churches, decreed by Dr. Jaeger on September 6, proved more difficult. Supported by a majority of their pastors and congregations, the bishops of these two state churches publicly protested against coercion. On September 15 Bishop Wurm of Wurttemberg was suspended, ostensibly for using church funds to finance the opposition to Dr. Mueller; and four days later he was placed in "protective custody". At the same time a number of noted professors of theology were removed from office, and the sale and distribution of the writings of Dr. Karl Barth, a noted opponent of the German Christians, were forbidden. No move has yet been made to depose the Bavarian Bishop, Dr. Meiser, who protested the suspension of his Wurttemberg colleague and took occasion in a sermon on September 23 to renew his denunciation of the Reich Bishop. Nor has any action been taken against the Bishop of Hanover, in spite of the co-ordination of his church, appears to be successfully organizing a secessionist movement in defiance of the Reich ecclesiastical authorities.

The limited triumph so far won by Dr. Mueller was possible only because Chancellor Hitler himself finally abandoned all pretense of neutrality. The dissenting pastors had been encouraged by the Leader's speech at Coblenz on August 26, in which he promised to protect religion as long as it was not used to cloak opposition to the State. Moreover, the election on August 30 of Dr. Koch, head of the opposition to the Reich Bishop, to the Universal Christian Council for Life and Work was expected to exercise a restraining influence on the German government. Thus heartened, the opposition appealed to the Chancellor to check the coercive tactics employed by Dr. Mueller and his aides. The dissidents emphasized that they were entirely willing to pledge allegiance to the Chancellor and the State, but could not accept the new church regime. On September 19, however, the Leader expressly affirmed the legality of the Bishop's measures.

Although the Nazi government obviously could not disown an accomplishment which marked a further step toward the realization of a "totalitarian" state, it showed no inclination to celebrate the unification of the church as a new triumph. The consecration ceremonies were characterized by little enthusiasm. Apparently no Nazi organizations participated, and the government was represented only by Dr. Frick, Minister of the Interior. The government seems anxious not to force the church opposition into open hostility to the Third Reich. Moreover, it does not wish to prejudice its relations with the Catholic Church, especially in view of the forthcoming plebiscite in the predominantly Catholic Saar Basin. For this reason the authorities have minimized the importance of recent declarations by Dr. Jaeger and Dr. Mueller in favour of a united German Church free from ties with Rome. The neo-pagan movement has also been checked, the Reich Bishop himself condemning it in his consecration sermon. The authorities do not appear, however, to have been completely successful in allaying the alarm felt by Catholics as a result of the severe methods employed to quell the opposition in the Protestant Church.

RAPID CHANGES IN RUSSIAN SYSTEM

one substituted. To the ordinary observer it appears that in agriculture she has made her greatest mistake. In comparison with the Canadian method of farming, many more workmen are used per acre than is necessary. During the early part of the depression, the Ford Company and other great American firms turned all their super salesmen to concentrate upon Russia with the result that the Soviet attempted to become American, using heavy tractors and machinery where it would have been much more practical to have used lighter horse-drawn implements. Professor McGregor stated that he was very favourably impressed with the bearing and manners of the Russian crowd as a whole which could be favourably compared with the best-mannered of our English crowds. Many of the Russian masses were very well dressed especially in the evenings when they gathered in their beautiful parks or other places of amusement.

Date Bureau Now in Full Swing

Gentlemen may prefer blondes, but to date only 25 per cent of the men who have registered at the Date Bureau have specified desire for this particular type of girl. Although it has been in operation for less than a week, the Bureau has been doing a rushing business securing dates for students who have not had an opportunity to make friends among the other sex.

Approximately 80 per cent of the men who have applied have been from out of town, with representatives from Brazil, New York City, England, Florida, and every province in western Canada. Students have registered from practically every faculty in the University, with the exception of Trinity College and St. Joseph's College.

During the first few days that the service was in operation, the men patronized it much more than the women, but since the week-end there has been an increase in the number of applications from women. There is still a marked shortage of applications from women in residence.

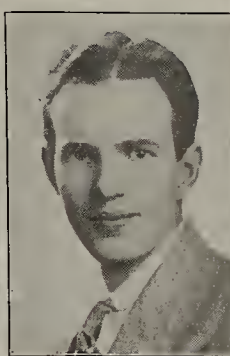

The files of the Bureau show that for the most part, the women specify that they want a congenial companion, and a good sport. There has been considerable demand for men interested in such cultural pursuits as the Promenade Symphony and University dramatics. One girl, who had specified that she desired an "intellectual", decided over the week-end that she was asking too much, and wrote in to ask for a "plain, ordinary man". Her request is in the process of fulfilment.

Double dating is a problem which is causing the operator of the Bureau some trouble. Some girls write in in pairs, asking for escorts in pairs who will take them out together. Others specify that they wish to see the man who is chosen for them before they go out for an evening. Such particular and specific requirements have delayed the filling of some applications.

RULING TAKES EFFECT AT ONCE AS TWENTY-FOUR FOUND GUILTY OF MEMBERSHIP IN FRATERNITY

Sentence Pronounced by Chief Justice Leishman of the Alma Mater Society Court at the End of a Two-Hour Sitting

NEARLY A THOUSAND STUDENTS PACK COURT

J. H. Hamlin, W. R. Glass, C. Dafeo, and F. E. Earle, Members of the Queen's Senior Rugby Team, Among Those Found Guilty

Special to "The Varsity", by H. V. Shaw.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 16.—Found guilty of membership in an organization having affiliations with the International Medical Fraternity Nu Sigma Nu, twenty-four members of the Queen's Medical Faculty will be barred from participation in all social, political and athletic functions at Queen's for a period of not less than one year.

Among those found guilty are: J. H. Hamlin, W. R. Glass, C. Dafeo, and F. E. Earle, members of Queen's senior rugby team. The sentence will go into effect immediately, it was learned.

This sentence, pronounced by Chief Justice M. A. Leishman of the Alma Mater Society court, at the end of a two hour sitting, came after all the accused had withdrawn from the court room following the refusal of a plea for adjournment.

Before a court room crowded with nearly a thousand students, E. T. Murrie, as secretary of the organization, formerly calling itself Psi Delta Phi and himself one of the accused, was called to the stand. The charge was read and he was asked to plead.

It was then that J. C. Finley, counsel for the defense, asked for an adjournment on the grounds that only twenty four hours had elapsed since the issue of the summonses. His clients had, he stated, sought advice from W. H. Herrington, a Kingston lawyer, who had been unable to advise them in so short a time.

He had not, the counsel continued, been able to secure a certified copy of Article 12 of the Alma Mater Society constitution, which was modified last March, forbidding all Greek letter societies and societies having connections outside the University.

Counsel Finley declared that the wording of the charges had been indefinite.

"It is not our purpose to try to win this case on a technicality," he said. "But we feel that we have a strong case." (Continued on Page 4)

Activities of Youth Unit Are Announced at First Meeting

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

"Our aim is to create a feeling that disputes between nations could be settled at council tables rather than by wars. Another war will be our war. We are the goats," said Miss Jeanette Johnson, president of the Youth Unit, League of Nations Society, Toronto Branch, at a meeting held last night at 45 St. George St.

Mr. Glen Wilton, secretary of the Toronto branch of the parent society, told the meeting that the society was formed in Toronto six or seven years ago. "The Women's League of Nations Association, headed by Miss Chown, has been affiliated with the Toronto branch under the wing of the main local body, thereby enabling greater co-operation and efficiency," he said.

Professor MacKenzie was elected president at a re-organization meeting last year. In the Dominion Day parade this year, the Youth Unit won a cup which was presented by the city of Toronto for a float which they themselves had constructed and entered in the contest. ## OFFICERS ARE ELECTED TO GUIDE LIBERAL CLUB

At the inauguration meeting of the Liberal Club in the Music Room of Hart House, the following officers were elected for the year 1934-1935: President, Bruce Marshall; vice-president, Tom Keenan; secretary, Martin Kerner; treasurer, Jack Sugarman.

A motion was passed that plans for programmes of future meetings be left in the hands of the executive who should draw up a schedule and present it for consideration at the next meeting, which was to be held on Thursday, October 25.

The president then requested all good Liberals to turn out and support the party at the Hart House debate.

"SEX FOR ART'S SAKE"

The sex problem has always been with us although its quality, as a problem, has varied with the different viewpoints of different ages. All the great writers and artists from the beginning of these arts have used it as an invaluable theme. Homer pictured the gods living in debauchery and lasciviousness; the Old Testament writers employed no allegories in sexual scenes; Shakespeare is too realistic for the immature minds of youthful students in our preparatory schools; the early novelists were ultra-frank in their treatment of the sexual.

Our age has established a rigid system of expurgation in preparing these classics for use as text-books. We wonder why. The modern age boasts of its unpuritanical attitude and proves it by its literature. These early writers presented sex as a normal event of life without any debasing influence. Some of the later novelists used it to point a moral or to build a tremendously effective dramatic scene. Tolstoy, Dostoevsky, Richardson, and Hardy wrote with reticence and delicacy; they were primarily artists. Modern writers are not interested in art; they alone have discovered the true value of sex in literature (at least for our age); they flood the market with voluptuous scenes because they are profitable. We have commercialized sex.

There have never been so many books written on one subject in one generation as the number pouring from the printing presses of our modern publishing houses on this important subject. Several doctors, possibly suffering from the depression, have subsidised their practices by contradicting or repeating what has already been written; biologists, psychologists, and moralists are making money by flooding the market with facts we ought to know and do know; the movie industry has lined its coffers from the curves of Mae West and the indulgence of censors. Even some ultra-modern politicians seek our favour with the offer of free love. The modern novelist is not concerned with the moral issue involved, the hygienic phases of the subject, nor its possible effect on the personality of the reader; sex is the secret of success and he must sell his books.

A striking instance is the popularity of the much-discussed book "Anthony Adverse". We confess to reading it just as you and you. The author of this marathon novel had written other books but no one ever read them. Experience taught him a lesson. He published a book with the most vivid descriptions of sexual scenes. He comes closer to the true art of writing in these passages than in any others. The remainder of the book is second-rate. The story drags monotonously; the geographical background becomes boring; many of the unfortunate circumstances of the hero have befallen innumerable other heroes. But no other novelist has approached him in the daring of his realism. Our point is this: if he had written a first-class novel capable of favourable comparison with the great works of the past he should have remained unknown. The world is at his feet because he commercialized sex.

"Sex for art's sake", the modern slogan, seems to find its justification in the minds of the reading public. The customer demonstrates, by his purchases, the type of books he wishes to read. There are few modern authors willing to starve for the advancement of their art. So long as sex remains commercially valuable we may expect to be deluged with it. We shall continue to call it realism but the more cynical among us will call it vulgarity. Meanwhile, modern literature remains an eloquent indicator of the depraved taste of the reading public.

Promenade Concert

Next Thursday evening in Varsity Arena, Reginald Stewart and his 100 Promenade Symphony Orchestra members will play their sixteenth and final "Prom" programme of their initial season. The success this summer of the Promenade Concerts assures a similar series for next summer, plans for which are already under way.

Guest artists at the last concert will be Boris Volkoff, famous Russian dancer, and a group of his most brilliant pupils. They will dance a trio in the form of a dance poem to Scriabine's "Impromptu in B flat minor". The choreography is by Mr. Volkoff and the dancers will be Pauline Sullivan, Clara Ord, and Paul Howard. Their second number will be the delightful Dance of the Clowns from Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera, "The Snow Maiden". This work will be done by a quartet including Ruth Geller, Joan Hutchinson, Helen Pritchard, and Boris Volkoff. The dancers will be accompanied by the Promenade Symphony Orchestra, with Miss May Clemens at the piano. The dancers' costumes have been designed by Ronald McCrae, one of Canada's foremost designers.

For the final "Prom", Mr. Stewart has chosen as his featured symphonic work, the fourth symphony of Tchaikovsky. Other works on the program will be Mendelssohn's Ruy Blas Overture and three dances from Edward German's "Henry VIII" music.

The "Prom" season will be officially closed by the playing of "Auld Lang Syne". This concert will be held under the patronage of President and Mrs. H. J. Cody.

Hart House Theatre

Hart House Theatre is being used by the playwright's studio group for the fourth season this winter. They plan to present, as their first offering, a bill of three original one-act plays written by members of the group. This programme will be presented on Saturday, October 20, and will include "An Act of Charity" by Mrs. Virginia C. Knight, "The Party" by Miss Leonora McNally and "Nellie McNab" by Miss Lois Reynolds.

Mrs. Knight's play is a "charlady" comedy with an all female cast consisting of Florence Long, Helen Gardiner, Helen Parsons and Charlotte Kyle, with Ross Millard directing it.

Miss McNally's play is a political comedy. The members of the cast are W. Ward Price, Derek Simpson, Graham Gardiner, Paul Thornlow, Percy Schutt, Janet Bacon, Connie Vernon and Frances Tolhurst.

Miss Reynolds' play is a 'society' farce. The players are Edna Norwich, Florian Moore, Eleanor Barton, Betty Green, Murray Bonnycastle and Thomas Coll. Miss Peggy Tyler is the director.

Altogether the three plays should supply a very amusing evening. The past quality of the plays at the playwright's studio group has been very good and many of the actors have achieved prominence in radio and Dickens Fellowship plays and also in the Dominion Drama Festival.

FEMININE

A tabloid editor once instructed his men to "get the sex angle into every story". Unfortunately this practice has not been confined to tabloid newspapers. In fact, there are very few walks of life on this continent in which the sex angle is not threatening to swamp the original function. After all, there is no reason to resist this movement, as it would be quite hopelessly moral even to think of it.

Therefore, we propose that in the game of rugby, the rules should be revised in order to instil more sex appeal into the actual game.

The necessity of this has been made plain by the spirited campaign carried on by the Jar Weekly. Two weeks ago, this worthy publication printed a layout of action pictures from the McGill-Varsity game, as a background for a charming photographic study of Miss W— J—, one of the season's lovely debutantes, who, it seems, had graciously lent that feminine touch to the struggle, without which football would hardly be the same. Now, the feminine touch about the game was perfectly evident, and Warren Stevens, the man, is doing his best to eradicate it, but nobody would have guessed who lent it. Another mysterious feature of the case is the manner in which Miss W— J— was chosen to represent femininity in football. Perhaps the photographer saw how enthusiastic she was, or maybe it was a coincidence. Her relationship to one of the editors is extraneous evidence. Besides, the picture shown was not a snap, but a photograph!

The same paper in this week's colored picture section, ran a painting of two people going for a walk. One was definitely a girl. The other one was dressed in an outfit vaguely resembling a football uniform. Their heads were together, and in their eyes one could not but see the love-light shine. As far as could be learned, a rugby outfit is not standard equipment for an afternoon stroll.

The future is clear. We know that Betty Co-Ed is loved by every College Boy, except the ones who prefer the All American Girl, and that You Gotta Be a Football Hero to get to first base with the dames. We also can observe the absolutely feverish interest in rugby which brooks no rival interest during the autumn.

Now, while the playground leagues manage to run whole schedules of games without the aid of a single female spectator, or were able to in the past, and all participants seemed to enjoy themselves, we realize that this sort of thing is not for adults. Sex appeal is indispensable.

Boys, you're wasting your time. Two bits says that Miss W— J— does not know what the safety touch actually is, and probably thinks that an eligible man is one with money and good looks. You might as well stop striving for skill, etc. Just lay on the he-man stuff and don't get your hair mussed.

Oh, sugar.

Joab.

FINE PROGRAMME FOR LEAGUE UNIT

and fifty members and more were expected to join. He told of the booth at the Canadian National Exhibition which was modelled after a similar display presented at the Chicago Fair last year. Outlining the activities for the next few weeks, he mentioned that the speaker for the meeting of October 29 would be Miss Vera Britten, author of "Testament of Youth".

Mr. J. B. Bickersteth of Hart House will address a meeting on October 20 at the Metropolitan Church on "Impressions Gained in Germany This Summer."

Premier R. B. Bennett will speak under the auspices of the Toronto branch some time in November. This will be Mr. Bennett's first public speech regarding Geneva matters since his return from Europe. Early in December the Toronto branch is to put on a play at Eaton's Auditorium with the idea of raising funds and of gaining publicity for the movement.

Miss Marjorie Reid, ex-officio member of the executive committee of the Youth Unit, stated, "The Youth Unit is a non-political and educational movement to get people interested in the League of Nations itself, in Geneva."

Senator Nye of the United States, who recently investigated the munitions combine in the U.S., will address the Empire Club in Toronto on November 5th. The Toronto branch will try to arrange for him to speak at their meeting.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

St. Mike's has again won the inter-faculty tennis championship with a grand total of 19 points. Vic ranked second with 14 points, Trinity secured third place with a score of 12, U.C. was fourth, chalking up a 9 point total, and Meds came fifth with 3. Meds' score need not be regarded as a humiliating defeat since it had a very small number of players from whom to draw.

The letter of the law in regard to challenge games was carried out and no concession was made to the would-be challenger who was just too late. So Varsity is to be represented in the intercollegiate tournament by Agnes Gardiner, III St. Mike's; Ellen Wilson, II Trinity; Madge Shaw, II U.C., and Genevieve Logan, IV Vic. This is a team to be proud of and the games on Friday and Saturday at the Toronto Tennis Club are going to be well worth watching. With Doreen Kenny, Queen's big threat, no longer menacing our chances for victory and with a stellar quartette to fight for the championship, Varsity can, with no undue optimism, expect to distinguish itself this year.

Bea Longley, an outstanding player on the Scarlet and Gold intercollegiate basketball teams during her four years at Varsity, has taken on the coaching of the Vic senior team. Vic has always been represented by a stellar aggregation and with the valuable addition of Bea's coaching their team will undoubtedly go far in the inter-faculty series.

Vic has only had one practice to date but it was very encouraging. A large number of freshies turned out and among them there seemed to be some very promising material. No coach for the junior team has been selected as yet but the appointment will be made very soon.

Agnes Gardiner is in charge of basketball at St. Mike's and of course she has been too tied up with tennis to do very much with it as yet. However, she hopes to get things started this week so that St. Mike's will be just as much a challenger for the title as ever before. This minor delay can be more than justified by the fact that Agnes really single-handedly secured the tennis title for her college since she piled up 15 of the total 19 points which St. Mike's has to its credit.

Watch The Varsity for the schedule of the inter-faculty basketball games. These games are generally the best attended of all women's sports events so do not let this season prove any exception. Real support will cheer a team to victory in a very close game!

We would like to correct an error which appeared in yesterday's column, where we spoke of Miss Leavens winning the cup for the low gross score in the golf tournament. Ruth, and not Jean, is, of course, the name.

VIC DEFEAT U.C. IN RUGBY MATCH

Runners Up Last Year Eke Out Victory with One Point

BOTH TEAMS WEAK

Yesterday afternoon Vic, who were close runners up in the Mulock Cup finals with Senior School last year, eked out a 1-0 win over U.C. The game which was held on the Victoria home grounds, showed the small but enthusiastic crowd a mediocre brand of ball. It was obviously the first game of the year for both teams.

In the first half of the game Vic held the University College men in their own half of the field and finally were rewarded with the lone count of the game. A few minutes later they had a royal chance to make a major score when they got the ball five yards out from the U.C. line. However, in three attempts to plunge it over they failed and never again threatened.

Both teams were weak along the line and time and again the backfield men were brought down for big losses. There were only three passes attempted during the whole game. In the first play Vic succeeded in completing one of the well known "sleeper" plays. This was their only attempt and it netted them about 40 yards. U.C. had one of their passes knocked down and the other intercepted.

For Vic, Taylor was the standout player. However, if he had not fumbled the ball so much his team would have won by a larger score. Pratt also helped the Victoria cause along with his fine ball carrying.

Victoria: Flying wing, Hunnisett; halves, Taylor, Pratt, Gardiner; quarter, Luffton; snap, Elsie; insides, Rodway, Hill; middles, Gillespie, Gregory; outsides, Amos, Turner; subs, Fisher, Howes, Vaughan, Clipperton, Jessup, Priddle, Affleck.

University College: Flying wing, Humanick; halves, Higgins, Hamilton, Self; quarter, Thompson; snap, Daly; insides, Wilson, Morrison; middles, Jamieson, McGregor; outsides, Corrigan, Fowler; subs, Abbott, Campbell, Barratt, Paternick, Shiner, Pritchard, Malott.

Officials: Sweeney, Lindley.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

While the current crop of campus heroes are accumulating sprains and bruises in their romps over the gridiron, the hockey fans are wondering just what, when, and where they will be viewing their hockey for the coming season. At present it looks as though the seven team league in which Varsity operated last season is a thing of the past. The Toronto teams, having discovered that by the simple process of changing their names and the name of the league, from O.H.A. to Commercial, they can turn a losing proposition into a winning one, are all for it and as a result will be playing commercial.

That leaves Varsity the only simon pure team in Toronto in the eyes of the C.A.H.A. The O.H.A. will recognize the commercial teams but the Canadian body will not, which means that Varsity is the only team in Toronto which will be eligible to compete in the Canadian playdowns. This is an unusual situation to be permitted to occur, particularly as the Allan Cup winners will be the Canadian representatives in the Olympic games the following year.

Just what form the O.H.A. will take is still a mystery. It is, however, more than slightly possible that there will be an attempt made to form a league consisting of Hamilton, Kitchener, Port Colborne and Varsity. It was originally suggested that St. Mike's and Oshawa enter the loop, but the former dropped the idea of fielding a senior team, while Oshawa went commercial.

Regardless of the arrangements the O.H.A. makes for the Varsity entry they will still be playing an intercollegiate series. The intercollegiate loop will consist of Western, McGill, Varsity, and possibly Queen's. Incidentally, the McGill Redmen of last season are now a vanished race, and Bobby Bell is faced with the task of building up a new squad. He still has his defence and goalie, but the entire forward line joined the McGill alumni last May. This should be cheerful news to the Varsity supporters who may reasonably expect the Blue team to once again gain the upper hand in the intercollegiate circle.

There is also more than a slight possibility of the formation of an international college group. An effort was made last season to form an eight team group in which four Canadian and four Eastern American Colleges would participate. This idea was regarded as not being practical by some of the U.S. colleges who found that the travelling expenses and absence from academic activities made it a rather expensive form of recreation.

Now it appears that the western universities of Michigan State and Minnesota, are anxious to play a home and home series with the Varsity teams. This idea has been favourably regarded in several universities out Michigan way and at present has a high probability of materializing. The only thing which retards the promotion of this new league is the lack of support received by the Varsity team. Varsity teams would draw in any of several places clamouring for engagements, but in their own town they play to a house full of seats. Just why this situation exists is hard to imagine. Canada has been the home of hockey since its earliest existence and still the top notch teams cannot afford to operate. The fact that the public will turn out only to see hired hands play in the pro loop is a bad sign for the future of the game around these parts. However the international idea may be just what the game needs to bring it out of the doldrums and should prove to be popular, particularly with the student body.

WYCLIFFE DEFEATS KNOX IN INTERFACULTY SOCCER

Knox, champions for the last six years unsuccessfully started their defence of the Arts Faculty Cup when they were defeated by Wycliffe 3 to 2 last night on the front campus in an interfaculty soccer match.

Esler scored a beautiful try in the first half for Knox but Wycliffe came back very strong in the second half and scored three nice goals, two from the toe of Fairweather and one by Toome. Taylor of Knox scored the final goal of the game with a driving shot that completely baffled Ruch, who played a stellar game in the Wycliffe net.

For Wycliffe, Ruch, Fairweather and Toome were the standouts, while Taylor and Esler were the pick of the Knox team.

Wycliffe: Ruch; Blackaller and Simmonds; Markle, Crawshaw, Cleverdon; McKibbin, Fairweather, Toome, Phillips, Woods; Wenham, Nickle, Shaw.

Knox: Dunn; Thomson and Young; Long, Rowland, J. Esler; Milroy, Johnson, M. Esler, Weir, Taylor; MacDonald, Avons.

Referee: Jimmie McPherson.

The Glee Club of the University of Manitoba is planning to present Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" some time next spring. This will be the first time the opera has been produced in Winnipeg.

DEBATING, SERIES FOR THE WOMEN

former years, it is planned to have interfaculty debates. The first of these will be between Victoria College and University College, a second between St. Michael's and Trinity, while a third between the winners of these two will decide the issue. This should do much to arouse enthusiasm in the college of which University College perhaps displays the least interest since unlike the three others, it has no debating society of its own.

The intercollegiate debates will of course be held as in former years, of four competitors being Toronto, McMaster, Queen's and McGill. Plans for these debates have not as yet been completed but an executive meeting of the presidents of the societies of the respective universities is expected to be held shortly.

It is also a point of interest that speakers have been chosen to discuss the technique of debating. Obviously, the Women's Debating Union has done its part and surely it can rely on the students to put forward enough effort and to be zealous enough not to see the Debating Union again meet an ignominious end.

view of the present unsettled conditions in the world, and that the League has never fulfilled its duties in any instance during its existence, it is time that Canada rather than run the risk of being embroiled in any bloody conflict should not jeopardize the youth of the country by remaining a member of the League." The Rt. Hon. A. C. Smith and Mr. Saul Rae will assist him in this attack.

Since all members of the University College Literary and Athletic Society are also members of the house, it is hoped that every one and freshmen in particular will take advantage of this opportunity to improve their knowledge of parliamentary procedure. Newcomers are reminded that interruptions are out of order during their maiden speeches.

LIBERALISM OEOA? TOPIC FOR DEBATE

Smith is to be in the Speaker's chair. Considerable interest is aroused by the announcement that several prominent men from Queen's Park are expected to attend, among them the Honorable Mr. Ledue, who will probably speak for the negative.

All members wishing to speak are requested to leave a note to that effect in the Warden's office. Freshmen are particularly urged to attend and voice their opinions on the motion. The debating committee wish it to be distinctly understood that speaking from the floor will not be confined to the speakers on the paper.

Tellers for the evening are A. C. King, S.P.S., George Ignatieff, Trinity and A. D. Harris, St. Michael's.

MACDONALD-CARTIER CLUB

There will be an open meeting of the Macdonald-Cartier Club in the Music Room, Hart House, at 7.45 p.m. Thursday. J. Earl Lawson, M.P., will speak on "Conservative Socialism".

TRY ADVERTISING JOURNALISTS TOLD

Press Club yesterday afternoon at the U.C. Women's Union.

"One has to be interested not only in English but also in merchandise to make a success of advertising," said Miss Weston. Miss Weston is one of the advertising staff of the T. Eaton Co. and is a past president of the Women's Press Club. She also pointed out that a university education was a great help but not essential in the advertising field and that her experience on the staff of The Varsity had proved a great help in her work.

"Actual truths are essential in advertising," stated Miss Weston. "It is an easy task to sell a French model but another matter to dress up a two dollar gown in plain English." Miss Weston thinks advertising is tremendously interesting and that in it one comes in contact with the most interesting people of all sorts.

Miss Weston answered a few questions of a general nature, and the meeting throughout was pleasantly informal.

TORONTONENSIS

A most important meeting of Torontonensis Representatives of ALL FACULTIES AND COLLEGES will be held on Friday, October 19th at 5 p.m. in the University College Women's Union, 79 St. George St. (Tea will be served.) It is absolutely essential that a full attendance be present as detailed plans will be made for next year's edition.

Faculties and Colleges please take note.

Mr. Young stated that a committee, given powers by the A.M.S. to supervise all student social organizations, had obtained evidence that the accused had become affiliated with Nu Sigma Nu early in May. The committee, he said, had written to the local organization desiring confirmation or denial of this by October 6 and no reply had been received.

Miss Norah McGinnis, acting president of the Alma Mater Society, produced a letter from the secretary of the Alpha Chapter of Nu Sigma Nu at Ann Arbor, Mich., confirming the allegation that there was a chapter of Nu Sigma Nu at Kingston.

After a brief adjournment the sentence was pronounced.

The announcement was received in silence, no demonstration took place after court dismissal as the students filed out and gathered in groups to discuss the episode.

Student opinion has not made itself felt as yet, but the general feeling seems to be one of regret, both for the loss of four active members of the football team and that the A.M.S. was forced to take such measures.

However, it is generally conceded that the Alma Mater Society as the organ of student government, must be backed by the student body.

The A.M.S. court is the highest at Queen's, and as the senate, the athletic board of control and the board of trustees have pledged themselves to uphold all legislation of the A.M.S., the chances of an appeal against this decision are remote.

The loss suffered by the football team is undeniably great. How Hamlin who captained the senior squad last year, will be greatly missed in the line, while Glass and Earle have been the most effective outside wings for two seasons.

BAND WILL PARADE

If two hundred tickets are sold, a special non-stop train will leave the Union Station for Kingston via the Canadian National at 9.15 a.m. on Saturday morning and will arrive there at 1 p.m. All tickets should be purchased by Friday morning in order that arrangements can be made for a special train. If an insufficient number of tickets are sold to warrant a special, cars will be chartered on the regular train. A return special will leave Kingston at 6.22 p.m. However, return tickets are good till Monday on all trains except the flyer.

According to present indications at the S.A.C. office a sufficient number of tickets will be sold to make the excursion a real Varsity party. The Varsity band is accompanying the team and special arrangements have been made with Kingston police for a parade from the La Salle Hotel to the stadium. This parade promises to surpass the one at Western last week where thousands lined the streets.

Great interest has been aroused among the student body concerning the disqualifying of several of the Queen's players and this trip affords an excellent chance to observe the reorganized team in action.

FRATERNITY ADDRESS

A short time ago The Varsity published a revision of the list of addresses and phone numbers of fraternity houses which are printed in the Students' Handbook. The Beta Sigma Rho fraternity was omitted from the list and The Varsity wishes to announce that this fraternity has moved to 123 Madison Ave. with phone number, Mi. 2057.

TEAM STAYS SILENT

Disqualification of Players in Mid-Season Unfortunate

Warren Stevens, in an interview with The Varsity yesterday, expressed his opinion that the decision of the Supreme Court of the Alma Mater Society at Queen's University in barring five players from playing on the senior team, was most unfair to the coach, Teddy Reeves, and to the whole team. "If they intended barring them," said Mr. Stevens, "the time to have done so would have been before the season started. This thing has been in the wind for some time." Mr. Stevens felt that, had the decision been made before, the result would not have been so severe to the strength of the team. The coach would then have been in a position to build up other players in their stead.

S.A.C. Meeting

The second meeting of the Joint Executive Students' Administrative Council for the current year was held in the Women's Council Room yesterday at 5 p.m. The following business was transacted:

1. Election of Mr. E. M. Auger as Publications Commissioner.
2. Election of Mr. A. R. Tilley as Debates Commissioner.
3. Authorization of prizes for Campus Life section of Torontonensis.
4. Decision that College of Art students are ineligible to purchase official University of Toronto jewelry.
5. Acceptance of plans for N.F.C. U.S. debate to be held in Hart House with Oxford-Cambridge team as guest speakers.

Information available at present reveals the fact that at least six members of the University's senior intercollegiate rugby team are members of fraternities similar to those in Queen's, membership in which cost six members of the team their places on the squad. However, an official of the Students' Administrative Council stated to The Varsity that the situation in the two universities was entirely different.

"At Queen's, fraternities are regarded as a part of the University," it was stated, "while the University of Toronto does not officially recognize them in any way."

"Membership in a fraternity not recognized or forbidden by the University is regarded as a very serious offence at Queen's, but the officials of the University of Toronto take no notice of all such bodies. For this reason it is impossible for an occurrence similar to that in Kingston to take place here."

DISTINGUISHED GUEST

The Hon. Vincent Massey will be the guest speaker at the annual "School Dinner" in Hart House on November 20th, according to information given to The Varsity by members of the executive of the Engineering Society yesterday. The complete programme for the evening is being arranged, and will be announced shortly.

The dinner is one of the foremost affairs of its kind on the campus, as it attracts some seven hundred engineers, as well as members of the Faculty and distinguished guests. This year marks the 45th annual recurrence of the dinner since its inauguration.

"October 26th, 1934, is going to rank with 1066 in the annals of time and in the minds of undergraduates," said Mr. Saul F. Rae, Social Director of University College, to The Varsity yesterday. "On that date, University College officially lifts the metaphorical lid on its formal social functions, with the presentation of the University College Fall Dance, on the Royal York roof."

"In seasons past, the fall dance has been one of the standout nights in the college term, for obvious reasons. With examinations miles away the fall term is ideal for indulging in what the calendar laughingly describes as 'extra-curricular activities'. Accordingly, October 26 has been set aside for the technical release of the annoying inhibitions of the male and female undergraduates of the college," he said. "Mr. Jack Slatter and his Radio Commission orchestra have been purchased for the occasion, so everyone will have an opportunity to dance to toe-tickling rhythms in the Slatter manner."

All Field Events Should Make Good Showing Against McGill, Queen's

This afternoon nearly a score of University of Toronto men will entrain for Montreal. They form the Varsity senior intercollegiate track team, and tomorrow will find them competing against the scarlet speed demons of McGill and the spike shod athletes of Kingston.

This year's team is the most formidable in years and will make a determined bid to capture the McGill trophy now held by the university of that name, which is emblematic of senior intercollegiate track supremacy. The Varsity squad is, for the most part, composed of veterans, of men sage in first class competition. To a man the members of the team have been in active competition all summer, and for the last few weeks they have been groomed to silky perfection under the track-wise hands of Coach Phillips. Their showing this summer and the results of the interfaculty meet give evidence of the high calibre of the team.

Merry Medettes Make Monkey-shines Many Modest Maidens Mortified

With fluttering gowns and flickering candles, the very fresh freshettes, who are this year trembling on the threshold of Medical bliss, were initiated into the mysteries of the profession at the Women's Union last night, and survived the ordeal with becoming grace. They are now becoming doctors, administering potent potions to their hard fought scars, and planning revenge on the class of 4T1.

Following a spirited address by the presiding officerette on the whys and wherefores of the ultimate in Medical behaviour, the girls indulged in a tear provoking onion race, which was won by a scant nose, despite the flowing brine on the cheeks of the fair contestants. A safety pin contest, which had nothing whatever to do with three cornered trousers, proved a veritable sticker and when the pins were finally unstuck, a parody on the date bureau was enacted by fresh Medettes, much to the enlightenment of their more staid and seasoned seniors.

After the members of the first and second years had exhumed various choice portions of bovine anatomy, and gloated over the same, a major operation was performed for the benefit of the newcomers to the profession, and the body was buried in the ash can in true medical style.

A severe gastronomic test was given to all in the shape of victuals prepared by the bloodthirsty sophomores, and when all the dishes had been washed or broken by the "Poor Frosh", the girls retired, worn, weary and wobegone to their well earned repose.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

In the most recent work on Russia,—William Henry Chamberlain's "Russia's Iron Age", published last Monday—there is made a spectacular charge. According to the Star preview of the book, Mr. Chamberlain accuses the Russian government of deliberately organizing the famine in the Ukraine and the Cossack country which in the winter of 1932-33 took such an appalling toll of lives. That such a famine occurred is well-known. Whether or not it was a product of Soviet planning, carried out with deadly intent, we, of course, cannot say. Mr. Chamberlain's prestige and years of experience as a Russian correspondent, and the fact that he was at first strongly sympathetic to the Russian cause, lends weight to his assertion. But debate upon the merits of this particular charge we leave to those who are familiar with the necessary data.

In any case, the alleged project is quite in keeping with Communist aims and methods. The individual is considered only in so far as he is an element in a monstrous kind of society. If that individual is better out of the way, from the Communist viewpoint, his removal by any reasonable means is justified by the needs of the whole group. If certain individuals do not fall in line with the intensely directed labours of the masses, coercion is the perfectly justifiable procedure. Any man, woman, or child within the society is entirely and absolutely subservient to supposed mass exigencies. And the end in view? An economically sound society, providing for the essential needs of all members. What needs? Primarily the needs of the flesh,—food, clothing, shelter, means of reproduction, perhaps recreation. Meanwhile, all must work, and some must starve, that this exhilarating ideal may be attained!

This, of course, is familiar stuff. The Communist position is fairly well known, and its logic, within itself, is impressive. It seems to us a depraved and horrifying idea, yet in some regards it commands intellectual respect. What outrages the intellect is that the Christian Socialists, as they call themselves, actually find a bond of brotherhood with thoroughgoing Communists. There have even been Christian ministers who have declared their willingness to accept such a social order as Russia offers, if our own capitalist organization be not recast. This position is so palpably absurd that we find difficulty in discussing it. As to its origin,—that can only be in a sentimental confusion of sociological interest with a relentless philosophy of the most startling import.

The moderate Socialist, of course, and particularly the Christian Socialist, deprecates the Communist's insistence on force as the weapon of social change. It is only necessary to ask if Communism, with its terrible logic, can be imagined without the acceptance of force? You cannot subtract this one undesirable feature from a perfectly consistent and highly developed social philosophy, as if it were a superfluous gadget or an unnecessary clause. The Communist realizes this, and despises his timid, though flattering, satellites. The Christian Socialist attempts to escape the issue by a verbal reservation. And if it be speciously pointed out that the gospel itself has its ruthless implications, taking us into the world of practical affairs, the answer is simply that it was never suggested in the New Testament that the weapons of Christianity were those of temporal power. As a matter of fact, it was never suggested that human power was of any avail, in any respect. The power of God—which is the only power spoken of—cannot be initiated or manipulated by human hands, but must be left to Him to Whom it belongs.

And what of the Communist end? We hear much in the arguments of Christian Socialists about putting humanity above worldly things. Now a Christian Socialist would hardly consider that the terrorism and espionage and "military feudal exploitation" of which Mr. Chamberlain, like many others, speaks, fulfils this noble ideal. But perhaps he would say that to feed the masses is the essence of humane behaviour? Perhaps he would say that a man's humanity consists in his stomach? We do not know altogether what he would say. But meantime, we face in Communism a materialism with two remarkable features: namely, the fact that it pertains to the coarsest—though necessary—human needs; and its position as the philosophy

Mme. Heim

The Varsity was not officially represented at the song recital of Mme. Heim, given last night in Hart House. However, we consider ourselves extremely fortunate in attending a recital given to the faculty and students of the Conservatory of Music this afternoon by the distinguished mezzo and we would not care to allow the visit to Toronto of an artist, so veritably great, to pass unmentioned in our paper.

To say that Mme. Heim is a great artist and a charming singer is to convey only an inadequate idea of our enthusiasm and Mme. Heim's true artistic stature.

An apostle of Leider Singing at its best, Mme. Heim is technically equipped with a fine although not a great voice. It is her supreme understanding of the songs, her dramatic genius and effortless production which conveys to her audience the conviction of her singing and the strong emotional experience that leaves one quite weak. Everything that Mme. Heim does is fine and beautiful and her gracious and commanding personality raises the enthusiasm of her listeners to positively unrestrained heights. F.B.S.

Correspondence

Correspondents are reminded that all letters must be accompanied by signatures, and they are requested to limit themselves to approximately 300 words.

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

My attention has been called to an article in your issue of the 15th inst., entitled "Too Easy Access to Drugs Hinted", "Report Charges Many Becoming Drug Addicts as a Direct Result".

In the first place, we may state, that during the past year the druggists of Canada were so careful in handling narcotic drugs that in the report published by the Narcotic Division of the Department of Pensions and National Health, it points out that no druggist was prosecuted for any violation of that very stringent act.

Regarding the sale of codeine; that drug was removed from the schedule of the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act some years ago, owing to the almost unanimous opinion of medical men, and the experts at the Geneva Conference, that it was not a habit-forming drug.

I have a recent letter from Col. Sharman, Chief of the Narcotic Division, Ottawa, in which he states that less than five per cent of the druggists of Canada were selling undue quantities of this drug. However, so anxious was our association that the sale of codeine should not go beyond bounds, that our Council had a conference with Col. Sharman during our convention in Saint John, August 6th to 9th, and with him worked out a plan to place the sale of codeine under complete control. We did not want even five per cent of the druggists of this country to be selling excessive quantities.

In regard to the sale of paregoric; we found there was no means of controlling this under the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act. We did discover that under the Excise Act the quantity which could be purchased by each druggist per month could be restricted. We therefore proposed that druggists' supplies be curtailed to eighty ounces a month, and to this the Commissioner of Excise readily agreed. This regulation has been in effect since March 1933.

Regarding the sale of rubbing alcohol; we admit that some years ago this was beginning to be a menace, but with the safeguards thrown around its sale by both provincial and dominion governments it is pretty well confined to legitimate use.

In the first place the Ontario druggist must obtain a license to sell rubbing alcohol; he is allowed only two dozen sixteen ounce bottles, or their equivalent, per month; and he must obtain a bona fide signature for every bottle sold.

The Liquor Control Board means business regarding the signature for it has an inspector examining the drug-

The officer lifts the sleeve of his tunic and nervously glanced at his wrist watch. 9.59. One minute to go! Will he ever return from that raging inferno? Well he knows the chances are against it! For that long lost moment he lets his thoughts dwell in pleasant memories of days gone by! The days when he used to go on long walks meditating on the problems that confronted him. Would those pleasant hours return? It seemed unlikely at that dreadful hour. Was the government right? Quickly he braced himself against that train of thought. It wasn't cricket. Thirty seconds! The line tenses. Tongues are nervously passed over dry lips. Fifteen seconds! The officer raises his arm signalling the men forward. With a cry they leap into the gap. The Beverage Room is open.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Tomorrow is the big day of the intercollegiate tennis tournament when Queen's, Western, McMaster and Varsity will battle for the 1934-35 title. Play begins at 9.30 a.m. at the Toronto Tennis Club. By noon the first two rounds are to be completed and from then on things will be really exciting. It is hoped that they will get right through to the finals so that Saturday may be reserved for the grand climax. Saturday is a big day for men's sports since Varsity is expected to show Queen's a thing or two on her home field. But right here in Toronto the women will have an opportunity to show three colleges just how Varsity can roll in the championships. And it will be worth watching to see them do it!

On Friday night the visiting teams are being entertained by the Varsity Tennis Club. A dance is to be given in their honour at the Toronto Tennis Club; judging by the plans already made it should be a good party—one of the best.

We chose rather obscure wording to express the fact that Agnes Gardiner has for three years running been the Varsity women's tennis champion. Unless some marvel appears among the class of 3T9 Agnes will have four consecutive titles to her credit—and that will be a record to be more than proud of.

The Baseball Club met on Tuesday but still no practice schedule has been drawn up. Hours for Meds' practice are the complication, but Jean Atkinson promises a complete schedule by Tuesday. Vic and St. Mike's are entering teams this year as usual. There will also be a medley team made up of players from Meds, S.P.S., Public Health Nursing, and perhaps even a few lone U.C. ball fans will join it.

Meds' basketball is not getting along as smoothly as it might be desired. There was a practice Tuesday night and another one is called for tonight from 5-6 at the L.M. gym. Can't we make this practice more successful than the first—the initial lack of players and enthusiasm was pathetic. The fact

BOTH TEAMS RAGGED

Jr. School started the season with a decisive win over Forestry yesterday afternoon on the back campus in a Mulock Cup game. The score was 16-2 and is a good indication of the play. Forestry, lacking condition and substitutes, put up a hard but futile battle. Both teams showed a decided need for practice and should improve before their next games.

For Forestry, Hicks on the backfield was outstanding, kicking and catching faultlessly while Macdonnell was strong on the line.

The entire Jr. School backfield were prominent, with Shaw earning brackets. Feinmie at outside displayed ability in tackling.

Forestry: Flying wing, Taylor; halves, Hicks, Barren; quarter, Carlson; snap, Dyer; insides, Morley, Hyslop; middles, Macdonnell, Stangly; outsides, Chalk, Cowan; subs, Johnson, Larsen, Day, Bickersteth.

Junior School: Flying wing, Walkie; halves, Ballagh, Shaw, Pidduck; quarter, Stewart; snap, Walker; insides, Henry, Fox; middles, Hall, Clark; outsides, Mitchell, Busby; subs, MacDougall, Fennie, Stiles, Quance, MacLeod, Otter, Moriarty, Gray.

Officials: Squires and Hollett.

JR. MEDS TIE TRINITY IN INSIPID GAME

Fumbles, Darkness and Penalties Prevented Good Football

Trinity and Junior Meds fought it out to a 2-2 draw on Trinity field yesterday afternoon in a regular Mulock Cup game. The game was marked by misplays and loose ball handling.

The score is a good indication of the play as the distribution of the errors was fairly even and since both teams missed good scoring chances.

Trinity had a slight advantage in the first half when they were able to hold the Meds' line, and due to their slightly superior kicking they were able to catch a Meds' ball carrier behind the line for the first score of the game, in the first quarter.

In the second quarter two penalties of ten yards each for Trinity and a pass from Newton to Carveth paved the way for a score for the Meds when they held Trinity behind their line.

The Meds' weight advantage began to tell in the third quarter and they repeatedly smashed the Trinity line, moving the yard sticks three times. Carveth completed another pass, Midlock made yards on one plunge and that no coach has as yet been procured is a serious drawback. Last year's coach now lives in Montreal and so is of no particular help, but every effort is being made to replace her. However, a few practices without a coach will be by no means wasted as it always takes a while to get back into condition before you can get started in at the season's grind.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By W. A. Crochower

This Saturday marks the crucial week-end in Eastern Canadian senior football as the three scheduled games for the coming Saturday afternoon will determine the leaders in the three senior groupings. Toronto fans are exceedingly fortunate in being favoured with two of these crucial contests inasmuch as Lew Hayman's Argos entertain Ferraro's Tigers and Bill Storen's Bay St. Gridders play hosts to the Three Star aggregation from Sarnia. The city of the thing is that both games will be played at the same time and one will have to be missed. We can't understand why the fights at Ulster Stadium couldn't be used so that the dyed-in-the-wool football enthusiasts could get an eyeful of both games. However, that is the business of the Ulster Stadium officials.

The court decision of the Alma Mater Society of Queen's University has sort of added a new angle to the Varsity-Queen's tilts. Personally we have nothing but praise for the court officials of the A.M.S. in sticking to their guns in spite of the fact that it meant a possible wrecking of Ted Reeve's crew. However, it is whispered that Reeve had expected an adjournment of the trial until after the football season. Although everyone expects that Queen's chances of taking the championship have been lost many believe that the suspension of the five players—really four, since McNichol is out through illness—will not wreck the squad. Warren Stevens expressed sympathy for Reeve but at the same time said that the latter's loss is not overwhelming. Hamlin can be replaced by a capable substitute. Due to the defensive style which the Queen's crew use Reeve can use a couple of outsiders from his Seconds aggregation to replace Glass and Earle. The Tricolour squad doesn't depend on an aerial attack and all the outsiders are required to do is to be able to tackle. Anyone who saw last Saturday's game will feel sure that Reeve has no worry about his outsiders. All this when summed up simply says that the Varsity-Queen's tilt this Saturday is going to be an epic in spite of the suspensions and any of you who are contemplating a trip to the Limestone City will see a game well worth while.

At last night's mid-weekly scrimmage with St. Michael's the Blues showed a reversal of last Wednesday's form. Warren has incorporated a couple of new plays in Coulter's repertoire and those who are going down to Kingston are in for a treat. We saw Upper scamper for twenty yards right through the centre of St. Mike's line and this means that Johnny Metras was "sucked-in" by the play. Any move that can get Metras out of the way must be good. We were also delighted as were all those present by the wonderful broken-field running of the Upper-Coulter combination and the plunging of George Powell. Steve has the lads going under full steam now.

This is one of those week-ends when most of the Blue teams depart for foreign fields. No less than six Blue squads will leave the campus in an effort to win laurels for Varsity. The senior and intermediate football squads will visit Kingston. The remaining four, the track, soccer, rugby and tennis squads, will see action at Montreal. The tennis crew will swing into play first this morning and observers say that they have a 50-50 chance of taking the title from McGill. The soccer and English rugby squads are favourites to repeat. The track team also has an even chance of bringing back the McGill trophy emblematic of the intercollegiate track supremacy which McGill has held for the last four years.

Somebody's face is red today due to a tennis match which was played yesterday. It seems that a certain young man, Keith Campbell by name, was thought to be not good enough for intercollegiate tennis play. Syd Hermant was the only one who saw possibilities in Keith. However, Hermant's efforts failed to get Campbell a place even on the intermediate squad. In an effort to vindicate his selection of the intermediate squad Captain Rae arranged a match between Campbell and Young, one of the singles aces on the Seconds. Campbell won 12-10, 2-6, 6-4. All of which is very humiliating to Mr. Rae. What's to be done?

Yesterday's Mulock Cup games provided some entertaining ball. The upset of the evening was the two-all tie in the Trinity-Jr. Meds game. Trinity were picked to take the old mug and the performance of the Meds has brought to light a new contender. The Meds squad have the plungers and passers and a good kicker would probably give them the cup. Incidentally we'd like to mention a true sporting gesture on the part of Les Blackwell, the Trinity mentor. In the last quarter, played in the dark, the kicker for Meds was unable to see the ball and as a result the snap out for the kick was lost and Trinity recovered. Blackwell immediately asked the officials to call the game, although his squad was in a position to kick for the deciding tally of the game. Les refused to tag the Meds with a defeat due to a condition which could have been avoided had the game started on time. Officials at future games should see that contests started on time to avoid playing in the dark and thus do away with unnecessary fumbles which might mean a defeat to a squad which didn't deserve to lose.

Although it is a little early to tell what sort of a basketball team the Blues will have this year it seems that reinforcements are at hand. Half of last year's squad is back. In addition Dillworth, lanky ace from McMaster, Munro of Western, Mensall of Assumption College, Eastern Canadian finalists, and two others, unnamed as yet, have arrived in our midst. It seems that Varsity is going to take the Wilson Cup which McGill has held so long.

only fumbles prevented the Meds from setting more than one point.

The last quarter was played in semi-darkness and developed into a kicking duel. Account of Trinity had the advantage of this and was able to tie the score by kicking a point. A bad fumble by Meds in the last minute of the game gave Trinity the ball a few yards from the touch line, but the final whistle blew before they could take advantage of this.

Midlock and Newton played well for Meds, and were very effective in line plunges. Acount was useful to Trinity and out-kicked his opponent.

Trinity: Flying wing, Kirk; halves, Acount, Reddock, Owen; quarter, Welsh; snap, Stratton; insides, Barclay, Hamilton; middles, Frazer, Lash; outsides, Read, Scrivener; subs, Morgan, Parker, Wright, Osler, McMillen, McCormick, MacLachlan, Young.

Junior Meds: Flying wing, Spence; halves, Newton, Carveth, White; quarter, McKee; snap, Allen; insides, Miller, Lauber; middles, Midlock, Barren; outsides, Graham, Belton; subs, McCullough, Stirret, Rice, Howes, Seigel, McKone, Fleming, Barrett.

Danger to religion, property, and sanctity of family life from the activities of the Communist party in India were emphasized by Sir Henry Craik, home member of the India Government, in a statement to the assembly at Simla.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT MONTREAL TODAY

Play commences today in the annual intercollegiate tennis tournament on the courts of the University of Montreal with McGill defending the laurels they won last year against the combined assaults of Varsity, Queen's and the U. of M.

The Queen's team is more or less of an unknown quantity but the presence of Connolly on the line-up make them strong contenders. The U. of M. will probably be led by Georges Lederc, a player of wide experience.

McGill, the defending team, has been weakened by the loss of Laird Watt, the Canadian Davis Cupper. Bobby Murray, his team mate, still remains at school and will be the favourite to take the singles crown.

KELLY BATTLES TO WIN IN ST. MIKE'S TOURNEY

Battling through two weeks of tennis matches, W. Walton and D. Kelly brought the St. Michael's College tennis tournament to a close, with the latter winning after one of the sternest matches of the tournament. Kelly proved the better on the volleys, drop shots and smashes, winning the match 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, and 6-0. His superiority became more marked as Walton tired in the final set, after he had rallied to win the third.

Moreover, the rubbing alcohol is de-natured by quassia, one of the bitterest drugs known to science, which makes this preparation a rather disagreeable beverage when palatable beverages are now so easily obtained.

I may say in passing that in Canada the sale of rubbing alcohol is confined under severe restrictions to drug stores, whereas in the United States the sale of this preparation is wide open. It may be purchased in tobacco stores, at soda fountains—in fact, everywhere.

Now the whole sensational statement boils down to this—

1. Less than five per cent of the druggists of Canada have been selling undue quantities of codine—and this is now stopped. Young people are not using the drug.

2. The source of supply of bootleg codine, viz., a so-called dental house, has long since been cut off.

3. The supply of paregoric to the druggist is restricted to 80 ounces a month, which does not give him much opportunity of debauching the community.

4. The sale of rubbing alcohol is so hedged around with restrictions as to make it difficult to buy it for beverage purposes and it is so de-natured as to make it extremely unpleasant and dangerous for internal use.

All Conservatives of independent thought will be interested to know that a series of study groups are being instituted this year. The object of these will be to get to the bottom of the social and economic problems confronting Canada today.

STEVENS COMMENTS ON SATURDAY'S GAME

Saturday's game, Mr. Stevens refused to consider the incident in that light. "We want to play the best team Queen's can possibly turn out," he said emphatically. In regard to the entire series, he felt that the absence of these players would not greatly effect the outcome. "Queen's will not be a push-over," he said. "There are still plenty of good players left in that university."

Players Give Views

In the opinion of various members of the senior rugby team, the debarring of the members of the Queen's team, coming as it has in mid season, was most unfortunate. The majority of the players refused to make any definite statements about the matter.

"It should be a good game in spite of the loss," said Penner. "Queen's undoubtedly has the best line in intercoltours by teams from New Zealand and Australia, as well as Britain.

Mr. Crichton has already distinguished himself at Oxford in debating and drama. He has produced six plays there, and has filled the offices of treasurer of the Oxford Union, president of the Balliol College Law More Society, and Editor of the Isis, the Oxford undergraduate journal. Though politically a Conservative, he is very definitely "left wing", and was instrumental in bringing forward an anti-militarist resolution at the Conservative Party Conference in 1933.

Mr. Jackson, the representative of Cambridge, was born in Cape Town, and has also taken a lively interest in dramatics and debating. He has spoken mainly on international affairs, and is keenly interested in the League of Nations, though on several occasions he has also defended constitutional socialism. He was first president of the Cambridge University Labour Club.

The debaters from the University of Toronto have not as yet been chosen, but in any case the members of the British team will be speaking on different sides of the House.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Turin, Italy—Dr. Ante Pavelich and Egon Kvaternik, ringleaders in assassination of Yugoslavian king, were held, pending extradition to France.

Toronto—Former Ontario Hydro Commissioner Maguire expressed disapproval of Premier Hepburn's statement of yesterday that his government would oppose any effort at immediate construction of the St. Lawrence deep waterway.

Paris—Indications that France now desires to appease the Reich are being made by "Pétainx", writing in the Echo de Paris.

Los Angeles—Flood waters and another earthquake added to damage caused by storms yesterday. Six persons were dead and official estimates of damage ranged from $150,000 to $200,000.

Hamilton—Mayors in session here decided to recommend that no relief be granted to a woman who had been married for months after marriage.

LEAGUE APPROVED AS PEACE FACTOR

Government Upheld at Yesterday's Session of U.C. Parliament

CANADA CAN ONLY GAIN

"The League of Nations is the only practical reality for peace in the modern world." Thus spoke an ardent debater of the U.C. Parliament at the session yesterday afternoon, held in the junior common room of University College at 4 p.m. The bill, which was carried, was worded as, "Resolved that this Government approve of Canada remaining in the League of Nations."

The bill was not passed, however, without a great deal of vigorous opposition. "The League is dominated by capitalist nations who have not had peace as their highest ideal," stated one member of the opposition. "This government will under no circumstances enter into a European war, thus the only way Canada can work for true peace is by standing aside from the European entanglements." There were the closing words of the leader of the opposition as his party laid their case in the laps of the gods.

"The League is the last straw for us to hold on to for world peace," stated a member from Victoria, who was giving his maiden speech, "Canada has nothing to lose and everything to gain." he concluded amidst loud applause.

"It is folly for Canada to suppose she can withdraw from matters which concern Europe," were the words of the former Prime Minister immediately before the vote.

The government was sustained

MARGARET BINGHAM BEQUEST

"It is not a scholarship fund but a loan fund," said Ken B. Conn, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Federation of the University of Toronto, regarding the bequest of $5,000 from the will of Margaret A. Bingham, widow of Dr. George A. Bingham, announced recently.

"A loan fund is to be set up for undergraduates in medicine," Mr. Conn explained, "and only $1,000 is to be loaned for the first five years. No person may owe more than $250, at any one time to the fund. We are hoping the loan will be available before the end of the academic year."

OPPORTUNITY FOR STUDENTS AT HART HOUSE THEATRE

University Directory

Every university student is asked to make sure, at once, that his correct Toronto address and telephone number are entered upon his registration card in the office of the University Registrar, Simcoe Hall, or of his College Registrar or Faculty Secretary. The University Directory is now being prepared for the press and it is of the greatest importance that all addresses and telephone numbers be correct.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES CAUSE DISCONTENT

Victoria Debating Parliament Will Discuss Social Program

SIMPSON NOW PRESIDENT

"Resolved that in the opinion of this House the Social activities of Victoria College are deplorable," is the subject of the debate to be held in Alumni Hall, Victoria College, on Monday night. The speakers for the affirmative will be Mary Urquhart and Harold Bailey and for the negative Dick Simpson and Evelyn Stewart.

Queried as to the reason for the choice of subject, Miss Mary Urquhart, associate president of the Debating Parliament, stated, "There has been quite a little dissatisfaction, especially among the fourth year students because such a large proportion of the social activities of the year has been devoted to dances. There are supposed to be two dances and two hikes during the year," she continued, "but every effort has usually been made to change them into dances. The opinion is that these dances make no effort to correlate the work of the year with the social aspect. The first and second years, though interested in the subject, are not so much affected, largely because they are not so fed up with the dances as the seniors are."

At a meeting of the executive of the Debating Parliament, held last Friday, Dick Simpson was appointed president of the organization, filling the position left vacant by Elliott Auger recently elected to the presidency of the Victoria College Union.

Undergraduates Urged to Learn Fundamental Technique of Acting

NEW TALENT SOUGHT

Casting Already Begun by Sterndale-Bennett and Rupert Harvey

"We are confident that there is any amount of latent acting talent to be found right here in University and particularly undergraduate circles," said Mr. Melville Keay, manager of Hart House Theatre, in an interview with The Varsity yesterday. Mr. Keay continued in this enthusiastic vein and explained that it is to be part of the new order of things at the theatre this year to give co-operation and opportunity to all those interested enough to seek him out in his office regarding a chance to act in Hart House plays.

There has been much under-cover dissatisfaction in recent years due to the fact that student representation in Hart House productions has been at a minimum. In this connection, however, it should be emphasized that no matter how small a part may be, it offends as much as a threshold to stellar roles. No real talent will go unrecognized if the possessor is sincere and hard-working enough to make the most of whatever role he may be called upon to assume. Too often impetuous and immature actors throw away golden theatrical opportunities by refusing to step into a small or subordinate part. The atmosphere to be absorbed prior to winning acting spurs is unbounded, and without this apprenticeship we would never have had William Faversham, John Drew, Edwin Booth, or indeed any great name in past or present dramatic rosters.

There is no time to be lost. Even now the guest directors for the coming season, Mr. Sterndale-Bennett and Mr. Rupert Harvey, are in Toronto, and are casting their plays. Both these gentlemen have worked in the service of the theatre for many years on both sides of the Atlantic and are fully qualified to impart their long and valuable experience, and to instill it in the plays and players subject to their direction. It therefore behooves all those who desire to act or learn to act, straightaway to present themselves at Mr. Keay's door upstairs in the theatre wing.

Learning to "carry a spear" or appearing in a mob may be the inaugural step if not in a profession, at least in a delightful and enriching hobby.

MUSIC COMMITTEE WOULD INTRODUCE RADIO PROGRAMS

The Music Committee of Hart House propose making available to members of the House the Sunday concerts of the New York Philharmonic Society through a radio installed in Hart House Theatre. To this end they have sent lists to each college to ascertain if there are a sufficient number of students without access to radios to warrant obtaining a radio for this purpose. As yet the lists have not been returned. Experiments were made last year in the auditorium with a radio set without much success. Further information will be forthcoming when the lists are received from the colleges.

MORAL STANDARD GOOD AT VARSITY

Praises Meted Out for Dates Arranged Through Bureau

DANCING MOST POPULAR

"Good young women are hard to find," said Dr. Earl A. James, to a Y.M.C.A. group the other night, but university men have different opinions. "Generally speaking, the moral standard at the university is very good," seems to be the consensus of opinion here.

"You can mar your happiness and regret it for years to come if you are not more careful," warned Dr. James, deploring the habit of two couples going off for a night of petting in one car, with the participants recognizing no modesty. "Try and get college girls to just go for a ride. They have more expensive tastes," said the local lad.

Several university men, telephoned last night by the operator of the Date Bureau, had nothing but kind words to say about the girls they had met last week-end through the Bureau. Most of them had gone somewhere to dance, or else to a show. Two stated that they had stayed home, played cards

HORTICULTURIST SPEAKS AT R.O.M.

Mr. Moore Gives Address on Beautifying of Home Surroundings

FIRST LECTURE OF SERIES

"An understanding of the composition and the improvement of the various kinds of soil is fundamental in the study of horticulture," said Mr. H. F. Moore, in an address at the Royal Ontario Museum yesterday. This was the first of a series of lectures on beautifying home surroundings. Mr. Moore, horticulturist for the Canadian Home and Garden and the Mail and Empire, discussed the elements, classifications, and improvement of the soil in his first lecture.

Pointing out that sulphur, nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and lime were essential to the growth and reproduction of plants, Mr. Moore stressed the necessity of providing suitable fertilizers for the various kinds of soil. Organic matter, derived from the decay of plants and animal bodies was said to give the all important nitrogen.

Lime was advised as a counteractant for the acidity of peaty soil, while peat itself could be used to render clay soil less adhesive. Sandy soils, Mr. Moore said, required the addition of a spongy substance to retain moisture in the soil, as well as a fertilizer to make it productive.

FRESHMEN YEAR HOLO SUCCESSFUL PARTY

Crowds of Schoolmen Barred as University College Celebrates

Last night was a gala night at the Women's Union, when the University College freshman year celebrated its first year party. Over 150 strong, the freshmen and freshies crowded both auditoriums of the Union, dancing to two orchestras under the direction of Nels Kelly. Patrons of the dance were Principal Wallace, and Miss Ferguson, Dean of Women.

Mr. Jack Taylor, first year president, declared himself well satisfied with the reception given his first excursion into the entertainment field. "The crowd was so great that we were forced to turn all newcomers away after about half past ten," he said. Representatives of S.P.S., who were crowded outside the door during the latter part of the evening were kept at bay by the combined efforts of "Scotty" of University College, and two university policemen.

CONSERVATIVE CLUB HEAR EARL LAWSON

M.P. from Toronto Declares Conservatism a State of Mind

LAOS MOOIFIED SOCIALISM

"One of the regrettable features of this country is the absence of the influence of universities on its policies," stated Mr. J. Earl Lawson, M.P., before the Macdonald-Cartier Club last night. "Eighty per cent of those engaged in public affairs," the speaker asserted, "lacked higher education."

In developing his topic of Conservative Socialism, Mr. Lawson affirmed that "Whenever Russia has amended Marxian socialism, it has been in adaptation to some principle of capitalism." Conversely, the Conservative party has now introduced into Canada a measure of socialism in its Farmers' Credit Arrangement Act and its Central Bank. By the former, they have created legislation which says to a creditor: "You shall not have the amount of your contract, but only a proportion thereof, based on the ability of this man (the farmer) to pay." The latter measure definitely established the principle of confiscation, when it forced the banks

League Leaders Will Emerge from Saturday's Contest at Kingston

FENNER, MILLER MISSING

Teddy Reeve's Squad, Weakened by Absence of Four Regulars

On Saturday afternoon Warren Stevens' hard hitting Blue warriors clash with the Tricolour at Richardson Memorial Stadium in a game which bids fair to be the season's highlight in intercollegiate rugby circles as both teams have won their two initial contests in the regular schedule. Saturday's contest will produce the league leaders.

During the past week the status of several players has been looked into and as a result six men will be missing when the two squads trot out on the Kingston grid. First, the A.M.S. court banished four Queen's players from all athletic activities. The parties concerned are Hamlin, star punter and captain of the 1933 edition, Glass and Earle, two regular outsiders and Colin Dafoc, sub snaphack. This is a sad blow to rugby enthusiasts and will undoubtedly weaken Teddy Reeve's squad.

Due to the uncaring of an old rule which has previously been ignored by all four senior clubs, Fenner and Miller will not play for the Blue team until November 3. The rule states that a player who has played one senior game must remain out of senior activity for two weeks after his intermediate appearance.

Since last week's game Coach Stevens has given Bobby Coulter a few new plays to add to his bag of tricks and the visitors endure a warm time for their hosts.

The weakness on the line has disappeared and with Greco and Laing leading the plungers the yardsticks should move more than once. Cam Gray, who starred on the junior backfield last season and is at present leading the intercollegiate in the matter of most points scored, will be working on the backfield with Upper, Webster, Taylor and Isbister.

Cosmetics Not Too Prominent Good Taste Evident at O.C.E.

"There has been found to be no need for restricting the wearing of cosmetics by O.C.E. girls," stated Prof. O. J. Carlisle, Chief Instructor in Classics, commenting upon the decision of the Peterborough Normal School staff to ban from classrooms all girls who appeared with tinted finger nails and overly "made-up" faces.

"I have been connected with the staff here since 1910 and have the utmost admiration for the good taste and judgment displayed by students of the O.C.E. I know of very few cases where a personal appeal has had to be made to a student, and I do not know of any case in which a teacher or supervisor has had to speak to a practice teacher."

Regarding the question of short sleeved dresses, Prof. Carlisle said, "It has been the practice of the school not to specify what type of dress is to be worn either, but I don't know what would be done if there should happen to be any case of undue exposure. However, we do advise prospective teachers that for their own sake they should dress with due decorum when appearing before a classroom of students, as the success of the teacher's lesson is conditioned by the attitude of the class."

"Red neckties and scarlet socks for men are not exactly encouraged," indicated the professor, "for the teacher should endeavour to submerge into the general background of the class and not stand out from it like a pair of tan shoes on an undertaker."

"There are no regulations on the part of the college authorities to prevent the men smoking outside of lectures, but the Toronto Board of Education requires that a practice teacher should refrain from smoking while on the school premises."

THE DEFENCELESSNESS OF CHRIST

An arresting letter from the pen of Mr. de Mestral in today's issue lays bare the foolishness of the Christian gospel. As though we had been so blind as to overlook the fact, he informs us that Capitalism is as guilty as Communism in its disregard for individual rights. Both orderings of human society—indeed all social orders—contain within themselves their own condemnation. Christianity, understood as the Christ, is not made manifest in any form of society. All social orders in their presumption to autonomy witness to a fall and to their open rebellion. A society is Christian only in the moment when it apprehends this. The full force of the truth is never felt unless it is understood that at no time can we say that this or that society may be described as Christian.

Meanwhile the world clamours for practical programmes, for solutions, and for concrete plans and answers. And a Church which has lost its faith in a living Christ, seeking to justify itself before the carnal eyes of men, proceeds to draw "the blue-prints of the new Jerusalem". A Church which impatiently lusts after visible goals and successes, and can no longer endure to be dispossessed, weak and broken; a Church which can no longer bear the scoffing of the wise and strong who stand around its Cross; a Church which has not learned to be still and to wait for the Word which is heard only in its silence, is NOT the Church of Christ but a bastard and a shameless thing!

The strength of the Church in its conflict with Fascism, Communism and Capitalism lies in its weakness. Its only armour is helplessness, its only sword is faith. Yet the Church is of an "evil and adulterous generation" that seeketh for a sign. The Church mingles with the crowd which cries: "Come down from the Cross, and we will believe".

FROM A THEOLOGIAN

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

While agreeing completely with your analysis and judgment on the "Communist end" in today's editorial, I cannot but protest that such statement is too simple and unilateral. It is decidedly unfair in that it forgets to mention what is the background which made possible the rise of the communistic ideology as a national party. Secondly, the editorial has not a single word as to the appalling conditions in the "non-communistic" countries such as Canada or Switzerland.

The same ruthlessness and disregard of the individual is found under capitalistic economy, only there those who are taken into consideration are the few who happen to be rich enough to command respect or fear. Is it any better than the communist theory?

It is not only in Russia that people live "whose god is their belly", and in this matter we might well remember Jesus' word: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone". As a Christian (no need to add any qualification), I feel compelled to acknowledge bonds of fellowship with all men, even Communists. I recognize also that neither our capitalistic states nor communistic Russia are moved and led by the "power of God".

If we want the Communists to abandon their materialism let us—wrongly labelled "Christians"—live so as to that has any reality is the Life of the prove to them that truly the only thing Spirit in, through and by God's will alone.

Yours very truly,
C. de Mestral,
Emmanuel II.

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

I have read with interest the "Speaking of Sport" column in today's Varsity. It is time some of the senior hockey teams came out in their true colours. The writer speaks of the lack of support to the Varsity entry in the O.H.A. senior series. I have watched for the past six years a series of "simon pure" teams, relatively at least, competing for Varsity against teams that were little short of professional. The success they met was much as expected. Small wonder, then, that few people turned out to see the games.

It seems to me that the suggestion, contained in today's paper, of an international intercollegiate group, is an excellent one, provided that costs are not prohibitive. In the first place Varsity would be competing with teams that are more in her own class. One sided games are never of interest. In the second place, intercollegiate games seem to possess a certain colour otherwise lacking and are almost sure to attract a much larger portion of the student body. It seems then that more intercollegiate competition is the solution of the hockey situation at this university.

Hart House Theatre

The clash of swords and the smell of gunpowder will shortly fill the depths of Hart House Theatre, for Nancy Pyper has under way a production of The Devil's Disciple, from the pen of inimitable G. B. Shaw.

This play will be on the boards from Monday, October 29th, to Saturday, November 3rd, inclusive, and will be an eye-filling spectacle indeed. Laid in the period immediately following the American Revolution the play is one of Mr. Shaw's "Plays for Puritans", but must by no means be construed as dull on that account. Fast and exciting is the action from the first curtain, and the plot construction, although intricate, is the strong point of the play, which being an "earlier Shaw" is not filled with what we have come to term "the long Shavian Soliloquies associated with such plays as The Apple Cart or Too True To Be Good. Yet the piece is not without its trenchant satire and barbed wit. Mr. Shaw has his way with the Puritanical dwellers of New England during this period, and strips their emotions to show the fundamental hypocrisy or well worth as the case may be.

Leading roles in this colourful production will be carried by Patricia Cleland, Victor Lange, Gordon Robertson, Mrs. Harold Bibby and Violet Andras.

Mrs. Pyper, through personal contact with Shaw himself, and through long association with Shaw plays, is preparing a treat for patrons of the theatre. Her conscientious direction reflects in delicate shading of characterizations, involving an intelligent comprehension of the author's point of view.

Promenade Concert

We have pushed ourself through a door jamb and with the taste of smoke still fresh in our mouth we record a glorious and triumphant ending to the Promenade Symphony concerts. With every seat taken and many availing themselves of standing room, this huge audience followed the concert with the close attention and expressed their approval in vociferous applause.

There is no doubt that the foresight and perspicacity of Mr. Stewart have made this Summer Symphony a reality. He is a man who knows how to make much of opportunity and the last concert, which has proved so great a success, is a personal triumph for Mr. Stewart and a happy climax to a splendid enterprise. The contribution which has been made to music in Toronto by these concerts is by no means negligible. The problem of popularizing music is a difficult one and in selling the idea there is the ever present danger of playing to the gallery and the bad taste of exaggerated advertising. Now that the summer symphony is finally on its feet and the interest of the public assured, further steps will, we presume, be taken to exploit the artistic potentialities of the Prom.

Boris Volloff and his group of dancers were assisting artists on this memorable occasion and they contributed two groups to the programme, a dance to an "Impromptu" of Scriabine and the "Dance of the Clowns" from the Snow Maiden of Rimsky-Korsakoff. The appearance of Mr. Volloff himself gave life and energy to a stirring and vivacious dance. Numerous recalls were demanded by an audience which lingered fondly over each item of the evening.

first of a series of fifteen lectures on the subject of architecture, given in the Royal Ontario Museum yesterday.

Modern architecture combines simplification of craftsmanship, a quiet tone of appearance through the over-tone of ornamentation and a construction which reflects the design within.

Mr. Adamson concluded his address by stating that in his opinion, true modernism was not attained by those who scoffed at tradition but by those who were trained in the appreciation of mass and form as it has been developed through the ages.

WOMEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE TENNIS TO-DAY AND SATURDAY

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

A real battle is going on at the Toronto Tennis Club; four players from each of the universities, Varsity, Western, Queen's and McMaster are giving all they have to secure the intercollegiate tennis title for their Alma Mater. Queen's is the defender for the championship. Varsity is hoping to win another trophy to accompany the "Bronze Baby"; McMaster and Western are keen to show their young blood by nosing out the older institutions. It will be a grand tussle until the last minute of the finals tomorrow morning, and may the best team win. We hope, however, that Varsity will show itself to have that super-quality quartette.

Of course we are strongly supporting Varsity in this big conflict but honesty forces us to admit that the odds are with Queen's. Crippled though the tricolour team is by the loss of Doreen Kenny, present holder of the singles title, they still have Ruth Fishleigh, who last year with Doreen fought her way through to victory in the doubles. Eloise Penant of Western is another well-known figure in Ontario women's tennis. Agnes Gardiner, Varsity champion, is a third celebrity who is among the ranks now playing. How about giving all three of these plus the other members of the teams some real applause. It certainly will be time well spent!

The existing teams arrived in our fair city last night. The Queen's girls are billeted at the Women's Union, McMaster at St. Hilda's, and Western at Wymilwood. The Tennis Club has made extensive plans for their entertainment, and we are hoping they will go away feeling that Varsity has shown them an excellent time during their two days stay here.

MULOCK CUP GAME WON BY DENTS

Valiquette Responsible for Marginal Defeat of S.P.S.

NEITHER SIDE SPECTACULAR

Dents were victorious over S. P. S. in a regular Mulock Cup game by the slight margin of 4-2 yesterday afternoon on the back campus.

Neither team was by any means spectacular and several fumbles were made on both sides.

The Dents opened the game with a steady march down the field which netted them four points in the first few minutes of play. Valiquette for Dents, first kicked a field goal for three points and later a beautiful spiral for a single point.

For the next period the long high punting of Valiquette and the beautiful work of the Dental line held School helpless and only in the third period did School show flashes of their previous style which gave them victory over Meds.

Although they made an insistent aerial attack they could gain little or no advantage over the Dents' formidable defence.

Sherwood netted two points for the S.P.S. outfit when he tackled Polt for the Dental line. S.P.S. with new hope, battled with vigour but were unable to break through the Dents, who were determined to hold their line and gave no ground.

The last period was replete with thrills as the play saw-sawed from end to end. Try as they might School were unable to add to their total and the final whistle blew with the Dents the victors.

Dents: Flying wing, Garrett; halves, Rawlinston, Valiquette, Polt; quarter, Spears; snap, Woods; insides, Oswald, Schumacker; middles, Tribble, Muller; outsiders, Dore, Garrett; subs, Neisky, McCartney, Coppel, Polaskin.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Elsewhere in the paper appears a letter from a gentleman who claims to have read one of our columns. This is music to our ears as it proves that this column has, or had a reader. As we have often wondered whether anyone would have the courage to wade through an entire column or not but the gentleman in question evidently has or had as the remark he refers to was well camouflaged. This remark referred to international and intercollegiate hockey as the answer to the hockey problem. The writer is heartily in favour of the idea and believes that such contests would be more interesting than the old arrangement where Varsity was competing with teams who drew good salaries as bookkeepers because they could play good hockey.

The idea is unquestionably good. Varsity had little if any chance against the leading teams in the series. They did, however, put up a real contest, which is all any two teams can give an audience. Nevertheless, we consider international hockey a certainty in the future and believe that every effort made to bring it about as soon as possible is a step in the right direction. We are also grateful to the gentleman for his expression of approval and believe that the student body would support such a proposition.

Tomorrow is the day of the Varsity-Queen's game. For over half a century this has been the most colourful occasion of the football season. It has become a social event. Men who blazed their names among the football immortals before the turn of the century will be on hand in Kingston tomorrow watching their children, or grandchildren, wearing the same colours that they themselves wore, playing the same game, with the same spirit, for the same college, in the annual intercollegiate classic.

But there will be something missing from Saturday's game. The Tricolour team will be in there battling, battling as they have always battled, but they will be without four of their first string men. True, four men do not make a team, but the nature of the case has left its impression on the public. And public sympathy will be with Queen's. Sympathy is not and never was particularly healthful for any sport nor will it be for football. However, the Queen's team is not necessarily demoralized, they have lost four men; Varsity has lost two. They still have their kicker and what is more they will still be a hard club to defeat.

The attitude of Ted Reeve is worthy of imitation. On the eve of the most important game of the season, he finds himself without the services of four of his first string men—and still he smiles. He always could smile when it hurt, which recalls an incident when, playing an exhibition game for the Beaches with Montreal in Montreal several years ago, Ted had his leg broken. While awaiting developments in the dressing room, another player came in with the information that a Montreal fumble on their own 10 yard line had been recovered by Beaches. Ted merely gazed ruefully at his broken leg and remarked, "We seem to be getting all the breaks today."

However we did not intend to write an obituary on Ted Reeve or Queen's. They still have a strong club. The faculty had no alternative in its ruling. The whole thing is unfortunate but not a catastrophe. Varsity will not need to waste any time in sympathy if they are to return with the intercollegiate leadership in their possession.

The team which will be in the real tough spot tomorrow is St. Mike's. The battling Irish meet the Sarnia Imperials, who defeated Montreal, who defeated Argos, who hold the Dominion title. The Sarnia crew are good, considered even better than the Argos. Should the Irish win they will take the league leadership. Should they lose they will be faced with the task of stopping Sarnia on their own field the following week or drop from the picture.

CONSERVATIVE CLUB HEARS EARL LAWSON, M.P., SPEAK

to sell all their gold to the Central Bank at a sum almost half the current value. The Conservative party, indeed, has passed most of the social legislation on the statute books.

Conservatism, according to the speaker, is not a matter of principles or policies laid down in the past. "It is a state of mind. The party represents those people who have that state of mind, who, that is, desire to make haste slowly."

Mr. Lawson foresaw the time when legislation would put a maximum limit on the return on capital investment; when all that a man earns over a definite amount would be confiscated by the government; when shorter hours would be nationally enforced to offset technological unemployment; and when, finally, we are going to have a radical decentralization of industry.

VARSITY DEFENDS TITLE AT M'GILL

Rugger Team Will Leave for Montreal This Afternoon

BLUES' HOPES RUN HIGH

This afternoon the Varsity rugger team, defenders of the intercollegiate title for the first time in seven years, enroute for Montreal to meet the formidable Redmen. The McGill lads, unbeaten by a Blue and White team since 1926, lost the title last year when they were defeated by Queen's after holding Toronto to a tie right in their own home grounds.

Toronto bases its hopes of a win on the fact that last year's team is intact with the exception of three new men, who, by the way, are experienced players, and one other man, Des Magner, who starred for the Blues two years ago.

With a big but fast pack headed by Sandy Thorburn, the rangy Scot who used to play at Harvard and Dan Coakley, an English recruit, the Varsity forwards have been sweeping all before them and are as yet undefeated.

Losier, diminutive Maritimes star, is again in the pivot position where he is ably supported by Morley Whillans, a very much improved player and a likely standout in the approaching contest. Crawford, captain and fullback, should again be valuable defensively with his daring tackles and lofty booting.

The team: Forwards, Caverhill, Elliott, Thorburn, Kyle, Stoutland, Magner, Prowse, Coghlan; halfbacks Losier, Whillans; three-quarters, Wilson, McClellane, Egan, McCaffrey; fullback, Crawford.

SECONDS TAKE WIN DEFEATING CADETS AFTER SLOW START

Cadets Hold Five Point Lead
During First Two Periods of Play

SCORE 12-10

Miller, Tafts, Buck and Jackson Outstanding for Varsity

By Hal Taylor

A fine forward passing attack and a good fighting spirit enabled the Varsity intermediates to overcome a five point lead held for two periods by Royal Military College and to win their football game in Kingston Saturday morning by the score of 12-10. In the first half of the game, the Cadets got through the Varsity line with speed and ease, but found it a far different matter in the last two quarters of an exciting game, when Varsity hit their stride and by forward passing at opportune times, put R.M.C. on the defensive.

To Whitney Miller, the Varsity quarterback, goes the credit for throwing the passes, and to Tafts, Buck and Jackson the credit for catching them and running the ball up the field.

Hart House Library Suffers
Loss of Only Small

NEW BOOKS BEING ADDED

Loss of books from the library in Hart House which once reached proportions requiring the closing of the library, has not been at all serious during the past year, The Varsity learns. The few books that have been removed cover all types of literature, but a considerable percentage of them are eventually returned.

There are few, if any, regulations regarding the library, other than the rule that no books are to be taken from the room. It is only through the co-operation of the members in this respect that what is unquestionably a magnificent collection of volumes for leisure reading can fulfil its true purpose. The library contains some 6,000. Continued on Page 4)

"VICTORY OVER SIN" IS TOPIC AT MEETING

"Can a Christian live victorious over sin?" was the theme around which revolved the weekly meeting of the T.I. C.C.U. Saturday night at the Reverend Mr. Murphy's, 67 Pembroke St. There were thirty-five members of the Inter-collegiate Church Union present.

From a succession of Biblical quotations and comments presented by Miss Mary Nicol, the theme evolved into the modified form, "How may a Christian live victorious over sin?" To answer this, quotations such as "a definite act of will is necessary", "it is Continued on Page 4)

Queen's Wins Eighteen Points To Take Women's Tennis Title

Ruth Fishleigh, Barbara Chubb, Lilianna Dimitrova and Aileen Mason, the Queen's tennis team, left Toronto Saturday night carrying the intercollegiate championship with them. Ruth Fishleigh succeeded her former teammate, Doreen Kenny, to the singles title and paired with Miss Chubb, she added the doubles crown to her spoils. Queen's led the point score with eighteen points, Varsity garnered eight, Western and McMaster seven and four respectively.

Agnes Gardiner, the Varsity champion, who was expected to give Miss Fishleigh a stiff battle for the title, was unfortunately seized with a charley horse and despite a game fight, went down to Eloise Tennent of Western in the semi-finals. There was no one else in the field who could provide much opposition for the Queen's star and she swept through the tournament with the loss of only five games. The champion's performance was very polished and she gave an unflinching display of match tennis.

In the doubles Varsity's number one team of Agnes Gardiner and Ellen Wilson met Barbara Chubb and Ruth Fishleigh in the final round and went down to defeat by the score of 7-5, 2-6, 6-3. The match was played Saturday afternoon and the weather was more suited to rugby than tennis. The standard of play was not very high, neither team showing a great deal of co-ordination.

The Varsity pair lost through their inability to hold their own service after they had broken through their opponents'. In the first set they led 5-4 and 40-30 on Ellen Wilson's service before losing 7-5 and in the last set they muffed two opportunities to gain commanding leads in this way.

RESULTS
First Round

Ruth Fishleigh (Q) defeated Elma Prout (W) 6-0, 6-4.
Marguerite Viers (M) defeated Corinne Cherry (W) 8-6, 9-7.

Ellen Wilson (V) defeated Barbara Chubb (Q) 6-1, 7-5.

Sybil Ford-Smith (M) defeated Genevieve Logan (W) 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

BELIEF IN LOVE IS THE ESSENCE OF SOCIAL FAITH

"I Believe In Love," Sums Up
Christian Social Faith, Says Vlastos

IS A CREATIVE FORCE
Improvement of Present Economic Conditions an Obligation

"The Christian social faith may be summed up in one proposition: 'I believe in Love,'" said Dr. Geoffrey Vlastos, Professor of Philosophy at Queen's University, addressing a capacity audience in Emmanuel College Chapel at an S.C.M. service yesterday morning. Dr. Vlastos examined that part of faith that concerns the social relationships of the Christian.

"Love is the creative relating of life to life where there is felt a mutuality of good and value," stated Dr. Vlastos. "It is a group relationship as well, for it is only in such relationships that life can be fully realized; all our values are discovered in, sustained in, and created in relationships. A creative relationship is one in which each may enjoy his own good in the good of all.

"Love is not primarily or exclusively an emotion. But it is true that in these relationships there is an emotion which is deep, profound and holy. Any attempt to cultivate emotion for its own sake is futile. Any attempt to make an individualistic feeling of love degenerates it." The speaker here cited Hollywood productions, cheap love magazines and even Sunday School teaching as an example of this.

The only way to propagate love is to fight and work for those relationships in which love will come and not to induce it artificially from the outside. Love too must hold in the large relationship as well as in the small. Love and justice are not separated. Continued on Page 4)

SUNDAY SERVICE IRKS STUDENTS

Princeton Students Obligated to Attend Religious Service

CAMPAIGN STARTED

Princeton, N.J., Oct. 22.—Undergraduate opinion here has been brought to a head by an editorial in the Daily Princetonian, undergraduate newspaper, which today started a vigorous campaign against the Sunday religious service which all students are obliged to attend.

"A well meaning student feels about as near the Deity as if he were seated in the middle of the Carlsbad caverns," says the editorial, charging that conditions are so bad at the Sunday service that Tick-tack-toe and other games, reading of newspapers and general conversation are the most popular past-times.

Chapel is rapidly undermining what little actual religious faith exists on the campus, the editorial charged. It complains of the "haunting" by the administration and board of trustees of "the forced, hypocritical and disinterested attendance of approximately half the student body as an outward symbol of Princeton's religious life."

McGill Retains Tennis Title

Special to "The Varsity"

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Victors in both the doubles and singles finals, the McGill tennis team will hold the intercollegiate championship for another year. In the finals Saturday Bobby Murray defeated Georges Ledere, U. of M., and Murray and Robertson won from Crownson and Black, Varsity, in the doubles.

The final point score was: McGill 14, Varsity 6, U. of M. 5, Queen's 4, and R.M.C. 1. A point was given for each victory scored and two points for each final match.

Sarnia proved themselves to be just a shade better than Bill Storen's battling Irishmen when they clashed in their O.R.F.U. fixture at the Maple Leaf Stadium Saturday afternoon. The 19-12 win scored by the Imperials left them the only undefeated team in the senior O.R.F.U. series.

"HUMANS GOOD OR BAD?" DR. ARNOLD ASKS S.C.M.

"In our discussions we will try to clarify our thoughts about a philosophy of life, by an inquiry into everyday events," said Dr. Arnold at the opening meeting of the Current Events Group of the S.C.M. in Wymilwood yesterday afternoon.

"Is human nature essentially good or bad?" the group was asked. Dr. Arnold intimated that if one were to judge by the accounts of the numerous kidnappings, murders and other such atrocities, the answer would be decidedly pessimistic.

Tomatoes, Peaches, Onions Fly As Frosh Resolve To Do or Die

Friday night. Seven forty-seven p.m. School Sophs marshalling their forces on the grassy mound before Hart House. They are armed to the gills with tomatoes, peaches and spanish onions. The flickering glow from a huge fire of leaves in Queen's Park (alleged by some to have been started by "students") lights up the determined faces of the waiting host. Then a cry of "Frosh! . . . Frosh!" and the battle is on. Missiles fly and land with gooey splashing on the first year potato-sack tunics, green ties are ripped to shreds, and a few Sophs themselves are stripped of neckwear. Then the campus police arrive and the struggle dies, the united hands—captors and captives, move towards Hart House and a doubtful doom. In single file the victims are led up the stairway to the Horrible Heavens above. Like Mr. Labatt they are blindfolded so that they know not where they go, or what they go through.

Crawling on hands and knees, faces besmeared with soap and shoe polish, cars jangling with the raucous blare of police sirens, twin hooting Claxtons

QUEEN'S USED ONLY SIXTEEN MEN THROUGHOUT

Varsity Earns First Two Counters After Brilliant Runs of Upper and Gray for Gains of Twenty-five and Twenty Yards; Costly Fumbles Occur

By George C. Fair

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 20.—Queen's made it three straight and assumed the leadership of the series in the biggest upset of the current race for the intercollegiate title when they battled Varsity to a standstill for the first three quarters of the game, coming out on top at the final whistle with a 4-3 win at Richardson Stadium Saturday. Although the Blues tried desperately to win the game in the last thirteen minutes, three placements by Cam Gray went wide of the posts for single points.

BLUE RUGGER TEAM WINS FROM REDMEN

Varsity Breaks McGill's Eight Consecutive Years of Victory

SCORE 3 TO 0

(Special to "The Varsity")

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Ending the eight year old string of McGill victories, Varsity rugby team, now intercollegiate champions, broke through an exceptionally strong Red defence Saturday to score a 3-0 win.

Twice in the first half the Blue and White forwards pushed the ball over the McGill line in a heavy plunging attack, only to be called back for off-sides. After the interval, however, their efforts were rewarded when big Alf Elliott got across the line for the only score of the game.

Right from the start the heavier Varsity pack took the ball at their feet deep into McGill territory but failed to tally as Rabbit, an English public school star, booted the play back to the half-way mark. The Varsity backs Continued on Page 4)

The Tricolour, without the services of How Hamlin, Earle, Glass, and Daffoe, played inspired football, using only sixteen men throughout the entire sixty minutes with at least eight men going the route. Young and Bews were brought up from the intermediates for their first senior game in order to fill the gap left by the four ostracized fraternity brothers but were used sparingly by Coach Reeves, who depended on his regulars to do or die for the Alma Mater Society.

The game, played under perfect weather conditions, was nevertheless featured by costly fumbles, with three of the five scores coming as a result of "butter-finger" plays. The Blues earned their first two counters after brilliant runs by Upper and Gray for gains of 25 and 20 yards. Queen's scored in the second quarter when Barnabe, late of the Ottawa intermediates, hoisted a (Continued on Page 3)

A GOOD MAGAZINE MARKS GREAT LAND

Is One of Signs of a Great Country, Says Arthur
Lismer

"PUNCH" IS CITED

"A good magazine is one of the signs of a great country," contended Dr. A. Lismer, in a talk at the Art Gallery yesterday afternoon, and gave as an example the English Punch.

Dr. Lismer spoke briefly on early illustrations in Punch, and named Sir John Tenniel, du Maurier and Charles Keane as illustrators who through the medium of their sketches told as much as Dickens or any contemporary of their time. Very few of the original drawings of these men have been preserved, since their sketches were done on wood and were obliterated during the engraving.

The process of engraving was also responsible for the development of a style that was not free and easy due to the fact that the artist drew with the idea of facilitating the work of the engraver. This often destroyed the personality and charm of the illustration. Satirical sketches it often made more biting and accentuated their humour.

The modern Punch carries on with sketches of exquisite form, and gives the utmost quality to each artist's work. Punch, according to Dr. Lismer, embodies in its illustrations an intangible power to touch the heart—a quality lacking in Canadian magazines.

QUEEN'S AND FRATERNITIES

In a day when expediency and utilitarianism determine the approach to, and solution of life's problems, large or small, it is most encouraging to read that the Alma Mater Society of Queen's University has barred thirty medical students, five of whom were members of the senior football team, from all participation in social, political and athletic activities, even at the risk of losing an intercollegiate title. The problem before the governing body at Queen's was not whether there should be fraternities but whether a law, confirmed as recently as last year, was to be flagrantly ignored. The 'expedient' thing to do would have been to adopt less drastic measures and to save the football team. It will be to the everlasting credit of the Alma Mater Society and to Queen's University that they disdained to sacrifice principles for the sake of the questionable honour and gain that comes with the winning of a football title. It must be a source of genuine pride to many a Queen's graduate that the spirit of "Geordie" Grant lives on in the undergraduate body of 1934.

The question 'To be or not to be' fraternities at Queen's, was, as we have said, beside the point. Fraternities unquestionably serve a useful end at Varsity and we should be the last to advocate their abolition. Nevertheless, it is conceivable that Greek letter societies are not in the best interests of a University such as Queen's. The action of the Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity, in establishing an international unit in Kingston when they knew that it was quite contrary to the laws and customs of Queen's, is quite reprehensible, and would seem to justify the Alma Mater Society's fear of such organizations. Nu Sigma Nu, by securing five intercollegiate football stars on their membership roll, evidently thought to wield a big stick to force Queen's to legalize fraternities on the campus. Their political intrigue was accorded the only treatment a self-respecting University could mete out.

If we lived in the 19th century, we would say that the poetic justice of Queen's victory on Saturday demonstrated that virtue always triumphs. Instead, we simply congratulate Queen's on their win in the face of the past week's difficulties. We predict, however, that next week will tell a different story and the battling Tricolour squad will be snowed under by a Varsity team lusting for revenge. And if there is any one party responsible for weakening Queen's chances of ultimate success, it is Nu Sigma Nu and not the Alma Mater Society.

DUNDAS TAKES VARSITY IN HARO-FOUGHT GAME

Remain Tied with Argo Juniors for First Place in O.R.F.U.

Dundas remained tied with Argos for first place in the Junior O.R.F.U. group by virtue of their hard-won 5-1 victory over Varsity on the back campus Saturday afternoon. It was a great game of the fall pastime with the teams playing heads-up football all the way. Varsity were a little inconsistent on the backfield and many of the Dundas kicks were fumbled. However, none of these misplays proved costly.

The first half was very close with neither team gaining much ground or showing to advantage. In the second quarter Murray outdistanced Long slightly on the kicks and Varsity seemed headed for at least a single point. However, Dundas changed the complexion of this when they intercepted a forward pass.

Dundas kicked off in the second half and D. E. Murtchie booted the oval over the Varsity line, but Murray ran it out. This kick provided the lone feature of the third quarter.

Both teams were fighting hard and

Art, Music and Drama

Toronto Conservatory

The Conservatory String Quartette presented the first recital in its series of chamber music concerts, Saturday night, in the Toronto Conservatory of Music. A large audience was present to hear what proved to be an exceptionally fine programme, perhaps somewhat unevenly played but nevertheless very interesting.

The Conservatory String Quartette at its best has a warmth of tone and a genuine poetic quality which is good to hear. What it seems to lack is a certain precision in the ensemble; a strong dominating personality to weld the whole into an organic unit. In the playing of the Mozart Quartet in D Major, this need for a greater technical facility and a more harmonious ensemble, was most apparent. Here more fluency and delicacy in delivery would have added immeasurably to the work. We hasten to add that the Elgar Quartet was beautifully played with due regard to its somewhat impressionistic quality. The work is rich in harmonic colouring, strong and convincing in its conception and intrinsically lovely music.

The last number and undoubtedly the most forcefully performed was the Schumann Quintet with Dr. MacMillan at the piano. The intellectual grasp and the resulting co-ordination and unity which Dr. MacMillan brought to this work was nothing less than remarkable. While not exactly a solo pianist, his playing was warm and perfectly fulfilled the necessary requisite of blending with the strings. The worth of real musicianship was never more apparent.

THE STADIUM

The general public believe that ninetenths of University Life takes place at Varsity Stadium. For that matter so do a number of Vic students. While the intelligentsia may abhor this barbarous relic in our ultra civilization, they must admit it has a vast number of advantages. For example it enables:

Thirty-three members of the band to give expression to their repressed egos,
Numerous freshman to smoke their first pipe in public,
Numerous seniors ditto,
Arm-chair coaches to strut their

Hart House Theatre

The Playwrights' Studio Group began their fourth season at Hart House Theatre on Saturday evening with a bill of three original one-act plays. An enthusiastic audience packed the theatre and received the programme with great applause.

If a Canadian Theatre is ever to be a reality it will be on the basis of work such as is being done by the Playwrights' Studio Group. They have a genuine interest in the theatre and their sincerity and application distinguishes them from the host of dilettantes who threaten to kill the little theatre movement at its birth. We are looking forward to their next production.

The first play, entitled An Act of Charity, was written by Virginia Coyne Knight and directed by Ross Millard. This was a very clever comedy with a touch of satire. The work of Charlotte Kyle as one of the charwomen deserves especial mention. The direction of the play was also outstanding.

The second presentation, Nellie McNab, written by Lois Reynolds, and directed by Peggy Tytler, was a beautifully worked out society farce. The acting was adequate throughout. The direction seemed to suffer a little from a tendency towards forced originality which resulted in a loss of smoothness in action. This play, however, was the best received of the three and the playwright shows a great ability in the technique of the drama. We shall probably see more of Lois Reynolds' work in the future and it promises to be of exceptional merit.

The third play, a political comedy called The Party, written by Leonora

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Again the tricolour quartette has carried off the women's intercollegiate title. Through loyalty rather than sheer conviction we put our money on the Varsity team which only secured second place in point score. One Varsity player, Agnes Gardner, came through to the semi-finals. In the doubles it was a different story and Agnes Gardner and Ellen Wilson gave Ruth Fishleigh and Barbara Chubb a real tussle for their victory. Varsity should have had that match but seemed unable to hold their own service and to make the most of their opportunities.

Of course, Agnes Gardner's charley-horse was the real upset in the Blue and White's hopes. We counted on her to give Ruth Fishleigh at least a fight to the finish and in place of that she fell before Eloise Tennent, Western's No. 1 player in the semi-finals. This would never have occurred if she had been on her usual stellar game. Certainly we got the bad breaks; for besides having our chief hope incapacitated, Madge Shaw injured her wrist in the first round of the play. Madge and Agnes both showed real stuff in the way they went on and did play real tennis in spite of everything. And Agnes still has another year in which to win the coveted intercollegiate singles title.

Beyond all doubt Ruth Fishleigh displayed a super brand of tennis throughout the entire tournament. She was the one real star in the entire outfit. She won the singles without losing a set, winning 48 games and losing only five. She has six love sets to her credit, one at 6-4 and the other at 6-1. Ruth and her team-mates deserve a big hand so let's give it to them!

This is no social column or anything but we must mention a few of the costumes worn on the courts. The McMaster players were very smart in their maroon tunics and Barbara Chubb of Queen's created quite a sensation by featuring white flannels. We had thought shorts were worn for greater ease and comfort, but certainly the longs did not cramp her style at all.

Western and McMaster, although they ranked third and fourth, presented two threats in Eloise Tennent and Sybil Ford-Smith both of whom reached the semi-finals, and the former the finals, where she was totally outclassed by Queen's No. 1 player.

It would be very poor sportsmanship to make an alibi out of our bad luck for certainly the best team won. But our girls were right in there and had Madge and Agnes been O.K.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

We take this opportunity of bidding farewell to several titles which Varsity was scheduled to capture over the week-end. The tennis title, and the track title are both the property of McGill for the next year. The soccer title is as good as lost, also to the Redmen. The English Rugby Club was the only reason why Varsity did not come home empty handed from their four fold attack on intercollegiate honours. Even the women let their Alma Mater down, losing the intercollegiate tennis title to Queen's.

It was a hard week for Toronto. The Argos sent the Tigers well out in front in the Big Four by losing their fixture at Varsity Stadium. St. Mike's tried hard but failed to stop Sarnia from taking the lead in the O.R.F.U. And Varsity lost to Queen's. Probably the local pigskin artists think that the responsibility of leading a league is too great for them. The only Toronto team to win in Toronto was the Argo Juniors. A local team had to win in this case as they were playing St. Mike's in the Junior O.R.F.U.

Queen's, after being the recipients of more than their share of sympathy during the past week, show their appreciation by stopping the Big Blue team and taking over the driver's seat in the intercollegiate series. How ungrateful. Probably Varsity began to feel sorry for them about two hours too soon. At any rate by the time Varsity realized that the reports of a weakened Queen's team was greatly exaggerated, they were four points behind and then when they wanted to go on and win the game Queen's would not let them. In that final period they were in scoring position often enough to win the game twice over but the posts could not have been in their proper places. Gray, who last week scored five placements in as many attempts, had three shots at placements Saturday and none clicked. Maybe the posts ducked. The team are celebrating the occasion by taking a holiday from practice.

However, Varsity did win a football game Saturday. Down at Kingston the intermediates scored a last minute win over the R.M.C. squad who tied them here some time ago. From the Limestone City come several reports of the deeds of Bruce Fenner. From all accounts it appears that someone missed the boat when Fenner was allowed to play with the intermediates in that one game which kept him out of Saturday's struggle. Gus Greco is another individual who did himself proud in the Queen's game. Gus hit the line hard and often and was about the only line man on the Blue squad who refused to bounce when he collided with Abe Zvonkin and his cohorts.

SOCCER DECISION GOES TO MCGILL

Redmen Make First Win in Five Years to Defeat
Varsity

SCORE 1 TO 0

(Special to "The Varsity")
Montreal, Oct. 22.—Varsity's chances of retaining the intercollegiate soccer crown faded badly on Saturday when the red team of McGill succeeded in downing the Blues by one goal to nothing at the M.A.A.A. soccer grounds. Both teams, though weakened by graduation, played a fair brand of soccer and produced a game well worth seeing.

Play opened up fast in the first half with McGill carrying the play close into Varsity territory to test Dykes with several hard shots. The short and narrow field proved strange to the Varsity squad, who found difficulty in getting their plays started. They soon settled down, however, and play became fairly even with both teams coming close on several occasions. The half ended with Varsity pressing strongly and only good work by the McGill backs kept them off the score sheet.

After the interval, Varsity with a re-arranged line-up, carried the play and for a while seemed headed for a victory but McGill rallied and by dint of some clever combinations were able to put Varsity on the defensive, and finally beat Dykes.

The shot which proved the deciding goal was rather easily earned, however, the ball being kicked out of a scramble by Innes, was deflected off the goal post into the net. Varsity tought back hard and had the edge for the rest of the game, but were unable to tie the count, and the final whistle left McGill in the lead, their first victory in five years.

Queen's would not have carried off a ten point lead.

For Varsity every man played well, with Jacks and Rowland playing an outstanding game, while the McGill team was led by the diminutive Johnny Nolan. Varsity now meets R.M.C. next Saturday and must win to retain even a mathematical chance of keeping the title.

McGill: Evelyn; Cuhassack, Flood; Horsnell, Owen, Minnion, Lowe, Feltner, Cooper, Nolan, Innes, Smart, Rivett.

Varsity: Dykes, Jacks, Bowan, Long, Rowland, Simms, Pratt, Sully, MacPherson, Schmitt, Rowlinson, Toone, Stapleton, Davey.

RED TRACK TEAM WINS IN HARD-FOUGHT MEET

Westheuser and Munroe Bring New Records to Varsity

With records falling fast and furiously McGill, champions for the last four years, nosed out a hard fighting, determined Varsity track team in the annual track meet held last Friday in Montreal. Not until the final relay had been won, did the Red and White University annex its fifth consecutive title, for a Varsity victory would have created a tie, and the judges announced that the winner of the relay would be proclaimed champions.

In the final event, Conway and Maguire gave the Blue and White a 20 yard lead, only to have it wiped out by the spectacular Phil Edwards, who put the McGill anchor 35 feet in front, a handicap that Campbell of Varsity was unable to overcome. This left the final standing McGill 54 points, Varsity 43 and Queen's a poor third with only 33.

Two new records came to Varsity, when Bob Westheuser, with a heave of 126 feet 7 1/4 inches, beat the old mark in the discus throw by 4 feet 3 3/5 inches, and Munroe raised the intercollegiate high jump mark from 5 feet 11 3/4 inches to 6 feet 1 1/4 inch.

Toronto did rather poorly in the track events, winning only the three mile run, when Hogg romped home ahead of the field. Caldwell and Ashenhurst ran second and third respectively in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. One of the outstanding performances of the meet was the showing of Rankin, a freshman at University College, who ran a close second to Phil Edwards in the mile and beat Sampson, another McGill ace.

In the field events Varsity came to the fore, winning four out of six, and setting two new records. Maguire won the running broad jump with Cooper of Toronto third. Munroe and Smith placed first and second in the high jump, and Westheuser outthrew all opponents in the discus throw. Hamilton won the pole vault and Munroe was third in the javelin throw.

QUEEN'S TAKES VARSITY TO LEAD IN SERIES

beautiful drop from Varsity's 40 yard line to clear the uprights by 25 feet after an end run fumbled by Coulter.

The Varsity gridgers presented a stone wall defence, holding Abe Zvonkin and his cohorts to small gains when they tried to move the yardsticks the hard way. Queen's were equally as strong along the line, although they found difficulty in stopping Gus Greco who consistently barged through for five and six yard gains.

The limestone warriors provided somewhat of an upset by having a decided advantage in the tackling. Sonshine and Zvonkin, veterans of last season's three game series with the Blue gladiators, showed reckless abandon in dipping anything in a blue sweater.

Varsity's backfield, playing without Fenner and Miller, were overshadowed by the Queen's men, who made consistent gains in running back kicks. Ishister, although below par ($5 yards) outkicked Munro and Edwards, kicking for the winners.

For Queen's, Sonshine, Zvonkin, Edwards and Barnabe stood out, with Kirkland doing some creditable plunging in a relief role. Greco was dangerous both defensively and offensively, while Coulter, Ishister and Upper were also good for the logs.

Varsity: Flying wing, Dawson; halves, Ishister, Edwards, Upper; quarter, Coulter; snap, Williams; insides, Perry, Warren; middles, Greco, Laing; outsides, Henderson, Alison; subs, Hennessey, Gray, Taylor, Powell, Brebner, Keith, Holden, Harris.

Queen's: Flying wing, Sonshine; halves, Munro, Krug, Barnabe; quarter, Edwards; snap, Barker; insides, Kostuik, Weir; middles, Jones, Zvonkin; outsides, Wing, Elliott; subs, Waugh, Kirkland, Young, Bews. Referee: Bill Consiglio, Montreal. Umpire: Ga Mungovan, Ottawa. Head Linesman: Gar Keill, Ottawa.

easy time of it during their stay in Toronto. The Irish stepped into them in the opening period as if they had never heard of last year's dominion finalists, and fought their way into scoring position three times in the first period. Once within striking distance, however, they lost their effectiveness and from their three scoring chances only one point was produced.

The Irish reign ended at the conclusion of the first quarter and the weight and experience of the Imperials plus the splendid kicking effort turned in by Sterling, began to tell. When the half time whistle went Sarnia were out in front, 7-1, although they were backed to their one-yard line.

Both collected points during the third session, and in the fourth the Imperials continued their offensive, scoring a major. The Irish still continued to challenge and had collected an additional five points by the time the game ended, but were still well in arrears.

The Toronto team as usual were good for long gains with their passing attack but the kicking of Sterling was too much for them. The same teams meet again in Sarnia next Saturday.

hard to keep the springs of thought and of affection pure, but it is necessary," and "the supply of the spirit of Jesus Christ is the tap-root," were read by various members. Several cited personal experiences.

Mr. Morris Murphy enlarged on Miss Nicol's contribution with the quotation, "One must walk in the spirit and not fulfil the lusts of the flesh." An echo of the "Hound of Heaven" sounded in the comment that there is a trial a Christian must face, that of "having one's will broken to God's." "Surrender your will: be alive to God and dead to sin." "In all things and at all times, live in union with God and you will live victorious over sin," lead to the singing of the hymn, "Sin shall not have dominion over you," and the closing prayers.

BELIEF IN LOVE ESSENCE OF FAITH

but are integral in each other; in the larger relationships justice exists only as the expression of the community which brings people together.

Love operates under certain definite conditions of which the best expression, in social terms, is liberty, equality and fraternity. There must be fraternity in which community goals and values exclude exploitation of one by the rest. There must be equality of opportunity for each member to be able to bring to the community his own particular contribution. And there must be freedom, that demarcation of the rights of the individual in virtue of his work in the common effort.

If love is our faith, what are we going to do about it? Firstly we must ascertain what there is in our society that violates love. In our society there is economic exploitation. "To push this fact aside and say that it does not belong to the spiritual life is sentimental," said Dr. Vlastos. The capitalist economy is wrong chiefly because it permits successful exploitation of one group by another. The man who works is forced to accept such conditions of life as the owning class permits. The professor gave examples to prove that there is no real freedom in our present society. "Liberty without security is the mere husk of liberty."

The second demand upon us is action. It is not sufficient to engage upon some work in which, feeling the urgency of the situation and the ideal of love burning within oneself, one attempts to atone for the wrongs of this society as in missionary work, social service, or attempting to win those in positions of responsibility to love.

"The alternative," said Dr. Vlastos, "seems to me to be only one: I will remain a part of this society. I will find the way of love and live it out in my relationships, and I will become a member of an organized group of social protest." This will imply personal and group dedication to love, a study of the social and economic situation, and an identification of oneself with the group of the dispossessed. The speaker pointed out that Jesus identified himself with the outcast, the publican and the prostitute, and with their lot in practice and through that association had the right to speak of love.

led by Whillans, McClatchie and Crawford, replied with an aerial attack which again brought play to the McGill line. Stothart then picked up a loose ball ten yards out and fought his way over, only to be called back for offside.

In the second half McGill began to play desperately and in a series of short rushes led by Guildie, their captain, got as far as the Varsity five yard line. Kicking beautifully for touch, Whillans relieved the pressure and brought the play back into the Redmen's 25. Elliott then scored on a forward rush. The try was not converted.

Though both teams played so well it is hardly fair to mention individuals. Rabnitz, Partridge and Gildea of McGill, and Whillans and Kyle of Varsity were especially noticeable.

McGill: Wakefield, Romans, Partridge, Coleman and Angel; Rabnitz and Smith; Gildea (capt.), Williams, Munroe, Scott, Duffins, Laing, Stapleton, Hamilton.

Varsity: Crawford (capt.), Wilson, McClatchie, Egan, McCaffrey; Whillans and Losier; Caverhill, Thorburn, Kyle, Elliott, Stothart, Magner, Prowse and Coghlan.

SECONDS DEFEAT R.M.C.

Jackson proved to be the best plunger on the Varsity team, going through the line and around the ends for some fine gains. Fenner must also be mentioned for his kicking and steady backfield work.

Two placements in the first quarter by McBrien put R.M.C. in the lead. The Cadets ran around the ends to get the ball in position for the first drop kick. Then taking advantage of a steady line, they blocked one of Fenner's kicks, to again place the ball with in scoring distance for McBrien's toe. In the second quarter, a short kick by McBrien moved the Varsity team up to the R.M.C. end of the field and Fenner kicked a long return to the deadline for the only Toronto point of the half.

To begin the second half of the game, Tafts took a pass from Miller to the R.M.C. thirty-five yard line, and caught another one from there on the very next play which he ran over for a touchdown which was converted. R.M.C. scored a point by booting the kickoff to the Varsity deadline. After a series of fumbles by the Toronto team had allowed the Cadets to proceed to the Varsity ten yard line, McBrien got his foot behind another placement for another three points.

Tafts once more demonstrated his ability as a receiver of forward passes by catching two more for a total gain of fifty yards. Another pass, this time Miller to Buck, and a nice run by Jackson brought the ball ten yards out from the R.M.C. goal line where three successive line plunges failed to accomplish anything. A mixture of fumbling, forward passing and line plunging brought Fenner a chance to kick a placement. Another point by Fenner on a kick brought a very hard and exciting game to a close.

R.M.C.: Powell, Reynolds, Hodson, Sisson, Drury, Wilson, Fee, Birks, McBrien, Chase-Casgrain, Whitaker, Rowland; subs, Chubb, Ripley, McKibbin, K. H. McKibbin, Wetherspoon, Randmore, Corbett.

Varsity: Jacobs, Kuntz, Gibson, Bridle, Thomas, Powell, Buck, Miller, McPherson, Fenner, Gray, Jackson; subs, Williams, McBride, Willoughby, Ripley, McVein, Lynch, Tafts, McLachlan.

The Varsity's War Correspondent (and everybody else) was not permitted to sample the aforementioned forty beers, but imbibed huge quantities of alleged coffee. feeling began to creep into the game. The last quarter produced all the scoring, and Dundas were much superior in this frame. The turning point came when DeMurtre threw a 17 yard pass to Wilson. The ultimate kick placed the ball on Varsity's 8 yard line. Murray booted a high one and the Varsity outsidies failed to give yards on the catch. This put Dundas in a great scoring position and on the first down DeMurtre, on a fake placement ran 17 yards for a touchdown, which was not converted.

Varsity came right back and on the kickoff Mustard kicked to the deadline for a point. In the ensuing attack Varsity tried many forward passes, none of which were completed. On an end run Mustard raced ten yards for a good gain but Varsity couldn't make much more headway against the stout Dundas defence.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Rome—Flying Officer H. D. Gilbert and J. Y. C. Baines, co-pilot, two British contestants in the London-Melbourne air derby, perished when their plane crashed and burst into flames shortly after their take-off from Rome.

London—Mr. R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada, will today come under fire when Viscount Snowden's second volume of memoirs is released in which Premier Bennett is dubbed "dictatorial" and a man of forceful character and vigorous speech.

Detroit—Dr. Jean and Mrs. Picard, plan to take off early today on their ascent into the stratosphere where at an altitude of nine miles Dr. Picard will make observations of the cosmic rays before proceeding to the eleven mile level.

Belleville—Harold W. Vermilyea, sent under special guard at Belleville county jail, was denied a visit from his two brothers, Arthur and Clarence Vermilyea. A new alarm system of electric bells has been installed at the suggestion of Sheriff George Stokes to lessen the prisoner's chances of escape.

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 23—C. W. A. Scott and Campbell Black, the two British fliers, landed at Melbourne at 5.33 Melbourne time, to finish victors in the England to Australia air derby.

STUDENT SERVICE HAS WIDE RANGE

I. S. S. Supported Privately and by State, in Many Countries

BREAKS WITH GERMANY

"The International Student Service is an organization which works among students in all countries irrespective of nationality, creed, or politics. It receives its support partly from private contributions and partly from government grants, among which was one from the German government. But after the murder of Beck it felt unable to accept any further support from the government which had ordered his death," said Warden J. B. Bickersteth of Hart House in an interview with The Varsity regarding the recent action of severing relations with Germany.

The account of the break as given in the official I.S.S. publication, "More Facts", is as follows. Following the death on June 30th of Director Fritz Beck, one of the oldest and most trusted collaborators in International Student Service a letter was sent to the German Committee advising them that the Standing Committee had resolved to suspend all relations with organizations supported by the present government of the Reich. The German Committee chose to interpret this resolution as an act of interference in German internal affairs which they bitterly resented. The Assembly of I.S.S. when it met in August following the Annual Conference ratified the action of the Standing Committee but declared its desire to resume the suspended relations with professors and students who can appreciate the principles of I.S.S.

"The tendency in Germany is to suppress all organizations with international affiliations," said Mr. Bickersteth. "The German government quite realized the value of the work being done by the I.S.S. and as long as it did

FRENCH ARTISTS PRAISED BY CRITIC

Works of Renoir and Degas Embody Principles of the Past

DIRECT CONTRAST SHOWN

"The future of art is predicted by such great masters as Renoir and Degas, because their works embody all the great principles of the past," said Mr. William Pach, American artist and lecturer, in his address at the Art Gallery at 8.30 Monday evening.

Mr. Pach spoke briefly of the life and character of these two great French artists, both leaders of the impressionist movement, as an index to the nature of their works. Degas was very brilliant, both as a man and an artist, but all his works were coloured by the sharpness and acidity of his mind. The fact that he never married may be significant.

Renoir, on the other hand, presents a direct contrast. He admired Degas greatly, but in all essentials differed from him. He was very pleasant, and agreeable, and here Mr. Pach spoke from his own experience, for he looks on his personal friendship with Renoir as one of the greatest treasures of his life. Renoir was never bitter or hard, and even at the end of his life, when his fingers were paralyzed to such an extent that his brush had to be tied to them, he was cheerful and gay.

MUSIC COMMITTEE TRIES NEW PLAN

Artists and Programmes Are to be Announced in Advance

AIMS TO USE ALL TICKETS

The Music Committee of Hart House is this year employing a new method of issuing tickets for the Sunday Evening Concerts. In the future the tickets will be given to the faculty representatives on Monday, and distributed to the undergraduates on Tuesday. Students who have received tickets and are unable to use them, are requested by the Music Committee to return the tickets to the Hall Porter at Hart House by Thursday. In past years many tickets have gone unused, while those who desired to attend were excluded. The Committee is anxious to correct this situation, and asks the co-operation of undergraduates in this matter.

Another innovation this year is the announcement of the artists and the publication of the programme in The Varsity a few days before the concert.

The first of the Sunday Evening Concerts will be given on October 28, when the Hart House String Quartet will present the programme. The Friday Afternoon Recitals will begin on October 26. The artist will be Reginald Stewart, who will give a programme of Bach. The programmes of these concerts are published on the day of the recital. The Music Committee wishes to remind students that the artists at both the Friday Recitals and the Sunday Evening Concerts come as guests of the House, and that the undergraduate body is accordingly under deep obligation to them for their good will.

HART HOUSE STRING QUARTET

Recent photograph of the world-famous Hart House String Quartet, taken shortly before the quartet left on a concert tour of Quebec and the Maritimes. Returning to Toronto for the first students' concert of its local series, to be played in Convocation Hall on October 26, the quartet will leave immediately to fulfill engagements in the prairie provinces and on the Pacific coast. During October and November the quartet will have 31 concerts in as many Canadian cities and towns. Left to right: Geza de Kresz, first violin; Milton Blackstone, viola; Boris Hambourg, 'cello; Harry Adaskin, second violin.

VARSITY RECEIVES EXCHANGE STUDENTS

N.F.C.U.S. Brings Students from Other Canadian Colleges

ARRANGES DEBATES

Seven Canadian students have received Exchange Scholarships this session from the National Federation of Canadian University Students, it is announced by the Secretary of the N.F.C.U.S. They are: Edith Blair of Dalhousie to Queen's, Thelma Hermanson of Manitoba to Toronto, Leslie Allen of U.B.C. to Toronto, Leonard Harper of Alberta to Toronto, Evelyn Buxton of Alberta to Toronto, Vivian Hood of Alberta to B.C., Winston Porter of Alberta to McGill.

Under the Exchange Plan a student may spend one year at a university other than his "home" university without paying any tuition or Student Council fees. The scheme was devised six years ago by the Federation with the co-operation of the authorities of the Canadian universities.

Exchange Scholars must agree to return to their home universities for the year following the scholarship year. The following, who studied under Exchange Scholarships in 1933-34 are now back at their home universities: Peter B. Anderson back at Alberta from McGill, Mary Macbeth back at Alberta from McGill.

INTIMACY LACKING IN LARGE COLLEGE

Living Costs Higher Here States Albertan Student

HART HOUSE IS PRAISED

"There is a certain air of tradition about many of the buildings, a veneration of the ages," remarked Mr. Leonard Harper, exchange student from the University of Alberta when asked his first impression of Toronto University. But in general, he preferred the intimacy of a smaller university. The chief merit of an institution such as this, he opined, is the technical equipment and the great specialists it possesses, but he doubted whether this advantage outweighed the value of the friendlier atmosphere of Edmonton.

A date bureau such as is operated here, would be an anomaly in the far-western university. Although the University of Alberta has all the facilities we have here—with the exception of forestry and optometry—faculty lines are hardly drawn there at all. Students participate in college life in common—especially with regard to the notorious initiations which have recently been prohibited. An informal dance is held weekly, which all students may attend for a nominal fee. "The cost of living is much higher here," sighed Mr. Harper.

Parties Strange, Unusual Views Essence of Our Exchange News

From the rock bound coast of Maine to the sun swept slopes of Mae West, every week hundreds of college papers come pouring off the presses and every week there comes a flood of college news and campus vagaries to The Varsity office. So forget about activities around the Soldiers' Tower for a while and let's find out what's going on at other universities.

Take Queen's, for instance. (And echo answers: Boy, did we!) Not all the talk in Tricolour Land these days is about facts and football. The other day the lady Sophomores in charge of initiations explained a few rules and regulations to their first year proteges. The explanation was rather startling: "We don't expect you to wear anything on Sundays."

The Freshettes thought this would be fun, until the instructions were concluded with: "It is necessary, however, to wear tams and placards on week days." Now this, you will agree, makes good sense and sound advice. It would certainly be very wicked to wear placards on Sunday.

After which you'll be glad to slip out west to Winnipeg where, at the University of Manitoba, current topics are much more uplifting. An airplane ride, in fact, is the treat in store for the two co-eds who won a recent contest for selling rummy tickets. "The plane will be decorated with a 'Varsity' streamer," runs a dispatch in The Manitoba. "The streamer is being prepared by Prof. Russell of the Dept. of Architecture."

Before the take off, we trust, the engine will be given a thorough check-up by mechanics from the Dept. of Psychology.

Taking a long jump south and west we arrive in California on the quad-range of Riverside Junior College, where they don't have a date bureau. Instead, the fall term opens with "Hello, Week" when even the Frosh have a good time. The get acquainted activities reach a climax with "The Mixer", which had us guessing for a while, until we decided it must be a dance and not one of those big orange

M'GILL TO CHOOSE PRINCIPAL SOON

Beatty States that Choice will be Made from Five Candidates

CHOICE TO BE MADE SOON

Montreal, Que. (CIP)—The members of the nominating committee, who were appointed by the Board of Governors of McGill University for the purpose of choosing a principal, have narrowed their schedule down to five candidates, it has been announced by E. W. Beatty, K.C., chancellor of McGill University. This statement put to rest several rumours which have been prevalent around McGill for some time past. It has been mentioned by not a few that a native of the British Isles has already been appointed principal, but Chancellor Beatty's statement puts this rumour at naught.

In the course of his statement, Mr. Beatty revealed the following facts: "Members of the nominating committee have been giving the matter of the appointment of a principal for McGill University careful consideration. The number of likely candidates has been reduced to approximately five. At least two of these are Canadians."

"It will be a matter of some weeks before the appointment can be made. We sincerely hope to fill the vacancy during the present calendar year. However, it is possible that the appointee, when he is selected, may not be able to come to McGill immediately upon

CLASS PORTRAITS TO FORM EXHIBIT

Library Display to Include Pictures of Famous Graduates

PERIODICALS FEATURED

In an interview with The Varsity yesterday, Mr. W. S. Wallace, the University librarian, outlined his plans for future exhibits at the library. It has been the custom in the past to exhibit various interesting documents or rare old editions and this policy is being continued this year. At present Publications of the Champlain Society are on display.

Mr. Wallace is considering placing old class portraits on exhibition. These old group pictures contain the portraits of many men who since their graduation have attained high positions in the life of Canada.

An important part of this year's programme will be to display in rapid succession a wide range of periodicals dealing with such subjects as Biochemistry, History and Economics.

Mr. Wallace was emphatically of the opinion that the majority of students are totally in ignorance of the amount of material available for them in the form of periodicals pertaining to their particular subject. A list of medical periodicals alone covers two or three pages of foolscap and altogether the University library subscribes to over 3,000 periodicals.

These exhibits are being made for the purpose of impressing students with the wealth of information which they may obtain by an intelligent use of the periodicals at their disposal in the library.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS FIRMLY UPHELD AT VIC DEBATE

Motion of Government Meets with Overwhelming Defeat

ELECT AUGER SPEAKER

Personal Confessions Feature
Discussion from the Floor

The Victoria College Debating Parliament held its inaugural session last evening to decide the question "Resolved, that the social activities of Victoria College are deplorable," the government went down to overwhelming defeat as the House was carried away not only by the attack of the opposition but also by certain preconceived opinions held on the subject.

Before the debate was opened, Eliot Auger was formally elected Speaker of the House and Chancellor Wallace stepped out of his place long enough to speak briefly on the value of such an institution as Victoria College Debating Parliament in college life.

The Prime Minister, Miss Mary Urquhart, deplored the "recent tendency to emphasize the really social side of college life and the fact that the multiplicity of activities prevents us from having a proper appreciation of any of them." Dick Simpson, leader of the opposition, declared that "man is a social animal and can't be in a library all the time." His sharp at-

S.C.M. Corner

An outstanding and unique event in the history of Toronto University is to take place next week, on October 30th and 31st. A theological students' conference will be held at Emmanuel College, comprising students from Emmanuel, Knox, McMaster, Trinity and Wycliffe Colleges. Plans have been under way ever since last winter when the idea germinated in the minds of a few men in the University who are intensely interested in present day problems common to the whole church. The very able services of Dr. John Mackay of New York have been enlisted as leader of the conference, and anyone who heard Dr. Mackay last year when he spoke in Trinity College Library on the subject of Latin America will remember the great power of stimulation which he possesses. Under his guidance the conference will deal with two big themes, the Christian Minister and His Message. These will both be subdivided into three parts, each of which will be the subject matter of a session of the conference, and an address by Dr. Mackay. The Christian Minister will be dealt with in relation to his inner spiritual life, his contact with the individual, and his contact with society; and similarly his Message, in relation to its inner content, its significance to the individual, and to society.

This is the first time anything like this has been attempted in this University. The unanimous verdict of approval which greets the whole project (from staff and student body alike) is indicative of a great need. The church split up into various denominations, is faced today with common problems which transcend differences of custom and practice. This conference is the expression of a corporate desire on the part of those offering themselves for the ministry to come together and face the difficulties which threaten the church as a whole.

The sessions of the conference will be held in Emmanuel College. Register

GILDING THE LILY

The action of the Peterborough Normal School staff in restricting the use of make-up by the co-eds there has re-awakened an age-old question. From the time of Eve to the present age of Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubinstein, this issue has been arising with great regularity—should the fair sex be permitted "to gild the lily" or no? And why not? It is interesting to see the opinion of John Donne, Dean of St. Paul's, in the early Seventeenth Century, "Foulness is loathsome": can that be so which keeps it? Who forbids his beloved to gild in her waste? to mend by shoeing her uneven lameness? to burnish her teeth? or to perfume her breath? yet that the Face is more precisely regarded, it concerns more: For as open confessing sinners are always punished, but the wary and concealing offenders without punishment; so the secret parts need the less respect: but of the Face, discovered to all examinations and surveys, there is not too nice a jealousy."

And again, "What thou lovest in her face is colour, and painting gives that, but thou hatest it, not because it is, but because thou knowest it. Fool, whom Ignorance makes happy, the Stars, the Sun, the Skye whom thou admirest, alas, have no colour, but are fair, because they seem to be coloured: If this seeming will not satisfy thee in her, thou hast good assurance of her colour, when thou seest her lay it on. If her face be painted on a Board or Wall, thou wilt love it, and the Board, and the Wall: Canst thou loath it then when it speaks, smiles, and kisses, because it is painted? If in Kissing or Breathing upon her, the painting fall off, thou art angry; wilt thou be so, if it stick on? Thou dost love her: if thou beginnest to hate her, then 't is because she is not painted. If thou wilt say now, thou dost hate her before, thou dost hate her and love her together. Be constant in something, and love her who shews her great love to thee, in taking this pains to seem lovely to thee."

And that in the Seventeenth Century! We echo these eloquent sentiments, indeed let them "take pains to seem lovely!" More power to their "painting!"

POLITICAL CLUBS

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:
I regret to see so many young men at this university belonging to the political clubs on the campus. This is a state of affairs that leads to a bigoted attitude on the part of the students, a condition that is of no use either to the student or to the party to which he belongs. I would like someone to tell me what good it is going to be for a man who should have a critical frame of mind at university age to sit at a meeting of a club of his own party and hear some confirmed politician of that party telling him of the glories of the party and what it has and will do, for the benefit of the country. Will this lead to the improvement of the politics? No, it will only lead him to believe in the perfection of the party and stagnate his mind.
Yours truly,
Anon.

VARIETY OF SUBJECTS MARKS LECTURE SERIES

Starting Thursday, November 1, a series of free lectures is to be given in West Hall, U.C., on Thursdays at 5 p.m. These lectures have been popular in other years and promise to be even more so this year as the subjects are, or should be, of interest to all Canadians. The topics take in a wide scope, including not only subjects of historical interest but also such subjects as Canadian architecture and painting, and Canadian literature, both English and French. The following are the dates and subjects:

November 1: The Geographical Background of Canadian History, Professor H. A. Innis.

November 8: Commerce and the Struggle for Canadian Union, Professor D. G. Creighton.

November 15: The First Railway Era, Professor G. P. deT. Glazebrook.

November 22: The Confederation and Expansion of Canada, Professor Chester Martin.

November 29: The Growth of National Political Parties, Professor F. H. Underhill.

Toronto Symphony

The Toronto Symphony is featuring a series of Young People's Concerts this season, the first of which will be given tomorrow, Tuesday, October 23 at 4:15 p.m., to last one hour. Overture to "Merry Wives of Windsor" ..... Nicolai Symphony No. 7 (Allegretto) ..... Beethoven
Ballet Music from "Rosamunde" ..... Schubert
Carnival Overture ..... Dvorak

Sketch Room

This exhibition of Miss Stevens' work in oil, pastel and etching, now in the Sketch Room, is very difficult to review. The entire show is so charming, the subjects so very attractive that it quite disarms the critic.

Miss Stevens is best known for her portraits, although her best work has been "the nude". The two studies, "Siesta" and "Coloured Nude" included in this show are both superb examples of her figure painting. The flesh tones are exquisitely handled, especially the use of blues in the study of the negress. The painting "Nude Study No. 23" is very weak in comparison. It is a very poor composition and the painting lapses badly in some parts of the figure.

Portraiture imposes certain very definite limitations on the artist which may limit its value as a work of art. Miss Stevens, however, almost invariably achieves a finely conceived and beautifully handled work. The admirable character study "Maude Decade" is especially fine.

This artist's work in pastel is quite the best among Canadian artists. She has a perfect technique in this medium and her excellent characterization makes her pastels a joy for today if not forever. The portraits of Auguste Bolte and Mrs. Allward are most delightful.

The etchings are not representative of the artist's best work in this field and are not very interesting. She has done much better things, so do not judge by this exhibition.

WASHING SERVICE INAUGURATED

A student "Laundry Bureau" will be introduced into the University of Bulgaria, and operated through the "Champus Cat", it was decided at a meeting of the Young Friends of the Soapist Union yesterday. This laundry will embody the best shirts and lingerie to be found in leading backyards in Canada and elsewhere.

The decision of the Champus Cat to run this wash-out was made after viewing the disgusting wide-spread appearance of the student apparel, and because it was felt that the Cat was the only thing that is read and trusted by everyone on the campus.

Students wishing to take advantage of this service are asked to wrap their unmentionables in a large sheet of brown paper appearing elsewhere in this issue, or the Editorial page, enclosing a photograph showing sizes and

Five Piano Recital

A capacity crowd of about seventy-five hundred were treated to an exceptional musical ensemble of 5 pianos, in Varsity Arena last evening. The artists were no other than Toronto's leading quintet of pianists,—Reginald Stewart, Ernest Seitz, Alberto Guerrero, Smott Malcolm and Reginald Godden.

Beginning with an arrangement of the "Toccata and Fugue in D minor" by Bach, the unique ensemble met with instant approval of the crowd. A Liszt arrangement of Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song" was equally as well accepted.

Worthy of special mention in the first group was the "Cradle Song" of Brahms-Grainger, which was so well received that it was deservedly played again. Likewise an outstanding number with the crowd was Chabrier's "España", which concluded the first group. Chopin's "Harp Etude" was the encore number.

The programme was not without its humour, as Reginald Stewart would faintly acknowledge as he found himself (Continued on Page 4)

LIBRARY LOSSES EXIST BUT ARE NOT SEVERE

"Loss of books from the Medical Library through theft are almost nil," stated Mr. W. S. Wallace, Head Librarian, yesterday in an interview with The Varsity. The number using the Medical Reading Room is limited and thus it would be difficult for anyone to take out a book without reporting it even if they wanted to.

"There have been cases in the past," continued Mr. Wallace, "but so far this year none have been reported. Of course all books that are lost whether by students or members of the staff must be replaced." Mr. Wallace was quite satisfied with the way in which medical students are making use of their reading privileges but hinted that other departments were giving him more cause for concern.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS UPHELD AT DEBATE

tack on the government was met by Harold Bailey, who waxed very eloquent concerning the danger of becoming mere social butterflies. Miss Evelyn Stewart summed up the debate very concisely, referring to Mr. Bailey as a confirmed woman hater and prejudiced accordingly. She added that college was a happy hunting ground for members of both sexes—and why not?

After the meeting was thrown open the debate turned into a general discussion. When Mr. Hugh Peart declared the senior promenade to be more like a Ladies' Aid strenuous objections to any amateur poet holding the floor were raised but Prof. Havelock voiced the general feeling with a remark that the debate was more like an Oxford Group meeting with everyone making personal and more personal confessions.

not interfere in political affairs they were willing to give it help. The German branch of I.S.S. being strongly in sympathy with the whole National-Socialist movement, considered that it was entirely their own business what they did to Beck. But when Beck's murder occurred and the Reich refused to give any reason or explanation that henceforth money granted by the I.S.S. as a whole naturally the German government would be money stained with Beck's blood."

THEOLOGIAN COLLEGES USE OUTSIDE PLAYERS

Teams from Knox College and Wycliffe College entered in interfaculty sports may use players from other faculties as a result of a ruling passed by the Athletic Directorate of the University. Only men who live in the college residence may be used and a release must be first obtained from the team of the faculty or college in which the student is registered.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

The basketball schedule is ready; it appears in another part of this issue. How about cutting it out and keeping it in a prominent place so that you don't miss a single one of your own college games? There are two games on November 1 (that is just one week from Thursday). These games will interest all you fans from U.C., St. Mike's and St. Hilda's. On November 2, Meds and U.C. seniors will be on the floor and from then until the end of the month the games follow thick and fast.

These games are not as exciting and vital as the group playoffs, but if you wait until the finals and fail to support your college reps in the preliminaries you may find yourself in the sad position of having no team left at the bitter end. The calibre of the team which Varsity sends down to Queen's to fight to keep the "Bronze Baby", will be largely determined by these interfaculty games. You can't afford to let either your own faculty or the University down, so get out there and "talk it up" from the very first.

Tennis is now a thing of the past. But since we had to restrict our remarks yesterday due to an abundance of other news which had to be printed, we still have a few things to say about the big racket contest.

Eloise Tennent was not given adequate praise for her super playing in the semi-finals. She played a stellar game when she put Agnes Gardner out of the running. Of course Agnes was not playing the tennis of which she is capable, but Eloise was at her spot every minute and Agnes at her very best would have had a terrific tussle to down her.

Aileen Mason, Queen's number 4 player, displayed a mean curve when she served. Her general game was very fine and one would never guess that she is very new at the game and only just made the Queen's team. If she played as she did this year with the little practice she has had we can well look for big things from her in the years to come.

Sybil Ford-Smith of McMaster won her matches on a most peculiar type of playing. Her play was by no means startling but her endurance is colossal. She defeated both Genevieve Logan and Ellen Wilson in real marathon games. Ellen undoubtedly is the better player and it is too bad she had to meet that defeat. But Sybil gets there, and in a tournament that is really the thing that counts.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE FOR WOMEN'S GROUPS

- Nov. 1 U.C. Freshies at St. Mike's
- 1 U.C. Juniors at St. Hilda's
- 2 Meds at U.C. Seniors
- 5 U.C. Freshies at Vic Jrs.
- 7 Meds at Vic Srs.
- 8 Nurses at St. Hilda's
- 12 St. Mike's at Vic Jrs.
- 13 Nurses at U.C. Jrs.
- 14 Vic Srs. at U.C. Srs.
- 15 St. Hilda's at U.C. Freshies
- 19 St. Hilda's at Nurses
- 19 Vic Jrs. at U.C. Freshies
- 20 U.C. Srs. at Meds
- 22 U.C. Jrs. at Nurses
- 23 U.C. Srs. at Vic Srs.
- 26 Vic Srs. at Meds
- 26 Vic Jrs. at St. Mike's
- 26 St. Hilda's at U.C. Jrs.

All games are to be played at O.C.E. gymnasium. Managers of home teams arrange for referees; re available referees get in touch with Lorna Reid, La. 3271.

Group I: U.C. Seniors, Vic Seniors, Meds.

Group II: Vic Juniors, St. Mike's, U.C. Freshies.

Group III: St. Hilda's, U.C. Juniors, Public Health.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Interfaculty lacrosse got under way in the big gym where the netted stick artists opened the season with a surprising degree of accuracy in the art of bending timber over each other's heads, despite their long layoffs. What the lacrosse programme will contain this season is as yet indefinite but there will be a Varsity team chosen from the stars of the interfaculty teams. Who or what this team will meet is still undetermined, but it is expected that an international series will be played. The Rochester Indians who met Varsity last season operated almost intact at Burlington this year, playing in an intermediate loop. Should the hunting have proved profitable the Indians may choose to remain in Burlington and should be available for a series with the Blue team.

The best football layout we have seen this season can be witnessed with a minimum of effort by any person desirous of seeing what we consider a near perfect gridiron scene. The field is smooth and green, the posts are Blue and White, with ribbons on them, and blankets, probably for the purpose of wrapping up the casualties. The scene is in a local department store. One of the features of the layout is the presence of a Betty Co-ed or Aunt Sarah, probably doing goal post duty—or perhaps standing by to lend first aid to the heroes who fall in the battle.

One of the features of Saturday's game, apart from the way the Tigers stalked the unwary Argonauts, was the inauguration of the loud-speaker system. Red Foster kept the crowd wise as to who was doing the things which mattered all afternoon. This system has been in operation at London for some time but did not attain the degree of success which attended the first effort at the Varsity Stadium. The idea is certainly good. The number of people who know the players who are in action is relatively small and while it is nice to see someone make a long run it also helps if you are informed at the time who the runner happens to be. And no one can do this better than Red Foster. Incidentally Foster's stadium magazine for the first home game was one of the best we have seen.

For the next two weeks the terms "Crucial games" and "mathematical chance" will become part of a sports writer's vocabulary. Varsity will be in a crucial game with Queen's here Saturday while Argos will be playing a crucial game somewhere else. St. Mike's will play a crucial game with Sarnia. The rest of the teams for the most part will be playing in games of the mathematical chance variety. Beaches still have a mathematical chance, as have McGill. The following Saturday other teams will be playing crucial games and still others using mathematics to figure their way into the playoffs. And this goes on and on.

Looking over Saturday's results we are reminded of one day when we went to the races. In almost every case the horse which won had no chance whatever. There were more upsets Saturday than there were in the Grand National. Argos were to beat Tigers, Ottawa had no chance against Montreal, Queen's should default and so on.

Argos didn't, neither did Queen's, and Ottawa beat Montreal. And the clubs thereby made considerable of what it takes to run a club. Next Saturday should see the best crowds of the season, which should go a long way towards drying the tears shed for the lads who lost Saturday.

Queen's continue to attract attention in the football world. From Kingston comes the report that Marty Jones, who was pinch hitting for How Hamlin Saturday, suffered an injury in that game which would keep him out of the game here Saturday. Seven of Reeves fourteen man team went sixty minutes last week, but with thirteen left it looks as though they will all be runners up for an endurance record. However, reports have it that the five men who were thrown off the football team for being members of the fraternity are now being thrown out of the fraternity, probably for not being members of the football team. These lads must find it a cruel world. Anyway they may again play football which would give Reeve 17 men for the next game. After getting along with so few lately he may find that an unwieldy number. And down at McGill Shag Shaughnessy calmly predicts that Queen's and Varsity will tie for the honours and all he will have to do is beat both in turn and the title would be his. Why didn't someone think of that before?

TRINITY VICTORIOUS IN LACROSSE MATCH

Interfaculty lacrosse got away to a slashing start in Hart House lower gym yesterday afternoon when Trinity eked out a 9-8 win over Pharmacy. Trinity, last year's finalists, were very strong at first, playing like potential champs, but they faded badly towards the last. Pharmacy, on the other hand, got better as the play progressed and might have won if the game had been longer.

Allison of Trinity was the star of the game, scoring seven of the team's nine goals.

For Pharmacy, Armour, the playmaker of the team, looked good. Ellingham and Pronger also played well for Pharmacy.

Trinity: Martin, Millard, Dell, Allison, Grant; subs, Poord, Morgan. Pharmacy: Ford, Jackson, Armour, Ellingham, Pronger; subs, McIntyre, Pool.

NEW LOCATION CHOSEN FOR RUGBY TEA DANCE

The Gamma Phi Beta subscription dance next Saturday night will see the peaceful union of both Queen's and Varsity senior intercollegiate rugby teams, it was stated yesterday. Invitations to the dance have already been sent out to the rugby players, and it is expected that all will attend.

Dancing will be to the music of Nelson Hatch and his orchestra, only recently returned from a successful summer at Cleveland House, Muskoka, and will take place in the Crystal Ballroom of the Royal York Hotel. The location of the dance is a change from previous years, in that most subscription dances held by sororities have been held in the main dining room of the hotel. Officers of Gamma Phi Beta state that they have chosen the new location in the hope that those who attend, while they need not be students, will feel themselves in a more collegiate and friendly atmosphere.

LOUGHEED PLAYS WELL

(Special to "The Varsity")
Guelph, Oct. 23.—In a regular Mulock Cup game at Guelph on Monday afternoon U.C. was successful in defeating O.A.C. 9 to 8.

U.C. opened the scoring in the early stages of the game when Lougheed made a forty yard run for a touchdown. Campbell made a brilliant catch to complete a long forward pass for the convert. U.C. were unable to get into a scoring position again until the last quarter. O.A.C., only temporarily demoralized by the speed with which U.C. had opened the game, battled valiantly and by the end of the third period were leading 8 to 7.

The fourth period, by far the most exciting in the game, opened with U.C. determined to do or die and O.A.C. clinging tenaciously to their somewhat scanty lead. U.C., realizing the futility of trying to bore through the O.A.C. line, adopted Michigan State's pass, punt and prayer system, kicking on the second down and sometimes the first. Twice the long lofty punts of Lougheed for U.C. drove the O.A.C. backs far behind their line where the deadly tackling of the U.C. end held them for the necessary two points to win the game.

From other quarters it has been learned that the Governors of the University are anxious to obtain a man who, in addition to possessing the necessary qualifications, is young enough so that he will be able to hold the post for a considerable time.

It was pointed out that the Canadian candidates will be given every consideration, but it is asking too much for the Governors to confine themselves to Canada alone. All those who are eligible for the position have been carefully considered and their relative merits have been thought over by the committee.

standing alone at the conclusion of a number, midst the plaudits of an enthusiastic crowd, he not realizing his companions were seated and smiling at his apparent embarrassment. Scott Malcolm and Reginald Godden, the inseparable piano team, promptly got themselves lost in the crowd in an endeavour to locate the exit at the intermission, to the amusement of the congenial assembly.

The latter half of the programme proved to be the most popular due to the type of music performed. The well known Moonlight Sonata, though it underwent a complete change of environment and rhythmic character, was the beginning of the second group of numbers, which comprised numbers which, with the above exception, were all written by Liszt and Paganini-Liszt.

"The Fifteenth Rhapsody" proved to be a veritable apotheosis of rhythm and colour and was well suited to the programme.

Ending the programme with a Paganini-Liszt arrangement of La Campanella, the artists retired with the most appreciative applause that the arena has heard this summer.

Concluding with Schubert's Ballet music from "Rosamunde", ended a very entertaining programme, light in character for the most part to be sure, but well received.

Noticeable flaws in team work were less apparent in the last group of numbers than in the first group. The team are to be congratulated on the fine distribution of the parts among the respective artists. W.T.L.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Toronto—The St. Lawrence Waterway project received a crippling blow when Premier Hepburn announced that he would refuse legislation to ratify the scheme.

Rome—Lieutenant Francesco Agello of the Italian air force created a furore in aviation circles today by breaking the world's record for speed. An unofficial record of his speed credited him with attaining a speed of 437 m.p.h. over a measured course.

Ottawa—Information from the Department of Finance hints that the new Canadian currency will be in circulation early in 1935. The new Canadian dollar will be two-thirds the size of the present note and bills of larger denomination will be correspondingly reduced in size.

San Francisco—A third typhoon today swept the Pacific coast and endangered shipping and property. Two rescue ships were being sent to the aid of the tanker "Larry Doherty" which was battered and disabled by huge seas.

Allahabad, India—The flying Mollisons, who were forced out of the England-Australia air derby, announce their intention to return to England by easy stages when repairs to their plane are completed.

ANCESTOR OF ELEPHANT

The bones of a prehistoric monster, discovered by a farmer near the village of Cottam, Ontario, are probably those of a mammoth or a mastodon, early ancestors of the elephant, it is believed by officials in the Royal Ontario Museum.

"Remains from the Interglacial Period are frequently found throughout Ontario and Canada," stated Miss Fritz, of the Department of Palaeontology, "There is considerable difference in the types of teeth found, of course. It would be necessary to examine the specimen carefully to determine its nature."

ROSALIE PRESENTED AT VIC FRENCH CLUB

"The purpose of the French Club is to give the students an opportunity to speak French freely and to hear it spoken," said Miss Rees, honorary president, at the first meeting of the Victoria French Club held last evening at Wymilwood. She told the students not to be disturbed at mistakes, but to try to improve their diction by practice.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Miss Gladys Lachance. Miss Margaret Spence was elected first year representative, to look after the refreshments. Mr. John Rowantrac sang, and was encored.

"Rosalie", a comedy, was enthusiastically received by the audience. The cast consisted of Mr. Wallace Field, Miss Jean Fraser, and Miss Margaret Haygarth. After this, games were organized and provided a delightful mode of conversation.

Visitor's Day At Hart House

On Sunday next, 28th October, the centennial of the University of Toronto will be played from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on this particular occasion by a ruling of the Board of Stewards, members of the public will be permitted to enter Hart House between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. and inspect the building. Under ordinary circumstances entrance to Hart House is only possible for those introduced by members who are required to show their membership cards.

WOULD NOT AID DENTISTS

Dean Secombe of the Faculty of Dentistry at the University of Toronto was firmly against any movement for the socialization of Dentistry, when interviewed by The Varsity yesterday. Dean Secombe pointed out many defects in the system of socialization and himself put forward a strong argument against the idea.

"The whole point of modern medical and dental research," he said, "is to prevent ill-health." Under the present system of, as he put it, "rugged individualism," people take great care in their efforts to prevent ill-health. But given a system such as insurance or socialization in the medical and dental (Continued on Page 4)

H. L. Kohler was elected president by acclamation at the class elections of the junior year of Pharmacy held yesterday afternoon. Dean Heebner cancelled all afternoon lectures for the occasion. The elections were not marked by any excitement or fireworks and went off without a hitch. Most of the important offices were filled by acclamation. However, positions on the committee were more keenly contested. The following officers were also elected by acclamation: Hon. Pres, Dean Heebner; vice-pres, Grace Byers; secretary, Harold Metcalf.

In the contest for the office of treasurer Roy Courtney emerged victorious over Stanley Saas and Louis Grainer. Out of a field of ten running for positions on the committee, Art Beasley headed the polls, followed by Ed Foxton, Max Summer, Roy Cavanagh and Peter Smith.

Opinion Divided on Initiation Society to Settle Situation

"Initiations for engineers should not be abolished," stated "Nev" Potter, 377 S.P.S. president, head of this year's initiation committee. "We have taken great pains to eliminate rowdiness and they should remain for what they are—good clean fun." He was not prepared to say what this year's reception cost, but was sure it was worth it.

Hewson, first year vice-president, agreed that initiations were fun, but thought they could be made stiffer. He seemed rather disappointed at the good card he had received.

Don Ritchie, president of the Engineering Society, said such things were no longer necessary. "On account of tradition we still keep them up," he declared. "A green tie means a lot to Schoolmen, and most embryo engineers are proud to wear them. That, however, is no longer compulsory. The various societies in School do more to unite freshmen than do fears of violence." Schoolmen generally felt the need of some reception. Risk of injury is always present in even the mildest ceremony, and yet they felt, the element of mystery should be retained, if possible.

The whole question is to be discussed at the next meeting of the Engineering Society.

He scouted the idea of a man's mind becoming stagnant from attendance at the club meetings, and felt that the speakers should be regarded as professors who aim to clarify and solidify any opinions one might hold on the subject.

"Of course," Mr. Pivnick hastened to add, "one should attend the meetings of all the clubs in order to get all the points of view," and he also added that he had had great pleasure (Continued on Page 4)

A bit of Monte Carlo and a bit of the Ghetto, and an atmosphere of the great white way will feature the annual Hadassah Bazaar at the Varsity Arena tomorrow. There will be games and amusements, commercial exhibits and art displays, and, to finish off the day, dancing to the strains of a ten piece orchestra under the direction of Jack Evans. Admission to the Bazaar will be free to students between twelve noon and two o'clock. The Varsity was informed yesterday. Gefulte fish, potato latkes, cheese blintzes and other somewhat bizarre specialties will feature the luncheon menu, which will be composed entirely of distinctly Jewish foods.

Canadian Hadassah maintains a school for girls at Nahalal, where girls are trained in agricultural pursuits so that they may take their place on the land. This is all part of the movement which has helped more than 12,000 women to migrate to Palestine (Continued on Page 4)

KNOX INSTITUTES NOVEL INITIATION

"Intermezzo in Octaves" by Leschetizky, the "Moonlight Sonata", and the "Kashmiri Song" were some of the highlights of the freshman "initiation" at Knox last night. The savage sophs were soothed by the soft strains of sweet music (provided by the frosh), and so the old, rowdy initiation has passed away. Various talents were disclosed, as the programme passed through classical, semi-classical and imbecile stages. The concluding feature was the immortal Shakespeare, as edited by Perry Millar.

"The best initiation in years," was the comment of one senior student. Since the Knox College Board has banned the old type of initiation many students felt this to be an acceptable and successful substitute.

THE BEVERAGE-ROOM

The establishment of beverage-rooms in Ontario is one of the most flagrant breaches of political rights ever perpetrated in this province by any Government. It is no excuse that both political parties are responsible (the one by creation and the other by adoption); the significant fact is that the theory of democracy, referring all important issues to the expressed opinion of the electorate, was totally disregarded. The wishes of the people were never ascertained. Referendums on the question have been consistently refused. The greatest single vice of our modern age was foisted upon us by the whim of our representatives and we are forced to accommodate ourselves to the spectacle of encouraged human folly.

The Varsity feels compelled to take a definite stand against this political imposition because of its destructive influence on the younger members of our society. We require no statistics to prove the fact of increased liquor consumption among our own generation; it is too obvious. Men of more maturity and experience must be sufficiently familiar with the course of the liquor habit to appreciate the full significance of that fact for the coming years. The usefulness, decency, and sobriety of our youth, so essential for the stability of society, are being wantonly sacrificed. To what? Can it be that our government is sorely pressed for funds? Governments have been known to sacrifice the finest lives of their country in the time of war to support a patriotic cause; perhaps our modern politicians feel justified in sacrificing the finest qualities of our young men and women to the equally meritorious plan of balancing the budget. We can see no other reason for a liquor policy which must be protected from the tribunal of public opinion.

The beverage-room is merely the open-bar retouched to attract a larger group of people. The open-bar carried a stigma of indecency. The self-respecting members of the community seldom entered it. Only the lowest types of women frequented it at the risk of social ostracism. Now the best of our young men and women may meet in these specially arranged rooms, supervised by the government, without the slightest qualm of conscience. To-day it is not surprising to see an almost equal number of both sexes imbibing freely without any consideration for social approval. To us the thought is nauseating. We have never known a woman, nor a man for that matter, completely surrendered to the liquor habit, who retained a speck of modesty or self-respect. Our government must feel proud of a policy which is certain to destroy our standards of decency and to nullify the progress our people have so painfully achieved. The people of Ontario expressed their disapproval of the open-bars, in no uncertain manner, for this very reason; the camouflage of beverage-rooms is not likely to deceive them nor to change their attitude.

The Varsity realises the difficulties in dealing with the liquor problem. No policy will stamp out the curse of intoxication. Men are too closely related to the pig to feel satisfied until they have gorged themselves. "The sweet poison of misused wine" has been and will remain a major sociological problem. But the duty of governments is to safeguard the people, not to encourage them in their folly. It is the duty of our representatives to protect us against the outrages of the lower elements in our community, not to seek to bring us all to the same level and eradicate disgust by the destruction of distinctions. It is much easier to fall than to rise; human frailty is prone to give up the struggle for decency, especially when the government has not only expressed its approval but pointed the way.

The attitude of the Liberal administration towards the matter of a referendum is a surprising one. It can only suggest that they are afraid of it. But if they sincerely desire to meet the best interests of the people the obvious course is to find out what the people themselves consider to be their best interests. After all, our officials are selected by us to discover the will of the majority and to further it. It is scarcely proper, although perhaps more convenient, to disregard the steadily rising flood of resentment at this vital piece of legislation. We do not like to think that a man of such a progressive and humanitarian outlook, as our present premier, will continue to foster a policy which inevitably sacrifices youth to the demands for finances. Human

Enid Gray

Miss Enid Gray sang to a full auditorium at Hart House last evening. Miss Gray is among Toronto's select soprano singers and quite lived up to her audience's expectations.

Accompanied by Weldon Kilburn on the piano, Miss Gray opened her recital with a Mozart group. The number, "Mi tradi quell alma ingrata", an aria from "Don Giovanni", deserves special mention.

The second group was composed of songs by Schubert and Brahms. Besides fine musical interpretations of these songs, Miss Gray's diction was all that could be desired. Her tone was at times somewhat forced. The numbers, "Leid der Mignon", Schubert, and "O Liebliche Wanger", Brahms, were exceptionally well performed.

At this point of the programme the accompanist, Weldon Kilburn, played a Chopin group of two Ballads (Op. 38, Op. 47), and two Etudes. Mr. Kilburn could establish his ability as a pianist of major ability on his performance of the Op. 47 Ballade if on no others. This charming piece of piano literature covered technique, ability and musical interpretation as few numbers do, both were handled with fine musicianship. Mr. Kilburn's accompaniments deserve special mention; they were excellent.

Miss Gray's last two groups were in a modern vein. Songs by Claude Debussy, the French writer of over-tone fame, and the English writers, Quilter, and Warlock. Of these Debussy's, "Les Cloches", and Quilter's, "Fair House of Joy", were the most effective. Here again Miss Gray's command of language was superb.

Miss Gray, a former pupil of Mr. David Dick Slater, has undoubtedly proven herself a masterful musician of considerable taste though she is not a natural singer. In technique and dramatic effects Miss Gray is decidedly advanced, in natural and effortless tone production there is still something to be desired.

Let's Go Places

Mr. Jack Arthur of the Imperial is giving his personal guarantee of satisfaction or get your money at the box office to his presentation this week, "The Richest Girl in the World". Now sixty-five plus sixty-five makes a dollar thirty in any man's arithmetic, if he applies himself to the problem, and as The Varsity goes on a pass, it would be practically found money. And yet, in spite of the overwhelming odds, we walked out without trying to collect any refunds. We only paid amusement tax, and only a perjuror in the class of Ananias could claim that Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrae don't make the picture amusing.

Somebody had an idea which was, while not original, at least well worked out, in the plot, which concerns a poor little rich girl, deprived of love, who trades jobs with her secretary in order to find a man who loves her apart from her wealth. Joel McCrae was the man for the job, and he came through some strenuous tests in the competition between the riches of the supposed heiress and the S.A. of the fake secretary. Fay Wray, having finished her adventures with King Kong, has suddenly discovered that she is a fair sort of an actress, and plays the secretary very nicely. Reginald Denny, aroused faint symptoms of dyspepsia, as Fay's husband, but Mr. McCrae satisfied the audience with regard to the former by a short right cross to Reginald's eyebrows which sent us home happily to a good night's sleep. Mr. Denny was just waking up himself when we reached the exit. Talking of rights, Popeye displayed a rather good one in a sleepwalking episode. He did Mr. McCrae one better by waking his victim up, however. Entertainment Grade A. J.N.H.

values are too important to be used as counters in the game of balancing budgets. Yet there is no alternative conclusion at the moment. A provincial referendum would completely repudiate this legislation. The will of the majority is unalterably against the freer sale of liquor brazenly offered under the seal of governmental approval. Even the press is divided between the demands for repudiation of this policy or drastic qualification of its provisions; there are few papers willing to support it. We are opposed to it as part of the great army on whom the future depends.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

At the meeting of the Basketball Club on Thursday, October 18, several important rules concerning the procedure of the interfaculty play were decided upon. Any Household Science girls wishing to play basketball may play with Meds. Household Economics girls, however, may play with their own college.

This year's Spalding rules are to be used, with the reservation of the intercollegiate 2-3 floor space regulation. It is desired by the Basketball Club that all coaches give the new regulation concerning the throw-in instead of centre jump a fair trial, but it is not compulsory to use it. It is to be used in a game only if both teams are agreeable.

Anyone who was at the University last year knows that St. Hilda's won the interfaculty basketball championship—you could not forget the super-playing the Blue and Grey sextette exhibited in the final game when they caught up on the 5 point lead with which Victoria entered the game and came out of the fray victorious. It was a perfect climax for a wonderful basketball season.

And it looks as though the standard of the basketball we will be watching this year is going to be just as high. The Saints are crippled by the loss of Marg Rose and Al Butler, and they also miss Marg Lambie. But there is abundant new material and a much higher calibre of play on the part of last year's subs. With this addition to the very valuable remnant of the 1934-35 team, Jerry Wesley can certainly hope to turn out another title-snatching outfit.

Edie Ardagh and Mary Carre are playing beautiful basketball. Their work is of the same type which last year they exhibited in the finals. If it is that good after a mere three practices what will it be by the end of the season? Helen Burnham and Joyce Kirk should bolster up the forward line and Helen Eliot and Mary Dignan look like valuable defence players.

There is a change in the grouping this year so that St. Hilda's does not meet U.C. Freshies and St. Mike's as they have done in the past, but are matched with the U.C. junior team and Public Health. The St. Hilda's-St. Mike's game always used to be one of the best, but perhaps they will meet up in the final rounds this year.

Tomorrow we hope to have some advance word about the Vic team, some of whom played in the final game of last year's interfaculty series. And before the first game on November 1 we will have run similar previews of all the contesting teams.

Cadiz, Ohio—The flight into the stratosphere by Dr. Jean and Mrs. Picard was reported a success today. In spite of a rough landing the precious instruments were undamaged.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

We see by the paper that Cam Gray's little tootsies have hoofed him into first place in the intercollegiate scoring race. Cam has scored 18 points on behalf of his alma mater which must have gladdened the heart of his coach. This about brings his performance up to par as some of the points he failed to score must have been hard on the boss's blood pressure. Joe Joe Smith, the lad who hails from Sunny California, ranks second in the scoring list but first in the matter of making trouble for the opposition. Smith has a habit of breaking up games with drop kicks at critical moments. It is rumoured that Joe gets a commission from the heart specialists down in that country.

A lengthy convention which eventually led to the discussion of the basketball situation at a meeting of the basketball impresarios the other night resulted in the discovery that two new teams in Toronto were ready to enter clubs in the Big Four, Five or Six or whatever the league is called this season. All the teams who entered last year with the exception of Niagara Falls, have again signified their intention of returning. The Niagara entry is as yet indefinite. Two new Toronto clubs have entered. These are the Trojans and the West End Y. Varsity, St. Mike's, and Yolles are the other Toronto teams. It is expected that a meeting will be held later this week for the purpose of arranging a schedule. The series is expected to commence about November 17.

The Mulock Cuppers enjoyed a rest last night. The boys who battle for the glory of their faculty have been playing a somewhat inferior brand of football to date but they may be expected to produce something more impressive now that they have a couple of games behind them. The biggest upset to date has been the failure of Trinity, who, according to reports, had the cup wrapped up and were merely waiting the end of the season before delivering it. It is still early in the race and they may still be the team to beat before the title is settled. Certainly they are the best drilled team on the campus right now. Dents are another squad who will bear watching. The Dentists stopped Senior School recently and the Engineers are always tough to beat, in a football game or a fight.

Some of the local lads who fail to qualify for interfaculty lacrosse, or belong to faculties who are unable to field or finance a team are considering forming a club of their own for the purpose of playing outside teams of the neighbourhood. The idea is that they would meet such teams as Weston, Richmond Hill and other local teams. As they would be vitally interested it would of course be a good idea to see if the teams mentioned would like to be the opposition for the students. There are many men of more than ordinary ability who are unable to compete in the interfaculty series and would benefit materially should the arrangement go through.

Queen's are coming to town Saturday. And the intercollegiate football lead is at stake. That should be enough to pack the fans into the Bloor Street saucer two deep. The Tricolour cannot hope to be as lucky in Saturday's game as they were in the first meeting. However, Teddy Reeve's teams have a habit of making a fight of it no matter what the odds are against them. Varsity will be fighting for the win which will put them into a tie with the Limestone City crew. With both teams promising to make a fight of it, it may develop into a pink tea affair, but it probably won't. In fact it will probably produce a casualty list second only in magnitude to the wreck left by the Tigers in their battle. And the Tiger claws temporarily spoiled the Kleig light aspirations of more than a few of the Argos when they clashed here last week.

"What's the connection between music and the wheat market?" Mr. Blackstone was asked the other day. "It's a riddle to me."

"It's a sensible question. When the grain market is flourishing it's music to my ears," replied the manager of the quartet. "I am preparing for our Western Canada tour which follows our opening performance at Hart House Theatre on October 27th."

"Do you intend speculating in wheat when you get out West?" "Speculate? Not me!" the violin answered. "Every year the Hart House String Quartet makes a tour of Western Canada, and wheat prices give me a good idea of how far the people of the Prairie Provinces will be able to indulge their love for fine music."

Mr. Blackstone watches the financial pages as well as the music criticisms. In addition to being one of the world's outstanding violists, he also has the reputation of being an astute business man. To him are entrusted all the financial, advertising and travelling affairs of the Hart House Quartet. He is also manager of the Canadian Concert Association. Every year he plans the quartet's coast-to-coast tour, and so he watches business barometers throughout Canada closely. Consequently Mr. Blackstone has proven that artistic talent and business ability are not incompatible in one man.

FALL DANCE PROMISES TO BE MEMORABLE

Success Assured by Music of Jack Slatter and His Orchestra

On Friday night, October 26, downtown traffic will be demoralized as all University College converges on Front and York Streets; in the greatest hotel in the British Empire, up where the barometric pressure is an inch less, all University College will dance; Jack Slatter's peerless orchestra will discourse sweet and hot music. In short, the U.C. fall dance will be the best party since King's College was founded. Many strong men of U.C. and lovely women also will thrill throughout life to Slatter's remembered music. You delinquent or dilatory Mr. U.C. need not fail to do so. Very moderate is the price, befitting the fifth birthday of crisis; if otherwise you are in difficulty follow the reputed example of one very prominent U.C. man said to have resorted to the Date Burea. By consulting your Year Executive make Friday night memorable.

MEDICALS DEFEATED BY SENIOR SCHOOL

Shooting Erratic in Second Game of Interfaculty Lacrosse

PENALTIES NECESSARY

Senior School and Meds fought out a 5-5 score in the second game of the interfaculty lacrosse series in the Big Gym yesterday afternoon. Both teams showed signs of real form at times but their shooting was very erratic. School had the edge on the play but the superior speed and craft of the Meds kept them guessing.

Keys opened the scoring for Meds in the first period. School scored two quick goals in the second period and Meds one. The game became rather rough after half time and each team was able to bulge the twice once in the third quarter. In the last quarter Meds counted twice but School came back with two beautiful goals to end the scoring.

Starr in the Medical goal made some very brilliant stops. Keys, Graham and Kerr also played well. For School, Hamilton, Jacobs and Charters were the standouts. Three penalties were meted out for rough playing, two to Meds and one for the Schoolmen.

Meds: Goal, Starr; defence, Kerr, Graham; forwards, Keys, Boyd, Metzler, Lithgow, Rowland, Campbell. School: Goal, Martin; defence, Hamilton; forwards, Jacobs, Liley, Charters, Zuchanko.

ADAMSON LECTURES ON ARCHITECTURE

Second Lecture of Series Deals with Norman and Gothic Art

DISCUSSION HELD

Mr. Gordon Adamson, B.Arch., delivered the second in his series of Tuesday afternoon lectures on architecture at the Royal Ontario Museum yesterday at 5.15 p.m.

The Norman period was fully discussed and slides depicting the finest types of Norman and Gothic architecture were shown. "The Dark Ages," said Mr. Adamson, "were not so dark as many people think, not as far as architecture is concerned anyway."

"All great art arises from some practical need," said Mr. Adamson. "And so the Gothic architecture of Europe and England portrayed very clearly the changes in the politics and living conditions of the life of the time."

"The Norman period is marked by massive pillars and semi-circular arches and nothing that was not absolutely necessary structurally was used," he continued. Undergraduates will be pleased to know that the main door of University College is considered the finest example of Norman architecture in Canada. Also, the ceiling of the main hall in Hart House is an excellent example of the Hammer-beam roof.

At the conclusion of the lecture Mr. Adamson invited questions and a short discussion was held.

professions they would be less regardless of preventing ill-health for, said the Dean, why should they when they received their treatment for it free of extra charge and were reimbursed for their losses? Nor did the Dean believe that the professions themselves would benefit from the introduction of any such radicalism. "For," said he, "the standards of service must be inevitably lowered and the chances of pecuniary advancement abolished."

In direct contrast to the ideas of the Dean were those of Messrs. Weldon and Leckie, the representatives on the Faculty Council of the 5th and 4th years respectively. Said the latter, "The idea is impractical for there are not sufficient dentists. However, the introduction of such a system would certainly be of benefit to Public Health, for although individual service might not be improved, the use of dentistry and medicine, could be extended to include many people who, at the moment, are unable to enjoy that service." Neither Mr. Weldon nor Mr. Leckie thought that the introduction of socialization would in any way help the dentists themselves.

No complete skeleton of one of these prehistoric monsters has ever been found, although careful study of all available relics enables experts to build up models of their gigantic frames, similar to the fine specimen in the possession of the Museum.

No action has yet been taken, it was stated, to secure the Cottam relics before the first snows complicate their removal.

Royal Ontario Museum authorities are interested, however, and are seeking further information regarding the scientific value of the remains.

a matter of carelessness on the part of the students rather than of deliberate destruction, and we hope that this exhibit will teach them to be more careful of the books in the library."

Examining the books in question, The Varsity found that the most serious maltreatment was the cutting out of pages in a book of poems, one page being cut through the middle. Many were underlined, particularly books dealing with History and Economics, and there were several cases where words in the text were circled or where annotations and remarks were written in with pencil or ink. Sometimes the underlining was done with heavy red pencil, and the points made by the writer in the text were numbered by the student who used it.

VICTORIA MEN

Men desiring double tickets for the Hart House concert next Sunday evening, please sign the list on the men's notice board in the college hall. The tickets will be allotted and given out Thursday at 1.30 in the college hall.

CAMPERS' REUNION

All old Campers, or would-be Campers, are invited to a party in Wymilwood on Thursday, October 25 at 5.30 p.m. Sign list in Vic college hall for box lunch or bring your own. Residence students sign list in Annesley Hall.

U.C. PLAYERS' GUILD

On Wednesday at 4.15 Professor G. Wilson Knight will address the members informally with a resume of the theatrical situation here and in England. Mr. Knight is the honorary president of the Guild for this year and members and prospective members are urged to come out and meet him. Opportunity will be given those who desire to have auditions with a view to casting them in suitable parts in the near future.

An S.C.M. Hallowe'en luncheon will be held at the Women's Union, Tuesday, October 30 at 1 p.m. sharp. Mr. Larry MacKenzie will speak on social problems. This is a good chance for non-residence girls, especially freshies, to get acquainted.

land and Scotland, and compared the European railways with our Canadian systems. The famous cathedral towns of Canterbury, Peterborough, Durham, and York were described with historical backgrounds, and many details of minor importance but of considerable interest were recounted.

"There are a great number of things in Canada," said Dr. Russell, "to which I have become accustomed, but only two things which I have found unbearably impossible—corn on the cob and railway travel." The chief objections to our railways were the heat and noise, and he added that the Old Country had a great deal to teach Canada in this respect. However, dining car service here is greatly superior, as continental trains have retained the same menu "for thirty years". Dr. Russell terminated his remarks by commenting on Canada's youthfulness and the necessity of firmly rooting our hopes for the future in the traditions of the past.

in listening to Mr. J. Earl Lawson, M.P., at the last Macdonald-Carter Club meeting.

When Bruce Marshall, president of the Liberal Club was approached regarding his opinions about the letter, he replied: "Under certain circumstances the charges which were levelled at political clubs on the campus are true. If the rank and file of the students would consider the political world in an interested and critical frame of mind, there would be little need for such clubs. But this is not the general attitude which the students take, and so interest must be aroused through political clubs."

Tom Keenan, also of the Liberal Club, remarked: "As far as I am concerned, I do not think that there is enough interest shown in politics on the campus. Getting together for discussion is to my mind, the only way to develop an intelligent point of view towards political affairs." He thought that political clubs sponsor a healthy interest in politics rather than a mere narrow party spirit.

It is to further this work that the Canadian Hadassah is holding tomorrow's Bazaar.

If the request is granted in time, it is highly probable that Hamlin, Glass, Earle and Dafeo, the four members suspended from the senior football team, will play in the game with Varsity on Saturday. Queen's are leading the intercollegiate rugby field at the present time.

LOSSES DEPLORED BY W. S. WALLACE

However, Drastic Measures May Not Be Found Necessary

STUOENTS CARELESS

"I'm afraid that the situation hasn't shown any improvement," said Mr. W. S. Wallace, the librarian of the University Library, in an interview with The Varsity yesterday, regarding the loss of books from the library during the past year. "A complete report of the losses has not yet reached me, but according to the information I have at present, there have been rather severe losses in some departments. This is mostly due to the fact that students often take books from the stack room, and forget to sign for them. The only way to prevent these losses is to prohibit students from entering the stack room, but I don't think that we will have to resort to that measure yet because our losses have been small compared to the losses at other universities."

The University library contains at present some 330,000 volumes, and exclusive of books which are donated to the library, or received in exchange for books sent to other libraries, the only means of increase lies in the purchase of books suggested by members of the teaching staff.

Mr. Wallace stated that some books ultimately find their way back after a considerable length of time, and some are returned to other libraries, but in the latter case, the books are not returned until stock is taken at the end of the year.

In the interests of sport, all Victoria College students will rise in opposition to the proposal of the Hepburn Government to limit the velocity of vehicles in Queen's Park to 10 miles per hour. For years it has been unnecessary to drill the Vic Mulock Cup contenders in the gentle arts of interference, broken field running, and quarterback sneaks, simply because of the excellent practice obtained in going to lectures at University College across the tortuous thoroughfare. One of the Board of Ed. trustees claimed that traffic up University Avenue, the Park and Ave. Rd. only endangered the lives of the pupils of one school, namely Brown, at the top of the hill. This is manifestly unfair. But apart from the discrimination, the total disregard of the fact that, owing to the old rule about the survival of the fittest, the wolves are the best friends of the deer, shows a lack of interest in the future vitality and resourcefulness of our people.

Government Control of Liquor Manufacture Looked Forward to by Sir Robert Falconer Mitchell Supports Plea for Referendum

Less Temptation Should Be Given To Modern Youth

Sir Robert Falconer Regrets Connection of Issue with Politics

BELIEFS—NOT OIC TATES

"I am looking forward to the day, and I hope the time will come when the government will not only control the distribution of alcoholic beverages but also the manufacture of them," Sir Robert Falconer told The Varsity when he was asked his opinion of the editorial regarding beverage rooms which appeared yesterday.

Sir Robert was of the belief that no more temptation than necessary should be offered, especially to the young. They are undergoing a period when many of their habits are being formed and too many young people do things merely because they see others, and then imitate them.

"I have been a total abstainer all

Freer Sale of Beverages is Bound to Affect Students

OIXON SUPPORTS IOEA

"The beverage rooms as they now exist have become a menace, and for University students to take the stand of that editorial should be a very desirable influence in bringing a check to bear on such an influence," said Rev. Leonard A. Dixon, Chaplain of Hart House, in reference to yesterday's editorial in The Varsity. "It impressed me as being a statement that would meet with the approval of a very large portion of the student body."

Continuing, he said, "It stands to reason that the freer sale of alcoholic beverages is bound to affect the University students." Rev. Dixon identified the beverage room with the old "pub" and emphasized that their adoption was decidedly retrogressive. In conclusion he drew attention to the fact that a

WEDGE FOR BAR

"The beverage room appears to me to be the thin wedge of the returning bar-room," F. Gordon Osler, of the Board of Governors, told The Varsity. "It would be a great pity to have them back."

The beverage room he feels does not supply any need that was not supplied by the control system other than that of the people who have had their permits cancelled or who are underage.

"The system of liquor control was quite adequate as it was," he continued, adding that these are just his own personal opinions and must not be regarded as an official stand.

Dr. Francis W. Merchant, chief adviser to the Minister of the Department of Education, declined to make any comment on the editorial, "The Beverage-Rooms", appearing in yesterday's Varsity. Mr. Merchant stated that as a matter of policy he has not given, nor will he give, any interviews to newspapers.

Colonel A. E. Gooderham accepted a copy of the paper, but would make no comment as yet. He intimated that there was a possibility of his doing so at a later date.

Commenting on yesterday's editorial regarding "Beverage Rooms", Chancellor Wallace of Victoria College said,

MASTHEAO MEETING

There will be an important meeting of all members of the Masthead of The Varsity in the Women's Office at five o'clock tomorrow (Friday).

HEAD OF FOUNDATION TO SPEAK HERE TODAY

Dr. H. B. Speakman, director of the Ontario Research Foundation, will be the speaker at the opening meeting of the Toronto Chemical Association this afternoon in the large lecture room of the Chemistry Building.

The speaker will be introduced by Dr. J. G. Fitzgerald, Director of the Connaught Laboratories, and Sir Joseph Flavelle will take part in the discussion following the address. All students who are interested in chemistry or scientific research are invited to attend this lecture. Dr. Speakman is very closely in touch with industrial research, and his address promises to have much that is interesting to many students of the University.

Narrow Majority of Eight Defeats Resolution Last Night

CALLEO VALUELESS

The motion, "Liberalism though it speaketh, is dead", was defeated at the Hart House debate last night. The question for debate was moved by Mr. N. M. Pivnick of University College and opposed by Mr. A. D. B. Marshall also of University College, and went down to a small defeat of eighty-four to seventy-six votes. The third and fourth speakers were Mr. J. L. Jeffries of Trinity and Mr. J. R. Okell of Victoria College.

"Liberalism", was defined as the policies and legislation, both past and present, of the provincial and federal governments of the Liberal party in Canada, while the term "dead", was explained by Mr. Jeffries as "absolutely valueless to cope with present day conditions in Canada."

"Liberalism is rapidly becoming fossilized and being ground between the two millstones of plutocratic imperialism."

ALL PERFECTLY SATISFIED

Tradition, lack of interest in religion, comfortable residences and "that cosmopolitan atmosphere", are among the allures that attract students to University College, the "undenominational" college, according to a number of those questioned by The Varsity yesterday.

Many students attend because their sisters or brothers attended. With vain enthusiasm The Varsity phoned a sister only to find that the parents had also attended and trying to mix reasoning with tradition was abandoned.

The religious opinions were varied but frank. Some without definite beliefs refused to discuss the matter because, as one character put it, of "the Liquor Question and Public Opinion Compared with

ABNORMAL SWING

"I think the proposal to have a referendum on the beverage room question, before the movement gets too far along, would be very useful," stated C. H. Mitchell, Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering.

In England and France there has been comparatively little talk and no attempts at government prohibition, the question of drinking has not been given any undue consideration. In Canada, the situation has been too much emphasized. Dean Mitchell pointed to a 200 year old clock hanging on the wall of his office, and offered the following analogy:

"In a well regulated clock, the pendulum swings back and forth regularly, as it is expected to do. If the

The first requisite of a public speaker is a complete lack of self-consciousness. This was stressed by Miss M. Trotter, Principal of Moulton College, in her address to the Women's Debating Union.

Miss Trotter went on to say that public speaking is not an art to be taken for itself, but is most important as a means of expressing one's ideas. Every college girl should have sufficient training in her course to be able to do this.

GALA EVENING PLANNED FOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS

The Crystal Ballroom of the Royal York Hotel will be the scene of one of the delightful after-the-game social events, Saturday evening, when the Gamma Phi Beta sorority will hold its annual subscription dance. Whatever the results of the game may be, all hard feeling will disappear as rugby players and students from Queen's and Varsity dance to the music of Nelson Hatch's orchestra.

The action of the sorority in holding their dance separate from the hotel supper dance, which has been the usual custom for such affairs in former years has been taken in order to assure a collegiate atmosphere for the function. Invitations have been extended to members of both the Queen's and Varsity teams to attend, and it is expected that they will be present, to make the occasion a particularly gala one for football fans.

SUNOAY CONCERT

Eighty single tickets, which will admit men students only for the Sunday Evening Concert to be held in the Great Hall on Sunday next 28th October, will be issued at the Hall Porter's desk at 1 p.m. today.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

The Maple Leaf team of pedal pushers went into the lead in the six-day bicycle race at Maple Leaf Gardens last night. They had accumulated 603 points while their nearest competitors held 558. A first fight, terminating in a fine, enlivened proceedings.

The Stevens Commission states that mass merchandising is again to be extensively probed. Public hearings of the Commission will commence on Tuesday.

President Roosevelt has asked the United States bankers to renew their confidence in the people. This, he considers only fair, since the people have, some time ago, renewed their confidence in the banks.

The Union Pacific record-breaking, streamlined train attained a top speed of 120 m.p.h. in the first lap of its trip from Los Angeles to New York. It is expected that the run from coast to coast, on its scheduled speed of 57 hours, will be easily effected.

Legal action to recover $100,000 in stock-transfer taxes is being considered by the Hepburn government. An election eve ruling by the ex-premier deprived the province of the money, Mr. Hepburn declares.

No action has been taken regarding the reinstatement of the four players suspended from Queen's football team, officials of the Alma Mater Society declare.

GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBILITY

The uncompromising opposition towards the beverage-rooms evinced by most of the men interviewed in today's issue is a striking vindication of The Varsity's campaign, and a vivid illustration of the trend of public opinion. None of these public men expressed sympathy with the present governmental policy. Those who gave no public statement feared to take sides in a political issue but gave definite indication of their private sympathy with any movement devoted to the eradication of such a glaring social evil. The general sentiment seems to be summed up in the terse statement of Rev. L. A. Dixon. "The beverage-rooms as they exist now have become a menace, and for University students to take the stand of that editorial should be a very desirable influence in bringing a check to bear on such a nuisance".

The Varsity cannot conceive public-spirited men, familiar with conditions, adopting any other attitude. The beverage-room is a social cancer, a malignant condition destined to undermine our entire scale of ethical and social values. Its influence is discernible, even at this early stage, among our young people. The standards of decency are flouted; the appeal of older people is disregarded; the demands of self-respect are unheeded. Young men and women conduct themselves in public places without any thought of social decorum and with a degree of immodesty inconceivable under saner conditions. There is nothing more deplorable than the wholesale destruction of the finer instincts wrought by the influence of the beverage-room.

The introduction of this evil is all the more obnoxious since it can serve no useful purpose. Those who desired to drink were adequately supplied under the system of Government Control. The beverage-room attracts those who would not otherwise have formed the liquor habit. The open sale of beer, without the necessity of a permit, has placed a temptation in the way of hundreds of young men and women who would otherwise have remained untainted by its corrupting influence. This condition removes the problem from the realm of party politics; it has now become a moral and social issue.

The rising flood of resentment against the sale of liquor is essentially non-partisan. Both political groups have endorsed the new legislation and are equally culpable. Nevertheless, any government is responsible for the policies which it sponsors. The Liberal Party, as the government in power, cannot escape censure for its administration of the act, and its persistent refusal to be influenced by the protests of an outraged public.

It is unquestionably in the best interests of the Liberal Party itself, purely from the standpoint of political stratagem, to submit the question to the people. Thus they could determine the attitude of the electorate and be relieved of all responsibility in the matter. As it is, all their progressive legislation will be overshadowed in the minds of the voters by the hideous spectacle of corrupted youth. We must remind the government that this law was not an issue in the election which placed them in power and that the people have had no official opportunity of declaring their will. It remains, however, an integral part of our democratic system to refer such vital questions to a ballot. If the Liberals persist in ignoring this primary right of the people of our province, they will antagonize a large and growing body of voters who will feel compelled to place loyalty to a principle before loyalty to a party.

ANTI-WAR SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Anti-War Society will be held in the Women's Union tonight at 8 o'clock. An initiative committee has drawn up a programme to serve as the basis for this year's activity and this programme will be discussed at the meeting.

"It is absolutely necessary that we organize a strong anti-war movement on the campus to awaken all students to the immediate menace of war, and to expose the part played by Fascism in fomenting war," was the statement of Mr. A. Stein, a member of the initiative committee.

If editors could get credit for the things they refrain from saying, most of us would be famous.—Leavenworth Times.

Art, Music and Drama

Toronto Symphony

For the children of Toronto, all roads led to Massey Hall Tuesday afternoon, when the Toronto Symphony Concert Orchestra presented the first in the series of Young People's Concerts. Dona Wheeler, 14 year old American prodigy, was the artist of the afternoon, playing two movements from a piano concert of Haydn. Miss Tedd prefaced the numbers performed with suitable explanatory notes, and Dr. MacMillan enthusiastically conducted his orchestra for the attentive audience of youngsters.

The value of such concerts as these will be apparent in the future when a new generation of young people, larger in number and more deeply appreciative, take the places of their elders, at future symphony concerts. The Young People's Concerts are open to the public at a very low admission charge and they are well worth attending. J.B.S.

Eaton Auditorium

Since there is not a single ticket left for the first Eaton Auditorium concert, Thursday evening, October 25th, it may seem superfluous to mention the concert in a preview. The famous Metropolitan Quartet, the members of which are Grace Moore, Edward Johnson, Bonelli, Bampton, is the ensemble of the evening. If the performance is as fine as the public enthusiasm is high, we may look forward to an enjoyable evening.

Queen's Park Plaza, Toronto's Empty State Building, is to be sold. The largest tract of uninhabited land left in Canada, the gaunt and gaudy pile of yellow brick at the corner of Avenue Rd. and Bloor may now become the swanky apartment hotel that it was intended to be.

Living in it would be pleasant. You wouldn't have to look at it.

The new fashion magazine, The Canadian Stylist, devotes a page to "The Most Popular Co-ed at Varsity", which should settle that once and for all. The rest of you girls will just have to concentrate on your school work!

Mr. Mitchell F. ("Firechief") Hepburn doesn't like being stared at in his car. An even dozen, the Premier finds, attracts the public gaze, so he had his license plate, "12", replaced. In passing, we might suggest that he present it to one who last year complained of being "a lonely figure on the campus". He could do with a little publicity.

To insure his complete obscurity, Mr. Hepburn now has a license which begins with the letters "N.B." We'll be on the watch for Mr. Roebuck haunting a "P.S."

Among other bright ideas that didn't click must now be listed the red "Feather in Your Hat" gag. Maybe Toronto people are too modest to thus boast to the world of their benevolences for although the Federation credit list grows longer the scarlet plumes are few upon the autumn landscape. We know to whom the unused ones should go, however, the Star's staff of photographers and male sob sisters who as a result of the current charity campaign are now given no respite between their children-taunting activities for the Fresh Air Fund in the summer and the Santa Claus Fund in the winter. They have to go hunting haunted faces the whole horrible year through.

Mr. J. V. McAree of the Toronto Mail and Empire, has been feeling a justifiable glow of pride with the appearance of his new book. Our own soul throbs in sympathetic tremulo, for after two more like this, we too will have published our Fourth Column.

—The Muddy Yorker.

SOCIAL STUDY GROUP FORMED BY U.C. MEN

A new social study group, connected with the Student Christian Movement, was formed last Friday evening of University College men to study both social philosophy and actual conditions in Toronto.

The group will have, as one side of its activities, such social studies as are exemplified in the Couchiching Conference held this summer, and the recent Report on Social Conditions of the United Church of Canada. Professor E. J. Urwick, of the Department of Social Science, is expected to address the group in the near future.

The practical work of the group will include the gathering of information of interest from hostels in the city, and assistance at the University Settlement on Saturday evenings.

Anyone interested is asked to communicate with Jim Romeyn, 83 Spadina Rd., M1. 0939.

PLAN TO WIDEN QUEEN'S PARK DRIVE

Anyone who has been walking between Bloor Street and Queen's Park with his eyes open will have noticed the state of upheaval on the east side of the street. The cause is not as some people have thought that our fair city is getting ready for the next war nor that the C.O.T.C. is preparing for field manoeuvres.

The real reason is this. The administration has at last decided that the roadway at this point is too narrow and hence they are going to put down a 54 foot pavement. The increase in the surface of the road will mean that in rainy weather there will be more water to go down the drains and so they will need to be larger. All this work is to be done by the unemployed and so will help more unfortunate citizens.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Graduation last year certainly hit the Vic Senior basketball team very heavily. Only one member of the team which last year worked its way through to the finals is out practising this year. This is Betty Bernhardt, and she did not play in the big games against St. Hilda's, Bea Longley, Mabel Curristan, Pat Palmer, Jo Harley, and Jean Fenton all received their "bunny-furs" last June and the Vic team without them will be a very different outfit. Unless something quite unforeseen happens the Scarlet and Gold team will not reach the last lap this season—a situation which has not occurred in several years.

There is nothing particularly startling among the new material which has turned out this year. The junior team promises to be fairly good. It is, of course, comprised chiefly of freshies. One or two of the 3T8 girls who have put in an appearance are distinctly better than the usual freshie player which is decidedly encouraging—at least for future teams if not for this year. Bea Longley is trying to get hold of Kitty McKenzie to coach the second Vic team but this appointment is not definite as yet. We can only hope that Vic is being overly pessimistic and that the teams which take the floor when the season opens will not be as far below their usual level as they fear.

The baseball games are to be started on Monday, November 12. The practice schedule has been drawn up but there is still a delay until Meds turn in their exact practice hours. There are to be home and home games between Vic, St. Mike's, and the medley team made up of players recruited from Meds, U.C. and S.P.S. The two winning teams will play the best two out of three games for the championship.

The whole series is to be completed by the last week in November. Vic won the title last year. They had decidedly the best team entered, and it looks as though they will be the victors again this season.

Due to an oversight somewhere the times of the basketball game were omitted from the complete schedule which we submitted for publication in Tuesday's Varsity. The correct schedule is being run in today's issue so make a special note of the hours, for as you can see it is very vital especially since on some days more than one game is called.

Jr. Basketball Manager—
Applications for the position of manager of the Varsity junior basketball team should all be in the athletic office at Hart House by Friday, October 26.

JUNIOR U.C. WINS VOLLEYBALL TILT

Junior U.C. defeated Junior Vic by 15-5 and 18-16 in a regular interfaculty volleyball game in Hart House upper gym yesterday afternoon. It was quite evidently the first game of the season for both teams, as good plays were few and errors plentiful.

U.C. won on their steady play, taking advantage of the errors made by Victoria, who showed flashes of good volleyball, but were inconsistent.

Zaldin of U.C. and Fallis of Victoria did some good serving. Hamilton of Victoria was the only one who displayed much ability in spiking.

Jr. U.C.: Savlov, Grand, Applebaum, Zaldin, Keimer, Kaplansky; subs, Beatty, Gardstein.

Jr. Vic: Hamilton, Cronin, Welch, Thompson, Fallis, Hilliard; subs, Marlette, McDonald, Lang, Swanzig.

Referee: Crockower.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By W. A. Crockower

Warren Stevens and Bill Storck have apparently agreed to call a truce for the regular mid-weekly scrimmage was not held yesterday. Or perhaps they're quite prepared to agree with Lev Hayman that heavy work is dangerous. At any rate there was no scrimmage and as a result there will be no walling that the Varsity line looked weak or that St. Mike's weren't impressive against the Blues. Those mid-weekly practices did help both teams a great deal and will no doubt be resumed next week.

It seems to be the general rule for experts to call the games which are scheduled for the following Saturday. However, not being an expert we're not going to call any teams. However, we'd like to make a few illuminating (?) remarks. So here goes.

Don't be surprised if the Varsity-Queen's game starts in right where the Hamilton-Argo game left off as far as rough work along the line is concerned. The game is not going to be a pink-tea affair. Rumour has it that all is not well at the centre of the line. At any rate this seems to be the centre of the trouble. It seems that a certain lad, Kostuk by name, thinks that life is just one fistful after another with a couple of rabbit punches thrown in for good measure. The Blue insides and snaps have not taken kindly to this treatment and we'll be watching the centre of the line with interest on Saturday. Mention of Kostuk's name brings nothing but vague looks and tightening of lips. Although we don't wish to cast any blame on Reeve, it nevertheless is evident that every one of the football squads he has coached has been noted for rough tactics. The present Queen's team is no exception.

About this Saturday's game, Warren Stevens firmly believes that the Blues will win. So do we. That should make it unanimous but Reeve's squad may have something to say before the final whistle. The Tricolour squad is strictly defensive in style of play, a team which got the breaks last week due to errors and fumbles on the part of the Blues. With that game out of their systems the Blues will settle down to their normal pace and should walk off the field with an easy victory. One thing is certain. Stevens plans to use a strong offensive and if the Queen's defence cracks just a little the Blue and White score will mount. If Reeve's men are called upon to perform the "iron-man stunt" this Saturday there will be plenty of wide vents in the Tricolour armour by the third period. Stevens had the squad working hard at forwards yesterday and if Coulter and Upper can pull off some nice gains in this manner it will break the Reeve-men's stonewall defence. Incidentally Cam Gray was kicking placements for a solid hour yesterday so that he should be all set for Saturday.

Varsity football fans are going to see one of the smartest secondary defencemen in action this Saturday. His name is Harry Sunshine and he tackles anything, anywhere, anyhow. Sunshine is of the Art Snyder type of flying wing—reckless, fearless and hard to pass. Watch this lad go on Saturday. He'll be performing for a home town crowd and will consequently be doing his best—which is very, very good.

As a curtain raiser to the Varsity-Queen's game the Blue English rugby squad will meet a Tricolour squad and if they can register a victory the title is theirs for still another year. The Queen's squad is reputed to be a real tough team. Last year, down in Kingston, the ambulance was sent on the field to carry two Blue stalwarts off after the first two plays. No sissy's game this.

Saturday morning the Blue and White soccer squad will play host to the R.M.C. aggregation. The Blues met a 1-0 reverse down in Kingston last Saturday and it looks as though the soccer title will be moved from Toronto to Montreal this year.

Now that the athletic wing at Hart House is beginning to hum with activity Mac McCutcheon has some interesting tidings for cage fans. As reported yesterday the Big Five will this year be the Big Seven or Eight, depending upon whether Niagara Falls will have an entry. The squads will include Varsity, St. Michael's, Yoles, St. Catharines, McMaster, Trojans and West End Y. The latter two are new entries from Toronto. All games are to count in the league standing. In addition the two Toronto squads finishing highest in the league standing will play off to represent Toronto in the provincial basketball playoffs.

The Trojan squad is composed of last year's Metropolitan Church squad, plus Orin Hanna, last year with Yoles, and Watson, Gillespie and Murphy, former West End Y men. Yank Shanahan will do the coaching.

The St. Michael's squad promises to be a good deal stronger this year. Norm Himes has been lost but a great deal of new material has arrived.

Of last year's senior Blue squad Gold, Gordon, Levy, Bodrug, Caplan, Doc Mitchell and Normie Newman will be back. Vanderleek, Ronson, Harry Newman, M.R. C. Mitchell, Magwood and Gibson of the intermediates and Toole, Staughton, Krakauer, Kinsey and Harlock of the juniors have all returned to school and are ready to start practicing. Among the new men Joe Mancell of Assumption College, McGregor of Walkerville, Monson of Bloor Collegiate and Denne of Pickering College will bolster one or other of the squads.

The freshmen have been working out for more than a week now. Tomorrow, however, they will be temporarily relegated to the sidelines and their senior and intermediate brethren will take the floor.

The intermediate tennis squad will leave for London today to try and take the title from Western. The team will be composed of Captain Rae, Campbell, Young Shullis and Kelly. Campbell is the lad who had to down everyone on the team before he made a place simply because of the existence of some rule which says that one must be defeated by a semi-finalist in the interfaculty tournament before being given a place on the Second squad. Campbell is the best man in the Blue and White brigade and might have been kept off the team had not better judgment prevailed. The rule should be withdrawn.

By the way, there is to be another track meet around here on Friday afternoon. (We were beginning to yawn at the mere mention of this—it must be these late hours). Teams from Varsity, McMaster and O.A.C. will attempt to wrest the Hon. Hugh Guthrie Cup, emblematic of intercollegiate intermediate track supremacy from McMaster. The latter are strong favourites to re-gain. At this time we would like to mention the fine work of Coach Hec Phillips, who has devoted his attention to turning out Blue track squads this year. Coach Phillips is deserving of praise for the conscientious manner in which he has been looking after his task and for his sake we hope the Blues spring an upset Friday and thus take at least one track meet.

DENTS VICTORIOUS SHUT OUT SR. MEDS

Administer Crushing Defeat to Luckless Medicals
Final Count 10-0

SPEARS SENSATIONAL

Dents and Senior Meds clashed in a torrid tilt on the back campus yesterday afternoon with Dents applying the kalsomine brush to the unfortunate Medicals to the tune of 10-0. The game was exciting throughout, despite the lopsided count, and numerous minor casualties were recorded before the final whistle was sounded.

During the first half play was largely confined to Meds' end due to Rollaston's pretty hoofing. The initial score occurred in the first quarter, Dore making a nice run around the end to make it 5-0 for Dents, who failed to convert when the kick was wide. From this stage on, play alternated from one end of the field to the other. The Medicals had a grand opportunity for a touch during the second quarter but were brought to a standstill on Dents' 5 yard line by the Dentists' heily line, which performed yeoman service throughout.

Meds put on a spirited rally in the final quarter but two fumbles in rapid succession ruined their hopes of a score. On the second error Spears Continued on Page 4)

BRILLIANT SOCCER SHOWN IN GAMES

Pharmacy Tie Dents While University College Takes
3-2 Decision

GOOO PLAYING ALL ROUND

Two well played soccer games were reeled off yesterday afternoon on the front campus. The Pharmacy squad made their debut and were somewhat lucky to get a 1-1 tie with Dents. In the other field U.C. eked out a 3-2 decision over the Meds eleven.

The Pharmacy-Dent struggle was a battle all the way. The former opened the scoring on a neat combination drive by Sully, Ballantyne and Ponger, with the latter scoring. Right away the Dents started to attack; they had one goal called back and then Landin missed the open goal a few yards in front of him when he shot wide. However, he made up for this when he scored the tying point on a penalty kick. The defensive work of Harold Mason deserves special mention for he broke Continued on Page 4)

INTERMEDIATE TRACK MEET TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY

McMaster Strong Favourites;
Quarter and Half Mile
Stand Out

Varsity will be the host for the intermediate intercollegiate track meet which is being held on Friday at the Stadium at 2:15 p.m. McMaster are entering the meet as strong favourites most of the track enthusiasts are backing the Toronto entry to finish in the place position. The outstanding performances should be given by Apps in the pole vault and Schaeffer in the 220, quarter and half mile. Your student ticket or one quarter of a dollar will admit you to the stadium.

The Varsity team:
Sprints: Hawker, Harris, Smith.
Quarter Mile: Hawker, Bruce and Smith.
Half Mile: Rodzig.
Mile: Rodzig, Heather, Thompson.
Three Miles: Kibblewhite, Burton, Thompson.

According to tests made by Dr. N. W. Marston, at Radcliffe College and Columbia University, all men prefer a million dollars to a perfect love affair, while 92 per cent of the girls prefer the latter. This may be the reason for the surplus of men at date bureaux, though we can't just connect up the million dollars.—The Observer.

SIR ROBERT FALCONER DISCUSSES ISSUE

my life," he continued, "but I do not wish to inflict my views on others. Persuasion is more successful than force in the long run."

Sir Robert stated that in his own term as president of the University there had been very few instances of drunkenness brought to his attention. As to the situation at the present he did not feel that he was qualified to give an opinion.

Sir Robert thought that the question of beverage rooms had become associated with politics to too great a degree. For this reason he was not inclined to state an opinion on the subject.

"My beliefs," he declared, "are what I think right, not what any party dictates. I do not want to force them on anyone."

DEAN MITCHELL BELIEVES A REFERENDUM USEFUL

pendulum is given a violent push, it swings far out of its course, perhaps bumping against other parts of the clock (brushing against public opinion, Dean Mitchell suggested). But soon the swing dies down to its usual course and the clock once more is under normal regulation.

"So in Canada, the sudden transference from prohibition to government control, and then again to public dispensation may be an abnormal swing of the pendulum, which in a short time would resume its usual norm."

Returning to the referendum, Dean Mitchell felt that although it would be useful to get the opinion of the people, it might be difficult for the province as a whole to have a referendum. "Is there a provision in the Ontario Act whereby local referenda might be taken?" Dean Mitchell wondered. He was not certain, but considered the question well worth further investigation by the editorial staff of The Varsity.

Concerning the beverage room question, the women heads of colleges were chary of committing themselves to any definite stand. Miss Cartwright, Dean of Women of St. Hilda's College, approves of a referendum as a possible solution.

DIXON STANDS FIRMLY AGAINST FREER SALE

great number of people who voted for Hepburn are alarmed and disgusted with the present state of affairs.

"I rather think it is not a question involving the University at all," stated W. J. Dunlop, head of the Department of Extension, in regard to The Varsity's demand for a referendum on the current liquor question. "University officials do not deal with questions of politics."

"Do you think that this issue should be a matter of party politics?" the reporter asked.

"It is just a matter of whether such a decision should be left to the elected representatives of the people, or whether the people should be asked to decide it for themselves."

"A war doesn't settle anything, a labour strike doesn't settle anything, and I doubt whether a referendum settles anything," stated Mr. Dunlop in conclusion.

Dr. R. Davidson, principal of Emmanuel College, refused to make any statement, as he felt that it was beyond his sphere to comment.

ADDRESS PLAYERS' GUILD

feeling which 'Journey's End' portrays, are paralleled in some of Eugene O'Neill's plays."

Pagant plays were criticized for the use of masks because "it kills the essence of modern drama. We might as well read the play at home, as see it without gestures and facial expressions." The advantage of outdoor theatres consists in prohibiting the use of overmuch lighting effect. Modern presentations of Shakespearean drama have "gone wrong because visual rather than audible effects are brought about by an elaborate setting."

Mr. Wilson Knight praised the work being done by schools and universities in encouraging drama. An interesting production of "King Lear" was given on a tiered stage. He also claimed that to be laughed at while acting is not a sign for discouragement for did not Shakespeare himself draw very little distinction between "the lover, the genius and the fool?"

"It seems to me that it is developing into a serious situation. I wish it were possible for people to express their opinion in the matter entirely aside from politics." He expressed himself entirely in agreement with the policy adopted by The Varsity. He summed up his opinion of the effect of alcohol on University students and the younger generation in general by saying, "On the whole the use of alcohol is not conducive to highest efficiency."

With reference to the cloak of respectability given to mixed drinking in public, which the present government affords, Chancellor Wallace said, "I am inclined to think that the young men and women that I know are fully awake to the dangers involved, although there is always the danger that a change in opinion may follow the open use of alcoholic beverages."

ism and social democracy." Mr. Pivnick stated. Mr. Marshall, however, considered Liberalism to be very much alive, declaring emphatically that "as long as there is need for social reform there will be need for Liberalism." "Liberalism is a living, pulsing force; it does not bow down to old customs and institutions just because they are old, or centre its thoughts on new unborn things as the Conservatives and Socialists do," stated Mr. Okell.

Eighteen speakers followed, some accusing the Liberal government of having no policy; one stating that the Liberal party was perched on a fence waiting for the wind of public opinion to blow it one way or the other and waiting to bring to light mistakes of the Conservative government. Mr. Hepburn's policies were in turn severely criticized and praised with Mr. Ben-snared the pigskin and tossed it to Dore who promptly galloped 40 yards with it before he was stopped at Meds' 20 yard line. This play was the beginning of the end; in the ensuing scrimmage Garrett plunged through for Dents' second touch which again was not converted when the kick was blocked.

Spears was the individual star of the game, making some beautiful runs in addition to heaving some nice forwards. Dore also earned a star for his performance. Scher played well for the losers.

up many ambitious Pharmacy attacks. Sully looked good for the Druggists offensively.

In the other game, the advantage shifted repeatedly from one side to the other. U.C. opened the scoring when McPherson sized one past Autterbridge. This was all the scoring in the first half. Soon after the second half opened, Rae planked up another tally for the red and white. Then the Meds started to work in earnest. Their drive on the domain guarded by Bryden gave them two goals, both scored by Green. This tied up the game, and led by Cauthie they continued to press. While the "jam" was on, U.C. broke away and McPherson notched the deciding counter with but three minutes to play.

Dents: Goal, Cowan; fullbacks, Mason, Sprott; halves, Boyes, Mackie, Brown; forwards, Pon, Ryan, Stapleton, L. Mason, Lankin; sub, Rockman.

Pharmacy: Goal, Rheinhardt; fullbacks, Armour, Jackson; halves, McIntyre, Ramsay, Blythe; forwards, Sully, Pronger, Ballantyne, Wilton; sub, Lazarus.

innate sensitiveness of our souls". Others admitted that religion was a popular topic of conversation and that, while many talked for the sheer joy of hearing themselves, some were able to crystallize their own opinions by explaining them to fellow students. Some in Cody House dislike attending church. Some out of town freshettes, who attend services regularly, like the modern and comfortable residences. Only one admittedly blasé gentleman declared that "religion is the abominable curse of modern times."

The students are all agreed that University College has a very cosmopolitan air. A future student of Emmanuel College confessed that he was at an undenominational college to study the religious opinions of all types and sects so that he might become a broad-minded minister. "The men students with whom I come in contact are apparently very nonchalant and young-man-of-the-worldish, but underneath this pose there is a firm ground of fine Christianity," he said.

Another student felt that the products of Trinity, Victoria and St. Michael's bore the indelible stamp of their college and seemed more like high school students than thinkers. The women at University College wish to be sophisticated, the men prefer to be individualistic and all were perfectly satisfied with their choice of college.

Fifty-ninth Rugby Season Reaches Halfway Mark With Varsity Meeting Queen's in Crucial Struggle

LONG TRADITION OF STIFF GAMES BEHIND SENIORS

First Encounter Took Place Back in November of 1875

RULES HAVE CHANGED

Game Played Then Bore Little Resemblance to Modern Sport

By John T. Stubbs

This fall the University of Toronto celebrates its 59th anniversary of football history, for it was back in 1875 that the first Blue and White clad team trotted out onto the field on the 20th of November to do battle with the Argonaut Rowing Club. At that time the game was not like that which we call football today but it was an embryo of the king of sports which through many changes and stages has become the thrilling contest which we now see every Saturday afternoon at the finest Stadium in the country, a Stadium which has been erected as a result of the universal interest in this the most thrilling of all sports.

Although we cannot be positive of the rumour as fact, we have been informed that Varsity won the game. Be that as it may, the most striking point of interest in this connection is the change which the rules have undergone since that memorable day. Probably English rugby has more similarity to the present game than that played fifty-nine years ago. Nevertheless, the changes have taken place, and we think not to the detriment of the spectacle we now see on the local gridirons of Canada.

It is with a feeling of pride that we point to the part played by the University of Toronto, its players and officials, both while actively participating in the sport and in later years of maintained interest, in the development of the game through its regulations and organization.

ORPHANS POWERFUL IN GOOD OLD DAYS

Made Life Miserable for the Senior Team in Hot Scrimmages

BEAT BALMY BEACH 1-0

When the history of football is being discussed around Toronto University, mention should be made of the men of the good old days who did not quite make the first team and played for the Orphans against teams who were probably harder to beat than those in the intercollegiate grouping. That was before 1931, after that the Orphans became intermediates. The boys on those Orphan teams used to think that they had far better football clubs than the seniors, and even if they could not play football as well, they could make life miserable for the seniors in scrimmages. In 1930, the tiny Orphans beat Balmy Beach on Thanksgiving Day 1-0 and surprised everyone doing it. Jack Sinclair, Harold Arnp and many of the rest of the boys, all played for the remarkable Orphans.

THE BIG GUNS IN TOMORROW'S GAME

In the upper right and left hand corners we have Gord Keith and Jack Holden, two deadly tacklers who promise to tackle anything wearing a Tricolour uniform during the hours 2 to 4 on Saturday afternoon. In the centre panels Grady Laing and Ken Harris are shown. These lads hold down middle wing berths and are going to take a big hand in affairs on Saturday. Below we have Bob Isbister, Hamilton's gift to Warren Stevens and Varsity. Bob, one of the best kickers in the intercollegiate, is shown in a passing pose. He will be seen in this pose many a time on Saturday as a Blue aerial attack is planned.

A Message From The President

Tomorrow our Senior Football team meets its most doughty opponent, the formidable team of our sister university of Queen's. I witnessed the hard-fought game last week at Kingston, and I know that the struggle tomorrow will call out every ounce of skill and endurance. It will be a great game. I hope that the undergraduates will turn out in large numbers to applaud every good play, and to give the support of their presence and their cheers to our athletic representatives.

In our Canadian Universities athletics play a duly-proportioned and not a completely dominant part in college life. Team work of any kind is a great factor in developing character and disciplining the mind. The two elements in Rudyard Kipling's message (as a modern French critic has said) are "Play for your side" and "Play the game". These elements are essential to every useful life.

Here's to good weather, and a good game! May the better team win! And dare we not add, May that team be ours?

H. J. CODY,

President.

BLUES DETERMINED TO AVENGE DEFEAT OF LAST SATURDAY

A Win Needed to Tie Up Series Now Led by Tricolour

QUEEN'S DEFENCE STRONG

Greco, Upper, Webber, Laing, Expected to do Great Things

By E. Griffiths

A determined band of Blue warriors are out to "do or die" tomorrow afternoon at Varsity Stadium, when they entertain Queen's, the league leaders. Complete revenge is sworn by the whole team for the victory that the tricolour eked out over them last week and they are out to tie up the race for the intercollegiate championship that they have held for the last two consecutive years.

Queen's are noted for their stone-wall defense, which has been responsible for stopping their opponents from crossing their lines in the three league games to date. It is this defensive type of rugby that greatly modified the loss felt by the expulsion from student activities of four members of the team. Babe Zvonkin and Harry Sonshine are the key men of the tricolour formation, and Varsity plungers will find it exceedingly difficult while they are there.

Although strong defensively Queen's is weak offensively, winning each game by only one point, but as Teddy Reeve says, "That's all we needed to win."

Varsity hope to crack this strong defense with an equally strong offensive play. Warren Stevens has had the boys practicing forwards all week and places much hope on the success of this play against Queen's. Greco, Upper, Webber and Laing are again ready

HERE'S THE DOPE ON SENIOR TEAM

A Little Information About the Stalwarts Who Are to Play

HENDERSON, ISBISTER STAR

By W. A. Crookover

This being the football issue of The Varsity it seems that a little information about the lads who carry the Blue and White colours on the field will be quite in order.

Captain Andy Henderson is one of a quartet of good outsiders. Andy is putting in his fourth year with the senior squad and has one more to go. Bob "Butch" Allison teams up with Andy at outside. Butch came up via Oakwood Collegiate and managed to play a prominent part in Blue rugby ever since his arrival. Gord Keith is putting in his second year on the senior squad. Both Allison and Keith have one more year to put in at school. Jack Holden is the last of the quartet. Jack has shown wonderful improvement over his last year's form. He has four more years to go and will no doubt prove a valuable asset.

At middle wing Grady Laing and Gus Greco hold down the regular berths. Grady was on the 1932 championship team.

THE SUPERIORITY OF THE ATHLETE

"You ain't got a prayer, boys," announced pitcher Paul Dean to the belligerent Tigers whom he was facing. He was quite right, and everyone outside of Detroit has been laughing ever since. The remark, apart from its amusing aspects, leads one to reflect on the sensation of physical mastery upon which so confident and so accurate an assertion was based. There is a good deal of debate as to whether physical or mental pleasures are more satisfying. Unhappily for the artist and the scholar, the former seem to weigh down the balance. Physical control, bodily poise, muscular superiority,—these are the faculties which gladden the heart of a man. To have evinced athletic skill in any kind of sport must bring a satisfaction and a unique delight which the ungifted may well envy.

It is usual to insist that the well-balanced man combines athletic with intellectual prowess, or at least possesses a measure of each quality. That may be so,—indeed, there are exceptional and useful men who are unusually endowed with both mental and muscular skill. But we must distinguish sharply between the two kinds of activity. With the one, a man may know his might, may achieve a high and definite object, and rest in the sense of undoubted ability. He accomplishes something, and while doing it, and while contemplating the finished work, he enjoys the extent of his own power. But when his pursuits are intellectual,—alas, he is not likely to know either the pleasure of the labour or the value of the feat. This may not apply to the activities of the chess player, the engineer, or indeed to any efforts involving little more than mental virtuosity. But wherever men explore the implications of art, of literature, of philosophy, wherever they seek to explain the tragedies and successes of human endeavour, wherever they embark on courses of independent thought, they involve themselves in perplexity and a sense of inadequacy, or, at any rate, in the uncertainty which besets all human knowledge. Especially in these days of unrest and fear, the scholar stands without security, striving to fathom the infinite complexity of human affairs of all kinds: economics, art, national culture, and all the hosts of other problems and paradoxes which the world presents. And in such work there is virtually none of the satisfaction which will attend the simplest act of physical skill.

We are inclined to envy the professional athlete. The strength of the horse and the legs of a man may not rate very high in the eternal economy, but at least the athlete knows what he is about in using them. "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do," we are told, "do it with thy might, for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest." What our actual hands find to do, we do with delight and relative success. In the exertion of the body we preserve a sort of personal integrity. It is when we turn to the duties of the philosophical mind that we encounter embarrassment, confusion, and futility. Perhaps we can only find relief when we have recognized that our intellects cannot be expected to deliver us out of the ultimate failure, that even as we must resign ourselves to the fading of muscular strength and bodily control, so we must take leave of the hope that in our minds there is the means of salvation. Perhaps our difficulty would not be so great, did we not look within our intellects for the answer. Perhaps it is not in man to direct his steps. . . .

ART CLASSES TO RESUME UNDER MR. H. S. PALMER

The art classes, which are one of the most popular features of Hart House, will again be held this year under the direction of the well-known artist, Mr. H. S. Palmer. The first class will take place at 7.30 p.m. on Thursday, 1st November in the sketch room and thereafter every Thursday during term until the middle of February. The fee for the entire course of classes is $3.00 for undergraduates and $5.00 for senior members. It should be clearly understood that the classes are not only for those who have had some experience already but also for beginners. Members should bring their own pencils (HB and 3B) and eraser. Paper will be provided. No one is allowed to join the course after the third class, by which time all fees are to be paid and lockers issued.

Further information may be obtained at the Warden's office.

Art, Music and Drama

Hart House String Quartet

Tonight, the Hart House String Quartet presents the first of its series of concerts for the University, in Convocation Hall. It has been the custom of the Quartet to play for the students on Friday night exactly the same programme as is given on Saturday evening in Hart House. In this way the undergraduates are privileged to hear the Quartet and even assisting artists at a fee far lower than the usual admission charge. It is a rare opportunity to hear a world famous ensemble playing the finest of music.

Schumann Quartet in A minor.
Beethoven Quartet in E flat, Op. 127.

Friday Afternoon Recital

Reginald Stewart, the well known pianist, will give the following Bach programme of music at this week's Friday Afternoon Recital to be held at 5 p.m. in the Music Room of Hart House:

Prelude and Fugue in G Minor ..... Bach-Liszt
Choral Prelude: Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring ..... Bach-Hess
Sixth French Suite ..... Bach
Prelude and Fugue in B Flat Minor (Book I) ..... Bach
Toccata and Fugue in D Minor ..... Bach-Stewart

OR SO WHAT?

Football first began when somebody blew up a wine bottle (pigskin) with air, and kicked it. (This sport is still extant in the hot water bottle season.) It continued in this form until the discovery of glass, and the fortification of wine. The second invention resulted in the first case of gout, and the first one (glass) made it difficult to enjoy (for gout victims) the popular party game of kick the bottle.

To offset these difficulties, the skin bottle was revived, the legs were cut off, and the game was taken outdoors. After the battle of Waterloo, it was decided to play it on the playing fields of Eaton which had become vacant.

After a few years during which the feet were the only motive force for the hoghide, a boy at Rugby school got tired and picked up his ball and ran home.

This custom soon became known as Rugby, after which the school had to

Eaton Auditorium

Enthusiasm did run high last night when the Eaton Auditorium management ushered in their concert season with the Metropolitan Quartet, composed of Moore, Johnson, Bampton, Bonelli. It would be rash to say that the performance scaled equally high artistic highlights; and this not because of the artists themselves but due rather to the nature of the concert—a "pot-pourri" of operatic genius. The recital had all the colour and dash that one could desire, so there was no excuse for lassitude.

The programme was composed of soli, duets, trios and quartets from the best known operas. It is a fact that its compilation did not require deep search into song literature but, on the contrary, had public appeal in view. As such it was a decided success.

Miss Moore, of screen fame, has at her command all the arts and charms of the actress, and her stage appearance dazzled and entertained to such an extent that some moments passed before the beauty of her voice made itself apparent. But she is undoubtedly a fine singer, with a voice that has volume, colour, warmth and flexibility and is used with taste and musicianly discrimination. Miss Bampton, more reserved in manner, is rather more mezzo than contralto. A certain resonance was lacking, either because of the hall or the singer. Edward Johnson has lost give up the name.

At that time the first disarmament conference was deciding to go in for field artillery instead of halberds, and one of the disgruntled armor manufacturers, grasping at the last straw, saw the possibilities of Rugby. He covered his armor over with bakelite and called it Sporting goods.

When it became evident that the game had acquired a High Cost, John Harvard and Eli Yale saw that it had possibilities in the U.S.A. They erected a stadium, but instead of designing it after the Coliseum, they got their pattern from the Hart House barber shop and called it the Yale Bowl.

It soon became evident, that, owing to a surplus of Brian Timmises and

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

BEAT you to it. This is not the jazz issue. Just in case anyone may be under the impression that this issue was resurrected entirely from the files (most of it was) owing to a strike or some such detail, we hasten to inform you that this is the annual football issue. To all who assisted in this production we say "Thanks".

Everything, it appears, has some drawback. Should this be next year we could write a diamond jubilee story about football around Varsity. As this is this year we can only state that it is 59 years since the Blue and White team first appeared in battle array.

A long time is 59 years. Many players have come and gone since Varsity first faced Argos, on a November afternoon, more than a half century ago. Football heroes have graduated, their names a byword among the football followers, soon to be forgotten, a mist in the past. Other players, third string men, unheard of in football circles, have gone, later to become famous in professional life.

Time brings changes to everything. Football too has changed. Now they have rules. All due respect to the pioneers, they seemed to be just a trifle hazy as to the code of the game. But it was a game, played as it is today, by healthy and husky students who gloried in the personal conflict.

QUEEN'S, for a long time rulers of the intercollegiate domain, now have Teddy Reeve at the helm and have only to win Saturday and the path to another title is relatively clear. The big test of the year comes to them tomorrow in the return game with the Blue team.

Unless Reeve has found the fountain of youth for his squad they are going to feel like very old men after Saturday's contest. Seven men went the distance last week but such a performance is unusual and is not likely to be duplicated. At least it is not likely to be so successful.

Even should the Tricolour roster be enlarged, we still string along with Varsity in this game. Perhaps this is not fair to the Blue team and our choice will jeopardize their chances. However, we can't help thinking Varsity will win. They are at full strength and ready to go. They will need to be.

Errors, it appears, appear at almost every function and place and a sports column is no exception. An error appeared in this column yesterday, to the effect that the ruggies would play at the Stadium Saturday. They play on the back campus at 1.00 p.m.

Needless to say, we are sorry that the error occurred.

Soccer was also misaligned yesterday. The intercollegiate match will be held at the Stadium at 12.30, just previous to the football game. That concludes our gossip for the football issue.

Mustangs Were First Admitted to Senior Ranking in 1907

DEVELOPED STRONG LINE

London, Oct. 26.—After long domination of the intermediate intercollegiate football series, Western was admitted to senior ranking in 1929. There are still those among the sporting scribes who claim that this was an error. However, another team was needed in the senior group at the time since the presence of only three teams meant that one team was idle every Saturday. St. Michael's was the only team who might have rivalled Western for the coveted place in the senior ranks and as Western had proven her superiority over the "Irish" several times the purple and white team was granted the chance to try her luck against the major teams.

Joe Breen was Western's first coach and has been there ever since. Joe made a name for himself playing for Toronto and Western made no mistake in picking him to guide their teams. Before their first game the players were taken down with a bad case of stage-fright, so that the name "Mustangs" was coined to bolster up the men's nerve. This name has stuck ever since and more than once the Western "Mustangs" have typified that game and fighting little horse.

As was to be expected the Mustangs did not fare so well in their first year. They did not win a game, but they acquitted themselves well and allowed no easy victories against them. In her second year, 1930, Western won two home games against Toronto and McGill and earned herself a slice of glory in the other encounters of the year. By this time the Mustangs had built up that powerful, charging line for which

Queen's Eager to Attain Tenth Intercollegiate Championship

FIRST WON IN 1900

Kingston, Oct. 26.—The season 1934 finds Queen's out after her tenth intercollegiate championship. She hasn't had a championship senior team since 1930 and right now the undergraduates want a champion. It was back in 1900 that Queen's first walked off with the Senior Intercollegiate Championship and what a team they had then! Old Ben Simpson was at fullback, a beautiful punter and a magnificent runner. Of the rest of the team perhaps none is better known than Fred Etherington, now Dr. F. Etherington, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, who was one of the finest middle wings in the game. Such names as Walkem, Weatherhead, Clarke, Richardson, Paul, Carr-Harris, Young, Britton and others were bywords when football was spoken of at the turn of the century.

And then Queen's went four years before the honors came back. In 1904 there were only a few of the 1900 players left on the team. "Long Jim" Macdonell was the full back and the half line was composed of Richardson, Williams and Walsh, the latter the illustrious Marty Marsh of hockey fame. Carson, Thompson, Donovan, Gilles, Kennedy, Cameron, Timm, Bailey, Britton, Patterson, Reid, Gleeson and Templeton completed the squad. It was in the final game, a playoff at Ottawa, that Queen's defeated McGill to take the championship. Williams' field goal, which counted five points at that time, and a kick for a rouge, completing the scoring. Hamilton, Zimmerman and MacPherson were standouts for McGill in those days, while Southam was the bright star of the Varsity team.

History of Rugby at McGill Reveals Series of Ups and Downs

OLDEST CLUB IN CANADA

Montreal, Oct. 26.—The history of Rugby at McGill University reveals a series of ups and downs paralleling the charts of world prosperity which our contemporary economists are fond of drawing. Commencing in dim legends of the middle of the last century, the story records occasions in which the Red and White colours were preeminent among intercollegiate teams of North America to be succeeded by other occasions when there was not a single victory to boast of. Nevertheless, the McGill Rugby Club is the oldest intercollegiate club in Canada and as such has borne a large part in moulding the destinies of Canadian football.

The earliest authenticated match took place in 1865 between the officers of the regiment at that time stationed in Montreal and the civilians, a team composed of undergraduates and graduates of the university. This for many years to come was the major sporting event of the year in Montreal, becoming gradually a Town vs. Gown match.

The first intercollegiate match took place in 1874 against Harvard and this fixture was repeated for three or four years. A photograph of one of these matches has been preserved which emphasizes the difference in the game then and to-day. The English type of rugby was then in vogue. Indeed it was the impossibility of compromise between American and Canadian rules that led to the abandonment of these matches. Dartmouth was also played on several occasions about this time.

In 1897 we are informed by the McGill Annual that the McGill-Toronto game had become the feature of the season. At that time six matches had been played, four going to Toronto and three to McGill, with one tie. For a few years this match was discontinued, but was resumed in 1898-99 and has been continuous ever since, with the exception of the war years. Queen's joined the league about this time and Ottawa University passed in and out of the picture.

Of the 31 championships which have been decided since the turn of the century, McGill has won six, the long championship period between 1919 and 1929 having swayed the average in favour of both Toronto and Queens. Of all these years the most outstanding, probably, was that of 1919-20. Many of the players had had experience on McGill teams before the war and had benefited by increased age and experience during that period. Coaching then, as now, was in the hands of Frank Slaughtress, without mention of whom, no record of rugby at McGill would be complete.

they became famous. This line was built around Frank Gugno, who came to be known as one of the greatest linemen to ever play Canadian football. Another Mustang who was beginning to earn himself a reputation around this time was Ted "Kewpie" Kennedy. These two men formed the nucleus of a team about which it came to be said, "You never can tell what they are going to do."

1931 was Western's great football year. This year Joe Breen achieved his supreme ambition and saw a Western team defeat Toronto on their own field. The powerful Mustang wing line was at its best and the backfield, while not exactly the strong point of the team, fought their way to victory. The championship was in doubt this year until the last game, when Toronto very nicely surprised everybody and trounced Queens to give Western the championship. The greatest game the Mustangs have ever played took place in Sarnia that year to win the Ontario championship when Western defeated the Imperials. Everyone acknowledged that Western had a good team but nobody thought they were good enough to whip the mighty Imperials. But whip the Imperials they did—and in no uncertain manner. The good citizens of Sarnia were a mighty disgruntled bunch that night. Western tell in her last game before the great M.A.A.A. team of that year, but not without winning the plaudits of the crowd for having a famous football team. Other Mustangs that made a name for themselves that year were: Captain McLachlin, Paterson, Ward, McKay, Quigley, Brown and McDermott.

In 1932 Western really had a better football team than the championship team of the year before. It was only through a mistake in the first game of the year at McGill that the championship eluded the Mustangs' clutching fingers. Captained by another great lineman, "C" Valeriot, this team really formed the most efficient football machine turned out at Western. The end of this year saw the break-up of the great team which Joe Breen had built up. At graduation in 1933 twelve Mustangs left the football ranks. Joe was faced with the task of starting at the beginning and rebuilding, a job which isn't easy at a small school like Western.

Things looked bright in the fall of 1933, however, when Western did the impossible and defeated Queens in the first game of the year. This marked the only victory of the season for lack of experience turned the tables in the rest of the games. Thus far this year the same fault has been very apparent, but the Mustangs still have high hopes of getting a few wins.

Since their admission to senior football, the Mustangs have tried to make good. They will win another championship before long. At any rate they will fight hard—and long.

People's Morals Should Be Guide In Legislation

Ought to be Determining Factor Says Earl S. Lautenslager

G. W. BIRCH AGREES

"The Varsity is definitely in its own field when it states its opinion editorially upon the matter of beverage rooms," stated Mr. E. S. Lautenslager, president of the Emmanuel College Students' Society in an interview yesterday. "My own attitude to the matter of government legislation of the consumption of liquor is, simply, that the morality of the country's citizens must be the determining factor in drawing up suitable laws, that is, that there is no use in having laws on the statute books which do not begin to express the desires of the people. When once the desire of the people is as a whole in favour of curtailment of the opportunities of a minority that lag behind, then laws may be safely enacted—in fact, should be enacted. Should The Varsity find by its definite stand that the greatest part of the student body is behind them, it should be a happy indication that the provincial government has estimated the public morality on the beverage question with too little optimism," he continued, "but, on the other hand, if the reverse prove the result, then it will be evidence that the definitely retrogressive attitude of the new administration was a necessary one."

Judging from the answers received by The Varsity, the students, and especially the students in administrative offices at Victoria and Emmanuel Colleges are definitely opposed to the new liquor policy. Mr. Lautenslager's opinion was seconded by Mr. G. W. Birch, vice-president of the same organization, who stated that he believed that the Editorials appearing in The Varsity on the subject of beverage rooms had the approval of the majority of the student opinion on this side of the campus at least, and added, "It is becoming increasingly evident that the present policy of 'beverage rooms' is having a detrimental effect on the moral and social life of the young people."

Members of the Executive of the Victoria College Union who were approached gave much the same opinion. Elliot Auger, president of the Union affirmed that he was personally in sympathy with the attitude of The Varsity on the issue of beverage rooms, but, on the other hand, he remarked, "I am inclined to doubt the wisdom of such a one-sided presentation of the case without seeking to explore student opinion more fully on the subject." Mrs. Helen Forbes, Associate President stated that she agreed with the idea contained in the Editorial. She expressed herself as absolutely opposed to beverage rooms, and advocated a referendum on the subject.

RUGBY AT MCGILL

At the moment of writing there is every possibility that the 1934-35 laurels will come to rest beneath Mount Royal. However that may be, it will be possible to record that the games were played in the same spirit of game-for-the-game's-sake which has always marked Canadian intercollegiate sport, no matter how keen the actual rivalry may be.

FORGET POLITICS STATES RITCHIE TO 'THE VARSITY'

Takes Laissez-faire Attitude on Sale of Alcoholic Beverages

RIGHT OF INDIVIDUAL

"I advise The Varsity to keep out of politics," stated Tom Ritchie, president of the Engineering Society, in an interview with The Varsity yesterday, on the subject of government control of liquor sales. Mr. Ritchie believes that an undergraduate newspaper should present both sides of an issue without prejudice, and leave the student to make his own decision on the matter. In any case the University should be free from political influence of any sort.

In regard to the amount of control which should be exerted on the sale of alcoholic beverages, Mr. Ritchie takes the laissez faire attitude. If a person makes up his mind to do a thing, it is his right as a citizen of a democratic country to do that thing, even though it may be to his advantage to stop him. In any case prohibition is not a practical possibility because of the difficulties encountered in enforcing it.

The Varsity found it impossible to reach J. F. Farrer, vice-president of the Forester's Club. The president, Mr. Crossley, is now in camp at Temagami.

TO AWAKEN CITIZENS TO DANGERS OF WAR

Anti-War Society Undergoes Reorganization at Initial Meeting

The Anti-War Society is being reorganized this year, it was revealed at a meeting of the society at the Women's Union last night. It intends to make a real contribution to University life and thought—to accomplish the same ends as similar organizations at Manchester and Oxford Universities. This society intends to concentrate its activities not only against war but also against all political activities leading to war.

It is felt that there is a lack of political consciousness in Canada and this society will endeavour to awaken political consciousness not only in the University of Toronto but also throughout Canada as well as to extend Anti-War feeling throughout the country. It intends to co-operate with similar organizations at McGill, the University of Manitoba, and in various high schools throughout the country.

This group is planning to be very active this year, in contrast to last year. Their agenda includes a programme for awakening the consciousness of the people to the imminent danger of war by means of meetings, demonstrations, and the distribution of literature, among other things. They intend to expose any indications of militarism at the University and to oppose military demonstrations and Armistice Day celebrations. They will also make every effort to stop the manufacture of munitions.

The society plans a meeting early in November at which a prominent speaker will talk. Representatives from various organizations will be invited to attend.

Editorial Stand Wins Admiration Of F. G. Coleman

Frankness in Face of Political Issue Meets with Approval

ADVISES REFERENDUM

"I admire the stand taken by The Varsity in coming out frankly with its opinion on the beverage rooms question, especially when it is a political affair," said F. G. Coleman, speaker of the Wycliffe Literary Society. "Beverage rooms will kill themselves because they are generally disgusting." He agreed with Brig.-Gen. C. H. Mitchell, that the beverage room is an abnormal swing of the pendulum, and that it will go back to its usual norm. "It is up to the government to try to mould the character of the younger generation, and at present the liquor law puts much temptation before the young people. I think a referendum might be a help towards the settlement of the question," he concluded.

S. A. R. Wood, also of the Wycliffe Literary Society, remarked: "I think that while the Ontario people may have made pigs of themselves, they will settle down. After all, we are civilized human beings and when the novelty of the beverage room dies down, there will probably be a decline in the amount of beer consumed. I doubt the wisdom of The Varsity in expressing such a definite opinion, without first finding out the general feeling of the students on the matter. I have no great objections to beverage rooms, but I think it is a crime to allow youngsters to drink. The mistake is not in the law, but in the way it is carried out. Young people in England seem to control themselves under the English liquor system, and I do not see why our young people are not just as capable of doing so."

B. B. McNerney, president of the Students' Administrative Council of St. Michael's College, was in favour of a change in the liquor law. "As far as the students are concerned, the beverage rooms are by no means an improvement on the old Government Control Law. Most beverage rooms, except possibly in the very large hotels, are dreadful places anyway, and not frequented by a class of people with whom one would associate. If The Varsity was interested only in the effect of the new liquor law on the students in general I think it had a perfect right to express its opinion. He could not see the need of a referendum, however. "Why do not the representatives of the people, who ought to know the general opinion of their constituents, deal with the matter in the next legislature?" he reasoned.

P. B. O'Byrne, the vice-president of the S.A.C. at St. Michael's, was strictly against the beverage rooms, and in favour of a referendum on the whole matter. "I think The Varsity was quite right in coming out with its own opinions on the question."

R. A. Sinclair of Knox College Undergraduate Association, was very non-committal on the whole matter. He stated, however, that he thought The Varsity took a commendable stand on the issue. "I can see no necessity for beverage rooms," he added.

ATTRACT STUDENTS

"But after all," said one second year student, "you don't get enough religion around Victoria to make you conscious that you are attending a denominational college. Morning chapel is not obligatory and is attended by students of every creed."

"The cosmopolitanism of University College was the reason I came to Victoria," declared a third year man. "There is such a thing as too much tolerance." But the general view seems to be that religion plays very little part in the students' decision to go to Victoria.

Apparently the religious problem is not foremost in the minds of students at the other two denominational colleges, although it may be an underlying force in their decision to attend these. Certainly, the phenomenon of a Presbyterian at an Anglican college cannot be explained by this. "The spirit of Trinity appealed to me," was her explanation.

There seems to be no positive explanation of why students attend colleges of their own denomination. "Force of habit," "Tradition," and "Scholarships," were some of the reasons given. "It is absolutely religious opinion as far as I am concerned," was the reply evoked from several Trinity and St. Michael's students. "I find the atmosphere of a smaller college more congenial," was the opinion of one St. Michael's student.

The fact that students at Trinity are not allowed to join fraternities is responsible for the opinion that it is easier to make friends there. This fact apparently holds much weight with students at all three denominational colleges.

to show the Kingston lads how to plunge, while Cam Gray is out to redeem himself and prove that his three misses at kicking field goals last Saturday were only flukes. Coulter and Isbister will again do the passing while the latter will again show that he is the best kicker in the league.

Some of Queen's men will be forced to go the full 60 minutes and the pace will probably tell before the end of the game. However, they did it last week, but Saturday will tell a different story.

ON SENIOR TEAM

pionship squad but was indelible last year. To fill in time he coached the junior squad to a title. Gus is the surest yard gainer on the squad, has two more years to put in and is one of the best defensive middles in intercollegiate circles. Ridley College gave the Blues Ken Harris, 18 year old stalwart who relieves either of the regular middles. Ken has two more years to go. He first played for Varsity on the 1932 Junior Dominion champs.

Ted Perry and Walt Warren, both in their last year at Varsity, hold down the inside berths, with Colin Brecher relieving. Colin has two more years to put in at Medicine. All three have had long football careers at Varsity.

At the snapback position the Blues have Al Williams, the big Fort William lad. Al came up from the intermediates and has proved his defensive worth more than once.

Jack "Schnozle" Dawson and Stewart Hennessey share the flying wing berth. Both are in their last year at U.C. and their departure will leave a deep hole in next year's squad. Jack is a Preston product while Stew is a Toronto lad.

Bob Isbister, a Delta College product, from Hamilton, is putting in his first year in senior company, with two more to go. Last year Bob played with the seconds. Bob is no doubt the outstanding kicker in the Intercollegiate Union this year. He also can send forward passes on their way in great style. Art Upper, a Jarvis Collegiate grad, is one of the trickiest runners in the game. Art has three more years to put in in Engineering. He teams up very well with Bob Coulter, the quarterback on the squad. Both lads carried the 1932 Junior Blues to a Dominion championship and have been reunited on the Blue backfield after a year's separation. Bob Webber, the plunging half, is in his last year at School. Due to examination difficulties Bob played for Balmy last year. Bruce Fenner, another Medical student, has also returned to the fold after a year's absence and is at present going stronger than ever. Cam Gray, he of the educated toe, is a second year Medical student. At present Cam is leading the intercollegiate scorers and promises to hold that position by means of excellent placement kicking.

whatnot, it was virtually impossible to make any gain (or profit) through the line (except Argos') so the University of Toronto imported Warren Stevens (who invented the forward pass), to replace the former coach (who had made a faux pass). Owing to his inexperience he was farmed out to the Montreal Winged Wheelers for seasoning.

Since then Varsity has been Top Dog and everybody happy, until the Alla Mater Society discovered that six members of Queen's Seniors didn't belong to the Beta Omicron (international rugby fraternity). When requested to join, they said "Not on your Lifebooy" and were thus ineligible (See Emily Post, The Forward Pass, the Backward Don't). This so improved the team that Oil Thighs regained their supremacy (See Who's Who, Boston). Now nobody is happy except T. A. Reed (See Auditor's report, Athletic Association).

Mr. Reed expects a large congregation on Saturday to see if Isbister can fill the great shoes (See Whose Shoes, Sinclair).

Since the success of Varsity Arena's successful venture in promenades, symphonies, five-ring circuses, etc., the stadium has equipped the officials with horns, flutes, etc., and Football has moved indoors again. (See Chesterfield, Letters to his Son).

none of his buoyant enthusiasm and gay cavalier charm. His dramas are no small part of his total effect. Mr. Bonelli simply brought the house down with his singing of the Leon Cavallo Prologue. He has a big voice, rich in quality and he allows it to speak for itself. That, in the end, seems to pay.

The artists were most generous in their numerous encores and the large audience which overflowed the stage left in deep satisfaction.

A short all Bach Organ and Choral programme will be given at St. Thomas' Church, Huron Street, immediately after Evensong on Sunday night. The final number will be an excerpt from cantata "Sleepers wake", in which the boys of the Choir are heard to good advantage in "Zion hears

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

U.C. has not won the women's intercollegiate basketball series in the past six years, but they have the makings of a stellar senior aggregation this season besides very good junior and freshe outfits. It would cast a different slant on the finals if U.C. worked its way through to that point. At any rate they are getting right in there from the very start, and are out to win if it is humanly possible.

Kay Brown and Billy McGarry, members of the senior intercollegiate last year, plus Quita Mennell, Pat Pethick, Lorna Reid, and Eonore Kennedy of the intermediates are out for the U.C. senior squad this year. Mary Page and Jean Atkinson are two surviving members of their senior team. In addition to all these names which really count in the ranks of Varsity women's basketball, there is a lot of crack material which has moved up from the junior outfit.

Of course the loss of Eleanor Wallace is very serious for she was decidedly the backbone of last year's contingent. Grace Driftwood is another player who is among those missing. But with only these two positions to fill from all the material available, Muriel Aitken, who previously coached the juniors, should have every chance to work up some real competition for the teams which have led so regularly in past seasons.

Grace Driftwood has taken over the juniors and has a first-rate group to handle. She has practically chosen the team already although, of course, no official announcement has been made as yet. A number of the pass freshies (who are eligible for this division) have shown up in fine style.

The freshe team looks very presentable also although it is hard to say so early in the game. They are turning out with much gusto and look as though they have the real stuff in them, which can be worked into something decidedly worth-while when they have had more practice and wider experience.

STUDENT TICKET HOLDERS

On entering the Arena, student ticket holders will be given a ticket which will admit them to Sections P and Q.

This ticket will be collected on entering the section and pass-out checks will have to be obtained by students wishing to leave the section.

RUGBY AT QUEEN'S

From 1904 the tricolor supporters had to wait on through to the time of the war, and four years after before that wonder-team was moulded in 1922. Every enthusiast remembers the stirring days of 1922 when Queen's paraded the greatest half-line in years. "Pep" Leadley, Harry Batstone and Dave Harding--to say nothing of such marvellous players as "Johnny" Evans, "Red" McKelvel, "Pres" McLeod, "Click" Mundell, "Bud" Thomas, "Liz" Walker and others. For four straight years the tricolor ruled in the intercollegiate and, after losing in 1926, they came back to take the championship in 1927 and followed it with wins in 1929 and 1930.

And now the tricolor is out for more honors. So far during the present season, Queen's have shown that they are really serious in their quest for the college championship, for at present they rule as sole possessors of the top position in the College Union. Somehow we think that their ambitions are going to be realized. However, time will tell.

SCARLET AND GOLD BEATEN BY O. A. C.

Kicking of Theal for Guelph Gridders Is Decisive Factor

DEFEATED BY SCORE 7-0

O.A.C. defeated Victoria College 7 to 0 in a Mulock Cup game played on the Victoria athletic field yesterday afternoon.

The superb kicking of Theal for O.A.C. was the deciding factor in the game, as Victoria held a slight advantage in plays from scrimmage. Theal kicked for two singles in the first quarter and the Farmers clung tenaciously to this lead throughout the second period. Victoria continued to force the play during most of the second half, but although they were inside the O.A.C. twenty-five yard line on three occasions, they were unable to score.

Finally, with five minutes of play remaining, an intercepted forward pass followed by a Vic fumble gave Motzok the chance to plunge over for a touchdown, which put the game on ice for O.A.C.

Theal, Moffat, Stuart and Motzok starred for O.A.C., while Taylor, Chiperton, Pratt, and Gregory were best for Victoria.

O.A.C.: Flying wing, Theal; halves, Grasser, Stuart, Young; quarter, Motzok; snap, Charles; insides, Turnbull, Hagey; middles, Ferraro, Cook; out-sides, Moffat, Alderson; subs, Robertson, Kelly, Doucette, Crowe, Aitman, Huff, Butterwick, Ford.

Victoria: Flying wing, Walker; halves, Taylor, Gardiner, Chiperton; quarter, Dufton; snap, Ellsley; insides, Hills, Rodway; middles, Gregory, Gillespie; out-sides, Vaughan, Amos; subs, Miller, Pratt, Jessop, Affleck, Turner, Hunnisett, Fisher, Howes.

In a rather uninteresting and one-sided interfaculty rugby game which was featured by the many fumbles of the losers, Jr. Meds defeated Jr. School yesterday on the back campus by an 11-0 score.

School started out with a great deal of fight and were giving the big Meds a battle but the weight and the all round class of the latter soon told against the unpolished play of the Engineers.

Meds opened the scoring when Medlock intercepted a lateral pass in the

SUFFERS DEFEAT

a failure in Canada. It is even now leading to Fascism. We want improvement in Canada, but the way of the N.R.A. is not our way." (Mr. Stone's speech was interrupted with unusual persistence.)

Up rose Wilfred Smith, leading off for the opposition. The N.R.A. is good, he affirmed; it has abolished exploitation of labor; it has shortened hours; it has raised wages; it has greatly reduced unemployment; and strikes have been few under its regime. (Mr. Smith quoted no reliable authority.)

Mr. Weyman (for the government): The N.R.A. is deplorable; it has not abolished exploitation, and has had little effect on hours; it has lowered wages; it has increased unemployment, if anything; and strikes have been many and severe. (Mr. Weyman backed up most of his remarks by statistics). He went on to accuse the N.R.A. of showing all the symptoms of incipient Fascism—compulsory arbitration, intensification of trusts, wage cuts, consolidation of capital, which have combined to push away many of the middle class into the proletariat.

An erudite turn was given to the debate when Mr. Van Eck went back to Anglo-Saxon times for a parallel. He maintained that the social contract, already applied in the political field, is now being applied by America to its economic life.

Mr. Lubitzky laughed at N.R.A.'s birth control for pigs, in the face of starving millions. Voice from the crowd: "Pigs are not kosher." Mr. Lubitzky: "Quite so. I still disapprove of the N.R.A."

After the carrying of the motion,

ORPHANS POWERFUL IN GOOD OLD DAYS

Although the intermediates no longer play in the O.R.F.U., they still win games. This year they are leading the league with two wins and a tie. On their record to date, another victory should be recorded when they go to Kingston on Saturday to play Queen's Seconds in the return game with that team.

Bruce Fenner will be playing with the intermediates again this week, due to enforcement of an ancient rule governing shifts from senior to intermediate. The senior team's loss will be the intermediate's gain, for Fenner is a welcome addition to any team. Along with Fenner on the half line, there are Sid Jackson, George Powell, Barry Gray and Paddy Tafts. Whitey Miller is at quarterback and Sandy McPherson at flying wing. Along the line, Kuntz, Gibson, Bridle and Thomas hold them off with great gusto.

Ready to assist when necessary, we find Williams, McBride, Willoughby, Ripley, McVein, Lynch, McLachlan.

All applications for managers of Senior and Junior Hockey Teams must be in Athletic Office by Saturday, October 27th.

FREE LANCES

Women students who are wholly or in part financing themselves through the University (any faculty) and who would like to meet others doing likewise and would enjoy a hike on Saturday, November 3rd, please communicate with Miss Jackes, 44 Hoskin Ave., before Thursday, Nov. 1st.

3T6 VICTORIA FEES

Be sure to get your fee slip in the College Hall Friday morning for entrance to party at Wymilwood in the evening.

3T6 VICTORIA

Enjoy a good time at the Hallowe'en Party tonight. A real programme and peppy music. Be at Wymilwood at 8 p.m.

T. I. C. C. U.

The Toronto Intercollegiate Christian Union meets at 8 p.m. Saturday, October 27th at 170 Spadina Road. Discussion topic "Christ in us—the source of the victorious life". The T.I.C.C.U. has no registered membership, all students of all faculties are equally welcome to attend.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION

The Annual Outdoor Match will be held all day tomorrow at Long Branch. The rifles will be taken out at 8.30 a.m. and those wishing transportation are advised to meet at Hart House Range at the above time. The match will probably be the largest ever held by the association so it will be necessary to start as early as possible. Those not wishing to go to Hart House may go direct to the Long Branch Range. The truck will return to Hart House at noon and will leave the main entrance for Long Branch again at 1.30 p.m. Arrangements have been made for members in the Faculty of Applied Science to be excused from laboratories as far as possible. Copies of the rules of the match will be given to the members at Long Branch.

LONG TRADITION BEHIND SENIORS

Few things, if any, can stand the ravages of time and the rules of football were no exception. In that now dim and distant past, the rules employed differed materially from the present code which governs this sport. The posts were placed at opposite ends of the field 200 yards in length, necessitating many a marathon for a major score. The number of players was unlimited. At times a lengthy lineup was what saved the day for an injury-riddled team because little or no precaution was taken to guard the physical well-being of those who dared to don a uniform and enter the melee.

The ball could not be carried but had to be bounced, batted or dribbled along the field. Hacking, tripping and charging from behind were the order of the day. These forms of expression of defensive tactics were considered as the fundamentals and played an outstanding part of the training and practice. Padding and protection of any kind as part of the uniform were not considered a necessity worthy of attention. At the inception of padding it was found to be more of a hindrance than a help because of its unwieldy bulk.

The first international matches were staged in 1897, featuring a clash between Varsity and the University of Michigan. Then it was that Canadian players received their first initiation into the type of play resembling that which they now use. The boys of that day and age must have been extremely apt pupils because when Michigan formed up they used the present snap system instead of the old scrum or scrum or scrum. Quick to learn, Varsity adopted the same system and were successful in holding the athletes from Ann Arbor to a draw. In the following year they lost in Toronto. It may have been a case of self-consciousness caused by the presence of friends and family but at least they made a debut. Since that time the memorable record of the University of Toronto is worthy of note. In 1895 they annexed their first Dominion title and since 1898 have wrenched sixteen intercollegiate titles from their fellow students. Many football heroes have come and gone. Their shoes will continue to be filled by succeeding generations so that there is a possibility of our grand-children being able to boast of sixteen more titles in the next three dozen seasons.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Ottawa—The Prime Minister has accepted the resignation of the Hon. H. H. Stevens as Minister of Trade and Commerce and as Chairman of the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass Buying. Mr. Stevens will remain in the Conservative party.

Vienna—The danger of civil war in Austria has increased considerably, owing to the struggle between political and military groups for seats on the new Advisory Council.

Suva, Fiji Islands—Commander Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and his co-pilot Captain P. G. Taylor, are off on the second leg of their flight between Australia and California.

London—A strong movement was reported under way to secure His Majesty's permission for the appointment of the Duke of Kent as the next governor-general of Canada.

Cleveland—Withdrawal of A. and P. Stores from Cleveland, as threatened, will throw over 2,000 out of work and will mean a loss of $20,000,000 in revenue for the great grocery chain. The decision to withdraw is the outcome of a dispute between trade unions and the A. and P.

London, Oct. 28—King Prajadhipok of Siam may keep his throne if the government drops the prerogatives measure.

Marianna, Fla.—Quiet again ruled in Marianna after the lynching and attempted lynching that took place here on Friday night. An official inquiry will be held into the whole affair.

RUGBY PLAYERS OANCE AT GAMMA PHI BETA

One of the most delightful after-the-game celebrations, Saturday evening, was the Gamma Phi Beta subscription dance, held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Royal York Hotel. Dancing to the music of Nelson Hatch and his orchestra, the happy throng gave every indication of a very enjoyable evening. Among those present were members of both senior intercollegiate rugby teams, notably Captain Andy Henderson of the Varsity team, resting from the battle, who kept a watchful eye on the situation from the north-east corner, and Gordy Keith, who held a very roving commission.

DECLARES STEVENS AT DEMAND

Bennett Government is Doomed
Is Belief of Duncan Marshall

POPULARITY SCHEME

Stevens May Become New Leader of Conservative Party

"The Bennett government will fall no matter who leaves them or who joins them," said Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, in an interview given to The Varsity on Saturday, when it sought the opinions of several prominent citizens on the withdrawal of Hon. H. H. Stevens from the Dominion Cabinet. The people are tired of that kind of government, he said, and want a government that will take down some of the present barriers to trade with Great Britain. This need not mean free trade, however, but only a considerable reduction of tariffs.

"The whole Stevens investigation," said Mr. J. J. Glass, "has been nothing but a scheme to popularize the Conservative party with the electorate." The numerous abuses Mr. Stevens has disclosed have in fact been known for years to all students of political affairs, and he has only presented them to the nation in all their ugliness. And yet, said Mr. Glass, the Stevens Committee has proposed no remedy for their eradication. He doubted the truth of the rumour that Mr. Stevens would join the C.C.F., and was instead of the opinion that although Mr. Stevens' resignation would have no immediate effects, it might ultimately lead to his becoming leader of the Conservative party.

"The Conservative party are all loyal to Bennett," he said, "though both Bennett and Stevens are strong men." Bennett has rendered a great service to Canada, for in his great ability, his capacity for work, and the fact that he is a business man, he has three qualities necessary for a good statesman. He said he knew Mr. Stevens too well to believe he would join the C.C.F., for he was too conservative.

Professor Havelock of the Classics Department at Victoria College declared that in his opinion it was bound to have a favourable effect on the C.C.F. at the coming election. He refused to comment on the possibility of Stevens joining the C.C.F., nor upon

Student Views on Liquor Question Valuable, Says
Nesbitt

GLASS DISAPPROVES

"The Varsity has a right to express an opinion as well as anyone else," said Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, when asked on Saturday what he thought of The Varsity's attitude toward beverage parlors. But even though they do take a strong stand in the matter, he said, student opinion carries no more weight in the community than that of any other body of opinion. Local opinion, he concluded, is much better than a referendum as a means of settling the question.

Russell Nesbitt, K.C., also felt that The Varsity was well within its rights to express an opinion on beverage parlors, and felt that students' views on such a matter were valuable. Students, he said, are in a good position to form opinions, for they think more deeply than men in active life, whose time is taken up almost wholly by business and family concerns. In addition, students read widely and hold discussions among themselves, which further aids their coming to definite conclusions.

J. J. Glass, M.L.A. for St. Andrews, and local editor of The Varsity in 1917, said student opinion could carry weight, but did not approve of The Varsity taking a strong stand on the beverage parlor question. It would be wiser, he said, not to sway too far to one side, but to present all sides of the matter. Though he feared that student opinion was too inert to take much interest in national affairs, he thought it could be influential if it were more active. He also believed that local op-

SHUT-OUT SCORED AGAINST CADETS

Varsity Soccer Team Scores
Seven Goals to Win Fixture

MACPHERSON STARS

A vastly improved soccer team took the field Saturday against R.M.C. and with little difficulty trimmed the Cadets 7-0 at Varsity Stadium. A strong north wind made it difficult for the players to play very clever ball but even with this disadvantage a reasonably interesting contest was provided.

Right from the start it was evident that Varsity's rearranged front line was going to be dangerous and after several unsuccessful but close attempts, Schuett, Varsity's inside left, crashed through for the first score. R.M.C. tried hard to carry the play to the Blues but the Varsity backs were too strong for them and a long shot from left wing by Rawlinson put the winners two goals in front.

With a 2-0 lead the Varsity team concentrated on open soccer and several nice plays were executed with Rowland leading the attack. Two more scores were recorded before the half ended, MacPherson and Rowland getting them.

In the second half, with the wind in their favour, the Cadets were able to give Dykes, in the Varsity net, some anxious moments and only the inexperience of the marksmen kept them off the score sheet. The visitors kept the Blue team on the defensive for the early part of the second half but weakened toward the conclusion.

Varsity continued to work hard and were finally rewarded with another brace of goals, which came from Mac-

Strong Wind a Factor in the Scoring; Barnabe Put Queen's in Lead in First Period with Placement and Tricolour Lead 4-3 at Half Time

By W. A. Crockower

Before a crowd of fourteen thousand cheering fans young Bobby Coulter kicked Warren Stevens' Varsity Blues into a last-minute 7-6 decision over Teddy Reeve's fighting squad of iron men up at Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon. The win put the Blue and White squad and Queen's in a tie for the leadership of the inter-collegiate football loop. Both teams have sustained one loss in four attempts. The game may prove costly to both squads as Barnabe, the Tricolour placement-kicking star, was taken out of the game with what appeared to be an injured shoulder and Bob Isbister, Varsity's kicking ace, has his left arm in a sling.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of the entire staff of The Varsity this afternoon at 4.45 at the Women's Union. Attendance is compulsory.

ST. MIKE'S LOSE TO SARNIA SENIORS

Wet Field and Fumbles by Blue Team Contribute to Their Defeat

19-1 SCORE ATTAINED

On a heavy, slithering gridiron at Sarnia on Saturday, Massett's Mighty Machine trampled the St. Michael's squad out of the Senior O.R.F.U. contention by the overwhelming score of 19-1. At no time were St. Michael's in the picture, while the Sarnia Imperials showed a decided superiority in their ability to convert the Double Blue fumbles into major scores. "Bummer" Stirling, always in his element in heavy going, again demonstrated why he is considered one of the best wet ball kickers in Canada when he hoisted the oblate spheroid time and again for distances of sixty to seventy yards, putting the students always on the defensive.

In the first two periods St. Mike's held the heavy Oilers well but spoiled

With the score tied at six all, the Blue and White supporters seemed to be in for a disappointment as only a minute of play was left. Queen's had the ball on their five-yard line. Johnny Munro fell back for the kick and sent a short hoist to Coulter. The latter, with two Queen's outsiders charging in on him, brought his foot up in a hurry and sent the oval over Munro's head to the deadline just as the Kingston lads landed on him. This climaxed a wonderful afternoon's effort on the part of the Blue and White field general.

The final score clearly indicates the nature of the game—hard-fought and close. With many on both squads playing almost sixty minutes, fouls were plentiful throughout. Two notable examples caught the eyes of the officials in the last quarter, and as a result the heavy penalty of fifteen yards loss was imposed. Zvonkin started the ball rolling when he was held on one of his plunges. Seeing Harris at his feet he trampled on the Blue player, digging the cleated shoes in deeply. This gave the Blues fifteen yards. Five minutes later Warren of the Blues was foolish enough to retaliate by trampling on Zvonkin's face. This silly retaliation cost the Blues fifteen precious yards, halting their strong offensive by putting play back in the Varsity end of the field. Hadn't Young fumbled, the score would have remained six all because of Warren's act of revenge.

Kingston Artists Paint the Park But Get Scalped and Lost in Dark

A brow nor'wester whirled through the trees in the four a.m. gloom of Saturday morning when the Queen's advance guard fell upon the sleeping hamlet of Toronto. Quickly and methodically, they began their attack at College and University Aves.

At eight a.m. the awakening townspeople were shocked at the sight of the carnage that had been worked. Just where the crescent splits to encircle the Parliament Building, above College, the road ran red and yellow and blue with brilliant script:

QUEEN'S

QUEEN'S QUEEN'S

Every lamp post around the park was drowned in similar hues—the red trickling down onto the yellow like a bleeding nose, the yellow dribbling down onto the blue like a broken egg, and the blue oozing down the grey lamp post like nothing on earth. The very flagging stones of Hart House bore a crimson QUEEN'S, and in awful anticipation, Varsity undergrads hustling to lectures glanced fearfully upwards at the flagpole. The higher points were safe, however.

But the boldest invaders met with opposition, and a few members of every advance guard fell into the hands of the enemy. Varsity stalwarts from the University residences, coming home from parties, fell upon the several of them. The hapless foes were dragged into a nearby haven, and the utensils of torture—hair clippers and razors, were quickly produced.

Half an hour later the Kingstonians were released far in the depths of the Rosedale Ravine, each bearing a great shaven and blue-stained welt on their respective crowns—a gloriously triumphant "T".

The brow nor'wester still roared and

Memorable Evening Promised By Wild and Woolly Foresters

The following letter was received by the Date Bureau yesterday, from the executive of 375 Forestry who are at present at a forest camp at Achray. The letter was written on a scroll of birch bark measuring 21 1/2 inches by 10 1/2 inches and will be taken care of through the facilities of the Date Bureau. Any class or group of girls wishing this date on bloc may apply.

Achray, Ontario,
October 19, 1934.

Date Bureau,
University of Toronto,
Dear Sir:

On the twenty-sixth day of September, twenty-one of nature's best, to wit, fourth year Forestry, stepped off the transcontinental at Fall Camp in Algonquin Park, for a six weeks' sojourn in Ontario's hinterland. This, together with a five months' absence from the bright lights due to summer bush employment, has made the boys long for female companionship, and the formation of the Varsity Date Bureau was greeted with cries of "Timber!"

The Bureau is filling a long-felt want at the University, and we have decided to give it the boost that it deserves. Therefore, on the thirteenth day of November, seventeen bronzed and stalwart Apollos hope to escort an equal number (if not more) of the Bureau's best, to an evening such as few have experienced, but many dream about.

Let us be more explicit—if you have seventeen ladies (Gentile) who like their escorts of a manly mien, stalwart, tanned by wind and sun, and gentlemen of the first water, their prayer is answered.

To particularize on the class—Two Englishmen—not green by any means.

Several farmers—who want to cul-

LOCAL OPTION VERSUS REFERENDUM

The attitude of Premier Hepburn towards the steadily increasing number of opponents towards the beverage-room legislation is inconsistent with his position as leader of the Liberal Party. He has definitely expressed his refusal to be influenced by the outcry of those who consider the policy of the government a complete betrayal of our highest social principles. The Liberal Party has always been a staunch supporter of temperance movements in the province and will not take kindly to the dictatorial attitude of their present leader in definitely refusing any consideration for the wishes of the people who placed him in power. All political parties must share in the feeling that such autocratic measures are a definite repudiation of the democratic principles on which our political order is founded. The electorate has already expressed its complete disapproval, insofar as possible, and has indicated, in no uncertain manner, its attitude toward this particular policy. Without any concrete assurance to the contrary, the Premier's assumption of responsibility exposes him to devastating criticism, even from his own party, and appears to be little short of political suicide. The strategic move for Mr. Hepburn would be to discover the will of the people by a referendum and thus free both himself and his party from the charge of overriding the rights of the electorate.

In a recent interview the Premier sought to justify his position by referring to the sum of $2,300,000 already contributed to the exchequer from this lucrative enterprise. If the liquor traffic can be condoned by this sort of argument, why is not the sale of drugs and poisons also legalized? Either case amounts to a trafficking in human souls.

The only plausible justification of the present method of liquor distribution given by Mr. Hepburn and members of his government interviewed in today's issue of The Varsity is the adequacy of local option. Excusing the present administration by appealing to the archaic act which provides for local option is inconsistent with the independent and progressive spirit of the present premier. Moreover, when the people voted wet under this particular act, they were not voting for beverage-rooms!

Under the accepted system of local autonomy the advantages are entirely with the wets; there is no protection for those who voted dry. The situation in Orillia is a striking example. The hotel at Atherley, serving a summer-resort district, is granted a license for the entire year. Obviously the customers must be drawn from Orillia, only three miles away. There is no protection from the rowdiness against which the town sought to safeguard itself. Furthermore, four authorities have been granted to the town of Sutton, with a population of approximately 800. Can the commissioner have been influenced by the fact that Sutton is placed in a strategic point to serve customers from nearby dry constituencies?

Local option has no significance in this day of high-powered automobiles. Those who wish to drink may easily journey to a nearby hotel and imbibe all they can hold. But they must drive home again in a condition rendering them unfit to handle a car. The dry area is not spared the menace of drunken drivers, but is even more exposed to it than the wet sections for this very reason. Some hotel-keepers with an eye for business have established themselves conveniently on the border of local option communities. No place in a dry section is farther than one hour's travel from a beverage-room!

Local option has the disadvantage of creating unnatural divisions in the province without ensuring immunity for those areas which have expressed temperance sentiments. If the wards of Toronto enjoyed local autonomy, and if all save one voted against liquor, the city would still be wet! What is true in miniature is true in the larger sphere of the province.

The entire system of local option fosters economic boycott. Customers are diverted to communities which afford drinking facilities to the detriment of stores and hotels in dry towns. These merchants are practically compelled to sacrifice their principles to save their business by voting for a beverage-room.

For these reasons local option is infinitely more unjust than a provincial referendum, and cannot be substituted for it by a leader conscious of his responsibility to serve the will of the people.

EDITORIAL NOTE

The statements in the downtown press to the effect that The Varsity would hold a straw vote on the beverage-room question did not originate in our offices. As far as The Varsity is concerned, the controversy ends with this issue unless it is raised again in some other quarter on the campus.

Hart House String Quartet

The quizzical, half indulgent air with which the Hart House String Quartet met its audience, Friday night bespoke I think, deep gratification in so much that the undergraduate body has begun to take these concerts seriously. The Quartet's work was indeed so approved by the audience that it could not refrain from hearty applause at every opportunity regardless of the continuity of the movements and at the conclusion of the concert the Quartet was given a real ovation.

Good music has something to offer to every type of listener, from the uninitiated to the erudite musician: so also is a measure of satisfaction received at the first hearing of a composition. But it is only after a degree of familiarity has been reached that any true and adequate appreciation is possible. Works of the dimension of the Beethoven Quartet cannot fail to impress from the first by their grandeur and majesty. We sense the greatness in technical mastery when we feel only the obvious superficial beauty.

The Schumann Quartet repays a second audition for quite another reason. Schumann has the habit of inlaying his works so richly with serene beauty that we are overwhelmed by its abundance. It may be this fact that makes people slow to appreciate Schumann, for strength and distinctiveness are more impressive than sustained beauty.

The Hart House String Quartet is technically so fine and its musicianship so impeccable that criticism seems mere quibbling. It appears that the greater the music it plays, the finer is the performance. Nothing was done quite so well as the Beethoven. The first violin stepped into the ensemble and the whole quartet shared equally in the promotion of a great work which had the feeling of conviction and sincerity, and the inevitability of a great performance.

The Haydn Quartet had, by comparison, a feeling of hard and brilliant virtuosity, the playing rather too vigorous and rough and the balance of the ensemble at times jeopardized by the undue prominence of and the lack of blend in certain parts.

F.B.S.

Greatest thanks are due the Hart House String Quartet for their resolve to play one of the last quartets of Beethoven at each of this year's concert. (Continued on Page 4)

WANTS STRAW VOTE

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

What about the straw vote on the question of the Beverage Rooms? Is it that the S.A.C., having gone thus far with the question, proposes to forego any definite action for fear of offending the powers that be?

What harm can it do to find out the student opinion on this very important matter? If the students show themselves to be solidly behind The Varsity in its avowed editorial policy, then it is the duty of The Varsity to continue to attack this social evil. If, on the other hand, the students favour the continuation of the present system of dispensing liquor, then they will merely be showing confidence in and approval of the most astounding alteration that the present government has seen fit to institute.

This is not a political question, nor can The Varsity be accused of meddling with political controversial affairs, in criticizing the present system. It is a social evil, and as such, where, if not in the provincial centre of learning, should the strongest steps be taken against it? Newspapers talk of the crowds of "students" seen in the local Beverage Rooms. If these tales are false, let us show it by the proposed vote. If they are true, it will do no particular harm to admit it, although it is not a thing of which the University of Toronto should be proud. The Varsity has already found that prominent men are in agreement with its policy. If the students are also behind their paper, let us continue the fight!

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

The football world today presents a much different appearance to what it did before the teams went into action Saturday. St. Mike's saw their chances slide away on the slippery gridiron at Sarnia while Argos failed in their quest of the golden fleece in Hamilton. In the intercollegiate series Queen's and Varsity are still running abreast while McGill are working into a favourable position for their drive down the back stretch.

Warren Stevens' gridiron hopes, fondly referred to as the Blue clad warriors, had little if anything, to spare in their battle with Queen's. The Tricolour, who have been winning games by a single point all season, came to town, short handed in this regard. Even at that the wind had as much to do with the tide of battle as did the efforts of the Toronto students. Queen's are undoubtedly a hard team to beat. They are husky, hard, and cautious, a combination which yields points grudgingly. In face of this the Varsity team looked rather ineffective at times.

Still, winning games in the last play of the contest is not a daily occurrence anywhere except in magazines, and that effort of Coulter's on Saturday is something which will probably not be duplicated in several seasons. In fact, it was that last quarter when Varsity was battling against time, and gradually cutting down the Queen's lead until it had evolved into a deficit, that saved the game from mediocrity.

In other lines of endeavour Varsity met with varying degrees of success. Both the intermediate and junior football clubs lost but the soccer and rugby teams won. The victory for the rugby team brings an intercollegiate title to Varsity and intercollegiate titles to date have been very elusive. The soccer team now has only to hope that M.C.C. beat McGill and they will be in possession of the title. This, however, seems rather unlikely as McGill beat Varsity, and will scarcely lose to the team beaten in turn 7-0 by Varsity.

It is with sorrow that we learned last night of the death of the sister of Davey Rowland, playing manager of the intercollegiate soccer team. Friends of Mr. Rowland will join with The Varsity in extending to him their sincere sympathy.

JUNIOR ARGOS DEFEAT VARSITY

Varsity Tried Hard but Failed to Cope with Argos' Experience

FINAL SCORE 18-0

Varsity juniors went down to defeat before the powerful Argonaut rugbyists in a Junior O.R.F.U. fixture, Saturday afternoon on the back campus, by an 18-0 count. Varsity tried hard all the way and were not guilty of much loose playing, but Argos proved to have too much experience for them to cope with.

In the first quarter, Selkirk, Argos' star kicker, hoofed the oval 65 yards over the deadline to register the first tally. A short Varsity kick gave the Argos the ball in a good position and on two bucks Wallace crossed the Varsity line for a touchdown which was not converted.

Varsity started well in the second quarter. They got the ball on Argos 40 yard line when the Varsity receiver of Selkirk's hoist was given no yards. Miller tossed a 20 yard pass to Mustard but Argos recovered a bad snap and the big threat was halted. Soon after this Argos got the ball on Varsity's 12 yard line when they blocked a kick. On the first down Stokes went over for the second touchdown of the game. This one was converted. Just before half time Varsity completed another 20 yard pass. Selkirk was showing real class on his towering kicks and easily outshone Miller, who could not get very much distance with his hoists.

The third quarter produced no scoring. Varsity continued to press in the last quarter. They completed an 18 yard pass and then gained 12 yards on a faked pass, but the ball was dropped. When they got possession of the ball again, Stein plunged 15 yards, and Miller tossed a 30 yard pass. He tried again on the next down but the pass was intercepted and run back. Then Argos tried a pass and Macpherson tossed one to Forbes, who was camped behind the Varsity line. This touchdown was converted to close the scoring.

Argos: Axmith; Selkirk, Macpherson, Darbyshire; Forbes; Hendrie; Macklen, Hewlett; Auburn, Harris; La Belle, Kearns; subs, Hine, Pogue, Watson, Wallace, Miller, McDonald, Stukus, Seymour.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

No sport column today would be complete without at least a mention of that rugby game on Saturday. Perhaps from the male standpoint (i.e. that of one versed in the intricacies of the game) it may not have been football of the highest calibre. But to those of us who are not so super-critical it seemed a marvellous game and we came away exhausted from the intense nervous strain. We would like to join heartily in the general hand which is being given to the "Big Blue Team".

And now to turn to subjects which are more within our scope. Basketball at St. Mike's is coming right along. Their losses seem almost as serious as Vic's but they are decidedly more optimistic than the managers of the Scarlet and Gold outfit appear to be. Agnes Gardner will be playing again this year, and she is so versatile an athlete as to be an invaluable addition to any team.

Agnes is the sole survivor of the regular '33 quartet which gave St. Hilda's a real fight for the group leadership. Helen Dart, Pat Callan, and Betty Shanahan all graduated and Rosamund McCulloch, the fresher who astounded all the tried athletes of the University is not back for her second year. Rosamund was a big hope for St. Mike's in various sports—and also for the University—and it is very sad that she is no longer with us.

Mary Vining is back again; she played part-time last year. The available new material looks first-rate. Peggy Bailey has the makings of a stellar defence player, and Betty Herringer would strengthen any forward line.

BASKETBALL PRACTICES

The following schedule of practices will be followed until further notice:

VARSLITY STOPS QUEEN'S TYING UP RUGBY RACE

greatest factors in the game. Blowing from the north it aided each team in turn. All of the points scored in the contest except two for Queen's, were chalked up with the scoring side having the wind behind them. The wind made life miserable for the halves as sudden gusts caused the ball to soar over their heads. Isbister's lofts seemed to have been singled out especially and the Queen's halves often misjudged his lofty kicks.

Queen's were first to chalk up a score when in the first few minutes of play Bruce Fenner made a bad pass to Isbister on an end run, the ball going into touch. This gave the teen year penalty claiming that Kirkland was roughed on the play. A pretty Queen's team possession at the Blues' twenty-seven yard line. Zvonkin carried the ball to a point directly in front of the Blue posts twenty five yards out. From this point Barnabe's educated toe sent the oval directly between the uprights on a neat placement effort. This ended the scoring in the first quarter.

Varsity Scores

In the second quarter, after an exchange of kicks and a fumble on the part of each squad, Cam Gray sent the ball to the Queen's deadline on a long rolling punt for the Blues' first point. On the very next play Greco recovered a Queen's fumble and after the ball was moved to a point in front of the posts Gray's attempted placement went wide for another single. After an exchange of kicks Barnabe, the placement kicking star of Reeve's crew, was hurt and was taken out of the game. Big Bob Isbister came on after one of Munro's short kicks against the wind and hoofed a long one to the deadline to tie the score at three all.

On the very next play Sonshine plunged for nine yards, Kirkland following this up with a thirty-yard crash through the centre, being downed at midfield. The officials tacked on a fit-forward pass, Krug to Munro, placed the ball at Varsity's sixteen yard line, from where the latter kicked to the deadline to break the tie and sent Queen's into a 4-3 lead at half time.

At the start of the second half the Blues began a heavy offensive but a fumble on the part of Laing put the Blues in a hole and after an exchange of kicks the wind carried Munro's loft to the deadline for a fifth Tricolour score. At the end of the quarter Queen's were penalized for holding Isbister when the latter tried to recover one of his kicks. This cost Reeve's men a sure point.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter Zvonkin plunged the ball to Varsity's twenty-nine yard line from which point Munro kicked for Queen's sixth and final tally. The Blues sent the play into the Tricolour half and aided by Zvonkin's penalty and Munro's short kicks placed the ball twenty-five yards out. Coulter's attempted placement barely went ten yards. Isbister punted for a point on the next exchange. On the very next exchange Isbister kicked to the deadline from midfield. Zvonkin fumbled on the next play and Allison recovered thirty yards out. Isbister quickly kicked for the third and tying point in two minutes.

Exciting Finish

Some heavy plunging and Warren's penalty punt play in the Varsity end and when everything looked darkest from a Blue standpoint, Young fumbled the ball at Varsity's forty-six yard line. Isbister's long punt put the ball on Queen's four yard line, from which point Munro sent his punt to Coulter, who quickly returned it for the winning single.

On both squads several lads stood out. Munro, Edwards and Krug went well on the Tricolour backfield. Sonshine turned in a splendid effort. Zvonkin, Kirkland and Kostuk gave their best performance to date with the former two also turning in excellent plunging efforts. For the Blues, Coulter as usual played a heady game being ably helped by Isbister and Webber. Schnozze Dawson played in his old time form, which is very, very good. On the line Greco, Harris, and Laing were outstanding. The tackling of the Blue outsidies was good only at times.

Queen's: Sonshine; Krug, Munro, Barnabe; Edwards; Barker; Kostuk; Waugh; Zvonkin, Kirkland; Elliott, Wing; subs, Young, Lewis, Bews and Jones.

any chance they had to keep pace with the Imperials by making a costly fumble ten yards out, on which the feet footed Perry scored a try, with Hayes converting. Woefully weak in the kicking department, St. Michael's found themselves constantly forced back into their own territory whenever grewled at 2:15 a.m. when the actual conflict got under way at the Stadium. It blew co-ed big-brimmed hats around. It sadly foiled the designs of christening fans whose apple missiles went far astray. And it carried those ex-cruciatingly beautiful kicks of Johnny Munro far into Varsity territory. Queen's took the lead. Queen's did the impossible and kicked two points against the wind. But in that final nerve-racking quarter, and in that final Frank Merriwell minute-it boosted Bobby Coulter's miraculous punt well over the Kingston line. The brow nor wester did well by the old Alma Mater-and left The Varsity's War Correspondent so weak he could hardly fight his way north and east for a cup of hot coffee, 'neath the sign of the neon tubes.

tion would be the best way of settling the matter. A referendum, he said, is neither a proper expression of opinion nor fair in any way. Urban and rural areas may differ in their views, and it is unjust for one part of the province to dictate to another part that sees the problem in a different light. Ian Strachan, M.P.P. for St. George, refused to express an opinion on The Varsity's stand on the beer question. "I have nothing to say to The Varsity," he declared. "I am waiting to see what will happen." He thought that the pressure of student opinion, if unfavourable to the present beer legislation, should have some effect on the government's policy.

whether Stevens would be admitted into the party. Speaking at the Liberal convention in St. Paul riding on Saturday, Salter A. Hayden, the Liberal nominee in that riding declared that the Stevens' inquiry had been intended as a show to deceive the people but it got out of hand and Stevens had to be sacrificed at the demand of the industrialists. Colonel Straight, M.P. for West York and Colonel Mulock, M.P. for North York, declared that the Bennett government was favouring the big interests by reducing taxes on large incomes and by handing the Bank of Canada over to private interests. They expressed confidence in "honourable and able Harry Stevens", and declared that they were in favour of continuing the probe. After that his hearers were shocked to hear Major Inwood, the president of the Liberal Association, express a fear that there would be "nothing left in the trough by the time the Liberals come to Ottawa".

BULLETIN BOARD

Bulletin Board and Coming Event notices must be handed in at either the men's office in Hart House, or at the women's office in University College. No notices will be taken over the telephone, after 6 p.m. notices must be taken in the Press Building. Notices for the Bulletin Board are limited to ONE insertion only.

U.C. MEN'S GRADUATION PICTURES

There is only a limited time left to have your graduation pictures taken so please co-operate with us in getting the last few taken. Appointments have been made with Freeland's for Tuesday, October 30: G. L. Laing 2 p.m., J. H. Dawson 2:10, H. V. Pritchard 2:20, J. F. Parrett 2:30.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE S.C.M.

Professor Dale is leading a group on "Verba Christi"-The Sayings of Jesus. Anyone interested in such a group is asked to meet in Room 67, U.C., at 4:45 on Monday, October 29th. This is an organization meeting.

SCARLET AND GOLD TICKETS

Those desiring tickets for the dance this Saturday please sign the list in the college hall. There will be a few tickets for grads as well as an allotment for each year. Sign early and avoid disappointment.

VIC MUSIC GROUP

There will be a music group in Wymilwood, Monday, October 29 at 5 p.m. Mme. de Kresz assisted by a violin soloist will give a programme of Beethoven sonatas. Men are welcome at these groups.

ART, MUSIC AND DRAMA

certain. These astonishing works are little known among us; yet we have an ensemble here eminently capable of expounding this marvellous music. The opportunity presented is one which all who view music with seriousness cannot afford to miss.

The Beethoven Quartet, Opus 127, in E flat, is not to be spoken of briefly. The first movement is perhaps the most insuperable, the most baffling of the four, and the programme notes' phrases—"great-heard humanity, philosophic profundity, etc."-are but futile words. There is an impenetrable power in the music which defies verbal discussion which, indeed, is apt to escape the understanding altogether. Listening to such works, it is a temptation to seek relief by denying, as some critics do, that this is music at all. But elude him how we will, there the mature Beethoven stands, and ours is the task—the impossible task?—to enter into his colossal thought.

The Haydn, as played Saturday night, is its own comment. The Schumann A Minor Quartet is perhaps not the clearest example of that composer's limpid, almost child-like, beauty. But it is moving, in a simple way, as Schumann's music is bound to be—for Schumann never vibrates with the unnatural emotions that affect the works of other romantic writers. The movement in this quartet which is sure to stir the listener's feelings is the lovely Adagio—darker, stronger, as is the whole composition, than most of Schumann's work.

The Hart House Quartet is always superb in performance. It is, however, worth noting that the Saturday evening concerts in the Theatre give the best setting for the ensemble. One would think that the genius of the Quartet expressed itself most perfectly in the gentle atmosphere of these charming affairs.

Ballet Russe

It is one thing to be charmed and it is quite another to be cloyed. It was the lot of Friday night's audience at the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo to experience the former state.

An aggregation of the most talented dancers ever seen on this continent is to be found in this company, which played to Toronto audiences the last three days of last week. Every one of these god-like terpsichoreans is a superlative artist and interpreter of the poetry of motion.

The vehicles chosen on Friday night to exhibit the talents and personalities of these dancers were unusually varied and admirably representative of their best work. The first number, Scuola di Ballo, with charming Bocherini music, presented in bright and animated pantomime the vicissitudes of an Italian

HONOUR SCIENCE CLUB

On Tuesday, October 30th, at 8 p.m. the first party will be held at the Women's Union, 79 St. George St. An evening's entertainment has been planned. Membership cards may be obtained at the door.

FOLK DANCING

Many will remember Mr. John Madsen, who conducted a folk dancing class among members of the Student Christian Movement last year. On Friday, November 2, there will be a folk dancing party in O.C.E. gym and Mr. Madsen will be with us again. Tickets may be obtained from the S.C.M. either from the central offices or in the Household Science Building, or from Victoria or University Colleges. They must be obtained in advance.

U.C. WOMEN'S GRADUATION PICTURES

Will the following women please report at Freeland's, 89 Bloor St. W. on the day and at the time appointed. Monday, 3:30 D. Beek, 3:40 J. Brydon, 4 D. Lincoln, 4:10 M. Westbye, 4:20 D. Nasmith. Biography cards will be at the photographer's. Be sure to fill one out.

Union Pacific, the second and most original number on the programme, called for the ultimate in clever timing, colourful settings, and sheer ingenuity of staging. Portraying as it does the struggle between the Chinese and Irish workmen in completing the Union Pacific Railroad, the opportunity was seized for introducing novel character bits and a sumptuous border scene. The dancing of Irena Borovna as the lady-gay and her gorgeous costume, were highlights of a highly intelligent divertissement. Interesting, too, was the original music, interspersed with American folk strains. Back in the tradition was La Boutique Fantasque, which presented the old story of the doll in a toy store and their nocturnal dildoes. The clever comedy touches of Tamara Toumanova and Ramon Jansinsky were second only to the superb grace and delicacy of the premiere danseuse, Tatiana Rabounchinskai, who captured all hearts, both on and off the stage, with her technical excellence and that winning smile.

A stunning spectacle, the Ballet Russe is a treat not to be missed. E.W.S.

Art Gallery

Rather than add to the cloud of criticism obscuring the Renoir-Degas show at the A.G. of T., I prefer to discuss that criticism.

It is the habit of those people who feel they must "know" art to discuss the artist rather than his work. At the mention of Degas they pop up and tell an anecdote about Whistler and Degas (probably the one about Degas at the sight of Whistler in a cafe too, too elegantly dressed, even a carnation and yellow gloves, remarking, "Whistler you forgot your muff!"). This, of course, saves their face (or their seat), and they are credited with "knowing so much about art". This sort of thing accumulates, however, and soon we find the most ridiculous legends surrounding these artists. Granted that Renoir painted his cook; that Cezanne left his canvasses in the field of Provence; that Van Gogh cut off his ear and so on ad nauseum, but, what, may I ask, has all this to do with the position of these men in the world of art? Nothing!

Renoir and Degas were both great artists and, at times, incredibly bad. One would gather that the gallery has tried to present them both at their worst. The collection of Renoirs and the handful of Degas at the gallery is the poorest aggregation of unrepresentative works ever shown as the work of Renoir and Degas, French

Reginald Stewart

Reginald Stewart delighted a large and enthusiastic audience at his all-Bach recital in Hart House on Friday afternoon. Students, even those to whom classical music has generally little appeal, have come through the Prom concerts, to look on Mr. Stewart as an arranger of programmes that will appeal to them without lowering the quality of the music.

The programme on Friday, which was very representative of all Bach's moods, did not disappoint them. The delightful choral prelude "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring", was received very enthusiastically, as is usual when Mr. Stewart plays it.

The "Tocatta and Fugue", originally written for the organ, sounded better on the piano than it does in the orchestral transcription, suffering, however, from the inability of the piano to produce the tremendous effects of the organ.

Mr. Stewart's excellent technique showed to advantage in the amazing way in which he kept separate the five voices in the fugue part of the prelude and fugue in B flat minor.

If all the other recitals in this series are as fine as that one was we may look forward to a very successful season. P. J. S.

Sunday Evening Concert

The first Hart House Sunday Evening Concert was given last night by the distinguished Hart House String Quartet. The programme consisted of the Haydn and Schumann Quartets played on the Friday evening concert in Convocation Hall.

It seems to us particularly fitting that the Quartet should open the Sunday Evening Concert series in so much as the Quartet has played such an integral part in the University life. Hart House is its true home. Furthermore, the Hart House concerts are so fine, the artists who perform so distinguished, that the keynote for the whole season is struck in this first recital.

moderate quantities has no ill effects and indeed is beneficial to many people.

It has been proven conclusively in North America that a law which can not be enforced is worse than no law at all. It results in the loss of confidence and respect for law in general.

Prohibition of beverage rooms will hence not eradicate the evil. Rather it will encourage drinking and bootlegging of inferior beer. The miserable failure of prohibition in Ontario and in the U.S. has shown that you cannot legislate people into being good. Rather it means bootlegging and crime. Some people unfortunately make pigs of themselves as regards eating; others have a very enjoyable chat while they do the same as regards drinking. Beverage rooms allow people to drink when and where it is convenient. It is no longer necessary to drink beer by oneself, or at a beer party, in order to have some at all. Those conditions of privacy usually led to excess. One may drink even more than before, and yet not derive harmful effects from this drinking because it is not all done at once. Rather whenever one is thirsty in business or pleasure it is now possible to refresh oneself.

There is no stigma attached to soda fountains or tea rooms that I know of. There one is free to go and drink ginger ale, tea, or coffee, or any other non-intoxicating beverage. It is an ideal rendezvous where old friends get together after the dance or the promenade concert as the case may be—and refresh themselves with some particular drink.

Beer was consumed in large quantities before open drinking was allowed. The government has wisely concluded that a man has a perfect right to drink in public just as he may eat in public. "There ought to be a law" is a common hackneyed expression and is evidence of an irresponsible attitude towards government. The proper means of combatting this evil of excessive drinking is through our educational authorities, whether Church or State. Once public opinion is educated, it will ostracise the glutton and the drunkard. Yours truly,
Robert S. L. McAdam.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Premier Hepburn announced yesterday that beginning Thursday Ontario municipalities will receive 20 per cent of the profits from beer and wine sales, also that it had been decided to close all beverage rooms at 11 p.m. standard time.

Montreal—F. A. Gaby, for many years chief engineer of the Ontario Hydro, has been appointed assistant to the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. E. W. Beatty has announced.

Berlin—Prince Hubertus of Prussia, third son of the former crown prince, has obtained his grandfather's permission to join the German army—the Reichwehr.

Paris—Startling Nazi army plans for the increasing of armaments were revealed by Marshal Henri Petain, the French Minister of War, to a secret meeting of the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies this morning.

London—British and United States delegates definitely rejected the Japanese proposals for a new naval treaty to supplant the London and Washington pacts.

Washington—An unemployment insurance plan based on a direct tax on industrial payrolls, is now being prepared for presentation to the next United States Congress.

U.C. PARLIAMENT DEBATES ON LOVE

Members Given Opportunity to Obtain Knowledge on Subject

SHAKESPEARE QUOTED

"Resolved that Love is the Sweetest Thing", will be the subject for the next meeting of the University College Parliament on Thursday afternoon. The subject, upon which the government forces will stake their political all, has been chosen by Mr. Bill Stobie and Mr. Bruce Marshall in order that U.C. men will have all opportunity to get first hand knowledge of the subject from their political experts.

"Love is something about which I know absolutely nothing," said Mr. S. M. Hermant to The Varsity, when asked for his advance opinion on the question. "I do not think that a debate is a very good place to learn about love, but my conservative nature prevents me from suggesting just exactly where the ideal place would be."

N. M. Pivnick, speaker of the house, also confessed official ignorance of the subject in hand, and refused to even define the term. "My office forbids me to discuss the matter," he said.

Mr. Bruce Marshall, who will be speaking on the motion, felt that he had little experience upon which to base any opinion, but quoted from Shakespeare "When love speaks, the voice of all the gods makes heaven drowsy with the harmony." Mr. Arnold Smith, Secretary of State in the parliamentary line-up, also felt moved to poetry in defence of love. Also quoting from Shakespeare, he orated "If sleep were all the joys of bed, one woman would another wed."

JOHNSON SPEAKS ON NECESSITY OF INITIATIVE

Challenges Mass Meeting of Dental Students to Face Problems Squarely

FIFTH AMONG VOCATIONS

Lauds Past Accomplishments in Medical and Dental Sciences

A plea for the stressing of individual initiative, and a challenge to the younger members of the profession to face squarely the problem confronting them, featured a mass meeting of Dental students yesterday. Dr. C. N. Johnson, students' Dean of the Chicago College of Dental Surgery, was the speaker.

"The mental endowment in every one of us," he said, "combined with the riches of science, and arts already available, needs only the factor of individual initiative before we can scale the obstacles in our path. Dentistry as a profession, has not yet reached its centennial, yet it has reached fifth place among the vocations in the esteem of the world at large."

VARSITY APPROVED BY STUDENT BODY

Cat, Sports, Editorials and Theatre Reviews Prove Favourites

DDUR OFFENSIVE

In a survey conducted by The Varsity yesterday it was found that the students in general approved of the way their paper is run. Most of the people liked the editorials though Mary Henry, II Vic, thought that they were too highbrow, but nevertheless still good. Many would like to see more correspondence in the paper as they find the opinions of others interesting. There was a universal dislike for the smell of the ink. Several requested to have the paper printed in blue ink; others objecting on the grounds that it came off on their hands.

Kelner, IF U.C.: "I think the headlines take up too much room. I would like to see the back-page humorous features again this year."

Bill McPherson, I S.P.S.: "I think the Campus Cats are very good and also the sport column. I would prefer the articles to be records of events rather than interviews."

Lois Fleming, I U.C.: "I would like to have more movie reviews and something done about the smell of the paper."

Craig Davidson, II U.C.: "I like the Art, Music and Drama, the theatre review, the correspondence, and the Speaking of Sport. The editorials give food for thought."

A. Leventhal, V Meds: "The Varsity as a whole is terrible and what a hole. There is too much news about clubs in which just a small proportion are interested. I would like to see a cartoon if it is possible financially."

Mary Henry, IF Vic: "I like the Campus Cat and also the editorials, even if they are too highbrow."

T. Elliott, I U.C.: "I think that the general attitude of the students toward The Varsity is very favourable and I disagree with Mr. Leventhal."

MacKerrow, I U.C.: "I like the paper generally and in particular the sports and the Campus Cat."

DENTISTRY PLAN MERRY HALLOWE'EN

Wednesday evening, October 31st, will witness the annual Halloween dance under the auspices of the Faculty of Dentistry. The Roof Gardens of the Royal York Hotel have been reserved for the occasion and "Hinky" Hudson, the genial social navigator, has charted an evening of extreme pleasure to the accompaniment of Karl Mueller and his Varsity Entertainers. ### BONES OF 1700 B.C. DISCOVERED IN CHINA

Professor White Delivers the Inaugural Address on Culture

ART OF GLAZING LOST

Oracle bones have been found recently at Honan, China, and have brought to light things which happened before 841 B.C., and which were formerly unknown, was the information conveyed to a capacity audience in the Royal Ontario Museum Theatre yesterday afternoon by Professor W. C. White, D.D., formerly Bishop of Honan, in his inaugural lecture for this year.

Professor White spoke on the subject "Chinese culture three thousand years ago", and as head of a Chinese Department which has been formed in the University of Toronto, will deliver a course of lectures, most of them illustrated, on art and archaeology in China. He stated that there are prospects that students from Japan and China will soon be in attendance here.

Professor White went on to say that inscriptions had been cut on the bones and painted by brush, and deal with the forecasting of oracles, the weather, and hunting, a favourite topic. Formerly authentic history has been taken to be from 841 B.C. but the Shang-Yin dynasty, to which these relics belong, date back from 1700 to 1200 B.C. (Continued on Page 3)

SPRY TO ADDRESS LOCAL C.C.F. CLUB

Royal Commission on Mass Buying to Form Subject of Talk

DISCUSSION TO FOLLOW

"Mr. Stevens and the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass Buying", forms the subject of Mr. Graham Spry's address to be delivered before an open meeting of the C.C.F. Club at Wymilwood on Wednesday evening next.

Mr. Spry, an outstanding figure in the political and journalistic world, speaking upon a subject which is being flashed before the public eye at the moment, assures a meeting of interest to those who attend.

This open meeting of the club, which was scheduled for an earlier date, has been held over until Wednesday, awaiting the return of the speaker of the evening from Montreal.

Mr. N. M. Pivnick, president of the club, states that an open discussion upon topics of general interest to the growth and development of the organization will follow the event of the evening. One such topic is the club's stand regarding affiliation with the organization as it exists in the province. The University club has not yet decided to enter into direct affiliation with the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation or with the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement.

VERA BRITTAIN GIVES LECTURE ON YOUTH MORALS

Modern Youth Lives with Wide-Open Windows, Says Speaker

NEW IDEALISM PRESENT

Task of Young Generation to Change Meaning of Patriotism

"The difference between Victorian youth and the youth of today, is that the Victorians lived in a house with the blinds drawn, while the modern youth lives with wide-open windows, through which he can view the 'facts of life'." This was the theme of Miss Vera Brittain's address at Eaton's Auditorium last night, on "Youth Morals, Today and Yesterday".

Introduced by His Honour, the Lieut. Governor H. A. Bruce, Miss Brittain addressed a crowded but somewhat disappointed house. She treated morals in the Latin sense of customs, and fashions, changing with succeeding generations. "It is a biological necessity for the younger generation to be a little harder on the older," said Miss Brittain. "It was the refusal of modern youth to accept the Victorian values which resulted in the changes of the last two decades."

"The lack of reverence of youth toward their elders, the determined unwillingness to take advice, resulted in (Continued on Page 3)

The Hall Porter refused to give any opinion as to the probable cause of the disappearances. S.C.M. Fortunate in Again Securing the Services of Mr. Masden

The social season of the Students' Christian Movement is getting under way this coming Friday, November 2, at a meeting to be held at the Ontario College of Education in the form of a party. The Varsity learned from Mr. J. A. Romeyn, president of the men's S.C.M. of University College, that plans for organized classes for folk dancing under the leadership of Mr. Masden would be arranged at the meeting next Friday.

Mr. Masden is a native of Denmark and a prominent figure in Y.M.C.A. circles here, and is well known to the members of the S.C.M. Last year Mr. (Continued on Page 3)

MODERN THEORIES TO BE DISCUSSED

Series of Science Lectures to be Inaugurated on Friday

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS

The following series of lectures will be delivered on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock in Room 43, in the Physics Building. The purpose of these lectures is to offer to those not directly engaged in advanced work in Physics, an account of modern theories of atomic structure which throw light on the interrelation of the elements. The notes attached will indicate the content and logical development and treatment of the subject.

Nov. 2—Dr. C. Barnes, Department of Physics. Valence of Chemical Elements: Early in the development of the atomic theory of matter speculations were made as to the nature of the forces keeping atoms grouped together in molecules, and the concept of valence was introduced to give an empirical account of the combinatory properties of atoms.

Nov. 9—Dr. C. Barnes. Modern Theories of Valence: It is only quite recently that any successful theory of valence forces has become possible. Modern atomic theory and quantum theory have provided the solution, although there are still many special problems to be solved.

Nov. 16—Dr. Elizabeth Allin, Department of Physics (recently holder (Continued on Page 3)

WYCLIFFE RETAINS LEAD OF GROUP

Held Victoria to One-All Draw in Soccer Play

SCORING IN FIRST HALF

By holding Victoria to a one-all draw on the front campus yesterday afternoon, Wycliffe retained the leadership of their group in the interfaculty soccer league.

Pratt beat Ruch with a well placed shot to give Victoria a one goal lead at half time, but Wycliffe started off with a rush after the rest period and Fairweather soon gained the equalizer. The Vic backs looked rather bad on the play as they were slow in clearing the ball from the goal mouth.

The Scarlet and Gold dominated the play for the last fifteen minutes of the game but they were unable to score. Twice they forced corners, but each time the Wycliffe backs cleared the ball down the field before any damage could be done, and no further scoring resulted.

Wycliffe: Goal, Ruch; fullbacks, Simmonds, McKibbin; halfbacks, Cleverdon, Crawshaw, Nickle; forwards, Toone, Phillips, Wood, Smith, Fairweather; subs, Markle, Wenham.

Victoria: Goal, Dyke; fullbacks, Cooper, Scott; halfbacks, Woodsworth, Simpson, Campbell; forwards, Taylor, Pratt, Grills, Rowlinson, Cochrane; subs, Cryderman, Camp, Sim.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR BLUE NETTERS IN BOTH LEAGUES

Varsity Basketeers Will Enter Big Seven As Well As Intercollegiate

TWO TRIPS TO STATES

Twelve Players with Senior Experience Already at Work

The senior basketball team has commenced practising in preparation for the forthcoming season. As the plans now stand they will play senior intercollegiate, Big Seven and take a couple of short trips into the States.

Twelve players with senior experience have turned out for the initial practices. The newcomers to the squad are Ddworth and Fitton of McMaster and Costigan and Mennell of Assumption. Of last year's team, Gold, Gordon, Levy, Bodrug, Caplan, Doc Mitchell and Normie Newman are all back. Lofly Willis is not eligible for intercollegiate competition but is able to play Big Seven. Jerry Vanderleek of last year's intermediate team has been showing up well at the centre position.

McGill have dominated the senior college loop for the past few years, but the Blue mentors are very hopeful that this year Varsity will undermine their supremacy.

S.P.S. DEFEATED IN CLOSE GAME

Dents Staged Thrilling Finish in Last Few Seconds

PLAYOFF BERTH ASSURED

Staging a grandstand finish in the last seven seconds of the game, Dents completed a forward pass which was carried over on completion from the Engineers' twenty-five yard line by Dore, their spinning half, yesterday's 6-3 win over Senior S.P.S. ensured the Dental College of a playoff berth as group winners.

The game, although marred by numerous fumbles, was well-played and hotly contested during the whole four quarters. Senior School opened the scoring when Gartshore booted a single after Dents fumbled in the opening minutes of play.

The second quarter was featured by scintillating plays on the part of both teams, with Baker of School cracking the Dents' line for 30 yards, Dore tearing (Continued on Page 3)

DR. H. B. SPEAKMAN, GUEST OF ENGINEERING SOCIETY

Freshmen Will Learn "School" Songs Assisted by Seniors

Dr. H. B. Speakman, Director of the Ontario Research Foundation, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Engineering Society this afternoon. Dr. Speakman will discuss the work of the Foundation and his address should prove of great interest to those students who are interested in research problems.

Prior to the meeting, Mr. McCarthy, Director of Publications and Publicity for the Engineering Society, will assist in teaching "School" songs to the freshman class, and will be assisted by the senior members of the Engineering Society.

The meeting will be held at four o'clock in Room 22 of the Mining Building.

WOMEN AND WAR

War is on the agenda of current events. It may not be point number one, two, three or four, but it is definitely on the list. Points number one, two, etc., may be another disarmament conference, or a general economic or wheat conference; perhaps the assassination of another dictator; perhaps the League of Nations will once more try to stop one of the local wars being waged at present; there may even be another investigation into the manufacture of war armaments (with the negative results of the U.S.A. investigation). But all these points are immaterial, except in so far as they are the initial steps in forming the war consciousness and war fever that, we are told, precede every war.

The University men and women in Canada are inclined to be apathetic and unaware of this war feeling. They look on war as "a something" that Europe is talking about, and think that Canada will be untouched by this European something. It is unthinkable that in Canada there should be passed "an emergency decree providing compulsory military auxiliary service for men from 17 to 60, and women between 19 and 45". (Toronto Star, September 29, 1934). But this has happened in Poland. And if in Poland, why not also in Italy, Germany, and France, that also have need of tremendous reserve armies? And if in those countries, why not further afield? For we are being promised a glorious wholesale slaughter. However, conscription of women in Canada, although possible, does not strike us as probable.

What then do the women of Canada face, in the event of another war? These things, quite definitely: the replacing of men in the munition factories so that they can make the bullets, explosives, war machines, etc.; the replacing of men in the various branches of mine work, especially the metal mines, nickel, iron, lead; the replacing of men on the transport lines, engineers, firemen, etc. They would take over most of the work that is now in the hands of men, the complete running of hospitals, all factory work, transporting, business execution. They would go overseas (for the war would undoubtedly be fought on a foreign battle ground) as nurses to tend their wounded men, and to drive the trucks and ambulances. The field of women's activities has grown so much since "the War to end War", that in the next war (a "post-script war") it can easily be seen, that any barriers that still remain between what is definitely man's work and women's work, will be completely destroyed.

This picture of what lies before the women may seem at first glance attractive, full of opportunity, of glamor, of romance. The new fields and interests that it opens up are indeed intriguing. But at what price? There is no romance left in war. The old idea of picturesque armor, and man to man conflict, and horses with their legs draped, has been replaced by lice-infested khaki, the wholesale mowing down of men by machine guns and explosives, the horrible crushing and killing by aeroplanes and tanks, the strangling and torturing by gases and chemicals. There is no romance in modern war.

There would be no discrimination amongst women in the amount or kind of suffering that would be inflicted on them. The degree of shelter and seclusion in their upbringing and lives would be of no account. University and society women would be as much involved as any of their factory sisters. It will not only be the men now in the recruiting camps, or the unemployed in the streets, or the lower wage workers who will be sent to the front. These will form the bulk of human war material, but they will be supplemented by the students now on the campus and in the colleges, who come within the age limits. It is worth consideration.

The women of the University are not urged to immediately rush out and join the Anti-War Society already in existence on the campus, or any other organization with a pacifist or anti-military policy. Nor should they become violent over the Armistice services to be held on November 12th. But they might think of the meaning of war, whether it is a thing desirable or undesirable; whether anything can be done individually, or whether more can be accomplished through an organization.

Art, Music and Drama

The M.C. Players' Guild

On Wednesday afternoon at 4.15 the Players' Guild will bring to its audience Mr. Noel Coward in a not-so-characteristic mood. Mr. Jack Graham is directing the last act of the "Vortex" with a cast including Miss Lucy Jane Grabbell, Miss Helen Stewart and Mr. Arthur Paulin.

Distinctly a problem play, this piece is a savage expose of sham and degeneracy in modern society. Packed with brilliant lines, which are not of the brittle quality expected of Mr. Coward at the height of his idiom, this play is nevertheless in the van of his artistic successes.

Hart House Theatre

There has been much talk about the resurrection of the drama through the Little Theatre movement. We sincerely hope that this is a fact. However, two grave questions must be answered. First is there (outside of the Soviet Union) any drama worth resurrecting, and secondly, if so, are there any actors or directors capable of resurrecting it? We do not here imply that the answer must be in the negative—we merely wonder.

But a resurrection indicates a death; and it is quite unfair to suggest that Nancy Pyper has had any traffic with corpses; unless it be the dramatic material with which she is working. The idea of Shaw's play, that in the hour of trial one's real nature will out, sometimes with surprising results, is as old and as acceptable as in vino veritas. The sprightly treatment which Shaw accorded it, especially the chance to make a good thing out of each of the minor characters, no doubt partially justifies the appearance of The Devil's Disciple at Hart House Theatre this week. But the lack of a large enough number of really good actors available unfortunately binds the question of casting up with that of choice of play. A good stage director Nancy Pyper undoubtedly is; she has both an intellectual and an emotional comprehension of her dramatic material; but she must realize that unless

BEER ISSUE PETTY

The Editor, The Varsity.
Sir:

In a world saturated with the consciousness of political and social change and reconstruction, at the veritable cross-roads of human destiny where Man is choosing between a chauvinistic nationalism and Fascist slavery, or a pacifistic Internationalism and co-operative equality, in such a profound crisis I find to my dismay and disappointment that the voice of a distinguished university presents three-column headlines on beer, and special issues on rugby.

I say, shame! Shame upon our learning, upon our mission to society, when we, the intelligentsia of tomorrow, fiddle on the shallow strings of beer and rugby, while the Rome of destiny burns. When are we going to awake and realize that we are being led to another imperialist holocaust?

I say, the issue is not beer but blood! Let us snap this lethargy, comrades, and let us manifest our utter horror and disgust at the militaristic tendencies of this country and the world! Let us "take up the struggle with the foe", the true struggle for which they died, against the true foe, WAR!

Let's Go Places

Continuing their series of history simplified for the university student, the Imperial management present this week British Agent, a very entertaining story of the early Russian revolution. While we would hate to vouch for the authenticity of the history in the story, it has been edited so it will satisfy the maximum of the theatre patrons. At times bordering on the tragic only to be relieved by comedy, it closes with an ending that made your correspondent at least wish he could have been a factor in the revolution. The lead is taken by Leslie Howard, who, after all the practice he obtained as a ghost in Berkley Square, ably fills

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

We had thought Vie seemed pretty discouraged as to their chances in the basketball series, but Meds and Public Health are very much more pessimistic. There is an unwritten rule that it is the lower years who carry on Meds' athletics. Unfortunately there are no athletes among these years, or they lack enthusiasm or something, for they are not turning out and doing their part as it was hoped they would.

The Meds team is suffering this year not through losses of graduates, but rather because several of their good players have reached that point in the medicine course where there is no time for such paltry pursuits as athletics. However, Jean Laing, Mary Albertson and Isabel Wright are still eligible and are doing their best—but Meds won't get far with a three-woman team and that is about what it amounts to at the present moment. Jennie Cantwell is coaching the outfit and could turn out a really good team if three other players of ability equal to the three previously mentioned would appear. Get in there, Meds, don't lose your reputation as one of the pluckiest aggregations in the series!

A number of the girls who are turning out for basketball to represent Public Health Nursing have become rather rusty during four or five years' hospital work. Some individuals who have never played before to speak of have put in an appearance and are shaping up remarkably well. Given more practice time Wilma Hazlitt, the coach, might turn out a very creditable outfit.

As it is their chances seem rather slim. Anna Soper is the most outstanding; she is quite speedy and is developing into a very nice player. Being grouped with St. Hilda's seems to have rather appalled this team. U.C. Juniors will be no easy sextette to meet either. Probably the juniors and the Saints will be the chief contestants for the group title, but at any rate Public Health is getting a lot of fun out of it. We certainly admire their spirit.

The new groupings are casting a different slant on the games this year. Perhaps there will be some startling upsets, but at any rate the element of novelty should be an added attraction, if such is necessary to get people out to these games—it should not be!

FRENCH FURNITURE HAS HIGH STANDARD

Chest Considered Fundamental While Chair Was Symbol of Authority

COMFORT SUBORDINATED

"French renaissance furniture can be regarded as an ornament, comfort being subordinated to dignity," said Miss Ruth M. Home, in her lecture on Period Furniture, in the Royal Ontario Museum yesterday afternoon. "It can also be regarded as an architectural problem, reflecting the Gothic tendency."

Before the time of Louis XIII, kings began to take an interest in furniture, with the result that it became standardized, but with the coming of the sixteenth century an entirely different proposition resulted. Various materials were introduced, although walnut was preferred.

During this period, two schools developed, the School of the Island of France, supported by Goujon, and the School of the South of France, supported by Samkin. It is regrettable that the former has not survived because of

DELUERY SHIELD FALLS TO S. P. S.

Colonel Utton Compliments Contestants on High Scores

CONITIONS POOR

The annual outdoor interfaculty match held by the University Rifle Association on Saturday at Long Branch brought out practically the entire membership and caused the ranges to wear a very crowded appearance.

As usual competition for the DeLury Shield was very keen and it was not until the smoke had died away that S.P.S. were found to have nosed out Dents by a mere nine points. Arts, the former holders, finished in third place.

The scores, in the opinion of Col. Utton of the Canadian Bisley Team, were very creditable, as the shooting conditions were poor. A strong shifting wind from behind made matters decidedly complicated, especially as club rules permit only the usual service rifle with open sights to be used.

The general match also witnessed a close finish with high scores the order of the day. Mr. Lee of Applied Science carried away the honours—and the gold medal—with a score of 67 x 70. The next five competitors were all bracketed within three points of the winner.

Extra series events were shot at both the two hundred and four hundred yard ranges, and produced several ties. The complete lists were not prepared at the time of going to press, but Mr. Broad of S.P.S. expects to have them ready by the end of the week. They will be issued at the next general meeting.

In the DeLury Shield competition, out of a possible 350 with a 5-man team: Applied Science, 333; Lee, Foran, Houle, Pickett, Bleakin; Dentistry, 324; Baird, Pearson, Partridge, Weldon, Hudson; Arts, 314; Sharpe, Powell, Jeffrey, Hynes, Wobus; Pharmacy, 310; Wilton, Ramsay, Stephen, Jones, Howkins.

For the 3-man team from each faculty competing for a Silver Medal the standing out of a possible 210, is as follows: Applied Science, 202; Dentistry, 197; Pharmacy, 191; University College, 186; St. Michael's, 174.

The medal winners are as follows—Gold Medal: Lee, Applied Science. Silver Medals: Foran, Applied Science; Baird, Dentistry; Hynes, St. Michael's; Sharpe, Arts; Wilton, Pharmacy.

Bronze Medals: Houle, Applied Science; Pearson, Dentistry; Wobus, St. Michael's; Ramsay, Pharmacy. Ontario Rifle Association Silver Medal: Professor G. H. W. Lucas.

U.C. DEFEATS VICTORIA IN SENIOR VOLLEYBALL

Spectacular Pick-Ups and Sensational Saves Feature Games

Hart House was the scene of a decidedly smart volleyball game yesterday afternoon, when Senior U.C. by the surprising score of 3-15, 15-1, 15-6. The game was featured with spectacular pick-ups and sensational saves—particularly toward the last. Both sides played combination successfully and the spiking was good.

Due to loose playing by Victoria, U.C. had no trouble taking the first game, and appeared to have the decision on ice, but a reorganized Victoria team took them into camp in the second frame and this time it was U.C. who were guilty of loose playing.

Victoria won the third and deciding game, not through U.C.'s errors, but through their own good playing. U.C. played hard and well but were overwhelmed by Victoria's superior combination and spiking.

Vanderleek, Devitt, and Bodrug were best for Victoria. There were no stand-outs on the U.C. team.

Sr. Vic: Bodrug, Devitt, Kearns, Vanderleek, Neel, Irwin.

Sr. U.C.: Himel, Goulding, Lipman, King, Damsky, Culiner, Laskin, Richardson, Haig.

Referee: Clockower.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

We have heard of people booting a ball a mile but we were under the impression that this was merely an expression. However, owing to the industry of our official statistician we discover that on Saturday the Varsity kicker actually booted the ball within 150 yards of a mile. This was not, of course, any one hoof, but was spread over the course of the afternoon. 1634 yards was the distance the ball was propelled by the Varsity booters during the Queen's game and Munroe kicked it back 1405. This, if our arithmetic is still reliable, makes a distance of something like two miles, which is certainly quite some distance to be booted.

* * *

We made the statement yesterday that considerable water would run into the lake before anyone duplicated the performance of Bobby Coulter, who won Saturday's game with seven seconds left to play. However, last night Eddie Dore took it on himself to prove that we were wrong by also winning a game within seven seconds of full time. Eddie was doing his stuff for the Dental College, who were waging a bitter war with S.P.S. With seven seconds of playing time left, the Dents were trailing by several points when Speers heaved a pass to Dore, who took it in full flight and tore across the line for the touch which won the game. Winning the game, incidentally, gave the Dentists a lead which practically assures them of the group title.

While this column is being read, if it is still a.m., the aspirants for the harrier team will be hurdling sidewalks, fences and whatever harrier runners hurdle in their travels over a harrier course. The occasion is the annual interfaculty five mile run over the High Park course. The first ten men to arrive back in town will be selected for the two intercollegiate teams. The seniors will run at Queen's on November 10th, while the intermediates will be performing at Guelph.

BONES OF 1700 B.C.

DISCOVERED IN CHINA

It has been discovered that in this period glaze was used on pottery, although it was subsequently lost for about 1100 years. No bronze can equal that of this Shang-Yin period as viewed from many standpoints.

Illustrating his lecture by some excellent slides, Professor White showed how figures were made on the inside of toroise shells by applying heat to the outside. The curious characteristic of all jugs, battle axes, and such things, was that they all had a hole in them, or an eye, by which they might know where they were going and thus guide their owner.

Professor White believed that the new department would have a favourable influence on the economic conditions of this country.

bitter experience and in a lack of interest, a feeling of deep cynicism," she continued. "However, I find in the recent graduates and the undergraduates of today a new idealism. When Oxford men declared they would not fight for king and country, they meant no disparagement of either. They meant they would not fight for slogans. In them, and in the Fascist and Communist youth is a new spirit, a desire to sacrifice, a desire for something real. I only wish the age had more to offer them."

"The task of the young generation," concluded Miss Brittain, "is to make patriotism mean not so much dying for your country, as living for it."

campus. Moreover, the record for Hart House at present is probably better than it was this time last year.

On enquiry, it was found that your belongings are perfectly safe at the University Library, where no complaints have been lodged as yet. Victoria College, and University College, much to its own surprise, likewise have clean slates this year. The Medical faculty has suffered two or three losses since the beginning of the term. S.P.S. when interrogated, referred The Varsity to the police; but the latter were not available in time for printing. The Economics Building has incurred one loss, but has two coats on hand waiting for someone to claim them.

TENNIS RESULTS

Clarey Palmer and Charles Doolittle, McMaster University stars, defeated Saul Rae and Dan Kelly of Toronto to capture the intercollegiate intermediate doubles tennis crown. The scores were 10-8, 6-3, 7-9, 6-2.

ing off 18 yards on a forward from Spears and the latter moving the yardsticks on a quarterback sneak around the end. Dents got the equalizer on a long hoof by Rollaston but penalties and fumbles when in a scoring position kept the game tied 1-1.

When the Dentals momentarily weakened in the second half School plunged, kicked and ran to the opponents' 30 yard line and then kicked to the deadline. The half stepped back of the line and was promptly smeared by a mass of yellow sweaters, thereby giving the men from the little red school house a safety touch and a two point lead.

The undefeated Dentals began an aerial attack which was successfully blocked until Spears tossed to Dore, who was uncovered and galloped down the side line for a touch and a Frank Merriwell finish, the whistle blowing just as the attempted convert failed.

Spears, Dore and Rollaston were outstanding for the winners, while McArthur and Baker both turned in fine efforts for Senior School.

ORGANIZE CLASSES IN FOLK-DANCING

Masden not only conducted the folk dancing classes but he was also the leader of one of the groups.

Members of the Students' Christian Movement consider themselves fortunate in being able to secure Mr. Masden, since his return from Denmark, to carry on the work of this season in folk dancing that he so ably began last year. If all the plans develop as are expected the classes will be held every other week throughout the course of the winter months.

Many classes of a similar nature are to be held in various other sections throughout the city and in the event of any joint meetings the Students' Christian Movement will send their representatives.

ELK IS GROOMED TO MAKE DEBUT

Passenger Pigeons Renovated to Beautify Spring Bush

UNIQUE EXHIBIT

"This is a bull elk calling to its mate," said Professor J. R. Dymond, Director of the Royal Ontario Museum, to The Varsity, displaying a particularly fine specimen in one of the mounting rooms. "It has to be calling to its mate because if it had its head lowered we could not get it into the case."

There is now sufficient space available in the museum to display even the larger animals, so that the mounting rooms are kept busy preparing and mounting animals in the zoological collection which have not so far been shown. The elk is now in the process of receiving his canine teeth and the nails for his antlers, before joining the public gaze.

While The Varsity stood admiring the sleek fawn elk, another one of the museum staff came up. It was Mr. Kurd Neilson, a Danish taxidermist, late of the American Museum in New York. "Our animals do not have that 'stuffed' look that is so common to museum pieces, and I can attribute this only to Mr. Neilson's art," said Professor Dymond. "They are first modelled in clay to measure, with every muscle showing, and then the sculptured animal is covered with the hide."

In the back of this workroom there is a row of the famous—now extinct—passenger pigeons. They stood there, stark and very dead. Nearby poised upon a limb ready for flight was another bird. It had a look of life about it, a look of readiness for sudden speed. Yet it was a short time ago in the same condition as its fellows against the wall, and had fallen into five pieces when work on it was first started.

These passenger pigeons will be exhibited in a unique habitat group, the flora of which we saw in another workroom. They will be shown in a very natural setting, a hardwood bush in the middle of April, the time that the passenger pigeons used to come in the 'nineties. The leaves of the dog-toothed violet, hepatica flowers, blood-red in bloom, and the bright fungi, scarlet cup, shown us by Mr. J. L. Snyder of the Museum staff, were delicate examples of his work, each individually and perfectly made of wax. The partly finished habitat group shows the passenger pigeons, which used to pass through the Toronto district in flocks "great enough to darken the sun", coming out of a painted spring sky through an Ontario wood. The life-like birds are in attitudes of flight, suspended by invisible supports. This exhibit will be on view within the next few weeks, when University students and the public in general will have an opportunity of seeing it for the first time.

At a dinner in Hart House last night Dr. Johnson and Dr. C. H. Best of the department of physiology were honoured guests of the faculty council. Dr. Johnson graduated in 1881 from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons at Toronto, and shortly afterward moved to Chicago, where he has attained international fame. He holds an honorary degree of LL.D. from the University of Toronto, is a past-president of the American Dental Association, and has belonged either as an individual member or in official capacity to every national and international dental organization.

Opposition will be led by Rt. Hon. M. Wayman. Speaker of the House; Mr. N. M. Pivnick, Clerk; Mr. H. Buck.

ART, MUSIC AND DRAMA

her personal is, within certain limits, similarly equipped, no amount of effort can produce an organic unit. Instead, one finds occasional outbursts of individual talent contrasted with a general over-rating of the ability of the balance of the cast. This is harmful not only to the stronger players through lack of support, and to the weaker players handicapped with too difficult roles, but also to the production as a whole.

In the principal woman's part, that of Mrs. Anderson, Pat Cleland did a thoroughly good job, surpassing her former performances at Hart House Theatre in both general capacity and emotional power. There was no suggestion of amateurishness or gaucherie as she developed the character from the simpering self-righteous minister's wife to a normal woman with depth enough to be interesting. Victor Lange, as the minister, played along with her very well, though he was less sure of himself in the more general scenes. He managed to create a ministerial atmosphere and to shed it as required, no easy task to do with sincerity and conviction.

Eric Aldwinke as General Burgoyne, was sound in wind and limb (theatrically speaking) and timed to a second, though possibly there was a trifle too fine an edge on his condition. Jack Humphrey as Major Swindon was a powerful second. As the child Essie, Violet Andras was one of the highlights; unlike most child impersonators she was intelligent and not in the least sugary.

In the leading part Gordon Robertson, though he undoubtedly has talent, was definitely miscast, and a very courageous attempt on both his part and Mrs. Pyper's could not cover up the fact. His attitudes were in most cases the opposite of defiant; his lines were well-spoken but his whole presentation was lacking in robustness and fire. Cameron Langville as brother Christopher was somewhat swamped by over-elaborated gestures and business.

The minor characters (mostly non-speakers) though well marshalled, seldom created the desired effect. They looked either incongruous or funny. Much of this is attributable to independent schools of thought in the use of make-up, though costumes and sets were at a very creditable level. The lighting in the first two acts was

J. Grosskurth, I Vic.: "I like the pictures of the various players on the rugby team but I think that some of the fellows should have their pictures in more often and others whose pictures grace the front page three times a week should be given a rest."

ANTI-WAR

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

Your report of the recent re-organization meeting of the University Anti-War Society is substantially excellent. But on one point your reporter has fallen into the error of following the agenda-sheet more closely than the discussion thereof. She quotes the group as intending to oppose military demonstrations and Armistice Day celebrations.

At Friday's meeting the attitude of the University anti-war movement toward such celebrations was given much thought. I believe that my own attitude in this matter reflects that of the entire group: we who would be the next to go feel strongly with the hopes and endeavours of those who sacrificed everything to fight the war to end war.

We consider that emphasis on the nobility of sacrifice and the heroism of war engenders a romantic attitude towards war if no further lead is given. This is the real breaking of faith with those who died. And we feel that if their sacrifice is not to prove vain, we must catch the torch they flung us. We must use the light that we have to illumine today's ugly tangle of war tendencies. And as Vera Britain said in her address last night, we must "think quickly and act quickly"; think and act before the situation reaches a point where opposition to a new slaughter is futile romanticism. If Armistice celebrations fail to foster this attitude, then, and then only, should we oppose them.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Aroused by rumours that German Nazis will try to seize control of the Saar Valley on the day on which the plebiscite is to be held, France is preparing to use her army to prevent such an attempt.

Japan moved today to break up the naval treaty deadlock by indicating she would abandon her claims to naval armaments equal to those of Great Britain and the United States, in return for recognition of her proposals for naval limitations.

The Ontario government thoroughly reorganized the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board by replacing two of the three Commissioners of the Board, and retiring the third member at a much reduced salary.

Vienna—An attempt to assassinate King Boris of Bulgaria is believed to have been made today, when a fire broke out in the train on which he was riding, evidently started by a time-bomb planted in the engine tender. The attempt failed, but the king risked his life to save the engineer of the train, who was caught in the fire.

Winnipeg—Most Rev. Isaac O. Stringer, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, collapsed and died while on his way to attend a church meeting yesterday. He was well-known and deeply loved in the northern part of Canada.

TRINITY AND U.C. TO JOIN IN DEBATE

"Resolved that this house deprecates the tyranny of convention", is the subject of an interfaculty debate to be held in the library of Trinity College on Friday evening in which students of University and Trinity Colleges will take part. Mr. A. C. Smith, University College, and Mr. W. R. Sutton, Trinity, will support the affirmative and Mr. L. H. Morgan and Mr. W. Stobie of Trinity and University Colleges respectively, will support the negative. Mr. J. L. Jeffries, president of the Trinity College Literary Institute, will act as Speaker. Refreshments will be served in the common room after the debate.

It is hoped that this will be the beginning of a series of interfaculty debates to take place in the future.

HALLOWEEN HAS GONE TO SEED NO SHELL-OUTS, NO FREE FEED

Halloween is dead—very dead. Halloween is obsolete. In fact, practically speaking, it is passé. According to our enlightened, emancipated, sophisticated, and thoroughly disillusioned Toronto students, the grand archaic folk customs of yester-years are gradually being replaced by more subtle and consequently more effective diversions.

No longer is the familiar hallow "Shell Out", heard resounding down the leave strewn streets, and no longer do lusty doorbells clang a frantic summons, the supersophisticated and biase indignation of today frown with righteous indignation at the mere thought of a perfectly infantile "Apple Bob" or a mild game of "Postman". Big game is their meat—a five star frolic at a big hotel, a ritzy formal at the club, plenty of dignified men and glamorous women, but old clothes—never!

Perhaps evolution cannot be blamed one hundred per cent for the drastic changes that have taken place. Some are too busy to celebrate, while some others are perhaps too busy to celebrate, and some wouldn't know how

Theological Conference is Addressed by Dr. John Mackay

"WHAT TO BELIEVE"

Series of Addresses Given Before Students in Divinity

The Theological conference for students in Emmanuel, Knox, McMaster, Trinity and Wyndolfe College, got under way yesterday morning at 9.30.

The programme for the conference has been carefully laid out under two main heads, each of which has been subdivided into three parts: It was under the heading "The Minister and His Relationships", subdivided into the three sections, "His Relationship to Member of the Fellowship of Christ", "God", "His Relationship to His Message", and "His Relationship as a that Dr. Mackay spoke today. ### SOVIET DEMOCRACY OUTLINED IN SPEECH

Friends of the Soviet Union Hear Mr. Cecil Smith Speak

The meeting of the Student Branch of the Friends of the Soviet Union held last night at 24 Grenville Street, took the form of a symposium on "Democracy in the Soviet Union".

Mr. E. Cecil Smith, head of the Progressive Arts Club, was the chief speaker of the evening. He discussed of the electoral system in Russia to was especially timely, because of the fact that the elections of the deputies to the Russian Soviets will be held in the near future.

Mr. Smith pointed out the major differences between Parliamentary and Soviet democracy, mentioning among other differences, the fact that the electoral method is based from the workers' very place of employment. Mr. Leslie Moore, editor of "The Worker", who was to have spoken on "Litvinoff and the League of Nations", was unable to attend.

Indian Situation Topic for Address By Eminent Guest

Members of Hart House will have the opportunity of hearing an outstanding expert on Indian affairs on Thursday, 1st November, from 1.30 to 2 p.m. in the Debates Room. Sir George Schuster, K.C.S.I., K.C.M.G., O.B.E., M.C., will be the speaker and his topic "The Indian Situation".

Until his recent retirement he had been a member of the Executive Council of the Viceroy of India and attended the Ottawa conference as one of their principal delegates. Previously he had served with distinction in the war and had taken part in the organization of post-war international credits under the League of Nations. In 1922 he entered the service of the Sudan Government; and in 1927-1928, before taking over his Indian appointment, he acted as adviser to the Colonial Office.

Hart House Event a Feature of Campus Social Activities

THREE ORCHESTRAS

Hart House authorities have decreed that the anguishing groans usually heard around the big gymnasium when Messrs. McCutcheon and Martin put their P.T. classes through their paces will be strictly taboo on Friday, November 10th, because that's the night of the annual Hart House Masquerade. People simply don't do those things when dancing to the music of the band. If you don't believe that, you'd better go and see for yourself—if you can get a ticket.

There will not only be dancing in the gymnasium but also in the west common room and in the debating room with an orchestra in each place. In all, there will be dancing accommodation for 600 couples, and the tickets will be issued according to the registration in each college. They will be handled through the college representatives so the wise young man will start laying his plans to go to work on the aforementioned representative right now.

CROSS COUNTRY WON BY W. HOGG

Intercollegiate Harrier Teams Are Chosen from the Finishers

FIVE MILE COURSE

The usual morning peace and quietness of High Park was rudely interrupted early yesterday morning by some fifty undergraduate aspirants in the annual interfaculty harrier meet. The event was won by W. Hogg of S.P.S. in the very fast time of 28 3-4 minutes.

A departure from the custom of former years was made in holding the meet over the five-mile course, starting at the Bloor St. entrance to High Park, proceeding down to College St., across country for a mile and a half, and back to the finish line at Bloor Street.

Promptly at ten o'clock Mr. W. H. Martin fired the starting gun that sent the pack on its way. The great majority of the contestants started out at a very grunting pace, but soon tired. Bill Hogg took the lead in the first quarter-mile, ran a very heady race, and led the field home. Of the fifty-four contestants that started, forty-

'CYNICISM STRONG' SAYS MONA CLARK

Discusses Vera Brittain at the University Women's Press Club

"CULTIVATE HAPPINESS"

"Cynicism is too strong in the youth today. Ninety per cent of the present day college girls are filled with it," said Miss Mona Clark, editor of the "Gossip", addressing the Women's Press Club, on Vera Brittain, prominent authoress, who spoke at the Eaton Auditorium, on the subject, "Youth Morals, Today and Yesterday."

"I agree with Miss Brittain's theory that the way to counteract fear is to have courage, and the way to have courage is to be happy. If you cultivate happiness and fearlessness the world will be at your feet," continued Miss Clark. "We should not want to die for a cause, but we should be willing to live for one."

Miss Clark claimed that college people are unwittingly one of the causes of the depression, since on graduating they are content to fill mediocre positions as stenographers and shop-girls. "If marriage is your career, make it a career. Do not let it become mediocre. Do not get married as a last resort, when there is nothing else to do," Miss Clark warned.

First Englishman To Hold Fellowship Works at Toronto

President H. J. Cody announces that Dr. F. G. Young, a graduate in Chemistry of University College, London, and holder of one of the fellowships founded by the late Otto Beit, has come to the University of Toronto to continue his research work in carbohydrate metabolism under the direction of Dr. C. H. Best, Head of the Department of Physiology.

Though many Canadians have held Beit fellowships while doing research work in England, this is the first time that an English student has been allowed to hold one of these fellowships while engaged in research work in Canada. Dr. Young has done a good deal of research in biochemistry and physiology.

WHO FILCHED ARTISTIC MURAL? POOR JOE MISSED FROM WALL

By Ken G. Robb

Once again the sneak thief is in our midst! This hardened criminal has carried his pilfering to a popular restaurant on Huron Street, and Miraballo Dietro, hooked a freshman. No longer will moth eaten overcoats and empty purses satisfy the craving of this kleptomaniac, a real honest to goodness freshman has been stolen, swiped, and otherwise abducted, and nobody seems to give a darn except the manager of the restaurant.

VARSITY JUNIORS DEFEAT ST. MIKE'S

Score First Win of the Season Over Their Bay Street Rivals

8 TO 5 SCORE

Varsity juniors finally broke into the win column yesterday afternoon up at Varsity Stadium, when they defeated St. Michael's College 8-5 in an exciting and close contest. Varsity featured with line plunges and St. Mike's following their usual procedure, used forward passes with telling effect. Mumford and Stein split the St. Mike's line for long gains, while the combination of Griffin to Sullivan had Varsity dopy at times with their well timed passes. Murray's kicks repeatedly gained ground for the blue and white, and his toe was responsible for five points. Sharing the spotlight was Martin, whose tricky field running was a treat to watch.

Murray opened the scoring when he hoisted to the deadline. Later he at-

THE DABBLERS

Whatever its shortcomings, any University may be expected to provide books, professors, companions, and clubs; and also, no doubt, a quantity of music and drama. With these materials the dilettante can ask for nothing more, save bigger and better opportunities to indulge his variety of tastes. A University is therefore the happy hunting ground of amateurs in all branches of philosophy and art. To a large extent they can follow their whims, explore as little or as much as is desired in any field of knowledge, and, in short, dabble in all the pools that look pretty. The fact of a prescribed course of study may be something of a handicap, yet it is by no means insurmountable. Apart also from the opportunities for satisfying mental fancies, they may find congenial friends, with the same diversity of thought, and the same lack of profound learning in any sphere. Some will best enjoy being serious, possibly forming clubs, but at any rate propounding theories of life which reveal an astonishing versatility in literary and technical lore: economics, philosophy, physics, theology, literature and art. Others pursue dilettantism in a frivolous manner; they drink gin, and exchange scholarly allusions in the spirit of the most innocent merriment.

We do not mean altogether to mock the avowed amateur of learning. Perhaps these opportunities form one of the more attractive features of University life. Certainly, from the personal standpoint, many a dilettante is a far more pleasant figure than the apostle of a serious creed. Besides, while much dullness, affectation, and stupidity pose under the general character of dilettantism, desultory learning is often combined with personal brilliance and wit. Yet it must never be forgotten that the first purpose of a good University is to advance genuine scholarship and stimulate creative work. A technical knowledge of some one field, without at least a limited acquaintance with other human interests, is generally the mark of a narrow and unbalanced man. But most educated persons are required to be "professionals" in something, and a shallow diversity of pursuits, even if brilliant, is no substitute for profound learning of one kind or another. The ideal—very popular nowadays—of a "well-rounded" education, lacking any real specialization or conviction on any subject, involves a betrayal of scholarship; and the theory of "art for art's sake" is, of course, appallingly superficial. And though it will not be pleasing, it may be profitable to compare the present learning of even those who profess some special knowledge with the amazing erudition of numerous scholars of, say, the seventeenth century.

Apart from more academic considerations, we must face the inadequacy of dilettantism in the immediate crisis of human life. It is not only that a retirement into amateur, random interests means a sort of fiddling while Rome burns. The "acids of modernity", to employ Walter Lippman's phrase, have burned beyond what some men can bear, and we do not today live in a world composed entirely of literary or philosophical dabblers. In Europe there are many who have been roused, and seized by powerful ideas which threaten, which even now shake the tranquility of the race. With these people there is no contentment in the pursuits of desultory learning or the pleasures of shallow art. The tenets, for instance, of Fascism or Communism may seem hideous to us, yet they are deeply held; and those who hold them cannot rest until they have shattered civilization by their principles. What defence have we, so naively—though we think ourselves sophisticated—seeking the mental delights of the moment, against the ruthless convictions of men who have found an engrossing, even when perverted, faith?

Time and circumstances will bring revenge. It may be that just because on this continent we have long evaded reality, and entered into intellectual ease, we will soon be unnerved and baffled by the tumult of human affairs raging about us. For us, there has been enjoyment in the vague amateurism of our thought: we have thus far had, so to speak, our reward. When realities force us to look beyond the windows of Hart House Library, upon a cracking society, we will pay the tragic price of our dilettantism. The faiths we have not recognized—including Christianity—the faiths we cannot understand—what quarter will they give us when, the lights having gone out, we must of necessity lay down our book. . . ?

Art, Music and Drama

Toronto Symphony

The Toronto Symphony got off to an exciting start last night when it presented its first programme of the season in the Massey Music Hall. Novelties of unusual interest introduced and concluded the evening's programme. Mr. Percival Price's Romantic Symphony The Saint Lawrence, which was awarded the Pulitzer travelling scholarship, was the piece de resistance. It is both difficult and unfair to pass snap judgments on new and unfamiliar music but as critics we are called upon to do some preliminary evaluating. That a composer is the best interpreter-conductor of his own music does not necessarily follow. Obviously this Symphony suffered from an appreciable lack of dynamic and fluent leadership. In a Symphony lasting over sixty minutes, the demands in thematic material and development, to say nothing of orchestral technique, is very great. The Symphony is a form to be essayed by only the greatest.

The "St. Lawrence" does not seem to possess striking material and its working is characterized by length and a certain heaviness rather than by decisiveness and conviction. The orchestration, not as facile as it might be, was inclined to a certain thinness at times and frequently was not beyond the reproach of noisiness. There were moments, especially in the opening of the fourth movement, where unity and distinctive utterance was felt, but as a whole the Symphony is not liable to make its composer famous on its merit alone.

The remainder of the programme was given to Borodin, Tchaikovsky and Weinberger. The Polovisian Dances from "Prince Igor", are such as to make the orchestra throb with rhythm and colour. Dr. MacMillan throws himself into the re-creation of all that he conducts with such vigour and concentration that the orchestra can scarcely remain unmoved. The Polka and Fugue from "Schwanda the Boy Pipe-Player", by Weinberger, brought down the house with its compelling dance rhythm and its brilliant climaxes. It is without doubt a clever and inspired piece of writing and the repetition which the prolonged applause called forth was most welcome.

Tchaikovsky's Overture Fantasia Romeo and Juliet, is undeniably a superlative tone poem and a moving portrayal in sound of the Romeo-Juliet love drama. The exquisitely beautiful themes redolent of sweet sorrow, the great emotional conflict, the passion and tenderness so vividly drawn are characteristic of Tchaikovsky at his greatest and best.

This first symphony was received with so much approval and gusto that it is impossible to guess to what pitch excitement will rise before the series is completed.

GUIDE TO TRINITY COLLEGE History:

Trinity College was founded in 1852 after the secularization of King's College in order to provide the surplus members of the Anglican clergy with an opportunity of gaining a living through teaching Religious Knowledge. Religious Knowledge is known as a Great Benefit.

In 1888 St. Hilda's College was founded so that the women of Trinity College might have a separate residence. Women students are called "Saints" for obvious reasons.

Institutions: The Trinity Literary Institute is one of the foremost debating organizations on the campus. Meetings are held regularly, sometimes at Trinity and sometimes in the Music Room of Hart House, where it is known as the MacDonald-Carter Club.

Trinity House is the residence for male students. It is financed by non-resident students who pay $3.00 for twenty meals. Trinity House was formerly an hotel which accounts for several old customs.

The annual formal dance is known as the "Conversazione". This is merely a polite name for something else. Many other institutions remain a mystery since they have been disguised with high sounding titles.

The crocuses on the lawn in front of the college are one of Trinity's best known features. Legend has it that they were planted in memory of the student who went to Trinity without aspiring to become a Rhodes Scholar. Quainte Customs:

All students wear gowns, which lends an academic air, the sale of which provides the college with its chief source of revenue.

Red Blazers are worn by the men after the style of the R.C.M.P. in the hope of getting their women.

All first year students are called "worms" and wear black ties to distinguish themselves from the other students.

Trinity got its name from the fact that it rhymes with divinity and there-

LIMITS DEFINED FOR SORORITIES

that to accept an invitation to lunch or tea from a sorority member may mean deferred rushing. No sorority is allowed to entertain rushees until after Christmas. Violation of this may result in deferred bidding for her organization, a delay of two weeks until the other clubs have done their inviting. Any doubts will be evaporated this week, however, as letters are now being sent to each rushee stating the bald facts.

This year's activities will get under way at the Pan Hellenic tea on December 22. Formal rushing begins on January 6 with a tea. On Monday there is the calling tea. Invitations are issued on Tuesday and the more formal parties begin. On Wednesday and Thursday the sororities may entertain in their own houses with a luncheon or supper. On Friday a dance may be held anywhere the executive see fit. Saturday evening is another party from 8-12 and from that time till the following Thursday there is silence—absolutely no communication between rushees and rushees.

January 22 is Pledge Day and the initiated proudly wear their new insignia. The continued round of parties may seem very expensive to the sororities, but it is really a test of their good management as the total sum to be expended for rushing is $50—and that also is an absolute rule.

CARTER SCHOLARSHIP

Both Israel Kaplasky, winner of the first Carter scholarship for Toronto, and Raymond Rajala, who captured the second award, hail from Harbord Collegiate. Ruth H. Moore, who came third, was educated at Humberstone. Kaplasky is now attending the University of Toronto and his intellectual strides may be spotted on the campus by those who know this local genius.

One of the most popular of indoor sports engaged in by residents of Trinity House is "bottle-rolling". The success of a bottle-roll is determined by the amount of ground glass covering the corridors the next morning.

EDITORIAL NOTE

As misapprehension, indicated by a letter from a correspondent in yesterday's issue of The Varsity, to the effect that the Student's Administrative Council was responsible for the policy of The Varsity pursued on the beverage room question is current. The truth is that the editor is solely responsible for the articles published on the matter. The Student's Administrative Council has neither endorsed nor repudiated The Varsity's stand. This much we feel bound to say in fairness to the Council which publishes this paper.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

November begins tomorrow and it promises to be a real month for women's sports. There are two basketball games on the first to start the month off with a real bang. From then on, what with basketball and baseball, which gets under way on November 12, there will hardly be a day on which some athletic event will not be scheduled. The fact that we have the "Bronze Baby" is an added incentive with which to begin the basketball series. There is the material on hand to make this a bang-up basketball and intercollegiate events. But it requires the proper support to give that added something which makes all the difference between mediocrity and real superiority. Tomorrow St. Hilda's play the U.C. Junior team and St. Mike's the U.C. Freshies—so how about a real turnout at both games?

For two weeks St. Mike's have been grinding away at baseball with very encouraging results. Decided enthusiasm has been shown at the practices, and plenty of players have put in an appearance from whom a really good team can be chosen. Catherine Muldill, who pitched last season, is among the missing this year, but there are two girls who are quite capable of replacing her. They are both being used in the practices and as yet no definite decision has been reached as to who will fill the position. No one is particularly outstanding but they are all on a par and are first rate ball players. St. Mike's has every reason to hope to give Vic some real competition for this year's championship. Watch tomorrow's column for advance word as to the outfit the Scarlet and Gold is submitting to the series.

Have you been swimming at the Lillian Massey pool yet? Most people come back with fine resolutions to get in lots of practice before Christmas and manage to keep putting off the evil day until the time just filters by and there is a wild rush at the last minute. It is the long steady grind that counts—even a plunge a week will be a great asset when the meet comes off. Both Ruth and Joan Knowlton graduated last year, leaving the field pretty clear for this year's hopefuls in the style and ornamental events. Also those who won the first four positions in the plunge last year are out of the swim. Kay Brown and Vi Ord are pretty well set for the speed events which will continue the U.C.-St. Hilda's rivalry.

STUDY HYDRAULICS AT TRINITY GROUP

Hydraulic Similitude is the Password to Modern Research

MODELS DISPLAYED

The password to modern Hydraulic Research is "hydraulic similitude". Scale models of the complete Niagara Falls are being used to study the future effect of time and flowing water. Canadian engineers, conducting a research into hydraulics, are at present "puddling around" with exact models of portions of the St. Clair River, the Athabasca canyon and the St. Lawrence River. This was the substance of an illustrated talk "Modern Trend in Hydraulic Research" given to the Trinity College Science Club recently by Mr. T. E. Jones, M.A.Sc.

It seems that the study of hydraulic similitude is opening up a vast field for the utilization of flowing water, particularly in Canada. By this means not only can flowing water be studied, but also boats moving through the water, and aeroplanes flying in the air can be examined and perfected.

MEDS TIE TRINITY IN CLOSE TUSSELE

Mulock Cup Game Ends in Draw Between Two Rivals

ONLY TWO POINTS SCORED

Again fighting to a tie, this time 1-1, the Junior Meds and Trinity clashed for the second time in the Mulock Cup series on the Trinity campus last night.

Trinity appeared to be the better team in the first half, and kept the ball on the Meds' end of the field. This was due to their faster backfield and superior kicking. A'Court made the only score for Trinity, with a long punt to the deadline just as the half ended.

In the second half a different complexion appeared in the game. The Meds buckled down, and with smashing line plunges and improved kicking, kept the play in the Trinity area. Meds' only score was made in the third quarter on a rouse. Both teams tried several forward passes but Meds were the only team to complete one. This was counter-balanced by a pass intercepted by Trinity.

Jr. Meds: Flying wing, Spence; halves, Carveth, McKone, Newton; quarter, McKee; snap, Allen; insides, Lanker, Miller; middles, Medlock, Barron; outsides, Belton, D. Graham; subs, Little, Telson, Ryan, McCullough, H. Graham, Howes, Rice, Barrett, Sigel.

Trinity: Flying wing, Reed; halves, A'Court, Morgan, Owen; quarter, Welsh; insides, Lash, Osler; middles, Hamilton, Fraser; outsides, Young, Scribner; subs, Milyard, Zucker, Merrill-Wright, Parker, MacMillan, C. Fraser, Jeffries.

DENTS BEATEN 6-2 BY PHARMACY SQUAD

Winners Get a Poor Start but Improve to Gain Victory

PHARMACY A THREAT

Pharmacy defeated Dents by the score of six to two in the interfaculty lacrosse game, played in Hart House yesterday. A nice play by McHugh in the first minute of play gave Dents the lead, which they held till the end of the first quarter but Pharmacy missed several opportunities to score by poor shooting.

However, Pharmacy improved considerably in the second period, Armour scoring twice and Ellinghausen once to make the score three to one at half time. From then on, Pharmacy were always well in front. Jackson and Ellinghausen scored one apiece in the third quarter, and Jackson again netted the ball in the last few minutes of the game, while Lamkin secured Dents' only other counter.

Pharmacy: Ford, Jackson, Armour, Pronger, Ellinghausen; subs, McIntyre, Langdon, Poole, Armstrong.

Dents: Kingsberg, McCutcheon, McHugh; subs, Westlake, King, Lamkin, Piersen.

SCHOOL LOSE TWICE TO EMMANUEL

Ministers Have Formidable Band of Volleyball Players

ENGINEERS ANNIHILATED

Last night Emmanuel, by winning two straight games over S.P.S., in the volleyball series, demonstrated that they are a team to be contended with before the championship is settled. The Engineers were quite inferior to the Theologs, only scoring nine points in the two games.

Emmanuel: Bates, Stinson, Rapson, Dykes, Bath, Hart.

S.P.S.: Hoag, Sweet, Farrar, Royl, Raymer, Dimditsky, Gooch.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

B. J. McGuire

For the first time since the season opened, Varsity juniors are not alone in the cellar of the junior O.R.F.U. series. True, they have not graduated from that position but they have managed to secure tenants to occupy the apartment jointly with them. The new tenants are St. Michael's College juniors. The Irish went down to defeat yesterday but in doing so they enabled Varsity to register their initial victory of the season.

The Blue club played a brand of football yesterday far superior to any to be displayed to date. They waged their war for the most part in the Irish territory and only for the lack of an adequate defence against the forward pass would have registered a shut-out against the Saints. This improved form definitely indicates the desirability of the Varsity juniors performing in the intercollegiate series rather than the O.R.F.U. In the intercollegiate series the Blue team has an opportunity to get into form without meeting opposition which is too stiff for them and when the playdowns come around they are ready to field a team which at least has an even chance of winning. Under the existing conditions, they start training a month late and as a result have little if any chance against the other teams in the loop during the early part of the schedule. By the time they have reached the peak of their form they are hopelessly beaten in the race, and have no chance to make up for time unavoidably lost early in the season.

Saturday night will necessitate another change in the local football chart. Our guess is that the winner of the game in Montreal will eventually wear the crown of the Big Four series. Tigers will be tackling the Wheelers and that should produce action which is not an essential part of football. The Jungle Kings are undefeated this year although they have been tied once. Montreal has dropped one decision. Should Tigers win, nothing short of a change in the government could stop them from getting the appointment as representatives of the Big Four in the playdowns. Argos will have to depend on Lady Luck for any hopes they might entertain of a title, but it is not likely that if Luck did don a Double Blue uniform that the Scullers would have anything more than a very slim mathematical chance.

In the intercollegiate race Varsity is to all appearances thrown into a soft spot. The Mustangs have yet to win a game but it would certainly be sad should they decide to win Saturday's game and carry their decision through to a reality. Varsity must win or depend on McGill to beat Queen's. However, there is every possibility that McGill will defeat Queen's, an event which will make them strong contenders for the title. They have the kind of a line which the Tricolour will find difficult to crack and with California Joe Smith scoring his placements Queen's will have to play better ball than they did here last week or the Redmen will be up in second place.

Things are promising to happen when the Canadian Amateur Union meets this fall. There has been an agitation for some time past for the abolition of a central control. The result of this would be that sports such as boxing would not be under the supervision of the same body which controls the tennis situation. In other words, each sport would be under the control of its own officials and not that of a central body. Whether this condition of affairs would be an improvement or not is a debatable point, but worth a try.

The Kiwanis Club are again in the field in the interests of boys of the less privileged class. The Kiwanis are staging their annual benefit hockey game at the Maple Leaf Gardens, Monday, featuring a clash between the members of the Maple Leaf team. This is usually a good exhibition and interesting as an opportunity to see the new edition of the Leafs before the season officially opens.

FOURTH LECTURE FOR SCIENTISTS

Professor Martin of Chemistry Department Talks on Elements

McLENNAN INSTITUTE

A historical survey of the isolation of the elements, starting from the idea that all matter might be made from a simple element, was presented by Professor W. H. Martin, of the department of Chemistry in a talk on "The Chemical Elements", the fourth of a series of lectures for advanced science students and science teachers at the McLennan Institute.

This theory has come down from very ancient times and is still an exceedingly popular idea. Professor Martin reviewed early papers that led up to an important generalization, usually called Mendeleeff's Periodic Law. He then showed that Mosley's atomic numbers have proven to be a much more useful property than atomic weight to correlate the chemical properties of the elements.

wrestlers or fencers, but it is hoped some arrangements will be made in the next few weeks.

Dr. Les Black is the honorary boxing coach and Frankie Genovese the instructor. Cliff Chilcott looks after the wrestlers while D. M. Barton puts the swordsmen through their paces.

The junior interfaculty assault to be held on December 12th is the first tournament on the programme. Anyone who has not won an interfaculty event or fought in intercollegiate competition is eligible to enter. The senior assault is held early in February and is open to all. The senior and intermediate intercollegiate teams will be chosen as a result of the showing made in the interfaculty tournaments. Varsity are holders of the senior title and will defend their laurels at Queen's on February 15 and 16. O.A.C. have dominated the intermediate section now for a number of years and there is some talk of them being granted senior rating.

If anyone interested would care to turn out for the teams, the advanced classes meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, while the novices train on Monday, Thursday and Saturday. Fencing has proved very popular this year and a large number are out every evening.

VARSITY JUNIORS

TAKE ST. MICHAEL'S

tempted two placements. The first one went wide and Martin ran it out. A fumble by St. Mike's gave Varsity the ball and another placement was attempted. This time it went wrong but Martin was rugged. Varsity had the better of the territorial play in this quarter. Murray kicked another point soon after the second quarter started. Successive long plunges by Stein and Mumford placed the ball on the St. Mike's 33 yard line and Miller put it square between the uprights. At half time the score stood 6-0.

Murray duplicated his feat of the two previous quarters when his kick gave Varsity another point. Griffin threw two forwards to Sullivan for 65 yards which placed the ball on Varsity's two yard line. From here Martin plunged over for the touchdown, which was not converted.

The last quarter saw St. Mike's really turn it on with forwards. Murray twice planted kicks behind the St. Mike's line but each time Martin managed to get out. Griffin and Sullivan again clicked on two forward passes, and then they missed three in a row to give Varsity a first down. Mumford moved the ball up the field on line plunges and Murray booted home the final point of the game.

U. of T.: Flying wing, Mumford; halves, Mustard, Murray, Stein; quarter, Miller; snap, Douglas; insides, Archer and Penfold; middles, Serdevan and Hall; outsides, H. Beattie and W. Beattie; subs, Taylor, Carruthers, Cowan, Shuklen, McGee, Casson.

St. Mike's: Flying wing, Miller; halves, Martin, Toltme, Lynch; quarter, Griffin; snap, Ingram; insides, Soeli and Bunsan; middles, Hallman and King; outsides, Finnan and Sullivan; subs, McShane, Doren, J. O'Brien, B. O'Brien, Reynolds.

METEORS CONNECT EARTH AND SPACE

"Meteors are the only tangible contact that the earth has with the region beyond it, and for this reason they assume a large significance," said Dr. P. M. Millman, of the Department of Astronomy, addressing the Royal Astronomical Society last night.

Dr. Millman urged that meteor research was an ideal field for an amateur, and pointed out the fact that amateurs had contributed information about more than half the meteors found in recent years.

The audience was told of the meteor discoveries of the last five years, and the significance they had was pointed out.

It was now possible, the speaker said, to determine the location and the velocity of meteors in space, and also to definitely prove whether the meteors existed within the solar system, or outside space. Recent studies made by the Harvard expedition in Arizona have shown that thirty per cent of the falling stars come from outside space, and thirty per cent from within the solar system, Dr. Millman stated.

ENGINEERS HEAR OF RESEARCH WORK

posure to the rays of an unsecured mercury vapour lamp has a stronger effect, both in fading coloured material and in darkening white fabric, than a prolonged exposure to sunlight. Another factor of importance is the humidity of the atmosphere in which the material is exposed. It is very necessary for manufacturers exporting cloth goods to consider the effect of the climate to which the goods are being sent, on their colour and wearing qualities.

Bacteriological research, notably research on parasitic diseases of geese, has also been carried out recently.

Another industry benefiting from the work of the foundation is the iron industry. Several deposits of iron ore in Ontario have been investigated. The most important of these is the Grand Rapids deposit in northern Ontario. Iron of high purity has been obtained from this ore in smelting it with coke made from Ottawa lignite, found close at hand. The other fields are not so interesting from a commercial standpoint.

as defense counsel in a charge of relief fraud laid against Midland town officials, was accused of having interfered in order to delay the government investigation into the situation until after the elections.

Washington—Riots and bombings swept the United States yesterday, as thousands of men and women shouted their protests against the curtailment of Federal relief work. In Denver, three hundred agitators joined in a bloody battle with the police, in which twenty-five people were injured, more or less seriously.

Washington—The National Labour Regulations Board threw its entire weight today into an effort to effect peace in the dispute between the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company and their striking workers. A boycott of the company's stores was threatened by the Socialist party, if it should be necessary.

Hamilton—The Police Commission here today issued an ultimatum to city officials that unless the men and money which have been persistently refused them are granted, they will no longer assume the responsibility for properly policing the city.

New York—Ching Johnston, defense star of the New York Rangers Hockey Club, and the last of the hold-outs in the National Hockey League, signed his contract yesterday, and left immediately to join the team at Winnipeg. The terms of the contract were not revealed.

CONFERENCE HEARS AMERICAN SPEAKER

ister is not in as good a position to talk to other laymen as is one of their own number. Dr. Mackay quoted a case where, in his own experience, a British minister in a foreign country had been able to be of greater service to Christianity than the minister in that country merely through his ability to speak to them on a non-professional basis.

In the afternoon Dr. Mackay concerned himself mainly with the question of the Christian message. "What shall we believe or say," said Dr. Mackay, "is the great question before us today, and arises out of the chaotic conditions through which we are passing. The living God has spoken in history for those that have ears to hear," said Dr. Mackay. "Above all God reveals himself and his will in history, in the Bible. Man, to possess the ears to hear, must approach the Bible, not in the spirit of 'What shall I think', but rather in that of 'What shall I do?'" It is in this way and only in this way that we can understand the meaning and will of God, which is Fellowship.

CROSS COUNTRY RACE WON BY W. HOGG

eight finished the five-mile grind.

South House won the University Residence harrier meet held in conjunction with the interfaculty meet. J. Campbell, Bill Morrison and Geoff. Harper were the winning trio from South House.

The first twelve men to finish in the meet will form the intercollegiate senior and intermediate harrier teams. The senior meet is being held at McGill this year, and the intermediate meet at O.A.C. at Guelph.

The senior team will consist of Hogg, Kibblewhite, Burton, McGlad-dery and Thompson, while the intermediate squad will be Smith, McKerracher, Huether, Stone and McAdam. Jack Campbell and Goulding will be carried as reserves. Both teams seem very strong and look like probable intercollegiate winners.

Caesar Crossed The Rubicon Come On Varsity Men, Come On

By M. E. R.

Have you ever tried to cross Queen's Park Drive at nine o'clock? You have not? Well, don't, that's how your old grandfather, your uncle Edgar and your baby brother Thomas got their grey whiskers. Caesar crossed the Rubicon, Napoleon crossed the Alps and Washington crossed the Delaware. In fact, a lot of great men have done a lot of crossing in the last ten centuries—sh—don't mention their double-crossing. But if they all collected on the curb, some early forenoon, it would take them all their ten centuries to make the other side. In all probability history would come bowling along and carry them off to cross or double-cross the Nile, the Andes, the Humber or whatever river or precipitous escarpment was on hand at the moment. And still you would be trying with itching conscience to make that nine o'clock—or was it one o'clock? Ask someone else. It slipped the colossal cerebrum for the time being. Our knowledge of modern means of locomotion are wide; we can tell a phaeton from a gig—in fact don't gasp—a horse from a locomotive and a cow from a road-roller. What knowledge!

Let's get back to the street—no, the curb-stone. Brilliant brains have been trying to solve this problem—some started in 1800—and died on the spot of old age. Your descendants will most likely crumble away on the identical spot and still that library fine will be growing. Who's talking about library fines? Not us, we're trying to cross the Crescent. Let's be lucid! Let's be clear! Let's be transparent! Let's be Spiritual! Let's shut up. No, let's not. Let's draw up a series of methods of attacking the opposing curb. Let's draw them up. Let's not try them. We want our whiskers to grow grey—we won't die yet.

1. Overhead method:—

(a)—Hire an airplane and fly it—inexpensive and very modern. Try it at high tide some day.

(b)—Jump in air, land on first passing car and walk with long, nonchalant steps from one roof to the other until there are no more. Then descend gracefully.

N.B.—Be sure right foot, (A in diagram) and left foot (B) are both going either north or south at same time.

2. Underground method:—

(a)—Lie flat on your.....?.....well, on your.....?.....dive under the first ear, crawl quickly under Dodge and Cadillac until you reach promised land. Avoid Fords, as in their rapid pace they are likely to pass over you. Nasty, but true.

N.B.—This is best on wet, snowy days; it builds up the constitution.

(b)—Purchase a shovel and start to dig. When you get to other side, signal. Wave red flag and spend the rest of your life crushing stones and dry bread crumbs.

3. Sensible method:—

Go round the block. No, stay home. Did you ever try to cross Queen's Park? Well, don't!

BULLETIN BOARD

Bulletin Board and Coming Event notices must be handed in at either the men's office in Hart House, or at the women's office in University College. No notices will be taken over the telephone, after 6 p.m. notices must be taken to the Press Building. Notices for the Bulletin Board are limited to ONE insertion only.

S.C.M. SOCIAL ORDER GROUP

The first meeting will be postponed one week and will take place on Wednesday, November 7th in Wymilwood at 5 p.m.

MACDONALD-CARTIER CLUB

Friday, November 2, 1 p.m. Luncheon in the north common room, Hart House. Mr. T. L. Church will be the speaker.

PLAYERS' GUILD

On Wednesday at 4.15 the Players' Guild will offer, under the direction of Jack Graham, the last act of Noel Coward's "The Vortex". Try and bring a friend or an interested party as the membership can always stand enlargement. Now is the time for every young actor to come out and set new worlds on fire.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION

A general meeting of the association will be held on Friday at 5 p.m. in the Debates Room, Hart House. At this meeting will be discussed matters regarding the indoor shooting, distribution of the outdoor extra series prizes, etc. It is important that every member be present as the executive intend to propose social and other activities never before carried on by the association for the coming indoor season.

C. C. F. CLUB

Mr. Graham Spry will address an open meeting of the club at Wymilwood tonight at 8 p.m. His subject will be "Mr. Stevens and the Price Spreads Commission."

that those at the dance will have the complete run of the building, and will enjoy all the privileges afforded to a member. Ladies will be given a chance to give Hart House the once-over and for a night the mere male will lose his sanctuary. Dancers may choose whatever orchestra they please, or the whole three of them, if they like. In other words, students are offered three dances for the price of one, so it's bound to be a great night for the economic student with a yen for dancing.

that run under the appellation of a "Hallowe'en Party", where everybody dressed up as a matter of custom, has also gone by the board. "What can you do at a Hallowe'en party?" demanded one U.C. co-ed, "Bob for apples? No thanks! I got all the apples I want being a 'friend' to every Boy Scout within a radius of two miles!" We were just about to tell her what could be done at a Hallowe'en party when she escaped.

And after all, the "kids" still have a grand old time making faces at each other till nine o'clock, and the police still sit around watching everything movable, and the firemen still thunder around answering false alarms, even if students do preserve their decorum, and act almost intelligent. The mask makers still make their masks, and the witches still haunt the fronts of those nodescript little stores that sell them, and the night owls hoot with all the feeling that they used to hoot with thirty years ago, and last but not least, the last day of October is still the thirty-first, all of which leads us nowhere.

However, if tomorrow morning the statues in Queen's Park awake bedecked in flowing robes, or the Bandstand finds itself suspended from the aerial over the campus, or the campus constabulary locate the long-lost Knox turnstile reposing on the fact of the Hart House clock, don't call a protest meeting to abolish something or other. Just remember it's been Hallowe'en.

ous technical journals. The establishment of a Department of Fine Art has been under contemplation for some time and had now been made possible through the generosity of the Carnegie Corporation of New York. President Cody travelled to England last June for the express purpose of selecting a suitable head for the new enterprise. Professor Alford was at that time lecturer at the Courtauld Institute of Art, in the University of London, and was the president's choice for the position.

The courses to be introduced by the new department will deal with the History and Interpretation of Fine Art in all its phases.

this law. Then in 1848 a great war began for the liberation of the Hungarians. But in the war Hungary failed because the Austrians were helped by an army of 300,000 from Russia. Afterwards thirteen generals were killed at Arad on October 6th, 1849, and Hungary was vanquished.

"However, in the Great War—1914—the army of Hungary fought for the throne of the Hapsburgs, for that king who would like all our nation killed or put in prison. After the Great War came the Peace of Trianon on June 4th, 1920, where Hungary was mutilated. From 320,000 square kilometres remains 93,000; from 21,000,000 people remain 8,000,000.

"From this you will see what the restoration of the Hapsburgs means for Hungary. Nevertheless, there are two parties. One wants the restoration; this is called the 'legitimist party'. But the majority—and I think the same—do not want the restoration. Do you think so—yes or no?"

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Winnipeg—Effective today the wheat price has been "pegged" at 75c a bushel for the December futures and 80c for the May futures, by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange at the request of the Ottawa Government. This action is believed to be the prelude to further steps to aid the Canadian farmer.

Vancouver—Words comes that to the great delight of the men students at the University of British Columbia, the co-eds have ruled that no man is to buy two tickets to their tea-dances, and that all women must pay their own way.

Montreal—Two vessels are reported to be lost in the Gulf of St. Lawrence with thirteen persons believed to have been drowned in the worst marine tragedy in the Gulf for several years. Part of the wreckage of a small motorship, the St. Roi David, has been found and four of her crew landed on Anticosti Island on a raft.

Saarbruechen, The Saar—Large numbers of Nazi storm troopers are reported to be in the Saar in disguise. France is worried about the approaching Saar plebiscite, fearing that it may be the means of starting a conflagration. "The French will be ready, however," Laval informed the press, "if there is trouble in the Saar."

Paris—France has been unable to balance her budget, having a deficit estimated at $33,000,000. The finance minister stated that business is bad and the crisis appears to be at its worst.

Windsor—Members of the Windsor Board of Education stated that it is likely schools under their jurisdiction will have to be closed on December 1 owing to a large deficit, and the fact that the Fort Erie banks have refused to cash the pay-checks issued to the employees.

Open Songster Series Next Sunday Evening

The Sunday Evening Songsters at Hart House will open their new season next Sunday, November 4, at 9 p.m. The Songsters, held throughout the year in the Music Room, are led by Mr. Campbell McInnes.

Any men students who enjoy an informal evening of song are invited to attend. No dues are exacted, no vocal talent is required. The Songsters are presented by the Hart House Music Committee, and are open to all members of Hart House. Variety characterizes all the programmes. Hymns, folk tunes, traditional songs of every kind, are sung. Students from all the faculties, with a multitude of interests, come together in the sheer joy of singing music that everyone loves. Engineers and Meds, political science students and amateur poets, can relax and forget their peculiar worries, under the influence of "Drink to me only with thine eyes" and Wassail songs.

The Warden wishes to announce that refreshments will be served to anyone who cares to stay after the first Songster. There will be a small charge for these but it is hoped that a brief period when the men may mingle together over cheering food—a period as informal as the rest of the evening—will be worth both the price and the time.

HART HOUSE SPEAKER

Sir George Schuster, K.C.S.I., K.C.M.G., O.B.E., M.C., will speak in the Debates Room of Hart House today from 1.30 to 2 p.m. His topic will be "The Indian Situation at the present time."

HEAD OF FINE ART DEPARTMENT DISCUSSES PLANS FOR FUTURE

Three Possible Directions of Approach to Subject Afforded

HAS DEFINITE PLACE

Series of Lectures Open to All Interested Is Planned

Last evening Professor John Gregory Alford, newly appointed to the Chair of Fine Art in the University, granted an interview to The Varsity, in his Hart House quarters. Professor Alford was queried as to the position which fine art should hold in present day academic training, and the probable manner in which the new department would be incorporated in the work of this University.

"The instruction of fine art has a very definite place in the university, and three possible directions of approach are afforded," the professor introduced his answer to the question, after having first defined the "fine arts" as properly comprising only art and sculpture.

"At the University of London there is a course of study which leads to a degree in the History of Fine Art. The first year of the course is not restricted to the history of the subject, however, but presents a general survey of the arts in their various schools. (Continued on Page 4)

SORORITY HOLDS DANCE

Among the social events which are being held in aid of the Mt. Sinai Hospital is the annual subscription dance of the Iota Alpha Pi Sorority, which will be held Saturday, November 10. Dancing will take place to the strains of Stan St. John's orchestra in the Alexandria Room of the King Edward Hotel. Patrons and patronesses will be Mr. and Mrs. David A. Croll, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Factor, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Goodman, and Mr. and Mrs. Dunkelmann.

STEVENS INQUIRY DISCUSSED BY C.C.F.

Graham Spry Discusses Resignation of Investigation Head

"NOW IN WILDERNESS"

"We have had at Ottawa since last January a heroic attempt by a senior minister of the Crown, a representative of one of the most important provinces in the Dominion, a man of ability and sincerity, to force upon an old party little more than an investigation into existing conditions and yet he is now in the wilderness," declared Mr. Graham Spry, addressing the C.C.F. Club last night in Wymindwood. (Continued on Page 4)

"THE DEVIL'S DISCIPLE" AT HART HOUSE

The above scene is one from the third act of the Devil's Disciple, at Hart House Theatre this week. Pat Cleland, as Judith Anderson, is shown facing General Burgoyne (Eric Aldwinkle) with every aspect of defiance. In the background is Jack Humphrey, as Major Swindon of the British Army, with two of his staff officers. The play is directed by Nancy Piper, and is being presented chiefly for the entertainment of the undergraduates, for whom special price reductions have been made.

Attention!

The entire staff of The Varsity will meet at the Campus Coffee Shop, Huron Street, (upstairs), at 4.30 p.m. this afternoon. Every member is asked to be on hand.

WAR-TIME VALOUR INVOKED FOR PEACE

"Worth Dying for—Worth Living for," Says Miss Brittain of Country

NOTED AUTHORESS

By Norman Phillips

"If a country is worth dying for, then it must be worth living for," Miss Vera Brittain, the author of "Testament of Youth", and outstanding peace propagandist, declared in an interview with The Varsity yesterday.

Miss Brittain quoted from Haig's orders during the German offensive in the spring of 1918. "With our backs to the wall and believing in the justice of our cause each one of us must fight on to the end. The safety of our homes and the freedom of mankind alike depend upon the conduct of each one of us at this critical moment."

"Why," asked Miss Brittain, "can we not apply this statement made during war time to the problems of peace time? If everyone would fight with the same determination for an organization such as the League of Nations, it would be possible to prevent war."

As everyone who has read the "Testament of Youth" knows, the book has been written in an autobiographical style and depicts many bitter experiences. (Continued on Page 4)

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB PLANS ACTIVE SEASON

Women will be Welcomed at Opening Meeting on November 15

It has been rumoured about the campus that the Twentieth Century Club has new plans for the coming year which will be of considerable interest to the students. On inquiring into the question it was learned that the plans have not as yet been completed. Mr. Bruce Marshall forwarded an outline of the course of action which had already been decided upon.

At the first of the monthly meetings, which is to take place on the 15th of November, the club will open its hallowed portals to women in hopes of exciting their interest in the political side of life.

As well as guest speakers the members of what was once the Liberal Club are to address the assembly. Topics of current events and economic questions will be an added incentive to increasing membership.

The activities of the club are not merely confined to discussions on politics; there is evidence of a lighter vein. This trait is brought to light by the fact that they are sponsoring a dance. (Continued on Page 3)

S.A.C. Meeting

The third meeting of the Joint Executive Students' Administrative Council was held in Room 82, University College, yesterday afternoon. The following business was transacted:

1. Appointment of Miss Catherine Gisborne, Trin. IV, as women's representative to the Publication Committee.
2. Ratification of plans for entertainment of Oxford-Cambridge debaters.
3. Decision against joining the Association of College Editors.
4. Approval of Torontonensis Editorial Board.

CHURCH MUST CREATE WORLD CONSCIOUSNESS

Minister Must Understand
Society, Says Dr. John Mackay

At the last session of the theological convention in Hart House, Dr. John Mackay spoke regarding a minister's approach to society.

"A Christian minister needs a realistic understanding of contemporary society," stated Dr. Mackay. "He ought to have a very great awareness of society as it is."

"Society is being atomized today as it has never been before in history. The big leaders do not get together in the League of Nations because they do not wish to commit themselves. All the league can be is a dyke against any sudden onrush of war."

"Since the banishment of religious utopians new religions have appeared. (Continued on Page 3)

DENTISTS CAVORT

While waifs importuned without, shirt-fronts cracked inaudibly in the sacrosanct Roof Garden of the Royal York Hotel last night, as over 100 couples of Varsity students danced demurely to the tunes of Karl Mueller's orchestra. The occasion, manifestly, was the annual Hallowe'en frolic of the Dental students.

Some little lack of goety was apparent, but the girls were sufficiently bewitching.

Patronesses were Mrs. W. Seccombe, Mrs. C. H. Conigan and Mrs. J. H. Johnson. Dr. H. A. Hoskin represented the Dental Faculty.

To Messrs. Hudson, McCubbin, Weir, Smith, McAskill, and Parrish, much credit for a thoroughly enjoyable dance.

Unable to Concur with New Policy for Paper Passed Yesterday

HAS WIDE EXPERIENCE

First Joined "Varsity" in 1928 and "Globe" Correspondent for Four Years

A. C. Cochrane, Editor-in-Chief of The Varsity, tendered his resignation to the Students' Administrative Council last night, following a meeting of the S.A.C. yesterday afternoon. The resignation is to take effect in two weeks' time, in accordance with the reading of the editor's contract with the Student's Council.

Mr. Cochrane could not concur in the new policy of The Varsity passed at yesterday's meeting nor submit to the action which the Council took. Consequently, he felt that he had no other alternative but to resign.

Mr. Cochrane has had wide journalistic experience both on the campus and with the downtown press. His first connection with The Varsity was made in 1928, when he joined the staff under the editorship of L. J. Ryan. He became sports editor in 1930 under A. E. F. Allan. He was appointed associate editor in the autumn of 1933, and was made Editor-in-Chief last Christmas. He held this post during the spring term of 1934.

Mr. Cochrane tendered his resignation at the conclusion of the spring term, but consented to resume his duties for the fall when the S.A.C. was unable to find a suitable successor. He was for four years University correspondent for the Toronto Globe, and is now a third year student in Theology at Knox College.

HALLOWE'EN FUN

The routine Hallowe'en customs were again carried out last night when some students removed the goal posts from Victoria playing field and deposited them in the environs of Hart House. A push-cart, also rumoured to be of Victorian origin, was left on the front verandah of Mr. Hepburn's Parliament Buildings. Red lanterns were, of course, hung on all statues in Queen's Park, and the doors of the Whitney block were securely barred from the outside by the insertion of a Keep Off the Grass sign through the double handles. A programme of Church music, played on flutes said to resemble those used in "The Devil's Disciple," was conducted outside local beverage rooms. No conversions were reported, except the proselytizing of the flutists by denizens of the taverns.

Masthead Meeting

A very important meeting of the masthead of The Varsity will be held at 1.10 in the women's office today.

First Co-ed Got Tough Removal Fifty Years Brings Strong Approval

At one time college men removed their hats in the presence of a co-ed. They even cheered at her arrival, and lined up on each side of the classroom door to let her enter first. There was constant rivalry, as to what boy should carry her books.

That was fifty years ago, when Miss Eliza Mary Balmer crashed the gates to co-education at the University of Toronto.

Miss Balmer was not always received with enthusiasm, however. One professor refused to continue his lecture until she left the classroom. At others her admission was received by booing by her side-burned fellow students. While this first feminine invasion was met by no definite opposition, considerable dissension existed a few years later, and men were ready to take up cudgels for Miss Balmer on the slightest pretext.

Sir Daniel Wilson, then president of the University, was first opposed to the admission here. Following a vote in the Ontario Legislature and the succeeding Order-in-Council of 1884, was compelled to capitulate. A deputation waited on Sir Daniel to assure him they would give the women a cordial reception. "That is not what I fear, gentlemen, what I fear is that your reception will be too cordial," he is reported to have replied.

EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE

Mr. Norman Douglas, in his charmingly urbane novel "South Wind", puts the following remarks into the mouth of a certain Mr. Keith, who is described as a rich eccentric. "If I had a son," expands Mr. Keith, "I would take him from school at the age of fourteen, not a moment later, and put him for two years in a commercial house. Wake him up; make an English citizen of him. Teach him how to deal with men as men, to write a straightforward business letter, manage his own money and gain some respect for those industrial movements which control the world. Next, two years in some wilder part of the world, where his own countrymen and equals by birth are settled under primitive conditions, and have formed their rough code of society. The intercourse with such people would be a capital investment for life. The next two years should be spent in the great towns of Europe, in order to remove awkwardness of manner, prejudices of race and feeling, and to get the outward forms of a European citizen. All this would sharpen his wits, give him more interests in life, more keys to knowledge. It would widen his horizon. Then, and not a minute sooner, to the University, where he would go not as a child but a man capable of enjoying its real advantages, acquire manners instead of mannerisms and a University tone instead of a University taint."

The rather facile neatness of this scheme may perhaps be due to the subtly pervasive sirocco, but there is a good deal to be said for Mr. Keith's contention. As is often the case, there is both a practical and a theoretical side to the question. The young chap of eighteen has at the end of four or five years gained a basic knowledge of the business he is in, and may well be on the way to a position of trust and respect. The young man who goes to college, on the other hand, gains no business knowledge at all—he can hardly sell a corkscrew at an Old-Timers' Reunion, let alone thump out "cat" on an Underwood—and he is told, when he applies for a job, that he is over the age at which men are expected to start. On the theoretical side we cannot see why, of a course in social psychology and some experience of men and women as they actually are, the latter should not come first.

The curious tribe known as "educationists" (we use the term in its strictly technical sense), from whom we have the right to expect a reply, have shown nevertheless a deplorable lack of insight into the relation between practical experience and academic knowledge; we regretfully record our belief that only a charge of dynamite will awaken them up to the problem.

Professor Julian Huxley, we might note, has recently endorsed this view. "Those who are pursuing a University education," he says, "should be the elite of the country. I should first of all take steps to see that they were intellectually of the elite. Then as a condition of their being allowed to pursue a University career, they should be required to go through two six months' periods of civic conscription."

DENTISTRY HERE HAS REPUTATION

Six Australian Students Are Attending Varsity—Known Over World

COMPARE UNIVERSITIES

That the Faculty of Dentistry of this University enjoys an international reputation is evidenced by the fact that there are nine students from foreign countries in attendance this year. "This faculty enjoys an enviable reputation in our country," Mr. J. Thomas, of Toronto, Australia, told The Varsity yesterday. "It is the only university in Canada whose degree in Dentistry is recognized in Australia." There are six men from Australia in attendance this year, and all have been graduated from universities in their own country, with the degree of Bachelor of Dental Surgery. Of them, J. Thomas and D. Shaw attended Sydney University, while A. Ford, R. Sharp, F. Whitford and A. Roberts are from Melbourne University. They are taking the fifth year of the course here, and will return to Australia with the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery, which degree is not obtainable in that country.

"The University of Toronto reminds us a great deal of our own university," said Mr. Roberts. "But there we have no residences, nor are there any roads leading through the grounds, as there are here. Our universities are more apart from city life than those of Canada. Mr. Roberts expressed a great

The H.C. Pingers' Guild

The third act of Noel Coward's "The Vortex" is a rather exacting vehicle for any amateur acting group, chiefly because of the highly strained atmosphere which is maintained throughout. Yesterday afternoon the Players' Guild made a very creditable attempt to convey this intense supercharged atmosphere. Jack Graham, in directing the "hysteria act", has brought out the chief features of Coward's technique—the bright superficiality especially.

Lucy Jane Grabbell was quite convincing in a trying role, that of a middle-aged woman trying frantically to retain youth and beauty, and the attendant admiration of youth. She was particularly adept at convulsive weeping, a feat in itself, but her moments of seriousness were at times too abrupt after the hysteria. Still her performance as Florence Lancaster was satisfying, even in speeches when the character she portrayed seemed so shallow. Murray Paulin, as Nicky Lancaster, failed to achieve the light touch which was demanded by his role. Too often he descended to the melodramatic, striking poses and gesticulating most disconcertingly. At these times his voice took on a hollow tone and the significance of his lines was lost in a slightly ludicrous effect.

The part of Helen Saville, played by Margaret Stewart, did not appear to be done to best advantage. There was a certain stiffness in her diction and movements which seemed to increase as the act progressed. All three actors, however, made a sincere effort to understand their roles and did present a good interpretation of this play.

COLOUR HARMONY LECTURE SUBJECT

Interior Decorating Discussion Deals with Unity of Shade

LED BY MISS HAMILTON

"Harmony of colour is perhaps the most important kind of harmony in furnishing a room," said Miss Evelyn Hamilton, B.A., in her third lecture on Interior Decorating at the Museum yesterday. "Harmony is the art principle which produces an impression of unity through the selection and arrangement of consistent objects and ideas."

"Mechanical repetitions of size are interesting. There should be a certain amount of varieties in a room as well as repetition. A room in which the lines are all rectangular or all square is for the most part very ugly in appearance," Miss Hamilton continued.

"In order to make a room look larger than it is, various devices may be employed. The drapes may reach the floor and the use of the valance may be omitted. To make a narrow long room appear shorter the furniture should be arranged crosswise."

Scale in furniture means consistency of dimensions. The parts of a piece of furniture must be in proportion. The individual piece of furniture must also be in proportion to the rest of the room.

"Balance is an important quality of a room. The furniture should be distributed about the room to create the effect of an equal division. An unbalanced room creates a feeling of restlessness in the persons occupying it," concluded Miss Hamilton.

CHURCH MUST CREATE WORLD CONSCIOUSNESS

The real rivals of Christianity are not the old classic religions but the new religious which come in terrific conflict with Christianity in different parts of the world. These are Fascism and Communism. They are religions in the sense that they conscript men and women, body, soul and spirit, to the state ideal. That is, they either do away with religion or subordinate it to the state ideal. The natural rights of human personality are being disputed."

Dr. Mackay further dealt with the way the Christian Church should approach society.

"Society as a whole has got to taste eternity. The church must create a world consciousness. It must make everyone feel that he belongs to the world situation. The church has got to bring society face to face with the Eternal."

admiration for Hart House.

Of the other students from foreign countries, Mr. Louis Sprott, editor of the Dental College magazine, Hya Yaka, is from St. Vincent, British West Indies, and intends to return there after graduation. Mr. Russell Panacea is from Buffalo, N.Y. Mr. Clyde Spears lives in Virginia.

Not included among this number is Dr. R. G. Ellis, of South Australia. Dr. Ellis came to this university some seven years ago, received his degree in Dentistry two years later, and has remained on the staff since that time.

CO-EDS PLAY MOTHER TO SIX WEEKS' GIRL

University of Manitoba (CIP). — This year co-eds of fourth year Home Economics, will take turns looking after a six-weeks old baby girl who has been brought to the practice house at the Fort Garry site to give the girls an opportunity to learn to look after a child. The girls are calling her Marlene.

Earlier in the term it was announced that they had received a little boy called Peter, but he has been adopted since by an outside family, necessitating the securing of another child.

Last year the girls had Arthur a little boy of four years of age and University men soon found that they were ousted to a second place in the eyes of the co-eds when Arthur came along.

The girls are divided into groups and take turns looking after the house. This includes cooking meals at a limited cost, cleaning the house and looking after the baby.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

They're off—at least they will be tonight! Of course, you all realize that we are referring to the four basketball teams which will take the floor in the initial games this evening. Both games may prove to be eye-openers as the two U.C. teams are thought to be a decided improvement on the outfits of previous years. And of course, St. Hilda's, the present champions, and St. Mike's, who have always before given the blue and grey sextette a real run for their money, will provide keen competition. It is going to be very interesting to watch how the new groupings will work out—so how about being in on it right from the start?

The Vic baseball nine will be minus Billie Fowler this season. This is a very decided loss, but they seem undaunted in spite of it. They have not had many practices as yet but at least things are well under way and have shaped up very encouragingly so far. It is too early as yet to pick out any very outstanding players or to attempt a comparison with last year's winning team. However, the good old Vic spirit is very much to the fore, and that, plus the fine quality of material available, points to another crack outfit.

This optimistic report from Victoria makes the prospects for the baseball season in general look very bright. As we pointed out yesterday, St. Mike's has a representation to be proud of and it should be a real fight to the finish.

Unfortunately right now it would seem that it will have to be a two-team league. The third entry—that medley team (recruited from Meds. S.P.S., Physiotherapy, Public Health, Social Science, Household Science and U.C.) has exactly three players—and that is not much help in putting out a baseball nine. Until basketball began there were several more fans but since the ruling restricts a player to no more than one of these sports the numbers have steadily waned.

Surely from these seven different faculties there are more than three girls who are interested in baseball, or who at least have the loyalty to give their Alma Mater a little support. The women athletes in Meds are being pretty well all used on the basketball team. But that still leaves plenty of scope for forming a team. U.C. in particular should be able to do better than to contribute only two players. If people do not turn out the team cannot be carried on. There is a practice called for this evening from 5 to 6 at the Little Vic gym—make it a success. If the three players previously mentioned put in a lone appearance again the whole thing will have to be abandoned as a bad job.

INTERFACULTY RUGBY GROUP STANDINGS

With one half of the schedule completed, the interfaculty rugby league is in a bigger tangle than at the beginning of the year. The pre-season critics had practically granted the mug to Trinity but a glance at the standings show that they are locked in a three-way tie in group three.

Dents are the only team to show their heels to the rest of the pack, having won three games in as many starts. The teams in group two are back at scratch, each team having won one and lost one.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

We see by The Varsity that some people around the campus have alleged that they like the Speaking of Sport column. This was disclosed to us by a perusal of the files of the day before yesterday. While admiring their taste we cannot admire the statement made in the same interview to the effect that a certain party did not like the smell of the paper. It was too ambiguous. Some time ago we discovered that we had a reader for the column, but to hear that some readers like it almost overwhelms us. Anyway we are glad to be overwhelmed in this regard.

A deep dark mystery has been discovered down around the gym where the boys learn to duck at the proper time or learn what happens if they don't. It seems that a certain pugilist by the name of Frankie Genovese has been mislaid. At any rate there has been a standing reception committee down around the gym for the purpose of welcoming the said Mr. Genovese, who was alleged to be anchoring here for the purpose of teaching the boys to duck at the right time, or—Genovese agreed to take over the coaching duties left vacant when Harry Henning, last year's pro, went to England, but is now several days overdue. Genovese has a fight on his hands next week and it is possible that he cannot take the time to coach at Hart House. This being the case he probably will not have the opportunity when and if he does locate the time.

Rumours are current that Warren Stevens will send his football team into action Saturday without the services of a certain Mr. Isbister. Isbister hurt his shoulder the last time he started and although he played through the entire game he has been an absentee from practices during the week. Varsity had better be at their best for the tussle with the Mustangs, or they will find their chances of three intercollegiate titles in three years have faded considerably. The Western team cannot possibly make as many mistakes as they did the last time they faced the Blue team and are somewhat peeved over the way Varsity rubbed it into them the last time. This, however, should not be held against the Blue team as they picked up most of their points by the simple process of rescuing a Mustang fumble and stepping across the line with the ball. Lightning we are told seldom strikes in the same place which could be interpreted to mean that history will not repeat itself. All of which indicates or is supposed to indicate that Varsity is not in a "soft spot" for the Saturday game.

Down around McGill they are becoming more and more confident of making good the boast they made some time ago to the effect that the Redmen would make a three-place tie of the intercollegiate race and then win the playoff. This would indeed be a very notable achievement and is not impossible. However, the result of Saturday's game will tell how much chance they have of seeing their objective achieved. Should they beat Queen's decisively they must be rated as good. Should they even cross the Tricolour goal line they will have accomplished something that no other team has been able to do this season.

While the most of the boys are concluding a night's sleep, many of the local athletically inclined individuals are training for the intercollegiate harrier race. Incidentally, the race earlier in the week, in which Wycliffe won the interfaculty title and Brotherton Cup, was run several seconds faster than the distance has ever been covered before.

MEDS VICTORIOUS IN SOCCER TILT

Trinity Defeated 2-0 on Wet Field; Slippery Ball Spoils Play

DISMAL PERFORMANCE

Under a continual downpour of rain Meds outplayed Trinity 2-0 in a regular interfaculty soccer game on the front campus yesterday afternoon. The treacherous footing and a slippery ball prevented good soccer, and the cold and wet detracted from the players' keenness, resulting in rather a dismal performance from the spectators' point of view—if there had been any spectators.

There was no scoring in the first half and only a few shots on goal, due to the good defence work of both teams. Time after time, the forward line would break away on a passing attack, only to lose the ball before they could get a good scoring chance.

In the second half, Meds kept the ball near the Trinity goal for half the period, and were finally rewarded when Lore, who played a good game throughout, scored the first goal of the game. Trinity nearly scored from the resulting kickoff but Meds took the ball right down the field again and Lore kicked his second goal about a minute later. The game ended shortly afterwards, with no more scoring. This win puts Meds in a tie with U.C. for the leadership of their group. (Continued on Page 4)

MAPLE LEAFS STAGE AN EXHIBITION GAME Promoted by Kiwanis Club for Charity—Newcomers in Action

Monday evening will see the Maple Leafs at home for their first game of the season. The game will feature a clash between some of the older members of the staff and many of the recruits, who will be battling for a place on the team. The rivalry between the more recent products and the older members has been particularly keen to date and a real battle should result.

However, the result of the game will be a secondary consideration to that of seeing the newcomers in action. And the purpose of the game itself should attract more than a houseful to the Church Street palace. The game is being promoted by the Kiwanis Club and every shilling which is dropped into the box office will help to make some underprivileged youngster into a better citizen. It is a worthy cause, promoted by a worthy body and even the players are donating their services.

PROFESSOR ALFORD DISCUSSES DEPARTMENT

The second and third years are then a definite study of art historically. "Secondly, there is a two year post-graduate course of similar nature, through which students already holding some general arts degree may proceed to a diploma in this specialized cultural phase.

"Thirdly, there are courses in fine art designed to complement certain other studies which lead to various degrees. A language or history student might thus also study the art of the countries in which lay his particular interest."

It would be natural to expect that a Department of Fine Art in this University would be called upon to provide opportunities of study similar to those available elsewhere. At such an early date, however, it is naturally impossible for Professor Alford or the University to attempt any detailed planning of courses under this department, and there will definitely be no course leading to a degree in Fine Art until next fall, at the earliest.

Within a few weeks, however, it is planned to have Professor Alford commence a series of lectures which will be thrown open to all who are interested. These will follow a course of general topics relating to the history of fine art and the interpretation of the continental schools of both the nineteenth century and the present day.

While many Hallowe'en enthusiasts were busy removing everything removable last night, some genial soul presented the building shown above with a much needed accessory. The Varsity staff artist has sketched an early riser examining the find with alarm, and it is understood that it will be returned to the Men's Residence, where it is more urgently needed.

recent resignation of Mr. Stevens. He then ventured to predict the subsequent course of Mr. Stevens' political affiliations. The leader of the Conservative party may discipline his rebellious colleague and read him out of the party. If Mr. Stevens remains in the party he will likely carry his fight into the Conservative caucus and perhaps cause a "first-class split in the ranks". Mr. Spry cannot imagine Mr. Stevens accepting every last comma of the Regina manifesto which forms the basis of the C.C.F. There are rumours of a new political organization with which he may affiliate himself.

Reverting to the fact that a man of Mr. Stevens' qualifications and with the resources of the government at his disposal had failed in his task, Mr. Spry concluded: "If we believe that the present system is unsound and doomed to collapse, then we are in duty bound to consider the necessity of assisting and supporting a new party which will go to the roots of the trouble."

ences which the author has undergone. She told The Varsity of some of the events of her life that had made deep impressions upon her. Her upbringing in the narrow atmosphere of the Victorian home, her years at Oxford, and her war work.

"I am a member of the 'Lost Generation'," Miss Brittain stated, "and my work now is to portray to the present generation the mistakes and failures of her past."

Those members of former generations who are now in power are the people who are holding us back, Miss Brittain claimed. Their minds are cast in the mould of a past era and they can never change. The men that should have taken their places were Miss Brittain's comrades, the "Lost Generation" who fell in the war, and their loss is bitterly felt today by a world struggling with almost insuperable problems.

MCGILL DATE BUREAU STILL GOING STRONG

Varied and Numerous Applications Received from Students

Montreal, October 31 (CIP).—Despite rumours that have been spread in the Metropolitan press and elsewhere to the effect that the McGill Date Bureau is dead, the management of that organization wishes to assure the student body that the rumours are far from the truth. The Date Bureau has never ceased functioning during the past few weeks, and it has lately receive a new lease of life from the student body.

The Bureau is now in a position to satisfy the needs of most of its patrons. Applications, during the short term of its existence, have been so varied and numerous that the management feels it its duty to start operations in a really earnest manner. All the applicants, who have not specified the exact dates when they would like to be dated, will be called by telephone at least twice weekly, and as many dates as possible will be arranged.

Another item of interest to the student body is the fact that the comparative success of the Date Bureau on the McGill campus has led to the inauguration of a similar organization, operated on the same lines at Syracuse. The students at Syracuse seem to be rather enthusiastic about it, judging by the reports received.

MAC-CARTIER CLUB TO MEET ON FRIDAY

Meeting in Hart House to be Addressed by T. L. Church —All Welcome

The Macdonald-Cartier Club, at the first of its annual series of luncheon meetings in Hart House on Friday, is having as its guest speaker, Mr. T. L. Church, K.C., M.P. In an interview with The Varsity last night, the president of the club, Mr. J. L. Jeffries, was anxious to stress the fact that the meeting was an open one, and that all prospective members would be welcome to attend.

The speaker, Mr. T. L. Church, has had much experience in the field of politics, having been war-time mayor of Toronto, and also having been a member of the House of Commons for two previous terms. When the present Hydro System was in formation, Mr. Church was a close adviser of the late Sir Adam Beck; he was also one of the leaders in the development of our present harbour. During the last year, however, he has been most noted for the stand he has taken on the mass-buying question, and it is on this subject that it is hoped Mr. Church will speak.

Mr. Church has a mind of his own and will not allow himself to be bullied about, so the club is certain of a vigorous and forceful address.

writers of ancient times, such as Aristophanes and Plautus, were disregarded, and Mr. Norwood confined himself to Homer, Plato and Virgil.

Humour, said the speaker, arouses the emotions, fun the imagination, and wit the intellect. In Homer there are a number of instances of humour, notably in the tendency of the old warrior Nestor to draw his tales out to a wearisome length. One of the most striking passages, bearing this characteristic, is to be found in the Hymn to Hermes, wherein are related the tricks played by the infant Hermes on the god Apollo.

In Plato, too, bits of humour are to be found quite frequently. There is a touch of the humorous about the figure of Socrates, and the tale he tells in the Symposium about a tribe of people who, long ago, were both sexes in one, and about their fate at the hands of Zeus, is outstanding.

To Virgil more than to any other writer humour was attributed, even in ancient times, said Professor Norwood. Horace spoke of him as "mollem atque facetum", and it is in the Georgics especially that this quality is seen. One of the most humorous of his passages, however, occurs in the Aeneid, in which the Sibyl tells Aeneas that no chaste person may set foot in Tartarus, and in the next breath informs him that she has been completely through it.

An outline of the programmes for the next two meetings was given by the president, Bob Sinclair.

FRENCH DEPARTMENT SPONSORS UNUSUAL EXPERIMENT IN MOVIES

Hollywood Theatre Co-operates with University in Venture

BEGINS SATURDAY

Comedy of Moliere Inaugurates Series for Benefit of Students

The French Department of the University is embarking on a new venture in the teaching of French—that of presenting modern talking pictures in this language. The pictures are to be presented at the Hollywood Theatre each Saturday morning.

This unusual experiment is being tried primarily for the benefit of students in French, and also for the enjoyment of many people interested in French culture. The entire venture arises from the suggestion of Professor F. C. A. Jeanneret, of University College, who has been instrumental in spreading a wider appreciation of French literature here and elsewhere. Many of the arrangements in connection with the screenings were made by Professor R. C. D. Finch, also of University College, who is well known for his untiring enthusiasm in artistic and cultural fields.

The Hollywood Theatre is co-operating with the Department of French, to bring French films of high quality to Toronto, in order that Toronto students may have an opportunity to get acquainted more fully with the language as it is spoken today, and with French drama as interpreted through the medium of the talking picture.

The present series, begins this Saturday at 10:45 a.m. with Monsieur de Pourceaugnac from the Comedie-Ballet of Moliere. A French news reel will also be included on the programme. On the morning of November 10th, Le Barbier de Seville, featuring Andre Vange, will be shown. Other films of interest to the students will be presented on the following Saturdays.

The men, it is believed, fell into a fifty-foot hole in the river bed known as the Lachine Rapids cellar.

CO-EDS AVERSE TO DUTCH DATES

Difference of Feminine Opinion Between British Columbia and Toronto

MEN PAY FOR PRIVILEGE

Unfortunately for the masculine element around the University of Toronto, co-eds are definitely averse to Dutch Dates, in spite of the precedent set by their British Columbian sisters.

Said Miriam Inkster, II U.C., "I certainly do not believe in Dutch Dates. After all, it's a man's privilege to ask a girl out, whenever, wherever he likes—why shouldn't he pay for it?"

Lynette Roddy and Lilian Karmalaska, II St. Mike's, were even more vociferous. "Terrific! A man should look up to women. After all, man is just a little higher than the ape, while (Continued on Page 4)

CHINESE CULTURE TAUGHT BY WHITE

Offers Opportunity of Closer Commercial Relations with China

NEW DEPARTMENT

For any student wishing to know more about the culture and science of ancient and modern China, or for any merchant wanting to find out about the possibilities of China, the University has established a Chinese Department, with Professor W. C. White, former Bishop of Honan, as its head.

The department uses the East Asiatic collection of the Museum as a laboratory. This collection is the best outside of China itself.

"There is no better way possible of interpreting China to Canada, and of preparing the youth of Canada to seize the coming opportunities in China than the inevitable closer relations between our countries will provide, than by a Department of Chinese," stated Bishop White.

As far as the commercial end of the department is concerned Professor White stated that the reason for including it in the sphere of action of the department was so that they could be of some use to the commercial houses of Canada in advising them (Continued on Page 4)

Meetings Sponsored by Sigma Phi Fraternity This Month

PRIZES AWARDED

Programme Includes Discussion Groups, Tours, Speakers and Banquet

The ninth annual convention of High School Editors of Ontario will meet on the 16th and 17th of this month in Convocation Hall. The convention, which is organized by Sigma Phi, Women's Journalistic Fraternity, will be opened by President Cody.

The purpose of the convention is to improve the quality of high school magazines and to this end the usual prizes and trophies will be awarded by The Star, McLean's, Dent's and MacMillan's. The Star shield is for the best make-up and the Ellis trophy for the best cover design. MacMillan's and Dent's present prizes annually for the best short story and the best magazine from a literary and artistic point of view.

The main feature of Friday morning will be a series of discussion groups. By arranging these groups in two sets, to take place at different times, it has been made possible for one delegate to (Continued on Page 4)

H. J. MOORE LECTURES

"Little beds of flowers, little drops of paint
Make a pleasant cottage out of one

So said Mr. Henry J. Moore of Canadian Homes and Gardens yesterday, in a lecture at the Museum on landscape gardening yesterday afternoon.

"Someone said," Mr. Moore quoted, "'A man is not judged by his words, but by his actions'—and I think this is true. One can almost trace the character of the inmates of a home by its outward appearance, which is their creation."

"Ontario," said Mr. Moore, "has a wonderful soil, a splendid climate and plenty of sun. The gardener must not get discouraged. A definite plan, per- (Continued on Page 4)

Percy Learns How Mimi Fair Wins The Men With Titian Hair

My darling Percy,—

It is too utterly too adorable. It makes all the difference in the world! And all the Men! Yes Men! at last, —so different from the gang back home—now don't be peeved, you know I don't mean You, dear—but you know I don't know what I'm talking about, do you? You're all in the dark like I was last night. OH NO!! Not what you think. Dear!! But about Me. It's my hair. It's red. You'll rave about it. It started with Cleopatra. Henry took me. But Henry's harmless. And now I do it with bangs. Remember how I always wanted to at home? And here in Toronto they wear a flower in front-of-the-bangs I mean, and all the girls said I was ravishing! And you should see the Canon!! It stands in front of Heart

House, a refuge where they had a debate today about love because that's what they discuss.

I have been to five Large dances and have Prospects for more because they have a date bureau to which I have paid ten cents. I hope He's tall. Like you, Percy dear, only I couldn't bear it if his hair was Orange-ish. Wouldn't it be Horrible? (Your's is a delicate yellow sweet mustard a new shade here.)

I saw the Museum with Peter. Joseph was attentive last week but I think Gordie is more handsome, still Handsome Is—as I said when I first saw you darling. Who is both!!! I think of you Always. Safely in numbers, I say, and a sure proof that you are the ONLY ONLY to your adoring, Mimi.

WELCOMES NEW WRITERS

Canadian Magazine Invades
U.S. but Continues to Use
Canadian Talent

No fewer than nine students and graduates of this University will be represented by contributions of various kinds in the forthcoming fifth issue of The Barker, it was learned yesterday in an interview with Louis J. Robinson, the editor.

"A good many different faculties are represented in our new issue," said Mr. Robinson. "I am proud to have graduated from S.P.S. and my colleague, Miss Eleanor Godfrey, who is Associate Editor, thanks St. Mike's for her academic training. Joe McDougall, who edited The Goblin in its palmiest days, shares the acie of University College, with the poet Nathaniel Benson, the polemist Milton Shulman and the humorist Paul Gardner. From Trinity come Ted McCormack with cartoons and George Sweeney with prose. And, by no means least, Victoria has given us Jerry Anglin. All of which, I think, gives The Barker a considerable claim on the interest of University students.

COLLEGE MAGAZINES MYSTERIOUSLY VANISH

The theft of 3,000 copies of the "Kiss-and-make-up" issue of the Harvard Lampoon and Princeton Tiger, college humorous magazines, was engineered by the Yale Record, its campus rival, the Yale Daily News, will charge today. The Lampoon had been credited with the kidnapping last year of the Yale Record's $1,000 mascot, Handsome Dan II, and the theory is that the magazine theft is a retaliatory measure.

By adopting a wide-open, chance-taking attitude, Joe Breen's Western Mustangs hope to chalk up their initial victory and avenge themselves for their 34-1 defeat at London when they oppose Stevens' Blue squad at Varsity Stadium Saturday. The Mustangs have nothing to lose while the Queen City students have to come out on top to keep at the head of the intercollegiate race, provided that the McGill Redmen topple Teddy Reeve's Ironmen in Kingston.

COMMERCE CLUB ANNOUNCES PLANS

Major D. Hallam to Discuss
Aspects of Canadian Tariff Problems

SMOKER ON NOVEMBER 6

The Commerce Club is holding another of its series of smokers on November 6, as those who pore over the back page of The Varsity already know. The speaker, Major D. Hallam, is a well known authority on many departments of economics although he graduated in S.P.S. from this University. He was an outstanding air pilot during the war; then an efficiency expert for the Air Department. On returning to Canada, he was employed by the Forbes Knitting Mills, and at present he is presenting the case of the "Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association" to the Dominion Tariff Board. His subject on November 6 is to be "Aspects of the Canadian Tariff." Those who are interested in tariff questions or in the textile troubles to the south of us will find these subjects ably treated by a brilliant speaker. The smoker, as usual, is restricted to members of the Commerce Club.

Love not the Sweetest Thing
According to Decision of Sophisticates

DEFEAT MOTION

Opposition Callously Takes the Coo from Love
Bill

The men of University College decided yesterday afternoon at their Parliamentary Club meeting, that Love is not the sweetest thing after all. Vital interest in the subject was proven by the large numbers who came to the common room to find out the truth of this matter. No one seemed to know exactly what is sweeter than Love, and yet the members showed signs of a suspicion that Love is not always sweet at all.

The Hon. Mr. Hart Buck, sometime Clerk of the House and now Minister of Waterways in the Marshall Cabinet, spoke at first, in defense of the motion. He quoted at some length from Thomas Carew's "Rapture." (Anyone interested will find it well worth his while to look up this poem. Lack of space is not the only consideration that keeps The Varsity from reproducing it.) He was accompanied on the piano by a rendering of "Love is the Sweetest Thing."

Quickly a reply was made to his reading by the Leader of the Opposition, the Rt. Hon. Mr. Wayman, who criticized the government for bringing up such a motion, and pointed out their total ignorance of the subject anyway, being bachelors. Nearly everyone, in fact, claimed to have no practical experience on the subject, even though their speech betrayed them.

The Rt. Hon. Mr. Beamish made some remarks at his usual length that appealed to some of the members, and heckling was rampant. The Hon. Geo. Gale from Heath declared that he knew nothing sweeter than Love; other speakers found it necessary to distinguish between love and passion. The debate took a personal turn at several points, and threatened to become interesting. The Rt. Hon. Mr. Stobie was spectacular, speaking consecutively on each side, giving the impression, however, that on the whole he favoured the Opposition stand.

When put to the vote, the motion was overthrown, and the House adjourned convinced that Aphrodite is outstripped by Saccharine.

W.U.A. MUSICALS SUNDAY AT THREE

Viggo Kihl, Well-Known Danish
Pianist, to be Guest Artist

VARIED PROGRAMME

Another high spot of the musical season will be the musical given this Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Women's Union. As guest artist the W.U.A. will have Viggo Kihl, the well known Danish pianist. Mr. Kihl has for some time been in the public eye. He was known to music lovers at an early age, and at the age of nineteen appeared in Copenhagen. Two years later he was heard in London and for some years following, he successfully toured England, the continent and South Africa. For the last twenty-one years, he has been teaching at the Toronto Conservatory, where he has become known to many Toronto students of music.

The musical director of the W.U.A. has been fortunate in having for this musical Viggo Kihl, and all those attending are assured of a fine programme. (Continued on Page 4)

THE STUDENTS' NEWSPAPER

In a University of this size some unifying factor is necessary to mould together the diverse interests and activities of the many faculties and groups on the campus. For the past fifty-three years The Varsity has fulfilled this function, first as a mere journal and, in recent years, as a newspaper proper with a more ambitious programme. However, The Varsity has certain definite characteristics which distinguish it from the tabloid or the newspaper as we know it in our society. In the first place, the modern newspaper is a commercial enterprise and consequently its policy inevitably reflects this fact. The Varsity, on the contrary, is commercial only in the sense that it depends upon the fees collected from the students by the Students' Administrative Council for its maintenance and to a lesser extent upon the income from advertisements. Therefore the policy of the paper is essentially bound up with its duty as the servant of the student body which supports it. While it is no easy task to reflect all the nuances and ramifications of student opinion, the undergraduates have a right to expect no considerable departure from this general plan. This means that the policy of the paper is considerably restricted. Any ambitious attempts to step far ahead of the general consensus of opinion and to endeavour to lead it into paths which it would not naturally follow, would show a lack of understanding as to the true status of The Varsity as a student publication. By this we mean that there is required enough insight into the mental atmosphere of the University that the ideas expressed in our columns will not savour of crusades into foreign fields so much as the bringing out and development of what is already latent there.

Outside of its difficult task of thus focussing opinion, The Varsity serves a very useful purpose as a training ground for those interested in newspaper work. It is significant that The Varsity is one of the few University papers on which all technical work, except that concerned with actual printing, is carried on by the student-workers themselves. In this way a capable and efficient staff has been built up whose members are justly proud of the paper and their place on it.

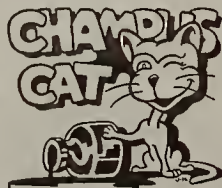

However, the value of the publication as a training ground is secondary to its position as a newspaper—indeed a proper realization of this position by the staff is essential to its training. The constant factor with which one deals on any newspaper is the public. On this depends its circulation—the only thing which justifies its existence. We realize that there lies our duty and shall try to fulfill it to the best of our ability.

ST. MIKE'S FRESHIES WIN AT BASKETBALL

The first women's basketball game of the season was played last night between U.C. Freshies and St. Mike's at O.C.E. gym. The game was closely contested until the very last quarter of the game, when St. Mike's made a final spurt and won by a score of 27 to 17.

During the first half both teams were fairly even, with U.C. holding the lead most of the time. Play ranged between both baskets and U.C. Freshies managed to obtain an 11-9 lead by the time the whistle blew to end the period.

In the first part of the second half both teams continued this see-saw battle. Mary McCarthy sank two baskets in a row to give St. Mike's a two point lead, but two baskets by Doris Johnson put the Red and White Freshies back in front again. With the score 19-17 in favour of St. Mike's, Joyce Tenenbaum was forced to leave the game because of three personal fouls. Immediately after this U.C. went to pieces. Mary McCarthy ran wild to score three baskets and two fouls and eight more to St. Mike's total, while U.C. was held scoreless. The tussle ended—

The evening service will conclude with the singing of Sir Charles Stanford's Te Deum.

Caton Auditorium

It is a good thing that Mr. Cartier announced in the programme that he was giving a recital of "theatre dances". The only justification for his work was their theatrical interest. The dances were beautifully costumed and well lighted but if one removed these two effects very little would remain.

Displaying a superior brand of lacrosse, Victoria were successful in defeating Meds by a score of 8-6 in an interfaculty game yesterday. Victoria deserved the win as they played a much cleaner and faster game than did the Medical students. The score was tied 6-6 at the end of the third quarter but Victoria banged in two beautiful goals in the last few minutes to sew up the game.

squad of ball carriers, having lost most of their games by butter-fingered ball when playing in the shadow of their own goal posts but in a wide open game anything is liable to happen. Remember the fall of '32 when Patterson and MacKay combined to complete many a forward pass and were a serious threat at all times.

However, the Blue team are going at top speed and will be hard to stop although Bobby Isbister, Varsity's star kicker and forward passer, is a doubtful starter because of a shoulder injury received last Saturday. Cam Gray, who is at present leading the intercollegiate union in scoring points, will in all probability shoulder the greatest part of the kicking duties and should provide Sherk with a good battle.

The Varsity line had a slight edge over the Tricolour last Saturday (in case of doubt see Monday's summary) and promise to give the Mustangs a warm reception. Led by Gus Greco and Grady Laing the Varsity plungers should go places.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Tomorrow will see the Mustangs come galloping on the Varsity gridiron in an effort to chastise Varsity for the humiliating way in which they demonstrated some weeks ago that Isbister was not the only man on the Blue team. Varsity went into action for their first game reputed to have a team composed of one heavy-hoofed individual who stood back and booted points whenever they were necessary, regardless of how difficult the task may have been. Varsity won that game 34-1 and the points scored by Isbister were somewhat scarce. Tomorrow the Blue team will go into action without the services of Isbister and we still think that the Mustangs will need to be at their best or Varsity without the big back will be just as formidable. Isbister is certainly good but he is not the entire Varsity team nor will the Blue backfield be any materially weakened without him.

While the senior Blues are fighting to stay up in the intercollegiate race, the seconds will be plying their trade down in Ottawa. The team which Jack Sinclair has under his control will have three of the juniors in the line-up. Stein, N. Beatty and Hicks are the juniors who will be wearing the Blue uniform in Ottawa this week-end.

The temporary loss of the three stars from the junior ranks will leave Don Graham somewhat short-handed against the Argo Juniors in their clash here. The junior Scullers have almost as good a team as that which won the Dominion title last season. Against this squad, Varsity, with three men off the regular string, can be granted only a slight chance. However, the junior squad will have another crack at the title, as they can challenge through the intercollegiate series. This will, of course, necessitate a play-off between Varsity and the qualifying teams in the other series.

After Saturday the intercollegiate race will probably be the only series which is still open. The O.R.F.U. folded up last week when St. Mike's fell before the attack of the powerful Sarnia squad. The Irish are playing an engagement with Balmy Beach at the Maple Leaf Stadium but the result can have no effect on the league. Incidentally, Sarnia look like the team for the title this season. Argos will probably pass out of the picture Saturday, leaving Montreal the ultimate winners of the series. With Sterling in form and the Oilers' line living up to the form displayed throughout this season, they will cause the Wheelers plenty of grief, when and if they meet.

ST. HILDA'S WINNER IN BASKETBALL

First Win Gained Against U.C. Juniors by 36-8
Score

TEAMS PROMISE WELL

St. Hilda's chalked up their first victory last night when they defeated U.C. Juniors 36-8 in the O.C.E. gym. It was an exciting game for the spectators, but rather disappointing for the coaches. The floor plays and general form were of the variety usually shown in the first game of the season, but both teams promise well. The game was not at all one-sided as the score would seem to indicate. U.C. fought all the way, but St. Hilda's had the edge on them. Edith Ardagh and Mary Louise Carre played their usual sterling game, and were the driving forces of the Saints. Edith is very speedy, and is the despair of anyone guarding her. The U.C. guards were good too, and were right on the ball at the tip-off. Yvonne Kirk played a nice game, and Virginia May was right in there every minute. The teams:

U.C. Juniors: Ruth Thomas, Helen Doey, Virginia May, Doris Prowse, Ruth Turner, Yvonne Kirk, Audrey Nielson, Yvonne Richey.

St. Hilda's: Edith Palmer, Catherine Grubbe, Edith Ardagh, Mary Louise Carre, Margaret MacDonald, Ellen Wilson, Mary Dignam, Joyce Kirk, Isobel Wallbridge.

ed with the Saints on the best side of a 27-17 score.

U.C.: Joyce Tenenbaum, Miriam Kronick, Doris Johnson, Margaret Taylor, Jean Meiers, Rita Clarke, Aileen O'Brien.

St. Mike's: Mary McCarthy, Betty Herring, Mary Vining, Agnes Gardner, Mary Flahiff, Mary Gallagher, Chris Kennedy, Marie Lambe, Peggy Bailey.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

In the two games last night both the Saints teams came out on top. Lady Luck was by no means responsible for their victories as both teams deserved their leads. The U.C. outfits were by no means outclassed; the Freshies seemingly put up a rather better fight than the Juniors but perhaps stiffer competition explains this. Mary McCarthy of St. Mike's was distinctly the star of the first game and Edie Ardagh, the speedy Blue and Grey forward, decidedly outclassed the other players on the floor in the second contest.

The U.C. Freshies obviously lack experience, but that is only natural when one realizes how short a time they have been playing together. Marg Taylor, Doris Johnson and Joyce Tenenbaum all played real basketball and showed distinct promise. The Freshies deserve plenty of credit for holding St. Mike's in the way they did and putting up a game which was a real thriller until the very last.

Mary McCarthy of St. Mike's scored 19 of the total 27 points chalked up by her team. Agnes Gardner, as usual, checked decisively and played no mean part in holding the Freshies to the bottom notch of the 27-17 score; Mary Gallagher and Marg Flahiff supported her very ably. Betty Herring was of invaluable assistance to the scoring ace. But we certainly missed seeing such of the old standbys as Callie Dunn and Pat Callan.

The St. Hilda's aggregation was not as polished as in their final game last year but that is very natural. Edie Ardagh was in A1 form but Mary Carre was rather off her shot. The Saints' defence certainly had all the height desirable but a little more speed would have helped. Edith Palmer did some very nice checking. Ellen Wilson is going to work out excellently as a regular, and Joyce Kirk made a very creditable first appearance.

IMPERIAL

In the last quarter of the St. Hilda's U.C. Junior game the former pretty well ran away with the game although the Juniors spruced up at the very last. For the first quarter the U.C. outfit was holding well, but they displayed a lack of finish as the game went on. They are a smart team, nevertheless, and put up a far better fight than the 36-8 score would indicate. Virginia May was distinctly the star of the sextette—she is only a freshie and looks as though she may eventually be intercollegiate material.

ART, MUSIC AND DRAMA

Mr. Cartier has a fine suaveity of movement—a sort of feline grace—but there is no originality to his movement. His work is absolutely uncreative. The most interesting things on his programme were the Indian dances and these are purely derivative. The Borgia dance was interesting as showing a possibility of a new dance form. But its claim is rather one of promise than merit.

The second Indian dance, as Mr. Cartier's programme stated, was unchanged from its original Hopi form. It merely proved that it is impossible to take a religious dance from its setting and native dancers and give it any significance.

We found this recital most disappointing, for the man has a style that, combined with more original choreography, would make an interesting dance form. A.H.J.

W.U.A. Musicales

sistence and a certain technical knowledge are conducive to success."

Slides were shown throughout the lecture depicting various Ontario gardens. The importance of the lawn was emphasized in all. It is not merely beautiful—but also useful and sanitary. It absorbs the sun, thus contributing to comfort on hot days, and it also prevents a great deal of dust from entering the dwelling. The lawn is to be regarded as a picture and the border, its frame.

The borders are mainly of hardy perennials, shrubs and trees. These are planted in proportion to their size, with the taller shrubs at the back. They should be planted in groups, but with no visible line of demarcation. The outline is usually curved—this is more natural—and above all the perennial borders must not be stiff. Then two perennials are used in foundation planting at the sides and front of the house. Annuals are useful in more compact areas. They are used very often in narrow borders and in front of the houses near the street.

The placing of specimen shrubs and trees is a problem. To place them in the centre of the lawn is to destroy the harmony of the picture. It is better to place them at a few feet from the border so that, from a distance, their beauty stands out from, and at the same time, emphasizes their background.

At the end of the lecture, pamphlets were given out concerning the beautifying of home surroundings, together with one on fertilizers and their uses.

woman is just a little lower than the angels. Anyway, it's the principle of the thing—Eve never had to pay her own way."

"Don't get me in Dutch!" said Audrey Siler, II Vic. "but after all, we're not in Holland, so why do as the Dutch do? Still, Dutch dates are all right in their way—but why not turn the tables for a week? The boys might appreciate their privileges more if they had to wait to be asked places."

"No, I'm always broke," Florence Barber, I Vic, expressed a very prevalent opinion, while another Victoria freschette added, "I'd always go Dutch if I had the cash, but as it is, I let men pay for their fun."

"It's the woman who pays!" said one U.C. co-ed with an embittered expression. "Why shouldn't a man look after the financial end of it? We have to replace the ruined shoes, the lost earrings and the cosmetics."

There is still a faint ray of hope, however, in Audrina Bost, II Vic's, remarks, that, "After all, in this modern age, when women are supposedly emancipated, why shouldn't they have expenses? It was different in the good old days when they sat at home and embroidered tea-cosies, but now when they have equal rights, they should be consistent and have equality in everything."

And Joyce Kirk, II Trinity, added, "Girls often get the same allowance as boys, when they are both going to college. Moreover, it would mean that a boy could take a girl out twice as often if he only paid half the expenses. And think of how many more girls would get invitations!"

—Half Time

(Special to "The Varsity")
Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Continuing their battle for an intermediate title, Varsity Seconds swamped Ottawa College at the capital city on Saturday by the score of 17-0. The Blue team picked up a large lead in the early stages of the game and had no difficulty in adding to it as the time advanced. Ottawa were on Varsity's five yard line as the half time whistle blew, but most of the play throughout the game was in Ottawa territory.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Premier Hepburn on Saturday announced the intention of the provincial government to seek a share of the taxation on Ontario's gold mines. He also declared that further investigations into the operations of the former Henry government were being planned.

Montreal—Decision has been reached to restore a part of the pay cuts imposed on employees of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railroads.

Speaking from the pulpit of an Ottawa church yesterday in his first public appearance since leaving the Bennett cabinet, the Hon. H. H. Stevens renewed his attacks on big business.

Paris—Fresh outbreaks of civil strife were foreseen with the announcement of Premier Doumergue's challenge to parliament for an immediate settlement of proposed constitutional reforms.

Washington—Definite endorsement of N.R.A. policies was foreseen here in elections to be held throughout the States tomorrow. Gains for Roosevelt were conceded by the opposition.

'School' to Battle Have No Chance Fight it Out at Soph-Frosh Dance

When the boys from the Little Red School House want a scrap, they want a scrap, and they're bound to have it sooner or later. The style of the sophomores was somewhat cramped at the initiation-reception this year, and the freshmen feel they have been cheated. The presence of three of the campus constabulary in constant attendance in the environs of the Engineering Building the last few weeks has precluded any display of friendly antipathy. Up to date the boys have spent their time wondering what to do about it—and now they know.

Tomorrow evening the two classes gather for their annual little blow-out together, and to appease everybody, it is being called the Soph-Frosh Battle, and what a battle it will be!

"There Should Never Have

—No Benefits

Ex-Premier G. H. Henry, the Bennett government's policy in regard to the Stevens Commission, and University professors who take part in politics each came in for a share of criticism from Mr. T. L. Church, Conservative member-elect for Toronto East, speaking to the Macdonald-Cartier Club in Hart House on Friday.

Mr. Henry was derided for his slogan "Your leader is your policy" as a campaign principle. The reference was made without naming Mr. Henry. Mr. Church was asked who he would like to see as leader of the Conservative party in Ontario. "Parties begin to die as soon as they are born," he said. "The post-war voter in this country is an 'anti-voter'. He votes against the government."

"Your leader is your policy," was the principle which, carried to its logical conclusion, led to the downfall of the provincial Conservative party. Follow your leader has never been the policy of the Conservative party, and when it has been adopted has led to

The motion, "That this house abhors the tyranny of convention," was upheld by a small majority on Friday night at the first open meeting between the Trinity College Literary Institute and the University College Parliamentary Club in the library of Trinity College. Approximately a hundred people were present, including many of the ladies from both colleges.

Mr. W. L. ### 11 LAST QUARTER

Varsity once more succumbed to the starry Argos juniors on the back campus Saturday, this time the score was 17-1. For three quarters Varsity waged a great struggle, but in the last stanza folded up and the visitors collected eleven points. The defensive work of Sirdevan for Varsity stands out as the game's shining light. Although he received a deep cut early in the struggle he never ceased to be in there fighting, and stopped everything that came near. Due to the absence of Stein most of the line plunging duties fell to Mumford, and he at times crashed the line for good gains.

Argos opened the scoring when Selkirk and McPherson combined to run back a kick thirty yards to the twenty

CAMPUS PROVES USEFUL

At last we find that the Front Campus is useful for something besides Soccer Games. On Friday evening, a gentleman who appeared to be perfectly sane and sober was vociferously airing his views at the top of his voice over the darkened campus, presumably preparing a speech to be delivered that evening. The small audience which he had gathered did not follow him to hear the balance of the address, and quiet was restored on his departure.

INDIA A PROBLEM TO BRITISH RULE

Social and Political Issues
Hinder Efforts to Give Her Self-Government

"India represents one of the greatest problems that the British have undertaken," was the statement of Sir George Schuster, who has played an important part in Empire affairs, and has been finance member of Executive Council of Viceroy of India, in his address in Hart House Thursday afternoon.

"Anyone who realizes and appreciates the Indian situation will not be hasty in criticizing the British policy in India," Sir George continued. The speaker emphasized the fact that it had been the British policy in India to fit the country for self-government—a purpose long since set forth.

Social, political and educational conditions were touched upon, and also some of the problems confronting governments in the east.

By W. A. Crocker

Swinging into their true form early in the second quarter Warren Stevens' Blue and White gridders overcame a shaky start and handed Joe Breen's lowly Mustangs a 22-6 setback in an intercollegiate senior fixture played at the Stadium on Saturday. The victory besides assuring the Blues a place in the intercollegiate play-offs, kept them on the top rung of the intercollegiate football ladder in company with Ted Reeve's Tricolour squad which defeated McGill at Kingston.

LARGE CROWD ATTEND

Favoured with ideal weather the tilt drew a surprisingly large crowd of seven thousand fans who were given a wonderful treat because of the wide-open tactics adopted by both teams in the second half of the game. Thirty-three passes were attempted by both squads, nineteen of which were sent on their way in the last half of the contest. The Varsity squad attempted nineteen forwards and completed ten. The Mustangs made fourteen attempts, three of which were completed. Each squad intercepted one pass. A feature of the forward passing phases of the game were Bernie Taylor's three beautiful forty yard spirals, none of which were completed, however. As a result of their passes the Blues gained 155 yards, while Breen's squad registered 35 yards via the aerial route.

SHERK HEFTY BOOTER

With Isbister out of the line-up due to a shoulder injury Sherk of Western was conceded a victory in the kicking department. Despite the heavy tackling he was subjected to Sherk kicked admirably and easily outbooted Gray, Fenner and Coulter, who were doing the kicking for Varsity.

Along the line Stevens' men had the upper hand all the way. The Blues managed to crash through the line for 210 yards, while the Purple and White crew were credited with 165 yards through the line of scrimmage. The Blues, although they didn't do any spectacular plunging, seemed to be able to make yards when needed and as a result managed to plunge for major scores whenever they got the ball near the Mustangs' line. The Blues made first downs twelve times while Breen's men moved the sticks on eight occasions. Fumbles were very frequent on the part of both squads with the Mustangs doing the major part of the bobbling.

After the party, the masqueraders invaded a downtown restaurant where a free floor show was provided for the patrons. Mr. A. Mutteroff, dressed as a harum girl, and Miss E. Jalowsky, also costumed in oriental fashion, won a prize for their antics.

Decorations, arranged by G. L. Selzer and H. Bowman, were the cause of much comment.

"Get that Bowler" Just the Same Even if Varsity Captures Game

On Saturday afternoon last, at 2:15 p.m., the Western Mustangs danced onto the field to the tune of What have we got to lose?, and after showing their way across the line for six points began the second quarter chanting Bye, bye Blues!

The rest of the game told a different tally, however, and the remarkable number of passes completed by the Varsity team was only equalled by the passes executed up and down their row with a package of cut-tips, by the Coeds half way up in section Q.

Towards the end of the second quarter a mysterious exodus of S. P. S. stalwarts indicated the presence of at least forty beers in the soft drink stand down below in the Arena. The staggering step of the tug-of-war men as they dragged Poor Pussy out across the field at half time may or may not have been a further indication to the same effect. But it now becomes clear where the Cat went from Friday's Varsity.

Once again Red Foster outdid himself, making clear the most intricate play to the most innocent Freshette.

THE PASS COURSE

The average student in an honour course is under the impression that the student in the pass course is in it because this course requires very little work. Not infrequently the pass student enters it under the same impression, but the care-free life is all too short. Soon it is his lot to discover that he is studying five subjects, perhaps totally unrelated, and all of equal importance as regards marks. This is somewhat bewildering, as a glance at the University calendar shows him that there are only four honour courses which carry four or more major subjects, most of them carrying only three. The pass student naively concludes that he has been deluded and the college career which he envisioned as a round of social gaieties is to be an intellectual drudgery after all.

The opinion that the pass course contains the intellectual incompetents and cast-offs from the honour courses is not without some foundation, since it is the natural place for such people to collect. At the same time, the low standings which appear in class lists after the names of pass course students are no indication of their real merits. True, it requires a higher average to pass in an honour course, but the A, B and C standings of the pass course correspond exactly to the 1st, 2nd and 3rd class honours of an honour course, with the additional disadvantage that term marks count to an alarming extent in the pass course. Many students fail to realize that, even though they pass every examination in May, one insufficient term mark will mean a supplemental examination in September. Standing, moreover, is affected by all five subjects in the pass course and, in the majority of honour courses, by not more than three or four.

The honour student will grow anxious at this belittling of his superiority and protest that his lecture hours are longer. In the laboratory courses, which average twenty-six hours a week, this is undoubtedly true, but the other honour courses average only seventeen hours as compared to the pass course average of fifteen.

Pass and honour subjects in almost every course are identical in the first year. This is the year in which there are the greatest number of failures in the pass course. There are two possible conclusions arising out of this: the commonly accepted one that incompetents gravitate to the pass course and are rapidly eliminated and the less usual, but more probable one, that the pass course is more difficult than it seems.

Bearing in mind the importance of term marks, the equal value of every subject as regards marks and the requirement of a standing equal to that in an honour course, the logical student will conclude that an A in the pass course is a considerable achievement and that he is a scholar in no way inferior to the first class honour student.

If the pass course is ever superseded altogether by the general course, making it into four years instead of three, the University of Toronto will have achieved a praiseworthy standard in the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Even now the pass course offers opportunities in a broad cultural education which are not to be ignored or underestimated.

Art, Music and Drama

Ted Shawn

Saturday night 1 had the pleasure of talking with Mr. Shawn in the dressing room while he made up. He told me of the work he is doing in reinstating the dance as an art for men—as he explained it is only in very modern times that the dance has come to be looked upon as a feminine art. Shawn set out, more than a year ago, to tour in a series of lecture-recitals with his group of men dancers and the results of the tour were most gratifying. On this year's tour each town which they played last year responded up to tenfold in attendance and a much wider interest is being shown in the dance.

Saturday night's recital was a very concrete expression of Shawn's theories and teaching. He and his group of young men, all great dancers, presented the dance in various aspects—as Play and Folk motifs, Labour motifs, Primitive Rhythms, and the dance as an Art-Form. Each of these groups was a perfect example of creative work in the dance. Shawn is to be praised and no praise is great enough for his pioneer work in creating new and vital dance forms for men.

Friday Afternoon Recital

Frances Adaskin, Florence Richardson and Frances James were the distinguished guests of Hart House last Friday afternoon at the customary recital held in the Music Room.

The programme to which each of the artists contributed one group, was given to the works of Handel and Beethoven. Miss Richardson played a representative sonata of Handel and Frances James presented a group of songs from some of the larger works of the same composer. Frances Adaskin besides ably accompanying the other artists, did the Sonata Pathétique of Beethoven's. The strength and vigour, one might almost say the "masculine quality" of Frances Adaskin's playing has always struck us as notable. Frances James is an artist of discrimination well known through her appearances on the air. The warmth of tone which Miss Richardson drew from her violin was really lovely in the true sense of the word. F.B.S.

W.H.A. Musicales

Yesterday afternoon a very delightful Musical was held at the Women's Union, when Viggo Kihl, the versatile Danish pianist, again distinguished himself in a recital of works from the three great schools.

Mr. Kihl's performance was very gratifying, particularly in his presentation of Chopin, when he gave free rein to his fancy in the delightful moods of each composition.

The programme opened with the Beethoven Sonata, Op. 110, a work which was written in 1821—the year of the death of Napoleon—when Beethoven had reached the third and last, as well as the greatest period in his life—and when he was completely deaf.

The performer gave a very interesting resume of the work, but unfortunately his mood did not coincide with that of the composer, and a great deal of the real beauty of the composition was lost, although the second movement was very impressive, and he introduced several quite subtle nuances.

CHAMPION CAT AHAI TOO MUCH TRINITY

For the benefit of those who have not yet heard the full story, (which includes one of the principals), we will now reveal the full facts about why one room in a well known residence was without an occupant for the last month of last year. The head boss of this outfit (which, by the way, is a Famous Feminine Institution), had a room next door to the actual residence itself, and separated from it by a lane. One night, after a particularly merry party, a residence girl, wishing to make life a little more interesting, crept down the lane with her escort, and kicked up a row under the good lady's window, whereupon she arose and looked forth. She was in time to see the couple scrambling madly around the corner, and immediately felt called upon to check up.

Sticking staunchly to her guns, she began an inventory of the girls in the residence. About the fourth room she visited, she found all the signs of vacancy, and, with a load off her conscience, she left a message for the girl to call at her office when she showed up in the morning.

Sharp at nine the culprit showed up, and was confronted with the evidence. She angrily explained that she had not been near the place at 3.15, when the incident had occurred, that she had left by the back window and come in the same way. Then the good lady began to have trepidations, because there were approximately eighty rooms that had not been checked up. Tenders have been taken for night latches to be placed on the outside of all the windows, but we would like to quiet the fears of the dean about the girl in the lane. We won't answer for the other eighty. G. Howard

Let's Go Places

Between the Creche Brawl at the Royal York and the Hepburn Hop at the Eddy on Friday evening, (to say nothing of the S.A.C. dinner and bridge) the odds were heavily in favour of there being nobody up and about on Saturday morning for the opening of the French movie up at the Hollywood. However, some two thousand souls appeared on the scene to fill the 1400 seats, which they were able to do in almost no time, and after all the aisles, the projector's booth, and a few dozen laps were filled, the management was forced to send 500 people back to join this writer in bed, (not literally). But still, the fact remains that certain deficiencies in the alarm system of a West End home (not the one in Mimico) make it necessary for this review to be vicarious by nature. (Pardon me, Jean).

Some of the features of the pictures were retailed to The Varsity by a competent observer last night, however. The chief impression of our C.O. seemed to be that Continental actors are possessed of much clearer diction than the Hollywood variety, an immense help in learning the French language. The setting, Paris in the 17th century, was very accurately and artistically (Note carefully, Mr. DeMille) portrayed. The play, M. de Pourcœur, is a comedy by Moliere, and is very good entertainment, so they say. The superiority of the Continental producer in the matter of restraint, and in the appreciation of dramatic values over those on the Mae West Coast is incalculable, as such a thing rarely exists on the M.W.C. (Most Recent Reception, The Barretts of W. St.). The French newsreel was intensely interesting, and as a novelty, the trailer of Le Barbier de Séville was enjoyed, and gave promise of some fine entertainment next Saturday, when two shows will be run to accommodate the crowd. We sincerely hope, unless the gods decide that we shall view the McGill game (to say nothing of the Kit Kat Klub) to be up in time next Saturday. J.N.H.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

U.C. Seniors had really no difficulty in defeating Meds in the first game of their division, as the 39-6 score in their favour points out. On Wednesday Meds met Vic Seniors, which game will probably result in another defeat for Meds. The decisiveness of this probable defeat will enable us to forecast the winner of the Vic and U.C. senior outfits, which will clash on Nov. 13 for the first time.

The game which U.C. put up shows them to be as fine an aggregation as we have previously intimated they would be. Kay Brown, the Freshie who last year starred in the intercollegiate games, was distinctly the stellar player on the floor. She plays a fast, tricky game and her shot is very sure as the fact that she chalked up 19 of U.C.'s total points proves. Pat Pethick and Quita Menell each scored 10 points and ably supported their star forward. Jean Atkinson and Helen McGarry were also outstanding.

Meds are to be heartily congratulated on their fine sportsmanship for as every one realizes, they have great difficulty not only in arousing enough enthusiasm to get up a team, but also in finding time to practice. Isabel Wright and Mary Albertson were responsible in

INTERESTING CONTEST NOW BEING RUN IN "VARSITY"

Of interest to all readers of The Varsity is the contest now being run in the columns by the Tuckett Tobacco Company Limited, makers of Buckingham cigarettes.

The purpose of this contest is to supply the last line to a limerick about Buckinghams that will be run every Friday throughout November. To the person who submits the best line, 100 Buckingham cigarettes will be given free. All entries must be in for the limerick appearing in The Varsity of Friday, November 2nd, on or before November 19th. Send your replies to Tuckett Limited, Dept. 1E, Hamilton, Ontario. A tin of 100 Buckinghams will be sent to the winner.

This is a contest for everyone, so get busy now. Another limerick will appear next Friday. We reprint again last week's limerick.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Varsity is still very much in the race for the intercollegiate title—and so is Queen's. After a rather shaky start on Saturday, the shaky start consisting of the usual Varsity fumble in the first few minutes, the Blue team had little difficulty in stopping the Mustangs. In fact when Sherk and Box were removed from the game the Mustangs were just about stampeded. At any rate the Varsity team showed an unusual ability to collect points, even if this tendency is most evident when the Varsity team least need them.

Abe Zvonkin halted what might have been a drive for the title by the McGill Redmen, when the Hamilton husky scooped up a loose ball and trudged over the McGill goal line he gave the Tricolour a lead which the Redmen were unable to overcome. As a result the Redmen will not figure in the playoffs at the end of the season. That one touch resulting from a lucky recovery, made the difference between success and failure for McGill. As it was, the Montreal team had more than their share of the territorial play, but found that spotting Queen's a touch and then overtaking them was the work of a powerful team. It is something which would necessitate more than a little luck in its achievement.

Argos still retain a chance of repeating their success of last year but they have Montreal to thank for it. The Wheelers brought the rush of the Tigers to a halt for the first time this season. Farrero's Tigers were unable to score even a single in the game at Montreal.

Varsity Juniors, although defeated 17-1 by the Argo Juniors, played the best brand of football of the season. The junior Scullers are rated almost as high as the team which won the Dominion title last year, but they had to play at the top of their form to stop the students. And the students were without the services of three of their star men. It was not until the last five minutes of play, when Varsity was using a passing attack, that the Oarsmen piled up a comfortable lead. Two forward passes which went astray, right into the hands of McPherson, turned into eleven points for the winners.

PLENTY OF INTERFACULTY SPORT AT VARSITY OVER LAST WEEK-END

Meds Seniors Defeated

By U.C. Basketeers

U.C. Seniors scored a decisive victory over Meds to the tune of 39-6 on Friday night in the O.C.E. gym. It was a fast game and Meds fought hard, but were unable to combat the superior combination of U.C. From the first tip-off U.C. were right in there setting a fast pace and displaying an excellent brand of basketball. In the first half of the game they piled up 13 points and Meds made 4, 2 of which were on fouls. In the second half U.C. went wild, chalking up 25 points and allowing Meds only 1 basket.

U.C.: JQean Atkinson, Kay Brown, Quita Menell, Lorna Reid, Helen McGarry, Pat Pethick; subs, Jean Robertson, Enor Kennedy, Mary Page.
Meds: Jean Lang, Mary Albertson, Bessie Stern, Elsie Hahn, Joan Kelley, Isabel Wright; subs, Margaret Pirt, Maria Campbell, Charlie Horner.
Referee: Phyllis Griffiths.

Aggies Capture Rugby Tilt To Take Group Leadership

On Friday afternoon O.A.C. defeated U.C. in an interfaculty rugby game and moved into the leadership of the group. The game ended with Aggies enjoying an 8 to 1 advantage. In the last half O.A.C. outplayed the local team in every department. The U.C. line was woefully weak but their out-sides gave a creditable account of themselves with George Campbell most effective.

Foresters Lose to Jr. Meds In Brisk Mulock Cup Game

Jr. Meds annihilated the Forestry team by a 17-1 washout in a Mulock Cup game played on Trinity field on Friday afternoon. The Doctors led at half time by a 12-1 score. Newton scored two touchdowns, which were accomplishing what at first seemed to them an impossible task—that of assembling this team. And it was no feeble sextette which represented Meds on the floor. They fought hard but encountered something of a stone wall in the form of the superior U.C. team. Jean Lang, Joan Kelly and Macie Campbell each played a brand of basketball which is well worthy of comment.

Tonight the U.C. Freshies meet the Vic Juniors at 7 o'clock. This is the converted by McKee. Lien kicked a single for the Woodsman's lone tally of the game. In the second period McKee scored with a touch. The work of Newton and McKee, plus the deadly plunging of Medlock and the brilliant runs of McKee were outstanding for the winners. The stars for the losers were Lien, McConnell, Barron and Taylor.

Trinity Leads by Eight At Dents Lacrosse Fixture

Displaying a nice passing attack, Trinity's lacrosse team outscored Dents by ten goals to two in the big gym on Friday afternoon. Led by Allison at centre, the Red and Black team outplayed their opponents by a wide margin in the first half to lead eight to two at half time. Trinity eased off somewhat in the last two periods, each team counting twice.

Pharmacy Tie S.P.S. in Soccer

Pharmacy and S.P.S. played to a scoreless tie Friday night in the interfaculty soccer loop. Both teams were evenly matched and the goal-keepers had a relatively easy time. Pronger for Pharmacy and Johnson of School were the pick of the two teams.

Doctors Out Engineers In Loose Volleyball

In a rather loosely played but exciting interfaculty volleyball game, Jr. Meds defeated Jr. S.P.S. Friday by the scores of 15-11, 11-15, 15-4. The first two games were hard fought although neither side displayed a very good brand of volleyball. However, in the last game S.P.S. faded badly when they were disorganized by the spectacular sniping of Krakauer, who practically won the game single-handed. King also played a good game for S.P.S.

CENTRAL "Y" POLOISTS TAKEN INTO CAMP 7-0

Varsity defeated Central "Y" on Friday in an exhibition water polo encounter 7-0, played in the Hart House pool. The students looked very good, and as the score would indicate, were far superior to the "Y" team.

In the opening period W. McCarty planted two shots in the netting, while Davey made one shot count. In the last half Varsity were all over their opponents, and ran in four goals. Davey got two and the McCarty brothers were credited with one each. These brothers, who represented Jamaica at the Empire Games this summer, looked very good and showed the rest of the boys up in the matter of speed.

SECONDS DEFEAT OTTAWA IN DECISIVE VICTORY

From the outset Powell, kicking for Toronto, showed a marked superiority over Nixon and Ottawa were gradually forced back on their own end of the field. McPherson recovered a blocked kick and brought it from his own 45 yard line to Ottawa's 15. Thomas and Powell got yards. Thomas then plunged over for a touch which Powell converted. Before the quarter finished Powell added two singles. Powell made a long run to Ottawa's 25 yard line from where Gray kicked a field goal. Varsity continued to press hard but failed to score. A Corridan to Corcoran pass brought Ottawa to centre field. Nixon pulled another pass out of the air and ran to Varsity's five yard line. The whistle stopped the play and the teams left the field with Varsity leading 11-0.

Ottawa looked stronger in the third quarter and played ranged in mid-field. Both teams tried many forward passes only to lose their gains when they were intercepted. With but three minutes to play Miller threw a long forward to Gray, who ran the rest of the way for a touch. Gray again converted. With nothing to lose Ottawa opened up the play but Varsity tightened up when near their goal line. Miller ran back a kick that went over the dead-line to stop Ottawa entering the scoring column. Powell and Gray looked good for Toronto, while Corcoran and Nixon were the pick of the Ottawa students.

Varsity 11: Flying wing, McPherson; halves, Jackson, Tafts, G. Powell; quarter, Miller; snap, Williams; insides, Gibson, MacLachlan; middles, Thomas, Willoughby; outsides, Buck, F. Powell; subs, Jacobs, McBride, Gray, Hicks, McBen, Stein, Edwards.
Ottawa: Flying wing, Courtwright; halves, Nixon, Kealey, Sweeney; quarter, Benoit; snap, Veale; insides, Desjardins, Brennan; middles, Gobielle, Corridan; outsides, Corcoran, Leclerc; subs, Phillips, Bellesfeuille, Cannon, Cowan, Jasmin, Leclerc, Marcoux, Lussier.

ST. MIKE'S NOSE OUT WIN WITH STRONG OFFENSIVE

St. Michael's College may be out of the race for the O.R.F.U. title, but they are still capable of playing an entertaining and victorious brand of football. This fact was demonstrated in a decisive manner Saturday afternoon at the Maple Leaf Stadium where they met and defeated their local rivals by 13-10.

The East End team after a shaky start took over the lead and held it until the last period when the students passing attack proved fatal to the Beaul's aspirations. In this last session the Irish, after having several passes intercepted, clicked on one which resulted in a touch by Meagher.

In the heavy work along the wing line the Bay Street students were shaded but in the open field work they were much stronger. Hughie Marks went around the end for a 35 yard dash in the first quarter to give the Saints a momentary lead but an intercepted pass was made good for a touch by Burgoyne.

From there to the end it was a close battle, with Bobby Porter gaining ground in the kicking exchanges and St. Mike's holding their own in the territorial play with their open attack. The Irish tossed 18 passes, eleven of which were completed. Beauls attempted only two and these were intercepted.

yard line. From here Stukus scored a placement. The Varsity backfield was not so consistent on the receiving of kicks as in the St. Mike's game.

The second quarter saw the mighty Argo held to one point. This was the climax to two long gains through the line by Sellirk and Darbyshire, with the former kicking for the point.

In the third quarter a forward pass by McPherson to Kearns placed the ball on Varsity's one yard line, but two offside cost Argo's chance for a major score, and they had to be content with a single. Sellirk and Stukus hooped singles for Argo's, the latter on an attempted placement. Casson recovered a fumble at Argo's 35 yard line and Murray promptly heaved a forward to Miller, good for fifteen yards. From here Murray kicked for a point.

In the last quarter McPherson intercepted a forward pass and raced for a touchdown. Stukus intercepted a lateral pass by batting the ball with his hand. Sellirk went over for the last score of the game.

minnet, was played very delicately and with a transparent atmosphere.

In Berceuse (Chopin) Mr. Kihl presented a very drowsy cradle song. The effect was charming, the tone beautiful, and the florid passages were unostentatious.

Following the two latter quiet numbers, the Caprice (Dohnanyi) came as a striking contrast with its brilliant technical passages, and its fiery, demoniacal atmosphere. This number bears a very striking resemblance to Dohnanyi's better-known Rhapsody, and seems to create an equal impression, as it won a great deal of applause, and the encore, Etude, Op. 25, No. 3 (Chopin) a beautiful work, was executed with great ease and abandon.

Following the intermission the programme was brought to a conclusion with the Chopin sonata in B minor, and two encores—both Chopin.

The first movement of the sonata was redeemed by a beautiful melody in the middle part, while the second movement in Scherzo form was fascinating, with a vivid ending.

The sublime solemnity of the Largo was gorgeously portrayed with a rich pianissimo tone like hollow raindrops. The interpretation of this movement was the climax of the afternoon's performance.

The Finale displayed a decided contrast between the pianissimo of the Largo, and the sforzando and fortissimo of the Finale. It was a very impassioned and excitable movement, with beautiful trickling effects.

The two encores, Chopin Nocturne in D flat and the "Butterfly" Etude, Chopin, brought generous applause, to conclude an enjoyable and well-balanced programme.

too heavily. "But," he went on, "I beg you to avoid conventions and never to drop the campaign against them until they are no more."

Mr. Stobie of University College replied by asserting that the real reason behind this desire to eat peas with one's knife lay in the base, selfish craving to stick one's elbows out, and that this was the real reason for the drop in his opponent's engagement list.

It was the view of Mr. A. C. Smith of University College, that the House should abhor not conventions in themselves, but the tyranny of them. "Patriotism," said he, "is very fine when properly understood. Patriotism means the love of one's fellows. But it has come to mean fighting for one's country and has changed from a good convention to a bad."

Mr. W. H. Bradley gave a very new definition of convention. "Convention," he said, "is something that applies to people coming together, the way in which they meet and react to one another." Mr. Bradley looked back with longing on the good old days of the duelling pistol and the flashing rapier, but stated his opinion that conventions were something inevitable, something that could never be got away from.

He closed with the remark that we uphold the "Graces of Urbanity" and pointed to Mr. Jeffries, the speaker, as a symbol of all that that phrase entailed.

Professor Ashley was among those speakers from the floor who upheld the motion, stating that he believed convention necessary but that he abhorred the tyranny of it.

Other speakers included Messrs. De-Pugh, Anderson, Cheseldine, Turner, and J. Turner of Trinity and Mr. H. Buck of University College. Marie Antoinette's personal toilet was among the many subjects discussed in detail to discover the tyranny of convention and the debate came to a close soon after Mr. J. Turner's short speech, which ran as follows: "I have only one thought (laughter), and that is that, by an old Trinity convention, there are refreshments waiting for us in the next room."

MISSING WATCHMAN SAFE AND SOUND NOISE HAS QUIETED NOW THEY FOUND

The watchman who for the last three weeks has grimly stood guard at the portals of the Victoria Library has disappeared. He has not been kidnapped. The Varsity went up to investigate the mystery and Miss Ray's assertion on the matter "No, the watchman has not been kidnapped," is to be taken as final. The fact is that he was posted there only for a month until things settled down, "to keep the freshmen from making a noise," as Miss Ray expressed it.

"We have asked the members of the V.C.U. to keep the Library quiet," said the Assistant Librarian. "Our Library was not made for such a great number of students," she continued, "and it echoes loudly at every noise. We are trying to establish a 'strictly silence' rule in the library as in all other big libraries, but that is a hard matter because in a small University like ours, where everyone knows everyone else, the students are more inclined to talk out loud to each other. We have put doors up at the entrances to the library hall and the reading room to deaden the noise.

The watchman has, up to now, been a part of the night staff. His presence in the library halls in broad daylight was made necessary to calm the boisterous spirits of Vic freshmen. His function now ably fulfilled he has returned to his former occupation.

such nightmares as the railway scandal."

Mr. Crichton commented at length on the Stevens mass-buying investigation. "The commission was never a government matter, and should have been allowed to finish its work without interference. I am sorry the party has become involved the way it has."

"The mass buying probe ought to have been a united effort of all Canadian parties, the press, the pulp, the universities, and the people as a whole, to reveal and correct the terrible conditions under which Canadian workmen are labouring," he declared. "The Liberals did nothing during their nine year term of office about the abuses which Mr. Stevens has discovered. Mergers grew rapidly during the Liberal regime."

He did not blame the manufacturer for the unemployment and wage reductions, so much as the mass buyer. The burdens under which the manufacturer worked, and the methods by which they had to sell their goods left the field of labour as the only field where the employer could economize.

"The Conservative party is a consistent party, with protectionist policies which are for the betterment of the working class," he proceeded. "There are too many persons in parliament merely representing the vested interests. The Lord never intended us to use the mighty waters of the St. Lawrence to create power for the benefit of the barons of St. James St."

Provincial legislatures were denounced as a hotbed for provincialism, racialism and sectionalism. "There should never have been provincial legislatures. They have become an added source of taxation, without bringing any benefits."

S.C.M. BOOK EXCHANGE

RULING IS GIVEN ON 'FRAT' ISSUE

Queen's Senate Stops Students
Joining International Fraternities

MEMBERS CAN'T GRADUATE

Kingston, Nov. 3.—Definite abolition of international fraternities at Queen's University was seen here following the announcement of Principal W. H. Fyfe that the Senate of the university had decided to forbid any student forming or becoming a member of a local branch of an international fraternity.

In future any student affiliated with such a fraternity will not be allowed to graduate.

In the meantime the status of the thirty or so students banned by the Alma Mater Society from social, political and athletic privileges for a year, remains unchanged.

The Alma Mater Society is scheduled to meet, but several members stated it was merely a regular meeting and fraternities may not be discussed.

PLENTY OF EXCITEMENT AT SATURDAY'S GAME

How that boy can read off the scores, no matter how fast they are flashed on the board!

The third quarter featured a vicious offensive by the bleacher fans against the two dozen bowlers inevitably present in their midst. As usual the full two dozen were taken home to the moth balls unscathed. Some bright Saturday some bright guy will actually hit a derby. And then will Mr. Woikman be indignant!

In the final period the fans were favoured by the anaemic acrobatics of The Silent Three. And the S.A.C. advertised for "Cheerleaders".... There is a thought: maybe the Student's Council slipped the Cheer Leader-in-Chief the sign to pipe down, too!

The afternoon began fair to warmer, but the frantic fixture finished (how'm ah doin, sports stuff?) with violent local snow flurries.

Or did you have the programme with the lucky number?

BLUES DEFEAT WESTERN

registered when a bad pass was made to Webber, who dropped the pigskin at Sherk's kick out and was downed at the Varsity 40-yard line. Upper ran his 4-yard line. Gray's short kick gave the Mustangs possession 15 yards out. An ten yard penalty and a couple of plunges put the ball on the 1-yard line, from which point Charlie Box carried it over for a touch, which was not converted. Towards the end of the period Upper was downed for a rouge to give Western their sixth and final tally.

SECOND QUARTER

At the start of the second quarter Laing recovered Ryder's fumble at Western's fifty yard line and this marked the first time that play was in the Purple and White half of the field. The Blues came to life here and began exhibiting a powerful offensive. Stevens' crew made yards three times in a row on two forwards and some nice plunging by Laing. An Upper to Gray pass on an end run finally put the ball over the line for the first of the three Blue majors. Gray converted to tie the score. A few minutes later the Blues took the lead when Sherk fumbled. Gray's hoist. The ball was kicked over the Purple and White line, where Harris fell on it. Gray failed to convert.

FUMBLES COSTLY

Laing contributed the nearest bit of plunging of the game when he twisted through the centre for twenty yards. Henderson recovered Sherk's fumble 20 yards out and Gray's placement went wide, Campbell running it out. However, one the next exchange of kicks Gray kicked for a point. Box ran into Upper and the former was carried off the field. A few moments later Dawson recovered a loose ball when Grant and Campbell ran into each other in going after a high kick and Gray booted for a placement to make the score 15-6 for Varsity.

At this point Sherk was taken out of the game. Although limping and badly shaken up on every tackle, since Dawson and Company were hitting every ball carrier hard, Sherk played a wonderful game and received a big hand from the crowd when he was taken out.

FINAL QUARTER

In the final quarter the Blues put on the pressure via the aerial route and Laing walked through a hole which was four feet wide for the Blues' final major which Gray converted. Toward the end of the game Coulter ran Rankin's kick back for a gain of thirty-five yards, being brought down thirty-five yards out. Gray's attempted placement went wide for the Blues twenty-second and final tally.

Although Western had the best of matters in the kicking department, Art Upper nullified this by his broken-field running. Upper was good for ten yards on every attempt and played a heady game throughout. Coulter again turned in a smart effort and handled the team in admirable fashion. Grady Laing contributed some nice plunging and together with the rest of the Blue line was strong defensively. Smoosle Dawson played in his old-time form and jarred many a Purple and White ball carrier. The Blue outsiders although tackling well, failed to take the Mustangs' ends out and as a result most of Coulter's end-run efforts came to grief.

Joe Breen displayed a group of big youngsters who just didn't measure up to the Blue team. Sherk was the outstanding star on the Western squad. Charlie Box and Veroni contributed fine efforts.

Varsity: Dawson, Webber, Upper, Gray, Coulter, Williams, Brebner, Harris, Laing, Greco, Henderson, Alison; subs, Hennessy, Penner, Taylor, Perry, Warren, Keith, Holden.

Western: Gillies, Bryant, Sherk, Ryder, Box, Rankin, Veroni, Bell, Davis, Tweedie, Carver, Grant; subs: Campbell, Parker, Lerner, McEachern, Smith, Potts, Neilson.

Officials: Bartlett, Barton, Sutton.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Paris—Premier Doumergue in meeting with war veterans, again demanded the reforms which will either bring about his downfall or raise him to the pinnacle of power in France.

Montreal—The campaign publicly recognised to destroy public ownership of Hydro and place it in the hands of trusts met its Waterloo last night when Mr. Bouchard of the enquiry commission, launched a telling attack against utility companies.

New York—The quarrel between Ohio and New York State over the legality of certain types of nets has forced Ontario to take a definite stand. New York, according to Ontario officials, has violated the inter-state agreement.

Toronto—Hon. H. H. Stevens, in addressing a capacity audience at the Royal York Hotel last night, openly denounced the practice of short weight selling and secret discount and similar malpractice, and demanded a new method of legislation which should ensure the discontinuance of such malpractices. Stevens went on to declare that while in office his last act was to sign the papers for prosecution of certain chain stores in Toronto.

Sault Ste. Marie—Two northland trappers battled through the frigid waters of the north today, one losing the fight, the other struggling at last to land. Spilled from their canoe, both struggled to land in the deadly current. The shock too great, one collapsed on the shore and died, the other crawled miles to safety.

Geneva—A Japanese diplomat in the League of Nations meeting today had to exercise his agile mind to the utmost to disprove the accusation that his country is using former German islands to fortify as naval stations.

FUTURE ACTIVITIES PLANNED BY GROUP

Professor Arnold will Speak at Anti-War Society Meeting

FULL PROGRAMME PLANNED

Important decisions as to the future activities of the Anti-War Society will be made at the meeting of the society in the Women's Union next Wednesday evening, Alfred Stein, secretary, stated in an interview with The Varsity yesterday. Mr. Stein refused to divulge the nature of the plans now under consideration by the society and which are to be fully discussed at the meeting.

Professor Arnold of Victoria College will address the meeting on Wednesday. "The purpose of this meeting," said Mr. Stein, "is to awaken all students to the imminence of war and to have them take a definite stand against this menace which is threatening society today." Invitations have been sent to practically every organization on the campus, asking them to send representatives to the meeting and consequently a large attendance is expected. All students interested are invited to attend.

Questioned about the general attitude of the student body toward the question of war, Mr. Stein replied that the first meeting of the society did not have an attendance as large as was expected, possibly because of the inactivity of the society last year (a defect which will be remedied this year, Mr. Stein assured The Varsity) and possibly because the students themselves

HART HOUSE MASQUERADE

As in the past, tickets for the Hart House Masquerade will be distributed by representatives of the faculty and college societies. As great a number as possible will be accommodated and owing to a new ruling of the House Committee of Hart House the lower years will also be extended an equal chance with the upper years of procuring tickets. See Bulletin Board in Wednesday's Varsity for specific details as to how your college will handle sale of the tickets.

SPANISH FURNITURE REFLECTS PERIOD

Moorish Influence Shows Effect in Eighteenth Century

LOVE OF DETAIL SHOWN

"Art is a definite biological thing and one cannot interpret taste and design without a study of the people who were the designers," stated Miss Ruth Home, M.A., at the Museum yesterday, in the fourth of a series of lectures on period furniture. She illustrated this in her discussion of 16th and 17th century Spanish furniture, showing how its design was coloured by the history of the country and especially by the invasion of the Moors and Jews in 1713.

The Moors had definite artistic ideas and were hired by the Spaniards to do much of their building. This resulted in a mixture of Moorish design and Gothic. The Spaniards at this time were rigidly conventional and this attitude was reflected in their austere, ponderous and conservative chests and cabinets, which formed the chief article of furniture. They were richly inlaid with bone and showed direct Moorish influence in their all over pattern and innumerable small drawers.

Chairs in the 16th century were relatively unimportant and little care was taken with their design. The shape of any that were constructed, was borrowed mainly from the Italian scissor chair, but a type of Gothic was also used.

Tables were intricate in design, combining Moorish love of detail with the Spanish iron work. They were covered with heavy carpet which also showed the all over pattern of the Jews and Moors.

16th and 17th century Spain contributed little to modern European design and a study of the furniture at this time is merely a study of Moorish ideas superimposed on Gothic.

VARSITY STAFF MEMBER PURSUES PURSE THIEF

While walking through the University grounds east of the University Library at about 7 o'clock last night, Miss Nora Huntsman, 837 Bathurst St., a nurse at the Toronto General Hospital, was assaulted by a man who escaped and early this morning had not yet been apprehended by police. Miss Huntsman, police state, was struck on the head and her purse, containing some $5.00 in cash, was snatched by the thief.

Two members of the staff of The Varsity heard her frenzied cries for help and gave chase to the thief. After a sprint across the park in front of the Parliament Buildings the pursued man escaped in the maze of laneways near the Banting Institute and Connaught Laboratories. Only a meagre description could be furnished police.

The attack is understood to have taken place east of the Library within the University grounds at a place where there are no street lights of any kind. The thief ran into the park in front of the Parliament Buildings and is believed to have been seen only by the two members of The Varsity staff.

Varsity Grads May Wander Far Right From Tulagai to Zanzibar

Take heart, all you students with a yearning for the wide-open spaces and the desire to out-Sinclair Sinclair. There is a twenty-nine to one chance that when you graduate you will go to the far corners of the earth and do things. We worked that out ourselves from the statistics in the Registrar's office. If you run true to form you may end up in Siberia or down in the Straits Settlements. You may be a Chinese officer or an African farmer; other grads have before you.

One grad lives on Tulagai—we didn't know what that was either—it's one of the Solomon Islands, and the man, Hetherington by name, is a doctor. If you are a woman and more interested in Alaska, you might do what one woman did—go there as a sergeant—in the Salvation Army.

Our own personal choice in strange positions is that of Mr. Granel who is Chief of the Office of Vegetable Police in Buenos Aires (that is one Ripley overlooked). E. Barrie Carpenter of Los Angeles is a close second with her modern cat hospital and a reputation of being the only feline specialist in the United States.

DEMANO SENSE OF HUMOUR Patrons of the Bureau Seem Well Satisfied with Dates

Activities of the Date Bureau have been slowing down considerably during the past two weeks, according to the Operator of the Bureau when questioned yesterday. All of the applications which have so far been received have not yet been taken care of, as there is a distinct shortage of men of any kind, and women of certain particular qualifications.

"The seventeen Foresters who wrote in about ten days ago have been taken care of in one fell swoop, by a group of girls who wrote in the day that the original letter was reproduced," said the Operator. "There were two other groups of girls who wrote in after the assignment, but they were too late, and withdrew their applications."

FRENCH CANADIANS NOT WELL TREATED

Mutual Dislike of French and English Creates Problem SUFFER MANY INDIGNITIES

(Special to "The Varsity")
Montreal, P.Q. (CIP)—That French Canadians have not been treated with all fairness in Canada was the opinion expressed by R. L. Calder, K.C., in addressing a meeting of the Newfoundland Club here recently. The French, Mr. Calder said, are often regarded as a problem in Canada.

However, the system adopted by the British Empire in regard to other races than its own in its domain is not one of absorption to produce uniformity, but teamwork on the part of the different units. However, the British have a way of conciliating their awkward elements by making concessions to them in an offensive manner, which does not tend to internal harmony. At the present time, there is a certain amount of historic dislike on the part of the French, and an inexplicable contempt on the part of the English.

This lack of mutual cordiality is deplorable and highly unreasonable, in Mr. Calder's opinion. The French Canadians came of Norman stock, the first of whom to settle in France were Vikings. The English came from precisely the same Norse stock. Nordic determination is evinced in the manner in which the French Canadians have kept their language and nationality from being absorbed, without immigration, for centuries.

The indignities which they have suffered are many. The system of separate schools originally inaugurated as a concession to the English-speaking minority, is now being attacked as being an undue concession to the French. Their speech is ridiculed and labeled "not French" and "patois". The speaker told of being approached while serving in France during the Great War by an old man, who, having heard him speak French, demanded why he, evidently from Normandy, was serving in a Highland regiment. This demonstrates the purity of the French as spoken here.

The speaker went on to declare that a great many false statements have been made about the supposed unwillingness of the French to assimilate.

SOCIAL ORDER SUBJECT OF HART HOUSE TALKS

For the past two years an important commission, under the chairmanship of Sir Robert Falconer, has been at work on a study of the relationship of Christianity to the Social Order. The commission has included a large number of persons who have achieved distinction in the fields of industry, finance, statecraft and church life. It has been assisted by a score of auxiliary groups distributed across the whole Dominion. The report, which has recently been published under the title "Christianizing the Social Order", is worthy of careful study.

In order that students of the University may have an opportunity to learn at first hand of the contents and significance of this report, the S.C.M. has arranged that it be made the subject of the November series of Hart House Addresses. It will be dealt with by four distinguished members of the commission, namely, Sir Robert Falconer, Principal W. T. Brown, Prof. E. J. Urwick, and Prof. W. R. Taylor. The addresses will be given on the four successive Wednesdays of November.

FRENCH PREMIER SEEKING CHANGES STATES DE CHAMP

Possibility of a Revolution in France Considered Slight

NO PARTY STRONG ENOUGH

Altered Constitution Proposed to Avoid Cabinet Changes

"I do not believe that there is any possibility of a revolution occurring in France as a result of the present crisis," declared Professor S. E. De Champ, of the Department of French, University College, when interviewed by The Varsity.

Professor De Champ, who keeps in close touch with happenings in his native land, gave as his reason for this assertion the fact that in France at the present time there is no party strong enough to bring about revolution, even if it wished to.

"Doumergue wishes certain changes to be made in the constitution," explained the professor, "and these cannot be made unless the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies meet in congress at Versailles. He wished to have more power vested in the prime minister, such as power to call new elections without waiting four years."

"He also wishes to amend the constitution so that the cabinet will not be forced out of office on the vote of the House, in order to stop the continuous changes in the cabinet which have been going on in the last few years."

Professor De Champ explained that the various parties in France were not of one mind on this question, which accounted for the unrest at the present time. Should the House not ratify Doumergue's proposal for a congress at Versailles, there will no doubt be a general election, in order to find out the wishes of the country as a whole on the matter.

Kicking and Plunging Feature Play on Muddy Field; Many Fumbles

SCHER SCORES TOUCHDOWN

Senior Meds and Senior S.P.S. tangled on the Trinity field yesterday afternoon, Meds emerging victorious via the shutout route, 6-0. The field was a morass and fumbles were numerous in the driving rain which encompassed all. The game was devoid of sparkling plays, and sighs of relief were exhaled by all present when the final whistle sounded.

Kicking and plunging were the order of the day throughout, no end runs and very few forwards being attempted. The boys galloped through the mire at centre field with reckless abandon all during the first half, but the net result was nil. Both teams had golden opportunities for scoring on various occasions, only to fumble at the crucial moment. The Engineers at one stage appeared to be all set for a placement but the kick was blocked, Meds gaining possession. The hopes of the Meds then seemed roseate, since they were on the School 5 yard line. Their anticipations were speedily blasted, however, when they fumbled on the first play, S.P.S. regaining the ball and thereby averting disaster. The game was replete with similar plays, and was highly mediocre to say the least.

During the final quarter Meds scored.

WHAT OF TO-MORROW?

The thirteenth of January is really only to-morrow. With the world in its present chaotic state, every to-morrow is fraught with great possibilities. On this date a plebiscite will be taken in the Saar valley to decide which power, France or Germany, will govern this little bit of land, full of valuable coal mines. The outcome of the vote is pregnant with the danger of war. We do not claim any great power of prophecy but on the remarks of recent observers it can be reasonably taken for granted that the vote will be forcefully in favour of Germany. Even so, the matter is not settled. The Versailles Treaty stipulates that, in such a case, Germany must buy back from France the rich coal mines which obviously belong to Germany. To prophesy further France will ask such an exorbitant price that Germany in her present financial state will not be able to pay. France, of course, will ask for a guarantee which Germany might well refuse to give. It is conceivable that France will continue to keep an armed contingent in the Saar.

To what does all this lead? Germany is now in the mood for a putsch and is quite prepared to march into the Saar, for, even if Germany should take possession by Treaty rights, she would never pay for the coal mines. And so, perhaps, the only solution would be the age old one of blind, unreasoning conflict—war.

The Versailles Treaty was concocted by the greatest men known to the civilized world, each one accompanied by a large staff of experts, all of whom were unable to foresee that the Saar might be the spark from which the fires of devastation would spring. Consequently, the young people of to-day are beginning to realize that the respect which they formerly held for their country's greyed or bald-headed diplomats is no longer justified.

What, excluding the diplomats, will prevent a war? The only thing we can think of is communism. There are still millions of communists and socialists in Germany who, in case of war, will shoot their Nazi leaders and probably establish a left socialist or communist state. The Nazi leaders know this and fear it.

Not only the Nazi leaders are afraid of communism but all the capitalistic states of Europe. Another soviet country is not to be countenanced by the monied interests. Another war almost inevitably brings with it the establishment of, not only one, but many new socialist countries. Capitalist statesmen and the veiled powers behind them are oppressed by two opposing forces. They may follow their own pursuit of wealth, which will lead them to a devastating war. The result of this war will probably be revolution, a revolution destroying the system upon which they depend for their existence as capitalists.

So, if there is no war, thanks must be given to communism or rather to the fear of communism.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The attack on a girl by a purse snatcher inside the University grounds east of the University Library early yesterday evening brings under scrutiny the question of the lighting system in use on the grounds. Without attempting to unduly alarm anyone, it would seem to us remarkable that such happenings are not more frequent at the spot where the attack occurred. There is scarcely anyone in Queen's Park at night and no attempt is made to light this pathway east of the Library in the old river valley.

Street lights should be placed along this footpath or else the walk should be torn up and closed to the public. A searchlight placed in a strategic position such as is usual at various other points on the campus would serve the purpose until such lights are erected.

Art, Music and Drama

Hart House Theatre

Mr. John Goss, that popular and versatile gentleman of song, appears in recital at Hart House Theatre on Thursday evening. "Mr. Goss has done many odd things in music"—to quote a London critic—"singing cheerful nonsense, for example, at my Lord Beaverbrook's Community Celebrations. He will laugh at anything, and defy the solemn with his ridicule. But in everything he does there is a sense of exquisite taste. He is not of the stuff of temperamental prima donnas. His sense of humour will always overcome any tendency he may feel towards extravagant exotism. He is an artist of whom his countrymen should be proud and who is a master of winsomeness and beauty in his singing." Included in Mr. Goss's programme of Thursday evening is a group of songs by Delius, the great British composer whose death occurred recently. At the Delius Festival organized by Sir Thomas Beecham a few years ago in London, Mr. Goss was chosen to sing and has become known as one of the principal exponents of this composer's very beautiful works for voice. Other features of the programme will be five songs from the Schubert cycle "Die Schöne Müllerin"; a group of "Ayers for Voice and Lute", transcribed by Peter Warlock; and Eight Hungarian Folksongs by Bela Bartok.

Art Gallery

I have a particular penchant (pronounced penchant) for the work of Carl Schaefer. It is always very encouraging to see an exhibition of his work, especially after seeing the Royal Academy work, for it gives one new confidence in Canadian art.

Mr. Schaefer is certainly Canada's most original and promising young painter. He has a style that is absolutely his own and a clear expression of his own personality. He has to be sure, been influenced by the earlier work of the Group of Seven, but it has been a very positive influence and his work far transcends all of the Group's imitators.

I know of no painter who can paint such intensely dramatic landscapes without doing storm-tossed clouds and wind-wracked pines. Each of his twenty one sketches in the Sketch Room have a strangely calm, almost unreal, sense of the dramatic forms of nature. They are not done from nature but of nature. To those people who delight to see paint flawlessly and sensitively handled Mr. Schaefer's work must be a joy. I am sure his work will live as long, if not longer, than the best Group of Seven work.

Organ Recital

Dr. Healey Willan, University organist, had intended to give a series of organ recitals in Convocation Hall. Owing to a serious hand infection Dr. Willan will be unable to fulfill his original intentions, but he has invited Mr. Charles Peaker, Mus.Bac., F.R.C.O., Mr. Frederick Silvester and Miss Muriel Gidley to give three recitals on the following dates, November 6th, 20th, and December 4th at 5 p.m.

Mr. Peaker and Mr. Silvester are so well known to University students that it is unnecessary to say anything by way of introduction. Miss Gidley, we believe, is the first lady organist to take part in the university recitals and is a very accomplished performer. Her appearance will be looked forward to with considerable interest.

Dr. Willan has stated his intentions to arrange a further series of recitals after Christmas, the details of which shall be announced at a later date.

Royal Alexandra

To be able to absorb first hand the atmosphere of sheer undiluted charm which is the prime attribute of the Abbey Theatre Players from Dublin, is a privilege which one could wish were afforded oftener. Last night with every available seat in the Royal Alexandra Theatre occupied by alumni of the University of Toronto and their friends, this reviewer was forced to view the performance of "Look at the Heffernans" from assorted points of vantage or disadvantage.

Throughout the first act over appreciation was radiated from a standing position in one of the upper boxes. Straining on tiptoe we made the acquaintance of the Messrs. McCormick, Dolan and Fitzgerald, as they contributed to the fun of the first act. Though it did not take long to discover that the play was rather slight, nevertheless the musical speech emanating from the stage wooed our senses into complete acceptance of a rather time-worn plot.

A CALL TO ACTION

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

In a recent editorial (Oct. 31st) there were very ably set forth some of the considerations which face women of our generation in the event of a coming war. The editorial was certainly worth special attention. To my mind it was sufficiently thought-provoking to have elicited some comments from the women of the university, through these columns. As there seems to be no move from that part of the student body, and as the subject is vital to the men as well, I wish to take issue on a certain aspect of the editorial.

It is possible that war is not "point one, two, three, or four..." (I quote from your editorial) on the agenda of current events; but can there be any doubt in the minds of intelligent people that the probability of war in the near future amounts almost to a certainty? Indeed, this was almost asserted by the tone of your article. And yet, the article ends by urging the women not to "rush out and join the Anti-War Society—or any other organization with a pacifist or anti-military policy." Certainly it is not advisable that anyone thoughtlessly ally himself with a cause which he does not whole-heartedly, and after careful deliberation, support. But surely we cannot suppose

Imperial—

Apart from some dull spots in the supporting films, we think you'll like the show at the Imperial again this week. There isn't anything very substantial to the feature picture, "Happiness Ahead", but it makes splendid entertainment, almost achieving in spots the spirit of "It Happened One Night".

The story is the old, old one of the pretty heiress, fed up with life, going slumming incognito as an ornery working girl; falls in love with the young Horatio Alger hero who happens to run a window washing business. Comes a state of affairs where a couple of thousand dollars will put the young lad into big business in his line; heroine persuades daddy to finance the rising son; hero finds out; lovers quarrel; happy ending. The plot is as old as the hills but admirable direction and a few dashes of good music help to make it a thoroughly entertaining picture.

that the problems of our attitudes in regard to war has not been considered to some extent by each of us. The time for ponderous deliberation is past; the future lies black ahead of us. The student has too long been content to sit back in placid sophistication. This problem of war cannot be shelved with sage words for caution; caution is necessary, but the times cry for action! VICTORIA YEAR PARTIES
There are to be eight year parties at Victoria this year. Jeeves, the smelling salts.

C—C

It has been rumoured that Professor Blatz made his statement that University students are a group of half-baked adolescents after attending a Vic year party.

C—C

Novelty is the keynote of these social functions. The novelty consists of the participants going around dressed as nothing on earth.

The chief purpose of the year parties is to give the other faculties the impression that Vic is a social college.

C—C

The only ones interested in the parties are the executive who receive invitations to all other parties.

C—C

There are two subsidiary parties held in conjunction with each year party. The excess men play poker while the women sew dainty things.

C—C

In order to provide every girl with a partner a number system is usually introduced. For that reason year parties are known as the Vic Matrimonial Bureau. At least they hope it is a Matrimonial Bureau.

C—C

At the end of every party, everyone goes to the Diana Sweets and sings "On the Old Ontario Strand", to show the public they have been making whoopee.

C—C

Well, I will see you at the 3T7 party.

Last night the Vic Jrs. took the U.C. freshmen for quite a ride and trounced them by a 27-12 score. The freshmen as individuals played well but as a team they were not very successful. Their game was not up to the standard of that which they played last Thursday against St. Mike's. The Vic outfit was decidedly stronger and their superior technique left the Freshies powerless to make much headway. Joyce Tenenbaum and Doris Johnson who played on the forward line throughout the entire game were a real credit to their team. And it would seem that had Aileen O'Brien played full time she would have chalked up a considerably grander total for the freshmen.

The Vic Juniors have learned the invaluable lesson of co-operation as their performance last night revealed most vividly. Their chief strength lies in their defense lines, although we must add that forwards who can mount up a 27 point score are anything but weak. Vic is now tied with St. Mike's in this particular group; both teams have a single victory and no defeats to their credit. They meet tomorrow night and it should be a good game as it will in all probability show which team will reach the semi-finals. Vic and St. Mike's generally support their teams very nobly so don't let this game prove any exception.

Watch tomorrow's Varsity for the baseball schedule which is to be ready by then. The games are to start next Monday, November 12. Things are rather late this year due chiefly to the delay caused by the medley team which is being painfully assembled from Meds., S.P.S., U.C., Physiotherapy, Household Science, Social Science, and Public Health.

The heart-felt appeal which was made in this column last week for more players for this would-be third team of the league induced one more girl to turn out, bringing the grand total up to 4 players. There is to be a practice from 5-6 tonight at Little Vic gym and matters are getting desperate. If it proves to be a total flop a team can hardly be submitted since the schedule is to appear definitely tomorrow. This is the last chance! And if from the large number of eligible players at least five more fans

TRINITY TIES JR. MEDS
BY DEFEATING JR. S.P.S.

Trinity, pre-season favourites to take the Mulock Cup, again moved up into a tie with Jr. Meds for the leadership of their group when they handed Jr. School a 7-0 beating yesterday. Playing most of the game in a shower of rain, both teams gave examples of good football, with Trinity making the larger number of errors.

Although Lady Luck favoured Jr. School, when Trinity made 9 fumbles, and only recovered 4 of them, they were unable to break into the scoring column, and on very few occasions were even a threat, lacking the necessary punch to capitalize in any way on their opponents' mistakes. In the last half, however, they held Trinity to a scoreless tie, and occasionally displayed real talent.

A'Court was by far the star of the game, running back kicks 10 or 15 yards, and on one occasion galloped away for over 50. There was little to choose between Pidduck and A'Court from the kicking end and the latter outshone his rival in the running and plunging.

All of Trinity's points came in the first half, A'Court scoring the 7 of them. The first point was scored after Trinity had recovered a School fumble and then, after capitalizing on another, A'Court plunged for the only major score of the game, through a hole large enough to accommodate the whole team.

Jr. School almost scored when Owen let the ball slip through his fingers and over the line, but a pass to A'Court who ran it to his 20 yard line kept the score sheet clean. The latter on an extension took the pigskin to Jr. School's 30 yard line, and then hooped it, for the final point of the game.

The last half saw a see-saw struggle with Trinity losing opportunities through fumbles. An attempted drop kick by Trinity failed to leave the ground and the only scoring threat of the period was lost.

Welch handled the Trinity team well from the quarter position, while Ruddick also put in an excellent game. Pidduck and Ballagh both played good football for the Engineers.

School: Halves, Shaw, Pidduck, McLeod; flying wing, Schmidt; snap, Walker; middles, Clark, Henry; outside, Gray, Burgess; insides, Otter, Hall; quarter, Ballagh; subs, Lea-worthy, Fox, Busby, MacDougall, Mitchell.

Trinity: Halves, A'Court, Ruddick; flying wing, Reed; snap, Stratton; outside, Scrivener, Young; middles, Lash, Fraser; insides, Hamill, Milyard; quarter, Welch; subs, Osler, Tucker, McMillan, Packer, Morgan, Jefferies, Fraser.

VIC CO-EOS DEFEAT
U.C. WITH SCORE 27-8

Last night the O.C.E. gym was the scene of a fierce battle between Vic and U.C. for basketball honours. In the first half the play was sloppy, but towards the end both teams put all they had into the game. Although the score was decisively in favour of the Vic team the U.C. players had good material on their side and would have done better if they had shown real team play. Joyce Tenenbaum and Doris Johnson were right in on the ball and scored some nice shots. The remaining score being made by Aileen O'Brien who only played in the last half.

The Vic team worked well together being specially strong on the defense though the forward's passing was good. Betty Jenkinson was right on the spot and made 5 of the baskets. Marian Best and Muriel Beaton also displayed good form and chalked up 7 and 8 points respectively. Eleanor McIntosh being the other scorer.

U.C.: Joyce Tenenbaum (5), Miriam Kronick, Doris Johnson (3), M. Taylor, Rita Clarke, Jean Meires, Edith McGruder, Aileen O'Brien.

Vic: Marian Best (7), Muriel Beaton (8), Eleanor McIntosh (2), Mildred Sedgewick, Betty Jenkinson (10), Alice Bassnet, Ruth Yuuva, Sheila Brown, Gladys Kippen.

can not be found something is very wrong somewhere. Loyalty, shame—or what have you—on the part of the members of the faculties concerned surely will not fail to bring forth a response to this last call.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Some day Homer will arise and sing in fitting fashion the praises of the boys who battle for their faculty in the annual Mulock Cup series. There must be something of the trooper blood in these lads who take as their motto "The show must go on". Seldom if ever is inclement weather taken as sufficient reason for delaying a game. Last night the four teams went to the mark about the same time as Jupiter Pluvius thought fit to instigate some action. At any rate the teams waded through their scheduled games and although there was considerable importance attached to one contest, the other meant nothing as it was between two teams already too deep in the cellar to reach the playoffs.

Trinity College, coached by Les Blackwell, hit their stride last night and battled their way into a tie for first place in the group scramble. Trinity appeared to have the team to beat when the season started but they have been disappointing to date. Junior Meds fielded a surprisingly strong team and if Trinity hope to reach the finals they will encounter some stiff opposition from the Medicals. In the contest last evening, the junior Engineers proved to be the stepping stone by which Trinity reached the lead. A'Court, on the winners' backfield, scored all seven points against the Schoolmen.

However, if Trinity and School played good ball, the Meds-Senior School tilt was somewhat of a weird nature. Our correspondent informs us that it more resembled an imitation of Washington crossing the Delaware, if it was the Delaware that Washington crossed, than a football game. Anyway they were out there playing despite the rain and the fact that the game meant nothing to them, which is a tribute to their sportsmanship.

O.A.C., who last year swept through to a Dominion title in the intermediate loop, and entertained hopes of a third successive football championship, have fallen on evil days. Just when the Aggies were working into a position where they could demand some consideration in their request for admittance to the senior intercollegiate series, they suddenly start finishing second in their weekly tilts. At any rate they now trail McMaster in the western series.

One more game and the regular intercollegiate series is over for another year. There will, of course, be the playoffs, and it will be Varsity and Queen's who meet in this contest. However, Varsity have Montreal to meet before that game and the result of the struggle at McGill next week will determine where Varsity will conclude their season's campaign. If Varsity and Queen's win, they will be tied for first, but if Varsity should lose, they will be in second place, providing Queen's beat Western.

VIC DEFEATS O. C. E.
IN VOLLEYBALL

Senior Vic chalked up their second straight victory in the interfaculty volleyball league by defeating O.C.E. in the upper gym yesterday afternoon. The Scarlet and Gold won rather decisively as the scores of 15-8 and 15-5 would indicate.

On the whole, a rather poor exhibition of volleyball was displayed, although at times Vic showed some clever combination, which, together with the spiking of Vanderleek and Dingman, provided them with their margin of victory. O.C.E. made some good individual plays but they did not combine effectively as a team.

The winners got off to a big lead in the first game and were never headed, but the second game was very close until Neeb began to serve and Victoria scored eight points in a row to win handsly.

Sr. Vic: Devitt, Bodrug, Vanderleek, Kearns, Neeb, Dingman, Irwin, Herzlewood, Halperin.

O.C.E.: Fitten, De Muy, Young, Grabb, Davidson, Scherbarth, Flannery, Colmer.

PHARMACY OWNS U.C.
BY 15 TO 8 SCORE

Last night in the big gym of Hart House Pharmacy scored a decisive victory, 15-8, over U.C. Pharmacy got away to a fast start, netting 8 points in the first period, while U.C. remained scoreless. In the next three periods the play was fairly even, U.C. scoring eight points and Pharmacy seven. While the play was rather rough, there were few penalties, and only one casualty. The superior checking of the Pharmacy team accounted largely for their win. Their passes also seemed to click better.

Pharmacy: Ford, Armour, Jackson, MacIntyre, Pronger; subs, Armstrong, Poole, Langdon.

U.C.: Krieger, Sharpe, Bissel, Harwood, Smith, Fullerton; subs, Robb, Kidd, Martin.

377 VICTORIA PLAN
NOVEL CLASS PARTY

For four brief hours next Friday evening one section of the University will be transported far into the glamorous past, when the Class of 377 Victoria gather for Ye Merrie Revel. Burwash Hall with its early Norman architecture will provide a perfect setting for this old English party. Against the gray stone walls of the castle the heraldic crests of many bold knights and barons will flash in bright array, and from the lofted ramparts Fred Evis and his goodly musicians will contribute gay harmonies to the splendour of the scene. In the Way-side Tavern smiling maids will fill and fill again the glasses, from unflinching cider casks.

The committee in charge wish to announce, however, that Ye Merrie Revel will not be a "costume party", which means that The Varsity's War Correspondent will not be expected to doff his shrapnel helmet for the metal headpiece of some goodly knight. But the Queen's Powderpuffs and the King's Choristers will be in attendance to provide entertainment, Robinhood and Maid Marian may steal out of the greenwood to join the dancers, and it is also rumoured that the British are coming. And all evening long, hovering above the throng of happy dancers will be seen that supreme spirit of Gaiety, the Court Jester.

FOLK-DANCING PARTY
INITIATED BY S. C. M.

The first folk-dancing party in University history was held in the University of Toronto Schools gymnasium last Friday night. The party, which was attended by over 120 people, was evidently a decided success. Under the leadership of Mr. Masden, who is a native of Denmark and a prominent figure in Y.M.C.A. circles here, the crowd was treated to an evening of organized folk-dancing.

The evening was the first event of the Student Christian Movement's social season, and the decision to experiment with folk-dances was a result of Mr. Masden's success in organizing and conducting folk-dancing classes elsewhere. It is hoped to secure Mr. Masden's assistance, and to hold classes every other week throughout the course of the winter months.

Members of the S.C.M. who are promoting the enterprise have considered themselves fortunate to secure the services of Mr. Masden, since his return from Denmark. It is hoped to hold many classes of a similar nature in various other sections of the city, and having joint meetings of the S. C. M. classes and other groups, with representatives of each group competing for the honours.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM URGED FOR U. OF T.

Need for Trained Minds and Free Thinking, Says
Speaker

PRESIDENT CODY PRESENT

Charges that academic freedom is threatened at the University of Toronto were made by A. D. Schatz, Chairman of the York Township Collegiate board at the Vaughan Road C.I. commencement exercises Friday night. Confidence in President H. J. Cody, who also spoke, as a staunch defender of academic freedom at the University, was expressed.

"Many of our graduates are going to the University of Toronto," he said. "I wish to draw attention to the savage attacks made by certain sections of the press on academic freedom there, especially their savage attacks on a highly valued and honoured member of the staff, Professor F. H. Underhill, who has fearlessly searched for the truth regardless of the consequences."

"I feel confident that in Dr. Cody we will have a staunch defender of academic freedom. Threats have been made on that freedom by powerful politicians and other interests in the city of Toronto. The mayor of Toronto said that he will consider refusing to send his sons to the University—a great loss to his sons," he added.

"Some people prefer the atmosphere of the barracks to the healthy air of a free university where truth is sought for its own sake, without regard to the prejudices. We urgently need trained minds to do this independently and dispassionately."

Proficiency in athletics does not mean backwardness in scholarship, Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto, pointed out. He referred to the number of athletes who were also brilliant scholars, showing that there is no antagonism between a healthy mind and a healthy body.

Five university scholarships, totaling in value about $2,000, have been won by students at Vaughan Road Collegiate this year, it was stated by Principal G. E. Evans.

women, about thirty more women than men, at present. These will all be dated in time, but it is rather a slow process for some," he said. "I wish some more men would write in. There are all kinds of girls just waiting for them. We will have to date these girls up eventually, and if a few more men would write in it would be much more convenient for the Bureau, and much more satisfactory for the dates."

As a rule the men who write in want girls for particular specified dates, although some say that they are not in a particular hurry, but would like to meet a nice girl when they are presented to one. However, the girls, in most cases, say that they want a man, preferably one who is "nice" but interesting and, usually, humorous. A sense of humour seems to be very much in demand.

So far the people who have been dated up by the Bureau seem to be very well satisfied with the results they ingness of the French Canadians to enlist for service in the late war. The fact of the matter is, according to Mr. Calder, that, although an extremely large number volunteered at the very first call, they were turned away as not wanted, and returned to their homes, their pride wounded, and with good reason. Worse still, they were put to the indignity of conscription later on. Only two hundred and fifty French Canadians were accepted in the first draft.

The French Canadian, stated Mr. Calder, is ready and willing to co-operate, but he must be treated fairly. He has a great sense of pride, and cannot be safely slighted. However, the French Canadian element will someday blend with the English Canadian element, but only provided that he is treated with fairness and consideration.

WARDEN OF HART HOUSE TO SPEAK ON GERMANY

The University College Literary and Athletic Society meets tomorrow evening in the junior common room at 8 o'clock, with Mr. Wynne Plumtre in the chair and Mr. J. Burdon Bickersteth as honorary guest. The Warden, who is speaking on "Some Phases of the German Situation", has had unusual opportunities of seeing National Socialism in operation.

During the summer of 1933 he spent some weeks in a Benedictine monastery at Ettal in the Bavarian Alps, in company with some thirty Nazi students who were gathered there to meet undergraduates from Italy, France, Great Britain and the Dominions. On this occasion, Roehm, who was shot on July 1st, 1934, Herr Himmler, who now commands the S.S. (blackshirts), and other Nazi leaders were present.

The Warden with three others was given special permission later in the month to visit one of the worst and largest concentration camps in Germany. During the past summer of 1934 the Warden returned to southern Germany and met many of those who had been engaged in the "clean-up" of June 30 and July 1. He was also able to discuss the German situation with those who were thoroughly hostile to National Socialism. In August he visited a large Hitler Jugend camp in Bavaria, where 6000 boys were undergoing a special training in the principles of Hitlerism.

Mr. A. C. Smith, secretary of the society, hints that some important business will be discussed at the meeting and that refreshments will be served.

off honours in the first act. Her movements on the stage, at once so effortless and abounding in grace, helped the action of the play, which was inclined to lag at its first curtain.

The Drama Department then betook itself to an orchestra seat for Act Two. Miss May Craig and Miss Maurer, Delaney, old favourites both, provided the richest form of humour known to their art in the characterizations which presented them as skittish old maids bent on matrimony.

Back stage for Act Three, one was inclined to neglect the play and gaze at the players as they flitted in and out of character. Not that any great attention to the denouement was required on the part of the observer, somehow one knew that the playwright would find traditional comic situations for his actors and would extricate them from their ludicrous plights in time for a curtain which went down amidst a thunder of applause.

"The school for charm" might well be a subtitle under a brochure of the "Abbey" players.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

New York—The New Deal in the United States was heartily endorsed by the electors who went to the polls yesterday. Democratic strength was increased in both the House of Representatives and in the Senate. Latest available returns showed they had elected 120 to twenty for the Republicans.

San Francisco—In the gubernatorial campaign here the defeat of Upton Sinclair, renowned writer, was conceded at an early hour this morning (Toronto time).

Paris, France—Premier Gaston Doumergue's national government fell today. Herriot and the Radical-Socialists caused the split which it was feared might mean new bloodshed.

A formal protest has been received by the Council of Public Instruction of Nova Scotia over a new textbook, "The Story of Civilization," which is alleged to be "un-Christian."

The bare-handed capture of a 200-pound shark by two men off the coast of Nova Scotia is reported.

A standard system of relief for all Ontario municipalities was forecasted yesterday. The plan is to be ready by the time that the Legislature opens in February or March.

Lord Ponsonby, Labor peer, in the House of Lords yesterday declared that in event of war he would defy the incitement to disaffection bill.

British and American naval authorities agreed yesterday that the tri-power conversations must continue but that any concessions must come from Japan.

Toronto—The secondary school curriculum should be used to teach democracy, Professor Thomas Briggs told a meeting of the Canadian Education Society yesterday.

London—Viscount Snowden who collapsed while delivering an address on free trade in London, was reported to be in no immediate danger.

Montreal—The French-Canadian lacks the vivacity of the Frenchman and is more like the Englishman, according to Professor Whitlow of McGill.

BARGAIN FOR MEDS SKELETON FOR SALE

Can there be romance hidden in a Varsity ad? Here's proof that Varsity ads merit reading, more than careless scrutiny. Yesterday's ad for the sale of a skeleton gave us a story which implies romance plus. A lonely widow up in the St. Clair-Bathurst district "wants to get rid of the skeleton." Her husband, a one-time medical graduate of U. of T. (year unknown), once used this, either in his practise or studies. Here's a chance for a budding physician to get a skeleton with a history (and perhaps a bit of coaxing may get a closer). There's a skull, arms and legs, all for a very nominal sum, in fact it's cheap at half the price.

This heirloom isn't all in one piece, mind you. It will have to be sort of brought together for purposes of study. But it's sure to be studied by now, we're used, and won't mind in the least a change of locale. We don't know its history or its name, but we can vouch for its character.

Visiting Director Satisfied With Position Held by Theatre Here

AN ACTOR FOR 26 YEARS
Disgusted with Hollywood's Treatment of Shakespeare's Plays

"Canada is a country which is making its traditions every day of its life and it is meet and fit that they should be written down," Mr. Rupert Harvey, guest director at Hart House, told The Varsity in a personal interview yesterday. Mr. Harvey expressed himself as being well satisfied with the position held by the theatre in Canada.

Mr. Harvey explained that plays which are typical of a certain country need a background of centuries of tradition and experience and he found much encouragement in the fact that at the Calgary Dramatic Festival last year, fifty-eight plays were written by Canadian playwrights.

DUTY OF WHITE RACE

"The world today is like an Oriental rug, in which we are the threads arranged in a variety of colours and patterns, over the whole someone has spilled acid which is gradually eating away people," said Mr. Currier in his address to the S.C.M. meeting yesterday afternoon at Wycliffe College.

People everywhere are uprooted and especially is the youth of any country thrown into ethical and psychological conflicts. It is necessary to mediate the eternal man now when he is in great need of it, not only in one area, but in every country.

Mr. Currier pointed out that now countries are unified it is easier to mediate to men, since what is started in one country spreads rapidly all over.

SOPHS AND FRESHMEN DO "BATTLE" AGAIN

Annual Dance in Form of Another School Inter-year Struggle

Soft lights, dreamy music, and the gay laughter of some five hundred dancing couples ensured the success of the annual Soph-Fresh dance of the School of Science, which was held at the Royal York Hotel last evening. The dance this year took the form of a "battle" between the first and second years, with Fred Elliott and his orchestra providing the rhythm and sound effects. A feature presentation at half time by Don Ritchie and Jack McCarthy demonstrated the purchasing of a monstrous "School Dinner" ticket, and was loudly applauded.

The "Instigators of the Battle" were under the generalship of A. H. Kingsmill, with A. C. Hewson and V. Disher assisting. The patrons and patronesses or "Peace Treaty Delegates," were Dean and Mrs. C. H. Mitchell, Professor and Mrs. T. R. Loudon, Professor and Mrs. W. J. T. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. A. "The success of the League of Nations depends entirely on whether the people of the world want it to be such, and we here in Canada should do our utmost to support it," said Professor N. A. M. MacKenzie, of the Law Department, in addressing a meeting of the Youth Unit, League of Nations, held last evening. Professor MacKenzie outlined the programme of the Toronto branch of the League, of which organization he is the president, which this year is a particularly ambitious and promising one.

A play, almost a pageant in its scope and form, is already in rehearsal, which will be presented in the Eaton Auditorium during the early part of December. Readings were given from this play, "Prelude to Chaos," which served to indicate the tremendous effectiveness of propaganda when given the dramatic approach. "Prelude to Chaos" besides revealing the horror and the cruelty of war in an effort to promote the League of Nations, also provides

Howard Park Public School Has Innovation in Teaching

STILL IN PROGRESS

At last the traditional form of state education in Ontario is being deemed inadequate, and experiments are being attempted. Probably the greatest deviation from the traditional curriculum is being put into effect in Howard Park Public School in Toronto.

Two years ago pupils in junior and senior third were given intelligence tests in order to ascertain what ones were above normal. These particularly bright students, numbering 96, were divided into two classes, the one group taking the regular classroom work, the other group taking the regular curriculum in the morning and devoting the afternoon to special work. ### OPINIONS VARY ON ORGANIZATION AGAINST A WAR

MacKenzie Thinks War not Imminent but Sees Need for Organization

SEVERAL AGREE

Another Fears Damaging Effect of Communistic Intrusion

"I see no particular prospect of war in the immediate future," said Professor N. A. MacKenzie, of the Department of International Law. "But unless steps are taken to avert it now," he added, "we shall find ourselves in the same position as in the decade prior to 1914." With this challenging statement, The Varsity went in search of student opinion.

N. M. Pivnick, Speaker of the U.C. Parliamentary Club, was emphatic and forceful. "The imminence and seeming inevitability of war calls for a reevaluation of the ideas of the youth of Canada," he said. "War will become impossible only when those responsible for it realize that they will not have an unlimited supply of people willing to die for mistaken ideals, and it is up to the young people of the country to express their determination in no uncertain terms."

G. E. Prust, II Political Science, betrayed a thirst for action which he rationalized with cogent arguments. "A first class reason for action in a student anti-war movement is to offset the complete lack of importance, in political affairs, of students in America as compared to those of Europe," he said. "Another is the need for the transferring of our theoretical knowledge into practical action." Emphasizing his point, he added, "At such a critical time, while nations are seething with the foment of war, the time for talking is over. Action must be the order of the day."

Some students were pessimistic, among them Leo Malania, who said, "Canadian public opinion will have little to do with it. The question will be settled by French and German industrialists. If and when war does develop, various forms of social pressure will probably make most of us fall into line. The only preventative that we can go in for is to condition ourselves against such pressure."

RELATION OF BEER TO CIVILIZATION

Humorous Debate to be on Agenda of Debating Parliament

OPPORTUNITY FOR WIT

"Resolved that beer is an asset to provincial civilization" is the topic of a humorous debate to be held in the Junior Common Room of University College, Thursday, November 8 at 4 p.m.

"The debate," as the Rt. Hon. A. D. B. Marshall, Prime Minister, emphasized, was to be of a humorous nature, affording, as in the debate on love last week, an opportunity for the debaters to express their powers of witicism, such as they are, on a subject which usually is considered quite serious. It had been thought that the debate on love and the debate on beer might have been made into one, "Resolved that love is the sweetest thing, but sweeter far is beer," but it didn't come through.

"After this debate," assured Mr. Marshall, "the Debating Parliament will go on to the discussion of more serious things."

A CLASSICAL CAREER NORWOOD'S SUBJECT

"Classics is a subject sufficiently broad to fill your intellectual and spiritual existence," Professor Gilbert Norwood of University College in his lecture on "Classics as a career" at the meeting of the Victoria Classical Club, showed how true this statement had proved in his own career. Professor Norwood, speaking from his own experience, dwelt on two aspects of classics as a career, as a professor and as a life.

In his opinion classics is the best prospect of making a fairly prosperous intellectual livelihood for an industrious and capable student. There are more openings than is supposed for new appointments, because the field is not as crowded.

He said that it was very hard for a classics professor to distinguish between his career and the other parts of his life because they merge into each other. Classics has proved the largest and most permanent interest in my life," he stated. "My passion for them has not diminished during a career of more than forty years as a scholar." To him his University education meant a change not in the man but in the soul, a study of the classics has made him a totally different person than he otherwise would have been and he believed that they are the greatest subject in the world.

Vic Defeated in an Exhibition Featured By Many Fumbles

U.C. IN TIE WITH O.A.C.

Mulock Cup Hopes of Scarlet and Gold Suffer Rude Setback

University College moved into a tie with O.A.C. for the leadership of their league, and at the same time gave the championship hopes of Victoria a rude setback when they defeated the Scarlet and Gold by 2-0 yesterday afternoon on the back campus. The game was played on a slippery field and was featured by many fumbles on both sides.

Both of the points for the Red and White came in the last period, the first after a Victoria fumble, Humanick booting the single from about 30 yards out. U.C. came within one yard of scoring a major after a poor snap by Elsieley of Vic, but the Victoria line held, and three downs still found the Scarlet and Gold successfully protecting their goal line. Victoria tried to make yards on their last down, and failing, gave U.C. the opportunity for their second and last point.

The first half gave a display of mediocre football, with the play se-sawing, first U.C. and then Victoria having the edge.

In the third quarter, Victoria started by pressing hard. Gregory ran back a short kick to U.C.'s 25 yard line. An attempted placement went wide and U.C. gained possession 2 yards out. A Victoria fumble, an extension and a good run by Self, paved the way for U.C.'s first point. After that Victoria were never in the picture, although they completed one of the two passes of the game in a desperate attempt in the last minute.

ENGLISH TUDORS LECTURE TOPIC

Architectural Styles Explained by Adamson at Museum

TYPES SEEN IN TORONTO

"Irregular layout, small windows and niched turrets were the outstanding features of Tudor architecture," Mr. Gordon Adamson, B.Arch., declared in a lecture delivered at the Museum yesterday evening. Mr. Adamson illustrated this point with a slide depicting a castle used by Queen Elizabeth. Medieval castles with their fortress-like designs were first portrayed on the screen and their peculiarities pointed out by the lecturer.

The brick type of English Tudor house inhabited by the lords of the middle ages was characterized by its long iron-cased windows, its moulded brick construction and its small dormer roofs.

The species of English Tudor houses most frequently employed by Toronto citizens is the timber type, some examples of which may be found in the vicinity of Forest Hill. Upright timbers are filled in with stone or brick and massive corner posts employed are remarkable for their ornamentation. The lecturer stressed the importance when portraying this species of building of similarity in colour between the timber work and the filling in order to obtain harmony.

The small peasant cottages of this era were described as models where the art of nature and architecture were

THEIR OWN MEDICINE

We still hear big business shout, "Let us have good, rugged individualism", not as loudly now as a few years ago, but still audible enough to impress all the people who fall so easily before a barrage of slogans. Oddly, the most vociferous are those big industrial and financial men. The catch-phrase is backed up with arguments, a few phrases of which are, "undermine morale", "weaken initiative", "corrupt the manly fibre", and so on. This principle is resorted to every time governments attempt or propose to limit activities of industrialists or financiers, in order to guard the general population. We hear it, too, when relief to the unemployed is mentioned, when unfortunate people are deprived of the right to work or eat, because big business fails to provide for them.

We find though, that the poor man's meat is the rich man's poison. It seems that when the dividends begin to decrease big business rushes to governments for succour. This was recently manifested when big oil companies in the United States saw that Japan proposed to take over a monopoly of oil in Manchukuo and to restrict American trade in Japan. The industrialists and financiers, who so often preach rugged individualism, lost no time in running to the Department of State. Consequently we find the State Department "corrupting the manly fibre" of powerful interests in a process which may end with armed forces helping.

This is only an instance of refusing to "practise what you preach". Great Britain fought the Boer War to protect British interests in the diamond fields. She also, on the request of the Lancashire cotton mill operators, put unbearable restrictions on the producers in India. In Canada, we have the case of the privately owned railways unhesitatingly asking for government bonus.

It seems rather ridiculous for big business to preach rugged individualism for the little man, deprived of power, work and food, and then to appeal to the government for aid in every time of difficulty. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander and a good dose of rugged individualism for the industrial and financial leaders ought soon to cure them.

LIFE IN A LAKE SHOWN BY SLIDES

"Temperature is a big factor in lake life," said Mr. Fry at the second regular meeting of the Trinity Science Club, held last night in the Don's common room in Trinity House.

F. E. J. Fry, B.A., of the Biology Department of the University, was the guest speaker for the evening and his subject was "Life in an Ontario Lake". Speaking, as far as possible, in non-technical phraseology, Mr. Fry gave a very lucid account of the flora and fauna of our larger lakes. Starting his discourse with a description of the denizens of the bays and inlets, he worked slowly outward into deeper waters, explaining, with the aid of lantern slides, the exact manner in which such influences as temperature, wave-action, wind and light determine the movements of all lake creatures.

Mr. Fry displayed, by means of coloured slides, the many types of fish and plant life, and their relationships to one another in the all-important struggle for existence.

A short discussion followed the lecture and the meeting closed with the serving of the customary refreshments.

the world and affects other countries for good or bad. It is necessary to act quickly as there are divisions due mainly to machinery, arising already to spoil the unity.

People who are not moved by these major elements perhaps do not realize that the white race are responsible for this change, and it is up to them to show their sportsmanship and assist the rest of the world through Christian missions. If not, the change is bound to affect the white race personally. They can only escape the change by preventing its continuance.

This interesting lecture was followed by a short discussion in which Mr. Currier cleared up many difficult questions brought up by the members.

London, Ont.—John S. Labatt was alleged to have picked David Meisner as one of the men who kidnapped him in August.

Art, Music and Drama

Organ Recital

The first organ recital of the academic year was played last evening in Convocation Hall by Charles Peaker, Mus.Bac, F.R.C.O.

It is a pleasure indeed to write about a player as fine as Mr. Peaker. His technique was so adequate that the player's ideas were not interrupted in their execution by awkward stop changes. He is to be commended on playing his whole programme from memory with the exception of one number. At all times there was a degree of clarity present which is lamentably absent in so many organ recitals. One felt that Mr. Peaker had given us much the same experience that had been the composer's in writing the various works.

The programme was so constructed as to hold the attention of the audience and at the same time give a feeling of climax. One finds this side of recital work so much neglected by organists. A programme made up of fine and interesting works will sometimes fail to please because of lack of variety. Mr. Peaker, however, did not fatigue his audience at any time.

The programme consisted of—Fantasia and Fugue in G minor .. Bach
Choral in B minor ..... Cesar Franck
Folk Tune and Scherzo .....

Percy Whitlock
Sonata No. 6 ..... Mendelssohn
Irish Fantasy .. William Walstenholme
Scherzo ..... William Chorale Prelude "Ein Feste Burg" .....

Karg-Elert
We shall look forward to hearing this recitalist again with considerable anticipated pleasure.

The next recital on the twentieth day of November, will be played by Mr. Frederick Sylvester, organist of the Church of the Messiah.

Royal Alexandra

Last night Toronto had the opportunity of seeing one of the most momentous dramas in modern literature.

INTERVIEWS I WOULD LIKE TO HAVE: Professor John Gregory Alford on the new Tuck Shop colour scheme.

"Good afternoon, Professor, welcome to Hart House! So you too are occasionally reduced to eating in the tuck shop. Well, let us adjourn to the ante-room and sit in comfort.

"Peculiar place, isn't it, Alford? Now take this first room, the one with the murals; we used to think this radical. What do you think, sir, of this portrayal of University Life? What are your reactions to this interpretation of a crowd of eager Med students tickling the bare feet of some poor stiff? I mean to say, as a Continental critic, now?

"Yes, we used to consider this a bit radical, but now—just come into the next room!

"Ah!... I thought you would notice it. The Hallowe'en orange of the walls, the flaming railroad posters, some of your English modernism there, Professor; and now within the last few days they have slashed the chairs with red and black!

"A truly artistic feeling is evident throughout, don't you think, Alford? I'll admit the chairs are slightly reminiscent of those lamp posts the Queen's Laddies painted one evening. But take it all together,—does it not achieve that subtle,—well, shall I say—

"What's that, Alford, old man? You will not eat here after all? Oh, that is unfortunate. I wished so much to get your opinion on this striking sample of original Canadian art. Yes, an in-

Sean O'Casey in his "The Plough and the Stars" has shown himself to be a playwright far superior to those whom we are wont to give most praise. In the technicalities of dramatic art Sean O'Casey has come through where Bernard Shaw, John Drinkwater, John Galsworthy and the rest of literature's starchy galaxy have failed. He has been able to weave the woof of comedy with the warp of tragedy, to produce an effect of stern reality and profound sincerity.

"The Plough and the Stars" is a play dealing with the Irish rebellion of 1915 and 1916, and further it is a portrait of Irish people and a picture of Irish life. O'Casey is a real "man of Ireland" and in his play he does not fail the brutality of the British campaign. At the same time, he does not make any excuses for strife of any kind. His purpose is, primarily, to present the Irish people and their reactions, in a time of great emotional upheaval. People, in Ireland perhaps more than elsewhere, differ amazingly from one another. Sean O'Casey has accomplished that, of which only the truly great dramatists can boast. He has fitted together into a unity all these shades of character.

Of the acting of the Abbey Players much has already been written and reams more could be written. The flawless and smooth performance is a thing of wonder. The explanation seems to be in the apparent positive co-operation between each of the players. It would, however, be impossible to skip over the individual acting and fail to mention the character work of Barry Fitzgerald. Adjectives of praise are all too inadequate in giving a true valuation. We can only say that he is superb.

"The Plough and the Stars" is the only play in the repertoire which will be repeated. It will be presented again on Saturday evening and anyone with the least interest in literature, in dramatic art or in the possibilities of the modern theatre cannot afford to miss a performance so eminently satisfying.

fine entertainment, and University students particularly are appealed to, to give it all possible support. Prominent figures in both city and University affairs have consented to take part in the production, among whom are Mr. Denton Massey, head of the York Bible Class, Dr. Stanley Russell of Deer Park United Church, and Dean McGarrity, head of the Newman Club.

Plans are also under way for a mass meeting to be held during this month with the Hon. R. B. Bennett as speaker.

An appeal will go out to the citizens of Toronto from the pulpits of all the churches of the city this Sunday, in order to increase interest in the movement, and to build up a membership large enough to be an effective force in the Canadian community. Youth particularly should be shown the importance of a peace movement because it is the youth who will bear the brunt of the next struggle.

The last words of Sir Arthur Currie for publication, which were quoted on a leaflet distributed to the members, contain the essence of all the speeches given at the meeting. "We know from experience the stupidity of war... Are we bestirring ourselves in this night of hysteria that may end in war... if another war comes the responsibility will not be upon the militarists but on ourselves because of our inertia."

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

The crisis is over and there will definitely be a third team in the baseball league. U.C., Meds, Social Science, etc., etc., responded nobly to the call and a sufficient number turned up at last night's practise to make up the long-hoped-for medley baseball nine. And here's to them! It certainly would be a very major upset if this "dark horse", so to speak, should walk off with the title. Of course, they will have a very limited number of practises which will probably render them more or less helpless before the trained and tried St. Mike's and Vic outfits—but you never know!

Tonight Meds meet Vic Seniors at 7 o'clock. The odds are certainly with the Scarlet and Gold sextette, but in their first game Meds put up a far more noble showing than their managers had ever anticipated. They will be in better practice tonight, but the best we can honestly hope for them is that they will give the Seniors a real tussle.

We were just five days ahead of ourselves yesterday when we talked of the St. Mike's-Vic game. It really occurs on November 12 and it is then that there will be the real showdown which will probably mark either of the squads for the semi-finals. But the words of praise which we had for Vic rooters can still apply for tonight's game, and surely Meds will summon adequate support for the plucky aggregation which is to represent them on the floor.

Owing to some confusion the Basketball Club has revised its regulation concerning the throw-in. Under the new regulation, if one team wants the throw-in, and the other wants a toss, the game is to be played one half with the former and the other half with the latter. The visiting team is to have the preference as to the half in which their choice is to be played. If both teams wish to use the throw-in, it shall be used during the entire game. Similarly, if both teams desire a toss, it is to be used throughout.

The above notice is very important so will all players especially—and fans too—consider it carefully, please.

It is interesting to note that every coach on this year's intercollegiate line-up is a former player either on an intercollegiate or an intercollegiate team: St. Mike's—Helen Darte; St. Hilda's—Jerry Wesley, and Al Butler, her assistant; Nurses—Wilma Hadzitz; Meds—Jennie Cantwell; U.C. Freshies—Eleanor Wallace; U.C. Juniors—Grace Gristwood; U.C. Seniors—Muriel Atkin; Vic Seniors—Bea Longley; Vic Juniors—Kay Mackenzie.

One more word about baseball. The finals are to be decided by the winners of three games to be played off by the two leading teams. And also note the stipulation that the home team provide the umpire (that is the referee behind the plate) and the visiting team be responsible for the referee for the bases.

At the Good Companions, 1179 Bay Street, east side, just below Bloor, Varsity people are meeting these days. Almost any time during the day can be found groups of students discussing campus affairs over tea, lunch or dinner. For Varsity people have found that the Good Companions meals cannot be beaten. Food reasonably priced that is cooked just right. The students then there is the famous steak dinner. Added to this is the attractive atmosphere of the place, delightful surroundings where one can relax and enjoy life, for whether you come for a meal or between lecture coffee you are made most welcome. Get the habit, drop in to-day to the Good Companions and if you do like many others, you will become a regular patron.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT IN HARRIER RACE

Varsity Are Fielding a Strong Team for Intercollegiate Meet

THIRD IN DUNLOP RACE

"Varsity's prospects for a win in the senior intercollegiate harrier race are very favourable," Mr. W. H. Martin, stated when interviewed yesterday, "and the boys should bring the cup back to Toronto."

The team which will consist of Bell, Hogg, Kibblewhite, Burton, Thompson and MacGladery, ran third in the Dunlop Trophy Race held in the city last Saturday. Bill Hogg placed third in the field.

The intercollegiate event will be held on Saturday over the Queen's University stiff five mile course at Kingston. McGill has been successful in winning the title for the last two years, but the Varsity lads are due for a win and will fight every inch of the way to bring the coveted trophy back to Varsity.

WEAKENED FORESTERS BOW TO SENIORS

Jr. Meds Take Mulock Cup Game by Three to One Score

A battling Forestry rugby team were defeated by the score of three to one in an intercollegiate game with Junior Meds at Vic field yesterday. The Foresters were slow in fielding a team and as a result the game finished in semi-darkness, making it almost impossible to see the ball at times.

The first score came with one minute left to play of the first quarter when Forestry failed to run out a kick from behind their own goal line and the second quarter opened with the Medical students leading by one point. A poor snap gave the Foresters possession on their opponents' twenty-five yard line and they attempted to kick for a point. The ball was run out but Jr. Meds next kick was returned to the deadline to tie the score at one apiece. The Medicals then began a march up the field, commencing with a completed forward pass and then made yards three times in a row to put the ball on Forestry's three yard line, with two minutes to go till half time. Three line plays failed to gain yards and Meds lost the ball. Forestry kicked on the first down as the whistle blew.

The only score in the third quarter was another single for the Medicals on a kick as the Forestry line held very well when near their own goal line and their opponents were forced to boot. Playing with only one substitute available the Foresters fought gamely but were unable to get within scoring distance and a blocked kick paved the way for another single by Junior Meds to end the scoring.

Forestry: Hick, Barron, Lien, Day, Lexsmith, Dyer, Taylor, Cowan, McConnell, Cushing, Hyslop, Morley, Larsen, Chalk.

Jr. Meds: Allen, Lauber, Miller, A. Graham, Medlock, Bolton, D. Graham, Varveth, McKone, Newton, Spence, McKee, Rice.

QUEEN'S FRESHMEN MUST PAY THE PIPER

Kingston, Nov. 6.—The freshmen at Queen's are finding that someone always has to pay the piper and at present they are wondering just how much they will have to "cough up". It is all due to some over-zealous spirits trying to put the town in the red during the pajama parade of the freshmen on October 19.

The claims presented to the Alma Mater Society Executive include $35.00 for clothes taken from various yards, $90.00 for signs and barber poles, and miscellaneous things such as verandah chairs, dorms and plants. In all they stand to lose about two hundred dollars.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

One of the many unenviable positions held today in the football picture is that occupied by Joe Breen. Joe has had charge of the Western Mustangs for some time past and now it appears that the little nags have balked. Only one more game remains and the football schedule will be over in the intercollegiate series, and the Mustangs have finished second in every start to date. They meet Queen's Saturday, which makes it quite probable that they will complete the season without a win. To make matters worse, Boyce Sherk was so badly injured in the game here Saturday that he will be unable to compete for the remainder of the season.

While it is quite true that someone has to be last, it is rather unfortunate for Joe Breen that his squad had to develop the habit. Joe is coming in for considerable criticism around London, but the fact is that it is lack of material more than anything else which has caused the Mustangs to take a season's lease on the cellar.

Hockey is definitely here for the season and from now until around examination time we will be hearing of the many deeds and misdeeds executed by the blade artists. Professional hockey is to Canada what pro baseball is to the U.S. and a peculiar factor about this fact is that they use the same methods of drumming up publicity. Every spring finds numerous baseball stars refusing to sign a contract until several columns of copy and cuts have been expended dealing with the subject. Hockey fans also read such filler and as a result we have some of our hockey stars holding out for bigger and better contracts, an item which is expounded at length in the daily press. One of these days will appear under the guise of a news story, the fact that a certain local holdout has signed a contract to play with his old club. This will of course be a startling revelation and will call for several stories, and then the club will go back to the old method of paying for its ads.

We know of no holdouts on the Varsity team, which to us would appear to be an oversight in a business sense. However, the situation is still somewhat clouded around the campus, but it is to be expected that a five team group which will include Varsity will be formed. Hamilton, Port Colborne, Varsity, Oakville, and another Toronto team will probably be in the O.H.A. group. The Toronto team, although almost a certainty, has not announced itself as yet, but will probably be an all-star club from the Commercial League.

One of the outstanding features of the Mulock Cup season is the gallant performance of the Forestry team. The Woodmen almost have to enlist the aid of the dean to field a team, but they invariably fight a hard and courageous battle. Last night they went out to do battle with the Junior Meds, and when they sent twelve men on to the gridiron they had one lonely substitute on the sidelines. And despite this handicap, they were defeated by the Medicals by a slim two points, and Meds look to be the class of the group.

DENTS DOWN SCHOOL IN SOCCER MATCH

Yesterday afternoon S.P.S. defeated Dents in an intercollegiate soccer game on the front campus. The game, which was late in starting, was very evenly contested. Each team made repeated thrusts into the opponents' territory, only to be turned back by the backs.

In the last few minutes of play Self, for School scored from a huddle of players in front of the Dents goal. For S.P.S. Bowen, Johnston and Shamandurov were standouts, with their fine passing. Stapleton, Pon and the two Masons were a great help to the losing Dental cause, but just couldn't score.

S.P.S.: Davey; Moore, Brawley; Bowen, Tuke, Millson; Shamandurov, Johnston, Woods, Fraser, Self; subs: Jaffe, Kearney.

Dents: Cowan; H. Mason, Sprott; Mackie, McColl, Galbraith; Weir, Pon, Stapleton, L. Mason, Linkin; subs: Brown, Ryan, Rockman. Referee: Schuett.

subtle revenge and is now displaying in his window his idea of a freshman's room. He portrays the den of the innocent babe in a style that would make a senior jealous. If he emptied all the whiskey bottles he shows as the freshman's consumption his wife must have been up all week giving him aspirin. But drink is not the only lust represented. A piece of feminine underwear draped itself from an athletic cup. Lurid magazines practically fill a rack below a study-table which appears to have been more concerned with beer and its qualities than with academic endeavours.

U.C. DEFEAT TRINITY WITH RAGGED SOCCER

Trinity Considerably Weaker in One-Sided Game Yesterday

In a one-sided and rather poorly played soccer game, U.C. defeated Trinity yesterday on the campus by the score of 5-1. Neither team displayed a particularly good brand of soccer but Trinity were considerably weaker and proved easy for their opponents, who scored all their points in the first half.

U.C. started strongly and were soon out in front with a score by Rae. This was the signal for the deluge which soon followed when L. Mackay, McPherson and Errington each scored in turn.

In the second half Trinity tightened up and kept the Redshirts scoreless but were unable to overcome their overwhelming lead. Stone scored the only goal of the session for Trinity.

McPherson, Rae and Goulding were outstanding for U.C., while Stone and Alison displayed good form with the Trinity squad.

U.C.: Bryden; R. Mackay, Toy; Johnston, McPherson, L. Mackay; Errington, Rae, McIntyre, Daly, Goulding; subs: A. Smith, R. Jack, A. Mutteroff.

CANADIAN DRAMA IS PROGRESSING

Mr. Harvey has been acting for the last twenty-six years and has been directing for the last nine years. His first Canadian appearance was that of leading man in "Milestones" twenty years ago. For the last two years Mr. Harvey has been adjudicator at the Dominion Drama Festival. The year before last he adjudicated at the finals at Ottawa and last year at the regionals.

When asked for his opinion of the Little Theatre Movement, Mr. Harvey stated, "I find it in a very healthy state indeed and I'm all for it."

In discussing the effect of motion pictures on the legitimate stage, Mr. Harvey was of the opinion that the movies are not doing as much harm as they formerly did because people are growing tired of the artificiality of the screen and are turning more and more to the legitimate theatre.

He cited "The Taming of the Shrew" starring Douglas Fairbanks as an example of Hollywood's inability to interpret Shakespeare. Mr. Harvey has himself played over one hundred Shakespeare parts and expressed himself as disgusted with the way motion picture directors distort a play and tear it to shreds to make the parts fit the personalities of the actors.

He stressed the importance of the fact that the actors should be subordinated to the play and that teamwork produces a truer interpretation than can be obtained by placing emphasis on the star. As director of Bristol's Little Theatre, it took Mr. Harvey three weeks to convince a professional cast that if each one of the twelve worked for the benefit of the other each would have eleven working for him.

A week from next Monday Mr. Harvey will produce "The Man with a Load of Mischief" by Ashley Dukes, and after Christmas will present "A Murder has been Arranged" by Emlyn Williams. A third play, which Mr. Harvey will direct later on has not yet been decided on.

equally depressing, but in this case the fear lay in another quarter, as indicated by the response, "Yes, we've got to organize, but you have to be careful that the communists don't get in and undermine it for you."

Miss Jean Lang, III Medicine, was strictly professional. "It seems a waste of energy to acquire the art of making people whole just to have them fit enough for cannon-fodder," she said. "But a doctor serves even the worst of fools."

Subject: "Resolved that women can prevent war." U.C., negative; Victoria, affirmative. Everybody welcome. Tea will be served.

combined. None of the modern plans of design and layout were employed in these homes where haphazard construction gave a rambling peaceful effect. Renaissance art was evidenced in some of the classic motives employed and contrasted with the dormer windows which, as the lecturer pointed out, sat so placidly and naturally on roofs that one almost credited them with power to lie down. Gables and slate roofs often covered with moss further enhanced the beauty of these dwellings, which seemed almost to grow out of the English countryside.

No. 30

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Paris—At 10 o'clock this morning Premier Gaston Doumergue and his cabinet will resign. Paris is under guard as rival political factions stand ready to support their leaders by mob action.

Madrid — Jose Naredo and Jose Pardo, Asturian rebel leaders, faced the firing squad yesterday. The men were convicted with 21 others for their actions in the recent revolt. The others received lesser penalties.

New Orleans—Huey Long, senator and erstwhile dictator, anticipates a senatorship or better for Abe Mickal, football star at Louisiana State University.

The findings of the Lang Air Service inquiry were released last night by Queen's Park. Strong censure was expressed for the actions of W. Roy Maxwell, ex-director of the service.

Rome—Il Duce's expressed dislike of beards has created an unexpected boom in the barber business in Italy.

Washington—The officers and crew of the Morro Castle were held responsible for the heavy loss of life in its tragic burning, by a government report issued yesterday. The design of the steamer was also criticized. The mystery surrounding the origin of the fire has not yet been penetrated.

Berlin—Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller will not resign, according to a statement made here after a conference of Nazi bishops. This refusal will widen the breach between the church factions in Germany.

DECORATION NEEDS RHYTHM, BALANCE

Careful, Scientific Thought Necessary in Interior
Arrangements

MUSEUM LECTURE POPULAR

"Music has rhythm, dancing has rhythm, and design has rhythm. In music it is a matter of sound and time, in dancing, physical movement, and in design, a matter of eye movement." Thus spoke Miss Hamilton, of Eaton's furnishings department, to a well filled auditorium at the Museum yesterday. This lecture is part of a series on interior decorating, each Wednesday.

"In art rhythm means an easy, connected task along which the eye may travel in any arrangement of lines, colours and objects." There are four outstanding ways in which rhythm may be obtained. The first, repetition of lines, colours and shapes, was deftly illustrated by the beautifully shaped columns of the Parthenon. In arranging furniture in a room, changes of height are desirable, or else there is too much sameness, but wherever the eye is led up, it must be led down again. This is rhythm through progression. Then there is rhythm through a continuous line movement, different types of lines (oblique, vertical, horizontal, etc.) they have a different effect on us. Owing to the eye's tendency to move from point to point, restlessness will speedily be created where there are too many patterns which suggest movement, such as "the tree of life".

Miss Hamilton went on to point out the value of emphasis in the "balance" of a room. "Emphasis is the art principle by which the eye is carried first to the important things in any arrangement, and from that point to every other detail in the order of its importance."

Service of Remembrance

November 11th, 1934

Before the Soldiers' Tower, commencing at 10.52 a.m.

Conducted by the Alumni Federation, University of Toronto

The fact that Armistice Day this year falls on Sunday will make it possible for many more students and graduates of the University to attend this service. The order of service is given herewith:

HYMN—(Led by Victoria College Music Club.) One chord will be struck by the carillon. The whole congregation will sing.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home.

Under the shadow of thy throne
Thy saints have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is thine arm alone,
And our defence is sure.

Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting thou art God,
To endless years the same.

A thousand ages in thy sight
Are like an evening gone;
Short as the watch that ends the night
Before the rising sun.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Be thou our guard while troubles last,
And our eternal home.

OTHER EXCHANGE TIDBITS

We've been told that Columbus discovered America, and certain people have informed us that Marconi was the gent who invented radio, but just WHO—or is it whom—discovered the Date Bureau idea remains a deep dark secret. Despite its mysterious origin, however, the novel service seems to have become firmly established on the larger Canadian campuses. The registration form used at McGill is almost identical to that printed in The Varsity, with the added precaution "that applications be sent in a sealed envelope". The Queen's Bureau is more inquisitive—in fact it's downright personal. Do you prefer Dutch dates? Or a few of the questions. The only point that is unanimous with the three bureaus is the "envelope ten cents" line.

We also uncovered several other items in our search through the various student publications which daily arrive from far-off places to decorate the editorial rooms of The Varsity.

From The Argosy of Mount Sackville, N.B., we learn that the "smooth-

CANADA SEEN HAPPIER THAN MANY COUNTRIES

"Economic conditions are better in Canada than in many other countries of the world," said Mr. G. Riddell, at a meeting of his Current Events Group in Wymillwood on Tuesday. The threat of economic collapse hangs over many European countries as a result of the economic settlements following the last war.

U.C. Lit. Hears Comprehensive Survey of German Situation

That Hitler is strongly averse to the making of war for fear that a break-up will result in the German political forces that are now working in co-operation, was the opinion expressed by J. Burgon Bickersteth, Warden of Hart House, at a meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society last night.

Speaking on the war question the Warden expressed a belief that there would be no great war in the future, owing to the existence in all countries of people who still retained bitter memories of the last one, and, moreover, to the presence of thousands of youths who have strong convictions against war.

Questioned as to the relation between "big business" interests and Hitler, Mr. Bickersteth said that while the industrialists had given Hitler their support before his ascent to power and were probably still behind him, and in the event of an open break Hitler would win out.

There were numerous factors, he stated, which accounted for the present prestige of Hitler. At the time of Hitler's appearance the German people had been terribly humiliated at the somewhat blundering treatment meted

PROGRESS SEEN AS KEY TO HISTORY

But Will Our Civilization be the
One to Carry On? Asks
W. R. Taylor

MUST FIND FUNDAMENTALS

"Progress is inevitable," declared Professor W. R. Taylor of University College, in the first of a series of addresses on the Christian Social Order, in the Music Room of Hart House yesterday. "When people begin to talk in this crisis of the decay of civilization, it is only a sign of arrogance and conceit on the part of those concerned in it."

Crises must be viewed in the light of race history, Professor Taylor reviewed the great crises in human development. "The interesting thing in the study of these crises," he declared, "is that civilization has never come to ruin. The problem for us is whether the line of human development will continue to run on through us—whether our culture will persist in our problem. If we fail, other races are willing and able to take up the torch of progress." Those races which disobeyed the fundamental principles of society were cast aside. "Our concern is to find those fundamentals to which society must adjust itself or decline."

"In all the literature of the world these truths have been stated more

NEW YORK CO-ED PREFERS U. OF T.

Margaret Dunlop Tells Why
She Transferred to Varsity

LOSES A YEAR

Some reasons why she came all the way from New York, an important university centre itself, to attend university in Toronto, were given The Varsity by petite Miss Margaret Dunlop of Brooklyn, whose sophomore year in college is her first year on the Toronto campus.

"My father was a graduate of the University of Toronto. That is why I thought I would like to attend this university," Miss Dunlop stated, adding that a desire to see some of the rest of the world and to make new friends and contacts also had much to do with her decision.

Evidence of a difference in the academic standards of a Canadian and an American university is the fact that Miss Dunlop, upon transferring to Toronto, was forced to return to her second college year instead of proceeding with her third.

The men and girls of the University of Toronto are rather difficult to get to know, Miss Dunlop thinks, although she states that most of the people she has had contact with have been very pleasant.

Asked for her opinion regarding the system of education at the University of Toronto, Miss Dunlop stated that she believes that there are too many straight lecture courses. It would be more profitable to the student, she thinks, if more emphasis were placed on the discussion group system. The professors she considers excellent, as they are "both broad-minded and clear-headed".

It is a very distinct advantage, in Miss Dunlop's opinion, for the student if at all possible, to attend college in a country other than that of his birth—for its wealth of interesting experiences as well as for its broadening influence.

BLUE-AND-WHITE BAND TO PARADE IN MONTREAL

Supporters of the Varsity team who take part in the special excursion to Montreal on Saturday are assured of having an eventful trip, The Varsity was told at the S.A.C. offices.

Some fifty members of the band will accompany the team, and the Montreal police have granted permission to the band to parade before the game through the main streets of Montreal, from the Windsor Hotel to Molson Stadium. Last year such a parade aroused great interest, and the streets were lined with people when it passed.

The band will be accommodated in from six to eight specially reserved coaches, together with some 200 Varsity rooters, who are expected to make the trip. On previous occasions Varsity supporters have also had a special section reserved for them at the stadium.

The excursion, arranged by the S.A.C., is leaving the Union Station at 11.30 Friday evening, and the tickets allow a return up to the following Sunday night.

Professor Arnold Likens War to Sickness, in His Address

TO WEAR WHITE RIBBONS

C.O.T.C. Are Warmly Greeted, Receive Address by Mackenzie

"War, like sickness, may perhaps not be reducible to nil; peace, like freedom and harmony, will not be established once and for all but must be conquered every day anew," quoted Professor R. K. Arnold of Victoria College, in his address on Pacifism to the morning at the Women's Union. The chairman of the evening was G. E. Frust. At this meeting plans were formulated to organize for peace at the University of Toronto.

In Professor Arnold's address he stated that our urge for violence was comparable as the French say to the "nostalgie pour la boue". Professor Arnold outlined seven types of pacifists of which the most effective are first, the religious pacifist, who is in favour of peace as a denial of force because he is willing to be a martyr for his ideals; second, the practical peace-lover who studies the world as he finds it—he evolves a realistic programme of working with it—he does things now and has a politically active programme. Professor Arnold placed most faith in the practical peace-lover. He believes that the programme which should be adopted for the perpetuation of peace is the following: the establishment of an international law code; the classification and evaluation of various claims such as pertaining to raw materials and colonies; the ability to adapt one's ideas to a changing world; the converting of colonies into mandates for a limited period of time.

MCGILL WEAKENED

By Frank Lamberti

While Old Man Football puts in his last few weeks on the gridiron, as the University of Toronto squad prepare for their third successive intercollegiate senior rugby championship, Varsity Arena is about to blossom forth with its first sheet of hoary frost, upon which once again the Big Blue team will cavort with its 1934-1935 array of hockey talent. In his first year as mentor of Varsity senior hockey team Warren Stevens established an enviable reputation for his outfit in keeping them at top form and at the end of the season the senior stalwarts gained the respect of the leading teams in the Senior O.H.A. circuit by their sparkling play-making and incessant offensive drives.

This year, however, indications are that Varsity will have a real contender for the intercollegiate title now held by the McGill Redmen, as well as being a team to contend with in the regular Senior O.H.A. section, in which to date there are five teams entered, the teams being Port Colborne, Hamilton, Varsity, another team from Toronto, to be probably known as Centennials and Oakville, whose brilliant showing in the intermediate ranks was outstanding. Jimmie MacPherson, head checking and prolific scoring ace of the Varsity squad, will once more display his hockey endeavours for the Blue supporters, while Max Fullerton and Normie McClelland, the diminutive

A NATIONAL THEATRE

While the Abbey Theatre Players are in Toronto, it provides another occasion to discuss national theatre movements. A national theatre is a manifestation of the government's interest in culture. The Abbey Theatre in Dublin is aided by both the financial and moral support of the Irish government, which makes possible the expression of the latent Irish dramatic art. Ireland is, by no means, the only European government to endow a national theatre. In fact, most countries, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Russia, France, Italy, to mention a few, have their national theatre centres. In many of these countries the official theatres grew out of the theatres kept by royalty as a part of the court entertainment. The national theatre, though, has always given the impetus to dramatic expression of the folk. In more recent times the nationally subsidized theatres have been useful in maintaining the traditional culture and in advancing the newer trends.

The Irish Theatre is the best example of this. The theatre has given expression to the classic literature of the Irish people while, at the same time, it has not failed to present the spirit of modern Ireland.

In Canada we have had little or no attempt to set up an endowed professional theatre, either on the part of the governments or private citizens. There is the Drama Festival it is true but its purpose is, for the most part, to arouse the interest of the people in the drama—any drama. What we need is drama in which the people can be interested. This we can only bring about by encouraging dramatically inclined artistry. We need a theatre in Canada, or the little theatre movement and the Drama Festival will only be wasting their time and energy. We, in Canada, do not have to lag behind the countries which are sometimes considered more hampered by tradition and more averse to progress. We cannot afford to let the culture of our country build itself up in the dark. We must give it expression and we can. For this the theatre is the most convincing medium. Let us look at the Abbey Players, speak their praises and then reflect, "We can do similar things in Canada".

SANCTIFIED SARCASM

To the Editor of The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

We must confess our interest in the current crusade against the modern scientific attitude. The Nova Scotian government, in issuing a text book for young people designed to present history in terms of evolution, aims to cut off the beautiful from the interpretation of life and substitute a dull mechanistic explanation. It is the time-worn conflict between religion and science which must be faced once and for all.

The Book of Genesis sets down in a very adequate way the story of how man began and the animals and plants too, for that matter. The explanation of how these latter came to exist is not so important, however. What is at stake is the dignity of man, for whom the world was created and who is the master. It matters not whether many of us strongly resemble the anthropoids, both in facial and bodily make-up; it matters less that the theory of evolution is found scientifically useful to society; what does matter is that the Book of Genesis flatly contradicts the theory and to deny the Book of Genesis is to strike at the very heart of our religion. The surprising obstinacy of scientists and philosophers who persist in propagating this distasteful doctrine, is becoming unbearable.

The time for action has come. We propose a plan which will strike at the very heart of the matter and in carrying it out we expect that the majority of the student body will be wholeheartedly behind us. We propose searching out and confiscating all the literature which supports the evolutionary theory. Such works, whether they are found in the libraries, in professors' studies or in the hands of the poor, misguided students, will be seized. One night, on the middle of the campus we will make a huge bonfire—amid the cheers of the faithful the flames will shoot up to heaven—a blazing testament to our indomitable faith.

The crowd will probably burst into a full throated rendition of some appropriate hymn—Onward Christian Soldiers—Faith of Our Fathers, or perhaps Rock of Ages.

tance." The danger in many homes is that there are too many things stressed. As a result, nothing stands out. Over-elaboration must give way to simplicity. Colour, contrast, shape and texture play an equal part in the stride for balance, and, if an object is to be fully appreciated, plenty of space must be left around it.

Art, Music and Drama

Art Gallery

There is an exhibition at the Gallery of wood-engravings, drawings and etchings by Eric Gill and it is quite the most fascinating show they have presented for a long time.

It is hard to write of Gill's work for one cannot criticize it in terms of modern work. His work is rather that of a medieval craftsman doing a simple religious creation with perfect craftsmanship. Gill is essentially Byzantine, no mere stylist desiring a medieval effect. The craft is too perfect and the creations too great to allow us to class him as an eclectic. Perhaps if we wish to understand Gill's work we should examine his theory. I quote, therefore, from his essay, Wood-Engraving (1921):

"... another advantage of wood-engraving is that it forces upon the workman some respect for the thing in itself and makes it impossible for him to place a merely relative value upon the art of drawing... the workman is compelled to consider his work primarily as an engraving and secondarily as representation."

Substitute drawing, etching or carving for engraving in the latter sentence and I think it would cover work in these media as well.

The prints at the Gallery are largely cuts done for his own publications at the Golden Cockerel Press. The "Stations of the Cross" are especially admirable for their varying compositions is to my mind one of the finest wood-on-one basic theme. The "Self Portrait" cuts in the history of the craft.

Mr. Gill's pencil studies defy comment. Please go and see them!

Royal Alexandra

Highly diverting was the comedy Drama at Innish presented by the Abbey Theatre Players at the Royal Alexandra yesterday afternoon. That the Players are capable of charm and finish in light comedy as well as in serious drama was evidenced by the enthusiastic reception they were accorded by yesterday's matinee audience.

The story of Drama at Innish "an exaggeration in three acts", concerns itself with the effect upon a typical small Irish town of a group of travelling players who specialize in tragedy of the grimmest sort. The entire action takes place in the private sitting room of a hotel where the two chief actors of the troupe are staying. We see the change wrought upon Eddie Twohigh, the son of the proprietor, upon his sister Lizzie, and upon Peter Hurley, T.D., his friend, and are made acquainted by hearsay of suicides, suicide pacts, and attempted murders on the part of other of the town's inhabitants, all of which are directly traceable to the productions of the visiting players. The effect is truly laughable, although tragedy (for the characters) is narrowly averted in each instance. In the end, of course, events turn out more or less happily for all concerned.

Underlying the delightful comedy, there is, however, a serious note, which is summed up by a speech of Constance Constantia, who plays "heavy drama", in the third act. Upon the engagement of the troupe being cut short by the actions of the proprietor and his wife, who realize the danger to the equanimity of the townspeople's existence, she delivers an impassioned and, of course, dramatic tirade, accusing them of rolling back the stone upon the inner life and thoughts of the people, a stone which she and her husband have succeeded in rolling away. John Twohigh and his wife defend their stand, however, and the question is closed rather abruptly. One might be inclined to take the stand of Constance and quarrel violently with the Twohighs over their desire to suppress the introspection induced by the plays, until

To the Editor,
The Champus Cat.
Dear Sir:

This is to demand an apology for the incorrect and unfair and libellous use of my name in yesterday's column.

I personally observed the story of the alleged interview with Professor Alford in the copy box, signed by its correct author, The War Correspondent. That such an one, admittedly a publicist in the cause of War and doubtless (if it were only known) directly in the pay of the munition interests, should pose as an innocent reporter from the A. M. & D. department seeking an art interview, is in itself outrageous.

The responsibility for permitting such an outrage to appear in your column, however, rests upon your Own Soul. The further blasphemy, that this Thing should appear over my name, calls for a published apology.

Yours severely,

The Muddy Yorker.

To the Editor,
The Champus Cat.
Dear Sir:

When I recently decided to broaden my field of editorial activity, no longer confining my writing to straight and unbiased news stories, but to branch out into the field of humorous fiction, I expected to receive from your department only the respect and deference due one of my experience.

That upon publishing my first contribution you should have the carelessness and effrontery to not credit me with my original work, is in itself outrageous. That to this outrage should be added the further smart—crediting (of all people) the Muddy Yorker, gives reason for a written apology.

You insult your wide audience of readers by confusing such a small time news commentator as the Muddy Yorker with one who has fearlessly invaded the very battlefields to obtain authoritative information for his public. The mud of Flanders is ethereal, the mud of York is slime.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Vic Seniors chalked up their first victory last night when they outclassed the Meds sextette by a 43-11 score. The Vic team are a scrappy outfit of real basketball players and well deserve their victory. The game next Tuesday when the senior teams of Vic and U.C. take the floor will be a thriller and until then it is impossible to attempt to predict which one will reach the semi-finals.

Meds put up a first-rate fight considering everything. They have fewer enthusiasts from whom to choose a team, they are very limited as to time for practising, and have had considerably less formal training than the experienced Vic squad. Joan Kelly, their star forward, had a lot of tough luck with her shots. A good many of them spun around the hoop and fell out—the wrong way. Jean Laing's tendency to be slow to shoot killed several chances to score.

Good team play seems to be a marked feature of both Vic teams. This, of course, is an essential for good basketball and largely explains their triumphs. Myrtle Robb, Vic forward, is well worth watching; she is a good fighter and has a very neat shot. Louise Prior shares the scoring honours with her, and M. Cowan's tricky long shots were quite spectacular!

During the first half of the game the throw-in was used, and the jump-in the final two periods. Vic Seniors use the throw-in at all times, and, according to Coach Bea Longley, it makes for faster play. Meds had been using the toss until the game last night; but along with Jennie Cartwell, their coach, they feel rather inclined to try the other system after seeing how well it worked out. Phyllis Griffiths, who refereed the game, expressed the opinion that the throw-in had its points, but as she herself was used to the toss, she preferred it.

Up until Tuesday the numbers swimming at the official pool were very scanty. But in the course of that afternoon some forty girls took the plunge. This is the spirit we're looking for, and we certainly hope it keeps up. The pool is open every afternoon, except Saturday, from 3 to 5.30, so use it.

Billy Cochrane has asked us to announce a Life-Saving Class which is to be held every Friday morning from 12-1 at the Lilian Massey pool. Everyone interested is urged to attend. This is a real opportunity as everyone who has ever had any instruction from Miss Cochrane will realize. She knows her stuff and what is more she can put it across. It is surprising how many girls who swim well do not even have the first award—let alone the second and third. It will really be a shame if lots of people do not turn out to take up this big offer.

In the Varsity nets the Blue men will have Frank Shipp, whose work as citadel guardian last season stood out, which bodes ill for enemy goalward thrusts.

While Warren Stevens can count on these standbys it is certain that other hockey luminaries will reinforce the senior sextet, such as several puck-chasers, formerly of Ottawa, who will

O.C.E. LACROSSEMEN SNOWED UNDER BY JUNIOR SCHOOL

Teachers Are Easy Prey of Engineers, with 19-5 Score

MURRAY SHOOT'S WELL

Jr. S.P.S. met with little opposition when they crushed O.C.E. by a 19-5 wash-out in an interfaculty lacrosse game played in the big gymnasium in Hart House yesterday afternoon. The engineers had it all their own way, and passed, checked and scored almost at will.

The Schoolmen started off with a bang, gaining a 4 goal lead in the first half time when the score stood at 12-2. The period, which was lengthened to 10 at the teachers were sluggish, whereas the lads from S.P.S. by constantly substituting fresh men travelled at top speed, their smooth passing and well-oiled plays bringing them within range of the O.C.E. net time and again. In the last period the Bloor Street men took six shots at their rivals' goal, while the winners blazed 13 at the opposite target.

The most deadly snipers on the winning team were Murray, who accounted for 7 goals, Ballagh, who scored 4 tallies, and Brough, who added three points to his team's total. Wheaton and Breaky also played well, while Stroud performed magnificently in goal. The standout player for the second best team was Douglas, who played sensationally to sink all 5 counters for his side.

Jr. S.P.S.: Stroud, Wheaton, Atkinson, Rule, King, Brough, Ballagh, Murray, Walkey, Breaky.

don Blue colours, as well as other hockeyists of senior calibre.

With the added incentive of the annual Christmas holiday tour which this year is extended somewhat which takes the Blue team to Lake Placid and New York for a series of exhibition games with American colleges prominent in U.S. intercollegiate hockey, aspirants for places on the team will exhibit their best hockey ability, all of which should more than weld together a brilliant combination of plays.

Despite the fact that the mighty McGill team have been practically depleted by graduation, the Redmen under Dr. Bell, have been able to gain their first victory in the Montreal city series by a close score, but undoubtedly they will miss the line of Farmer, McGill and Crutchfield, who have joined the professional ranks. With these same men McGill could only get a tie with Varsity here last year and it was their play in particular that kept the intercollegiate senior hockey title in Montreal, but this year Varsity have their eye on the senior diadem, and their labours to this end will be achieved when the Queen's Cup once more rests in the trophy cabinet in the University of Toronto.

these mandates to be responsible to an international body not under political influence; adequate protection of minorities; unhampered interchange of goods and people. Such are the goals which have to be dealt with before peace can be established.

At the moment when the chairman had thanked the professor for his address a commotion was heard in the outside hall and the lecture-hall was invaded by some forty or fifty members of the C.O.T.C., beaming proudly in their bright new uniforms. The general impression upon their arrival was that they intended to cause a disturbance. However, they were warmly greeted by the members of the Anti-War Society. Professor Mackenzie of the Law Department hastily walked to the front of the lecture-room and began to address the assembly, but especially the late-comers. Professor Mackenzie is a member of the Secretariat of the League of Nations. He took the opportunity of summarizing Pro-

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

The McGill-Varsity game Saturday shapes up as one of the kind in which everyone, including the players, has a good time. Win, lose or draw, Varsity will be in the playoffs and the only thing which can be determined in the coming contest is the final standing. However, at McGill things are different. The Redmen have a really powerful team, they threatened to stop Queen's and Varsity in turn, forcing a three-way tie. This they failed to do, but it was more by luck than ability that the Tricolour team halted their drive. Quite possibly they will be out Saturday to prove that they have a real team, even if they did fail to make the playoffs.

Another thing about the contest at Molson Stadium Saturday is the fact that Shag Shaughnessy will be making his valedictory appearance as coach of the McGill Redmen. Shag broke in, twenty-two years ago, back in 1912 and since that time has come to be regarded as one of Canada's foremost coaches. Canadian football owes much to Shaughnessy's efforts and the reputation the McGill Redmen have built up on the gridiron during the period which Shag served as coach is an enviable one. Who will take his place is still undecided but filling the position now left vacant after 22 years of successful service will not be an easy one.

Meanwhile Queen's are preparing to take things easy in their game at Western this week. They should be able to do this and at the same time win handily. They, like Varsity, are now safely in the playoffs and are merely pausing before the big drive. The five fraternity men who have had to buy their own meals since it was discovered that they were fraternity men, will remain absentees from the training table and the training field for the remainder of the season. However, the intermediates have just finished their schedule and three men are moving up from there to reinforce the seniors. This, together with the return of several men who have been on the injured list for some time, will give Reeve a sizeable squad for the first time this season.

In addition to the visit of the senior Varsity rugby team a minor invasion of Montreal will take place on Saturday, when a Hart House squash racquets team of seven players goes to Montreal for a match with McGill University. As squash is at present entirely under the jurisdiction of Hart House at this University, the trip is being made under the auspices of Hart House, and the fixture will not have the full status of an intercollegiate match. However, the match will be watched with interest by those people at McGill and at Varsity who are anxious that squash should come into its own as an intercollegiate sport, and it is hoped that this match will lead to others. As McGill has no facilities for squash of its own, the match will be played on the courts of the Montreal Badminton and Squash Club. An abortive effort was made to hold a similar tournament last year, with McGill visiting Hart House, but the match was definitely a failure. It is hoped that better success will meet this year's efforts.

When the Big Blue team head for McGill this week they will be accompanied by a considerable number of student supporters. The process is simple. Just buy a special ticket, give it to the conductor and he will allow you to ride to Montreal on the train. And the ticket costs only six dollars.

JR. VIC WINS HANDILY IN VOLLEYBALL FIXTURE

Junior Vic completely overwhelmed Trinity, 15-2, in a regular volleyball fixture in Hart House upper gym yesterday afternoon. The more experienced Vic team worked combination plays successfully, to the detriment of the unorganized Trinity squad, who were playing their first game of the season.

In the first game, both sides were guilty of spotty playing and the score mounted very slowly since the team serving usually lost the point. But after a few minutes, Victoria improved and easily ran up the score to win the game. In the second game Victoria won seven points in a row, with Fallis serving. Trinity seemed to have some trouble handling Fallis' serves, and when they did get them back it was only to see the ball set-up and spiked where they couldn't reach it. At this stage of the game, the Vic team worked like a well-oiled machine. Then with only two points between them and defeat Trinity perked up and put a momentary halt to Victoria's scoring. But Victoria soon revived and finished the game, allowing Trinity only two points.

Junior Vic: Cronin, Hamilton, Fallis, Marlette, Welsh, MacDonald, Long and Hilard.

Trinity: Sommerville, Curzon, Wye-koff, MacDonald, Berlis, Martin and Ongley.

Referee: Crockower.

KNOX SOCCER TEAM AT LAST SHAKEN FROM HIGH THRONE

Six-Times Arts Champions Eliminated by Wycliffe; Score 4-0

TOONE PERFORMS WELL

The soccer supremacy of Knox, which has made them interfaculty soccer champions for the last six years, was broken yesterday when they dropped a game to Wycliffe 4-0. Knox needed this game to stay in the running, but are on the outside looking in. Their conquerors now find themselves finally perched on the top rung of the fight for the Arts Faculty trophy. The Anglians were much the better team, and had the edge throughout.

Knox lost the game through their own inability to handle the ball when in close. Their defense, especially Weir, was very powerful, but the forwards were woefully weak with the sphere. However, this weakness may have been due in part to the great checking game that Wycliffe displayed.

Toone looked very good for the winners, scoring three points. He got the only score of the first half when he planted a penalty kick past the diminutive MacDonald. He also opened the scoring in the second half when he took a pass from Kibblewhite. Knox started to press then and put on a powerful attack which had Wycliffe dizzy for a time. But due to great defensive work, coupled with over-an-clearly by the Prophets and Jesus than by any others. The prophets were the first to see that history is not simply a record of events but is moving somewhere. They saw that the universe is based on moral laws and that the God who created the universe and controls it is a moral God who seeks to create a society which is a reflection of himself. Their whole writings are a cry for social justice. Wherever their writings have gone there has been a repercussion in society. When Luther introduced them to the German masses, the Peasant Revolt followed. The movement started by Wesley brought in its train the best way of Trade Unionism. "As long as these writings live there will be revolt. The best way to stamp out radicalism is to burn the Old Testament, not to send two detectives to trail Mr. Stevens."

No notices will be taken over the telephone, after 6 p.m. Notices must be taken to the Press Building. Notices for the Bulletin Board are limited to ONE insertion only.

U.C. GRADUATING CLASS

If you have not secured your biography cards yet, they may be obtained in the main rotunda of U.C. on Friday between the hours of 11.30 and 1.30. Everyone is required to fill in these cards, so please do so at your earliest opportunity.

U.C. MEN'S GRADUATION PICTURES

We have been fortunate in securing the hour between 4 and 5 this afternoon (Thursday) and hope to have the remaining few graduation pictures taken. The following men are urgently requested to present themselves at Freeland's between 4 and 5: J. H. Minden, H. E. Mitchell, M. W. Murphy, A. Turner, I. M. Levy, G. G. Bryce, W. Mackay, C. A. Roebuck, W. Smook.

THE FORUM

Meeting to be held in Room 3, U.C., at 4 p.m. Friday. Mr. M. Minsky will be in the chair and Messrs. Howland and Jones will speak.

DR. GORDON'S LECTURE

Dr. Edith Gordon's Public Health lecture to first year students scheduled for Thursday, November 8, from 5 to 6 o'clock, is postponed for one week.

out to them by the Allies, and in Hitler they felt that at last a man had arisen to help them. He is in the minds of the German people a "personification of the spirit of recovery", and the man who seems most likely to fulfil their "pathetic desire to be worthy of being an ally", as they themselves put it. Hitler, Mr. Bickersteth is convinced, fully believes that he is answerable to the people, and this accounts for his "almost pathetic belief" in such frequent appeals to them in the form of plebiscites.

favour is the tremendous support which he has at his back from the youth of Germany. The slogan of the boys in the Hitler Camps is, "We are born to die for Germany". Moreover, the Nazis have an elaborate control of propaganda, extended even to the radio.

On the other hand, stated the Warden, there are strong forces working in opposition to Hitlerism. The communists, for instance, are sending a terrific amount of communistic literature into Germany from outside her borders. Many professors and students of the German universities are hostile to Hitler, and he has aroused in the Jewish citizens an antagonism which in

We reproduce above a scene from the beautifully photographed French film, Le Barbier de Séville, which will be presented on Saturday as the second of a series of six French pictures, under the auspices of the University of Toronto French Department. The popularity of the first presentation has made it necessary to run three shows on Saturday morning, one at 9 a.m., the second at 10.30 and the last performance starting at 12.

A Message TO Students

The business or professional man knows the true value of a sound banking connection . . . it is an essential part of his daily life.

You, also—when college days are over—will learn the importance to you of your banker.

It is never too early for the student to form this contact. During college days a banking connection may be established which will prove useful now in helping you to build up a "success" fund and as a place to deposit money from home, and of advantage later when you enter business or professional life.

The Bank of Montreal—Canada's oldest bank—welcomes your account while you are still at college, and—with its long experience, great resources and nation-wide organization—it is in a position to give you helpful service wherever you may live in later years.

The manager of any of the branches mentioned below will be glad to discuss the matter with you.

improved, those going through the University grounds at night will just have to use those paths which are lighted," continued Col. LePan. He did not agree with the statement that the paths which cannot be lighted should be torn up, for the reason that they are of considerable use in the daytime and can easily be avoided at night.

Col. LePan could not recall any previous complaint having been made regarding the lighting on the University grounds.

Student opinion on the question was not definite in either direction. Donald MacDonnell, II Arts, St. Michael's College, thought that the system could "be a lot better, especially around Convocation Hall. Even where there are lights, they are none too bright."

Olga Lang and Eleanor Songhurst, first year Arts students, also were of the opinion that the lighting should be considerably better than it is. The general opinion was that the worst spot was around Simcoe Hall and University College, and also in the neighbourhood of the University Library.

A group of dashing looking St. Mike's students declined to comment on the matter on the grounds that all students from that college stayed in at nights, and so had no knowledge of the question.

Three S.P.S. men, apparently in a great hurry to get some place, also refused to comment. "We're only engineers, we don't know anything about lights," was the only statement they would make.

one realizes that the introspection is almost wholly superficial and overdone, as the author, Lennox Robinson, probably intended.

We commend to our readers the acting of Maureen Delaney as Annis Twohig, the proprietor's wife. Her part was flawlessly played. W. O'Gorman and Eileen Crowe share the honours with her. F. J. McCormick in the role of Hector de la Mare was exceedingly good. Of the minor parts we must mention the remarkably good work of Barry Fitzgerald as the perspicacious reporter. The only adverse criticism we have to find against Drama at Innish is in the scene in which Eddie Twohig and Christine Lambert are reunited as lovers. Somehow this part was not carried off with the customary skill and smoothness of the Players. It is brief, however, and does not detract seriously from the production as a whole. We recommend the forthcoming comedies of the Abbey Players to everyone.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Paris, France—Accompanied by the cries of a Paris mob, Pierre Etienne Flaudin succeeded Doumergue and headed a new cabinet which tends considerably toward the right. "The men I have gathered together will forget party differences for one end—to fight against misery and unemployment," he is reported to have said.

Toronto—Before a crowd of over 10,000 spectators at the Maple Leaf Gardens the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team defeated the Boston Bruins 5-3 in the opening game of the National Hockey League.

Toronto—Ruth Downing, popular marathon swimmer, was involved in a motor accident here yesterday. She was not seriously injured.

Toronto—Northern Vocational eliminated Parkdale in the local High School Rugby League.

Stockholm—Luigi Pirandello, Italian author, was awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

STUDENT BURDENED BY EXAMINATIONS

Examinations a Mischief, Is Opinion of Professor
F. Clarke

NECESSARY HOWEVER

"Examination-ridden," is Sir Robert Falconer's description of the average university student. Discussing the statement made here by Professor F. Clarke, McGill University, that exams are a mischief and universities are too much concerned about teaching their students how to "get on," Sir Robert gave as his opinion that the loading of exams on students had been largely overdone, but couldn't be done without.

"My own experience has been that if I didn't have to prepare for something, I just let it slide," the former president of Toronto University said yesterday. "That is why I don't think exams should be altogether abolished."

Sir Robert characterized as "absurd" the teaching of Latin to all the young people in Canada's high schools, and expressed sympathy with the assertion by Principal W. Hamilton Fyfe of Queen's University that universities were meddling too much in the affairs of secondary schools.

"I've all along been in favour of some differentiation in secondary schools, so that those headed for the university will get one kind of training, and another kind will be given to those who are heading into business," he said. "This differentiation should begin at the age of 12. The university can't take everyone sent to it and has to set its own standards, but it ought not to dominate the curriculum of the secondary schools."

The high school's real problem, according to Dr. W. T. Brown, principal of Victoria College, is to find optional courses that will provide the same mental discipline given by the so-called college preparatory curriculum.

WAS ONCE SO CONTROLLED

Last Forty Years Marked by Introduction of Many New Courses

"The universities are not to blame, as much as tradition, for the present state of the high school curriculum," declared Dr. W. Pakenham, former Dean of the Ontario College of Education, to The Varsity yesterday. Dr. Pakenham was interviewed with regard to a statement by Dr. George F. Rogers, chief of secondary education in Ontario, that "the tail is wagging the dog in our educational system," and that the university was largely formulating the high school curriculum.

"Forty years ago," said Dr. Pakenham, "the high school course was directed entirely by the university, but this is not so now. There are a good many courses in secondary schools that are not formulated by the university."

"I do think that the influence of the university is still too strong over the high school curriculum, but it is not their fault. It is largely due to tradition. The vast majority of students taking their matriculation have no idea of what they are going to do, other than that they are not going to university. It is simply the tradition of the matriculation that hangs over them. Also, business men in Toronto wanting employees, usually ask for the honour matriculation rather than middle school standing. The university is by no means to blame for this. But the time will come when tradition will be dead," he hastened to add.

"When one compares the curriculum of secondary schools of 40 years ago with that of today, one notices a startling change. Music, science, and commercial work can now be offered to students for the matriculation, although as yet there are not many who

PLANS COMPLETED FOR MASQUERADE

Under Romanelli's Direction an Enjoyable Evening Is Assured

ORIGINALITY EXPRESSED

The Hart House Masquerade, which is to be held on November 16th, is remarkable in being the premier, if not the only, dance which truly represents all faculties and colleges in the University.

In former years, particularly in P.D. (Pre-Depression) years, the Masquerade was famous for the variety and often for the extravagance of the costumes, which appeared at this function. At present, however, the House Committee are trying to emphasize the fact that this is essentially a hard times party and that the admission price of $2.75 per couple should be almost the only expense of the evening. The term "costume" should be extended to cover anything which is cheap and easily obtainable, and gives opportunity for some of the lads to exercise a little ingenuity.

The music will be under the capable direction of Romanelli, who will be present in person throughout the evening to ensure that the dancers get the utmost enjoyment from his well-known orchestra.

The decorations, especially those in the big gym, will be based on a new motif this year, largely employing pastel shades of green and yellow.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Present High School System Serves a Dual Purpose
Says Chant

"The whole situation is too complex to be discussed briefly," was the opinion of Professor J. F. McDonald, when asked by The Varsity for his views concerning the relation between high school and university education. "I myself have no personal views on the matter and we will probably be arguing about it for years yet."

"High school education serves a dual purpose," said Professor S. N. F. Chant of the Department of Psychology. "It fits you for the business world as well as for university. The present system seems relatively satisfactory but that does not exclude the possibility of improvement."

Professor D. G. Creighton of the History Department expressed the opinion that high school education is necessarily for two different types of people and a greater distinction might be drawn between their respective courses. As to the dictation of the university concerning high school curriculum.

OVER TWO HUNDRED EXPECTED TO ENTRAIN

Eight special cars will leave the Union Station tonight at half past eleven, on the regular C.N.R. train to Montreal. On the train will be two hundred or more supporters of the Blue and White, on the annual excursion to McGill.

Fifty members of the band will accompany the team, and, if former years are to be taken as an example, should assure an interesting and eventful trip. Permission has been granted for a parade through the streets of Montreal before the game, from the Windsor Hotel to Molson Stadium. As in previous years, it is expected that there will be a specially reserved section for Varsity supporters at the Stadium.

Excursion ticket sale is being handled by the S.A.C. office in Hart House, for men, and at Room 82 in University College for women students. There are several choices for those who can not go on the 11:30 train, and the tickets allow for return up to Sunday night. All details can be supplied at the S.A.C. offices.

U.C. Parliament Rivals France Governments Led a Merry Dance

The startling rapidity with which governments are forced out of office in the Parliament of University College can only be compared to the rise and fall of cabinets in France. The former Premier, Mr. Bruce Marshall, and his Liberal-Socialist colleagues, were not present yesterday to swallow the bitter pill of defeat, and a vote of censure was passed against this extreme laxity. As the new Prime Minister, Mr. M. Wayman, pointed out, the Parliamentary Club has rapidly declined owing to the rapid nature of the party two topics. University College has enough frivolity outside of meetings, without wasting its time debating about the fruits of love and the "assets of beer to provincial civilization".

Leading off for the absent government was Acting-Premier Mr. He harped on the monetary assets of beer to our provincial civilization. "Beneficial as are the hard liquors to our province," he stated, "they do not bless us in as

TRADITION AN ASSET

Professional Actors Essential to Give Undertaking Foundation

"Yes, I think an endowed national theatre would be a fine thing for Canada," stated Mr. Norman Nichol, president of the Victoria College Dramatic Society, when interviewed in his room at Burwash Hall last night. This topic which has been discussed in Canada quite frequently since the rise of the Dominion Drama Festival, has again arisen since the advent of the Abbey Theatre Players to Toronto. The editorial in The Varsity yesterday created considerable interest in dramatic circles around the campus.

"However," Mr. Nichol continued, "before a country proceeds with such an undertaking it should have developed certain national characteristics. Although Canada hasn't the tradition behind her that most of the European countries who endow national theatres, still Canada is beginning to develop a national consciousness."

Mr. Nichol also pointed out some of the problems facing an undertaking of such a nature. In his opinion amateur actors in Canada are not qualified at present to step into the professional acting which would be required. He believes it would be advisable before proceeding with such an undertaking to import some Canadian actors and actresses who are now in United States

LEGISLATURE ACTS TOPIC FOR LECTURE

"The British Government made one of its worst blunders in colonial legislation when it separated Upper and Lower Canada by the Constitutional Act," Professor Creighton stated in his lecture on Canadian History yesterday afternoon.

This was the second of the series of University College lectures on Canadian History, being conducted by the History Department.

"The perseverance and interest of the commercial classes is responsible for the ultimate union achieved," the speaker pointed out, after touching on economic events leading up to the Act.

EVOLUTION THEORY USUALLY ACCEPTED

Faculty Members Here See No Alternative to Its Acceptance

MARITIMES TAKE ACTION

The theory of evolution, man's descent from earlier and simpler forms of life, is generally accepted by all intelligent people, in the opinion of members of the University of Toronto faculty. Much discussion has been caused by the action of 1,200 Presbyterians in the Maritime Provinces who demanded the banishment of a history book casting doubt on the accuracy of the book of Genesis.

"The Book of Genesis is chronologically and biologically impossible," said Professor T. F. McIlwraith, head of the department of Anthropology. "I am surprised that anyone should not accept the theory of evolution. Anyone acquainted with biology recognizes that unquestionably man has developed in the course of several million years."

Professor A. T. DeLury, Dean of University College, felt that the theory of evolution was generally accepted by clergy and laity both, and suggested that the Book of Genesis should be revised to suit the times.

Professor J. C. B. Grant, of the department of Anatomy, could not see why even the most religious person should take exception to the argument for evolution.

E. M. Walker, of the Biology department, said, "I don't see how anyone could study the subject, and leave the university believing the Book of Genesis. No intelligent person could hold such a belief."

GERMANY'S CLAIMS CONSIDERED JUST

Sturdy Intellectual Independence of German Student is Admired

L. B. LEPPARD SPEAKS

That Germany (contrary to the popular sentiment), is justified in putting forth a claim to some part of the profits of a world to which it has so long been an entertainer and teacher, was the opinion expressed by Mr. L. B. Leppard at the Mathematics and Physics Society meeting last evening.

Mr. Leppard entertained the meeting with his impressions as a student in Germany. "The sturdy intellectual independence of the German student is his most outstanding characteristic," he stated.

He attributed to the thorough high school education and the concentration of the University student on two or three major subjects the high calibre of scientific work being done in Germany. Enthusiasm for learning pervades the whole population.

The defect of the system, which is a lack of general knowledge in the student, caused a rather low rating of the German scientific degree in other European countries, however.

The charms of the Rhineland and the Hartz Mountains district were shown in slides. A picture of the

MCGILL FUMBLES COSTLY

Tomorrow's Game Will Mean Little to the Standing in Series

By George Vair

This afternoon Warren Stevens' Blue and White football squad board the rattler for Montreal where they will tangle with Shag Shaughnessy's Redmen in the final game of the regular intercollegiate loop. The final chapter will be written the following Saturday when the Tricolour gridgers clash with Varsity in the playoff and Teddy Reeve's second consecutive attempt to take the old mug away from Toronto and place it in Kingston, which town has been impatiently waiting for its return since 1930.

With McGill and Western, permanently occupying the cellar steps, Saturday's tilt means very little as far as standing is concerned but the Redmen are out to avenge their 10-4 defeat when they made their initial debut this season in the Queen City and show that they are of championship calibre. Unfortunately butter-fingered ball cost them last week's game with Queen's and a chance to create a three cornered tie.

Likewise, Warren Stevens' footballers will be taking the contest seriously since they are keen on finishing in a tie for the group leadership and thus eliminating any doubt as to whether the better team won after the playoff is over (providing we come through on top). A victory would take the "if" and "and" from all grandstand quarter-

TITLE CHANCES ARE IN OFFING

Intermediate Game Saturday
Promises to Finish League Struggle

UPSETS HAVE MARKED RACE

Varsity's intermediates have a golden opportunity of annexing their second consecutive league title when they meet Ottawa in the curtain raiser to the Argonaut-Montreal game tomorrow afternoon in the Varsity bowl. At present Queen's, with their schedule complete, have a one-point advantage over the Blue and White, but a win on Saturday will leave the Toronto team ready to meet the winner of the McMaster-O.A.C. tussle, for the Dominion championship.

Varsity found little difficulty in disposing of the boys from the Capital City last Saturday in Ottawa, when they whitewashed them by the score of 17-0, and expect very little trouble in again displaying their superiority. Ottawa have won only one game this season and appear to be the weak sister of the league, but Lew Hayman is taking nothing for granted and has had the boys going through their paces as strenuously as ever.

Strengthened by the addition of Miller at quarter moved down from senior ranking, Varsity's second team has improved by leaps and bounds and appear to be the class of the league at present. Another excellent player moved down is George Powell, who played a great game for the seniors, and is a strong addition to the seconds.

This year's race has been marked with many upsets and the finish is almost as thrilling as the one the senior intercollegiate and Big Four are staging. Last week, Queen's, with one game to play, led by one point over Varsity,

LET US KEEP FAITH . . . .

"We are the Dead, Short Days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Field."

Let us hope that some of our Remembrance Day orators do not forget the true meaning of the Armistice observance. We do not doubt the sincerity of any of them. So many of them take us back in memory to those grim and heart-breaking days of war when the finest men of our nation, indeed, the finest men of many nations gave their best, ungrudgingly and with unstinted courage, in a struggle, as they were led to believe, to rid civilization forever of the mockery and futility of war. They say, "the boys died for glory". Was it for glory they died? or was it for an ideal?

Recruiting officers were sent out and even the leaders of the Christian church were enlisted to tell these men they must fight "a war to end war", they must save democracy for humanity. They fought to release the world from militarism. And now, we, the one-time crusaders who would save the world from strife and force, gather round the monuments of our loved ones and honour—if honour it be, with all the pomp and circumstance of war—those who paid such an incalculable price that we might be freed from its curse. Is it not almost blasphemy to glorify these men for such a sacrifice while, at the same time, we give evidence of our continued subjection to the sin which they died to overthrow?

Let us rather, bow our heads in silence for two minutes and reflect on the sacrifice of the dead soldiers and the ideal for which they died, then shout for twelve months, "we will not forget". Let us reflect on the dictatorships which have sprung up and remember the sacrifice for democracy. Let us reflect on the murmurings and threats of war and remember the courage of our dead fellows. Let us reflect on the militaristic trend of civilization and remember those who laid down their lives "to end war" and make armies obsolete.

Let us remember that the men for whom we bow our heads, died that we, another generation of youth, might live free from the horrors of war. Have we forgotten so soon? Did our loved ones die in vain? Are we keeping faith with those who died?

ADDENDUM

To the Editor of The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

I feel that I must express the sincere disappointment which was mine, when, on reading the report in The Varsity, on Professor W. R. Taylor's address in the Music Room, Hart House, on Wednesday afternoon, I found that the reporter apparently had left at half time.

You have read the article in Thursday's Varsity, "Progress seen as key to History". This article is a very complete and vivid report of the introduction to Professor Taylor's address, which was on the subject, "Christian Standards and Principles which Affect or Should Govern the Social Order."

Some of us stayed, and heard the lecture. In concluding Professor Taylor summed up his address by restating clearly four fundamental principles which, as history has proven, MUST underlie or be the foundations of any lasting society.

1. Beginnings of reform must be within yourself.

To the Muddy Yorker:

Sir:

You seem, by your letter in yesterday's mail, to object to the use of your name under an article which was actually written by a person known, quite falsely, as the War Correspondent. I might explain that the linotype machine was running out of letters, and there was only one "R" slug left. As there are three "R's" in the W.C.'s signature, and only one in yours, it was merely a matter of convenience, and there are only two people on the staff who would write such rot. Therefore, I did the only sensible thing.

ford Davies' "Solemn Melody". A male chorus will sing Buck's most effective setting of "Lead Kindly Light", and the full choir will sing Dr. Willan's eight-part setting of Longfellow's poem, "How they so softly rest".

A cordial invitation is extended to all University students to these and all services of the Church, which is within easy walking distance from all residences and fraternities.

Hart House Theatre

Last night in Hart House Theatre, John Goss, accompanied by Gwendolyn Williams, proved his mastery of many styles of song. His selections varied, ranging from those of the Tudor period to the present time.

This singer's diction could serve as a model to many celebrated singers. It has been said that beautiful diction is the hallmark of a great singer, and last night's artist had that hallmark to a high degree.

His first group consisted of five "Lieder Aus Die Schone Mullerin" of Schubert. These well known songs were effectively and sympathetically sung.

His second group was probably his best, consisting of ayres for voice and lute by various English composers of the 17th century. One felt that the singer entered into the spirit of these

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

This will be a serious Saturday in the football circles outside the intercollegiate and Senior O.R.F.U. While Varsity will no doubt give their best at McGill the result of the game has no serious effect on their future. In the O.R.F.U. Sarnia have already secured the title but in the Big Four it is different. Three teams are vitally concerned with Saturday's results. Argos, Montreal and Hamilton Tigers are all possibilities for a playoff berth. Argos have the least chance of any while Hamilton and Montreal have a better chance. The "Turrable Tagers" should win in Hamilton and should Argos defeat Montreal, then Hamilton takes the title by a single point. Should Argos lose to Montreal, and Ottawa lose to Hamilton, Montreal will then be Big Four champs. The only chance then that Argos have of a playoff is to beat Montreal and have Ottawa defeat Tigers, in which case Montreal and Argos will meet in the finals.

Tomorrow, the intercollegiate title of the west will be settled. The Universities of Alberta and Saskatchewan will meet at Edmonton in the Hardy Cup finals and the intercollegiate title of Western Canada. To find out whether college football in the West compares favourably with the local brand would be an interesting experiment. This, however, would necessitate an East vs. West playoff in the intercollegiate series and it was the inconvenience of this trip which caused Varsity's withdrawal from the C.R.U. However, the idea is not impossible and the future may see an East vs. West intercollegiate series.

Ross Workman will pry the door of the Varsity Arena open tomorrow at 5 p.m. when the Varsity seniors will have their first practice. The practice will, of course, be unofficial, but Monday at the same time will see Warren Stevens with his hockey hopes all in action.

The prospects for a winning team are brighter than usual around the campus. Four men from Ottawa, all of senior calibre, are registered at Varsity and will be eligible. The four are Devine and Keiff, who worked together on the Montaguards' line last year; McAndrews, a defenceman, and MacLiquham, a right wing man. The three forwards would give the Blue team an all-Ottawa line should they click.

The action of the Toronto promoters in supporting an all-star Toronto club is lacking slightly, in our estimation at least, in the spirit of sportsmanship. When it was discovered that commercial hockey would outdraw O.H.A., the Toronto clubs immediately developed a strong liking for that type of hockey. When the C.A.H.A. refused to allow the commercial teams to participate in the Allan Cup playdowns, that was still O.K. by them until they realized that the Allan Cup winners would represent Canada at the next Olympics. Toronto clubs, while not averse to winking at the amateur rules as long as they could operate successfully, were not passing up any trip to Germany. Hence the Centennials, the all-Toronto team, picked from the Commercial League. Just what attraction this team will have in the O.H.A. remains to be seen, but it is our guess that it will do hockey more harm than good.

TRINITY TAKES WIN IN LACROSSE TILT

In a keenly contested struggle from start to finish, Trinity College were successful in defeating University College by the narrow margin of 10-9 in an interfaculty lacrosse game in the Big Gym yesterday afternoon. Trinity received all the breaks of the game and were very lucky to finally win out. The score was 8-8 at the end of the third period and Trinity scored the winning goal in the last few seconds.

Allison was Trinity's main threat, scoring six goals and playing a fine all round game. Coulter, Fullerton and Harwood were the pick of the U.C. squad.

U.C.: Coulter, Fullerton, Harwood, Smith, Bissell, Robb, Sharpe, Gallow, Kidd.

Trinity: Mistin, Millyard, Bell, Allison, Birchall, Grant, McReary, Cox, Forbes.

TO PLAY DUNDAS FOR LAST GAME

Juniors Out to Reverse Decision in Last Game Tomorrow

LINEUP HAS STRENGTHENED

Saturday the Varsity junior team journey to Dundas to play the last game of their O.R.F.U. schedule. Although this game has no particular significance to the local team, except that should they win, St. Mike's will be left alone in the cellar, they will be fighting hard to make up for the setback they suffered here at the hands of this same team. In that game Varsity only lost by one point, and held Dundas scoreless for three quarters. Since that game Varsity have been improving with every start, and are out to reverse the decision. The big red team from Hamilton way have almost a one-man team in DeMurchie, who plays Varsity's ambitions last meeting when he ran thirty yards for a touchdown on a fake placement. This boy can also throw a forward pass that generally means business.

Dundas needs this victory to remain tied with Argos on the top of the heap. They defeated Argos on their home lot, and will be outstanding favourites to take the Blue team, as the Argo game shows just how powerful they are at home. However, many critics are inclined to feel that they were lucky in beating the double blue squad.

Varsity will have Stein back in the lineup, and possibly Beatty. These boys were in Ottawa last Saturday with the intermediates and are still eligible to play in junior company. The former is a great line plunger and can be counted on to make good gains through the red line. Beatty is one of Varsity's best tackling outsiders and he invariably "gets his man". The Blue line led by Sirdevan looks better every start, and Dundas will find it hard to make long gains through this bulwark.

ST. HILDA'S TAKE WIN IN BASKETBALL GAME

St. Hilda's had everything their own way when they met the Public Health basketball team last night at the O.C.E. gym and defeated them by a 53-4 score. The Saints ran wild over the Nurses throughout the entire game and had it in the bag from the first tip-off.

Snappy plays and excellent team work on the part of the Blue and Grey squad kept the ball at their opponents' end for practically the entire game. The forward line of the Nurses and the Saints' defence consequently had a very scanty workout. This gave the Trinity defence a chance to play an offensive game, and they showed real ability at this type of play.

Eddie Ardagh's shots were phenomenal and she alone played up 26 points. Mary Carré shot wildly at times but in spite of that she made 21 points. Dorothy Clarke was the only outstanding Public Health player and chalked up their 4 points.

St. Hilda's: Edith Ardagh (26), Mary Carré (21), Marg McDonald (2), Joyce Kirk (4), Isabel Wallbridge, Jack Grubbe, Ellen Wilson, Edith Palmer, Mary Dignam.
Nurses: Anna Soper, E. Van Lane, Dorothy Clarke (4), Doris Pequegnat, Beatty McLean, M. Kidney, Jean Chrysler, M. Nugent, M. Tresidder.

SECONDS VS. OTTAWA

who had two games to complete their schedule. Both teams won their matches last week and Saturday will find the championship of the league decided, unless Ottawa pulls the unexpected and holds Varsity to a tie.

Senior Hockey—Practice, Varsity Arena, Saturday, 5 p.m.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

The Nurses just did not have a chance against the St. Hilda's sextette last night and the Saints' play was fully in keeping with their 53-4 lead. The Blue and Grey cagers now have 2 wins and no defeats to their credit and it looks as though they will definitely reach the semi-finals again this year. As yet they have met no such competition as St. Mike's gave them last year—in fact we will probably have to wait for these playoffs to see just how good they are.

Certainly Eddie Ardagh is a forward any team would like to have. And Mary Carré was only five points behind her in scoring totals. Reaching their game last night we can just picture them supporting Jack Brown on the intercollegiate squad and all three mounting up the score necessary to retain the coveted Bronze Baby. Mary Dignam and Joyce Kirk are new to the St. Hilda's lineup this year and they are showing up very nicely. The Saints' defense deserves real applause for their performance—they were right in there when any guarding was necessary and at other times took up the offensive and fed the ball to the forwards, doing their part in a big way to mount up the colossal score on record when the whistle blew.

The Nurses were weak in both their forward and defense lines—although the forwards might have been better if they had had the ball more often. However, it is only natural that they should fall before the well-trained Blue and Grey basketballers, who were chosen from a score of enthusiasts. Nurses had to utilize practically every player interested. Dorothy Clarke was the only outstanding Public Health player and saved her team from the ignominy of having a shut-out counted against them. Excellent guarding cramped Dorothy's style and she did not get very much help from her co-players.

There is no basketball game scheduled now until Monday when Victoria Juniors and St. Mike's clash at seven o'clock in what should be a real game. There is a further event in the women's sports world that same day—the first baseball game of the season. St. Mike's will meet Victoria at 6 p.m. at the Vic gym. Let's start the season off with gusto, and give these teams some real support.

BLUES TO MEET MCGILL

backs and give them something else besides football to talk about during the long winter months.

The game bids fair to be a real football match since Joe Smith, McGill's husky quarter does not believe in the kitty-bar-the-door style and is always trying hard to advance his team and not averse to taking chances in so doing.

The Blues are in A1 condition and are playing a good brand of ball, both defensively and offensively. Every department has shown great progress since the pre-season games and the weaknesses have been eliminated. Cam Gray, playing his first season in senior company, stands an excellent chance of leading the league in the most points scored.

DIFFICULTY PENDING

Admitting the difficulty students in Forestry face in obtaining positions on graduation, Mr. F. Kiefer, vice-president of the Port Huron Sulphite and Paper Co., in an address before the Foresters' Club last night in Hart House advised his listeners to be willing to start with a small job and accept any opportunity which might be offered. He emphasized the value of the background of knowledge obtained at University and declared that no one should shun any bit of detail that happens to come his way.

An outline of some of the tasks that a forester might come up against was given by Mr. Kiefer, based on his own experiences in rising from Forest Assistant to his present position.

ENGINEERING PROJECT SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Tonight at 8.15 Mr. O. W. Titus will address the American Institute of Electrical Engineers on "The Boulder Dam Transmission Line", in Room 23 of the Electrical Building. Mr. Titus has some slides and a motion picture of the construction of the dam, with special reference to the transmission line which will transmit power from the plant. Some special engineering features of the conductors used on this line will be illustrated.

Mr. Titus, a graduate of Toronto, was formerly demonstrator in the Thermodynamics laboratory, in which position he spent one session on his return from overseas, where he was a Lieutenant in the Canadian Field Engineers. Since 1929 he has been Chief Engineer of the Canada Wire and Cable Company.

old tunes. John Goss probably stands foremost as an interpreter of early English music.

Songs in the ancient style as set by Respighi, the Italian contemporary composer, comprised the third group.

The name of Robert Franz seldom appears on present day programmes. Probably, as the singer explained, because his lieder are too short to be effective singly. John Goss therefore has arranged a group of "Heine Lieder" with some dramatic sequence from the works of this composer. They proved well worth hearing.

It is to be regretted that Mr. Goss found it inexpedient to sing the Delius songs which had been announced. As an encore he sang "The Princess". This was very lovely and proved an exception to the saying that you can take the melody from Delius' music and it still remains the same. Two Irish folk songs concluded the excellent programme.

most dangerous place in the world (because so many people die there), and beer is to be commended for keeping people therefrom."

Speaking for the Opposition, Mr. Wayman gave the debate a different turn by taking "provincial" to refer to the country as opposed to the city. "Thus," he said, "beer scarcely ever reaches farmers' daughters, or those of light-house keepers." To this, Mr. Ted Livingston objected strenuously, on the grounds that many girls in this university are studying to be light house-keepers, and that beer probably affected them.

The same speaker further affirmed that water was the sole cause of drunkenness. The process of ratiocination by which this iconoclastic conclusion was reached, is too tortuous to be repeated here; but suffice it to say that he backed his statement with ample evidence. "When I was a child," he concluded, "I wined when anything aled me; now I gin and beer it" (Snickers).

Varsity Takes Final Game of Series from McGill

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Paris—The French Fascists and Radicals fought battles both here and in Lille as a result of political hostilities during the Armistice Day observance. Fears of Germany re-arming and revenge of Premier Doumergue's defeat caused riots that equalled in violence any since the end of the war.

London—The Sunday shift of the Vickers armament plant stopped its production of machine guns and gas projecting machines for two minutes' silence yesterday.

Winnipeg—The long awaited and much needed drought resisting wheat has been successfully developed here and will be available for farmers in a few years.

Toronto—Lieut.-Col. Drew insisted that the people of Canada should request Britain to investigate the armament situation. "We should tell them that we will not respond to the call of Empire as we did in 1914 unless we know whom we are serving," he stated.

Toronto—Hon. George S. Henry was chosen to lead the diminished group of seventeen Conservatives to the coming session of the Provincial Legislature.

Vienna—Socialists and Communists and the police had many clashes here yesterday during memorial meetings lamenting the abdication of Emperor Charles in 1918.

Toronto, St. Louis, and Boston were the winners in the National Hockey League week end games.

Toronto—Sir Donald Mann, one of the last of the pioneers of transcontinental railroads, died suddenly yesterday in his 82nd year. He was still actively engaged in his work.

VICTORIA AND O.C.E. HAVE MERRY TIME

Victoria Seniors and Sophs Hold Successful Parties

HARD TIMES FOR TEACHERS

The class of 3T7 Victoria had the opportunity of attending as gay a class party as ever held when they came together at "Ye Merrie Revel" last Friday evening in Burwash. Although not a costume party, the atmosphere transported everyone back into the good old days when chivalry was in bloom.

The stone walls were decorated with the crests and shields of the houses that had inhabited and defended the Great Hall of Burwash, a feat that Fred Evis and his orchestra, high up on the battlements of the ancient fort, were attempting to duplicate. At the far end, above the fair barmaids, who emptied keg upon keg of cider for the thirsty dancers, a huge picture of the Court Jester, symbol of the gaiety that prevailed, smiled serenely down on the happy couples.

Some extremely good vaudeville, featuring the Vic Quartet and three little tap dancers, entertained the class during the intermission, when refreshments were served, with the exception of a few more sophisticated members, who, desiring to become more up to date, enjoyed a half hour of folk dancing at the senior party in Wymlwood.

ENGLISH DEBATORS DISCUSS PACIFISM

Oxford-Cambridge Team Will Debate in Hart House Wednesday

UNDER N.F.C.U.S. AUSPICES

At eight o'clock next Wednesday evening in the Hart House Debates Room, an Oxford-Cambridge team will join with the University of Toronto in discussing the question: "That this House is of the opinion that Pacifism is an economically and spiritually impossible creed." Pacifism is defined for the purpose of the debate as the absolute refusal on the part of the individual to take part in an international war. It does not necessarily include refusal to fight in a class war or for police work under the League of Nations.

Mr. Robertson Crichton, of the Oxford Union, will speak against Pacifism; Mr. Leslie Jackson, of the Cambridge Union, is to oppose the motion. The debate promises to be an excellent one, and credit for the unique opportunity of hearing these two men is due to the National Federation of Canadian University Students, under whose auspices the debate is being held.

Mr. A. C. Smith is Speaker of the House. The motion against Pacifism will be moved by Mr. A. R. Tilly of (Continued on Page 4)

LEO SMITH SUCCEEDS OR. HAM ON SENATE

Scholarship Awards Are Announced by Senate

At the last meeting of the Senate of the University, Leo Smith was appointed a member of that body as the representative of the graduates in music in place of Dr. Albert Ham, who has resigned.

The place of Dr. William Pakenham, former dean of the Faculty of Education, is being taken by Professor E. J. G. Alford, as representative of the University upon the Council of the College of Art.

The Riddell scholarship, the gift of the Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell and Mrs. Riddell, was established, and will be awarded to the student ranking highest in first-class honours at the annual examinations of the first year of the honour course in Law.

The following scholarships were awarded: Robert Bruce Matriculation Scholarship, G. E. Anderson (formerly of North Toronto Collegiate Institute, now enrolled in the first year in the Faculty of Arts).

Robert Bruce Undergraduate Scholarship, Miss M. E. Galloway (enrolled in the second year of the honour course in household economics).

David Dunlop Memorial Scholarship in Psychology (first year), Miss N. Loeb.

Intermediates Now Must Play Bishop's College for Eastern Title

OTTAWA OUTPLAYED

By Harold Taylor

In defeating Ottawa University by the score of 30-9 at the Stadium on Saturday, the Varsity intermediate football team won the league title and earned the right to meet Bishop's College, winners of the eastern intermediate group. The Blue intermediates were obviously the better team throughout the entire game, their forward passes were completed, their punts made yards. Ottawa's best efforts were made in the opening part of the game, when a series of passes placed them within kicking distance, from where Kealy kicked a field goal. A sensational run by Nixon of Ottawa accounted for the other five points. Nixon ran the length of the field with great speed in the third quarter, but his touchdown (Continued on Page 3)

Anti-War Society Attends and Lays Wreath at Soldiers' Tower

MUSIC CLUB PRESENT

Sunday morning the students of the University of Toronto gathered once more at the Soldiers' Tower for a service of remembrance which was conducted by the Alumni Federation. The attendance was somewhat smaller than in former years, due to the fact that all the churches were holding special services. The C.O.T.C. attended as usual in a body and the newly-formed Anti-War Society was present as well.

The service opened with the singing of the hymn "O God, our help in ages past," led by the Victoria College Music Club. Dr. H. J. Cody read the opening sentences and repeated the memorial prayers. After the two min (Continued on Page 4)

Coupling Collapses at Cobourg Students Seek Solace in Song

Staff Special

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Varsity sports fans who came to Montreal to see the game with McGill yesterday did not see one of the most thrilling games of the season, but they did have the most thrilling train ride of the season.

Ten hours was taken for the trip to Montreal, the delay being accounted for by the breaking of a coupling just as the train was pulling out of Cobourg. This held the excursion up for about an hour, during which the students gathered on the platform of the station and rendered the air with their shouts, songs, and the heart-rending mouthings of their instruments by the Varsity band.

Among others taking advantage of the week-end excursion were about fifty members of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry, who combined with the band, a couple of impromptu song-birds from the news and sports staff of The Varsity, and the general run of passengers, to hold an enthusiastic sing-song rivaling any competition for volume and discord which has previously been exhibited

Varsity Juniors ELIMINATE DUNDAS

Win Final Game of Schedule in Fast and Rough Contest

FIRST TOUCH OF SEASON

Varsity juniors eliminated Dundas from the J.R.F.U. race by winning the last game of the schedule, 11-7. The game was a thriller from start to finish, with the element of uncertainty being prominent in the spectators' minds throughout the contest. Varsity scored their first touchdown of the season; five players were banished from the game for fighting, three of them Dundas stalwarts; Varsity had a touchdown called back after Mustard had raced fifty yards. A Dundas man, presumably onside for a kick, grabbed the oval and raced sixty yards before being downed, only to have the play called back.

In the first half Varsity were far superior to their opponents in every department, Casson took particular delight in flattening Dundas ball carriers behind their own line. In the first quarter Murray kicked a placement and a single to give Varsity a nice lead.

This was erased completely in the second stanza when Cahill booted a long one over the goal line, Mustard, believing the ball to be over the deadline merely touched it and a Dundas man flopped on it for a touchdown. The convert failed. Murray tied up the (Continued on Page 4)

GRAY'S KICK IN CLOSING MINUTES GIVES BLUES WIN BY 4-3 SCORE

Final Desperate Bid of Redmen for Playoff Berth Fails As Curtain Falls on Regular 1934 Season; Fumbles Mar Brand of Football

PLAY OFF WITH TRICOLOUR HERE SATURDAY

By B. J. McGuire

Montreal, Nov. 10.—The final bid of the McGill Redmen to establish themselves as a power in the senior intercollegiate football race failed Saturday as the curtain fell on the regular 1934 season. Before some 5,000 fans, on the wind-swept mountain-side oval at Molson Stadium, Cam Gray broke up the ball game with a long bounding kick to the deadline for a single point, in the last few minutes of play. That single allowed Varsity to record a 4-3 victory and conclude the season firmly esconced at the head of the intercollegiate series.

Announcement of the "draw" for The Varsity staff party will be posted in both offices this afternoon. Members attending the party are asked to make sure their subscription is received by the committee today.

STRANGE ANIMALS INHABIT ECUADOR

America and Australia Once Joined by Land Bridge

MOUNTAINS LIKE ISLANDS

"Ecuador is a land of trails, many dating back to the age of the Incan Empire," stated Dr. Anthony of the American Museum of Natural History, in his lecture at Convocation Hall Saturday evening. "Ecuador is a land of incredible variety in climate and in all forms of vegetable and animal life."

Ocean currents and the high mountain barrier exercise a great influence on Ecuador's climate. There are two moist, fertile sections divided by an arid strip where rain never falls more than once or twice a year. There are all climates on a single mountain. The dense tropical forests at the base gradually rise toward the cooler, less luxuriant forests of the temperate zone, and still further up are the treeless slopes covered with dwarfed plants, just below the snow line. The peaks are as isolated as islands, each having its own particular species of birds and animals which are found nowhere else in the world.

The variety of vegetation is beyond belief in the humid areas, and even in the arid strip, where exact and silk-cotton trees are the principal growth, are found many kinds of rare and beautiful orchids.

In the Inter-Andean Plateau are the richest remains of the Incan Empire. Farther west lies the ancient tribe of head-hunters, who shrink the heads of their victims, and preserve them as ghastly trophies of victory. The various Indian tribes, all descendants of the Incas, live a primitive mode of life. In the colourful towns, some of them quite large, life centres around the public square.

Symphony Concert

A limited number of special student tickets for the Toronto Symphony concert of Tuesday, 13th November, will be on sale at the Hall Porter's desk in Hart House today between 12 and 2 p.m.

It was a hard battle for the Montreal College to lose, playing as they were their last home game of the season. It was also a hard struggle for the McGill team to lose in as much as it marked the last appearance of Shag Shaughnessy as coach of the Redmen. Don Young, a veteran of seven years with the Montreal team was also making his valedictory performance and to meet defeat in the last game of a brilliant career, by a margin as close as that by which the Montreal team lost Saturday's, is, to say the least, depressing.

The game, however, was, with the exception of the last quarter, not a brilliant brand of football. There were some clever runs and some passing displays which were worthy of mention, but there was also much fumbling and loose play which served to slow the game up.

Varsity made their inevitable fumble in the first few minutes of play when Upper dropped a kick which Letourneau recovered for McGill. The Red team tried a forward which went wide and then Joe Smith, the California sensation, stood on his 48 yard mark and sent a placement straight between the bars for three points. The ease with which the husky Montreal back accomplished the feat was one of the features of the game.

Varsity were slow in getting the three points back. They could make no impression on the McGill front line and three blocked kicks also proved a detriment to their cause. In the second half, however, they clicked with two (Continued on Page 4)

HOUSE PREPARES FOR MASQUERADE

Committee Assures Members There Will be Plenty of Room

GOOD NUMBER ANTICIPATED

It is not yet too late to make up a party and secure partners for the night of Friday, the 16th at Hart House. Although the House Committee anticipate a good number in attendance they wish to assure the members and guests there will be plenty of room for dancing and sitting out and that there will be strictly no evidence of a "jam".

For the benefit of those who have never attended the Masquerade it is pointed out there will be two interludes in the dancing programme during the evening, the first the Grand March in the main dancing salon, during which judges (Mr. H. S. Palmer and Mr. P. Haworth) will select the costumes they consider most befitting the several prizes; and second, the Buffet Supper from 10.40 to 11.40 in the Great Hall.

SCIENCE IN THE UNIVERSITY

In considering the many important scientific contributions of our University during the past few years, a number of important ideas arise. The creditable work of Banting and Best on Insulin, the recent developments in Radium therapy, and the production in the last few months of a Staphylococcus anti-toxin and toxoid of great medical importance, definitely justify our pride in the scientific institutions of this University.

There is a definite set of characteristics necessary in one who would engage in scientific research. It is a task which requires above all imagination, and discipline both mental and physical, tempered with an infinity of patience and persistence.

The important part played by the researches of the sciences in the advancement of human welfare must be kept constantly in mind, indeed there is too great a tendency to be critical of the scientist for his apparent slowness in producing results. The study of a science at the University of Toronto is singularly enhanced by the very fine facilities provided the student, both graduate and undergraduate, and the standard of most of our scientific departments is recognized as being on a par with many of the institutions of Great Britain, the Continent and the United States.

In many cases the work of the graduate in science carries him into the field of Industry. Here the Industrialist is beginning more and more to realize the great benefits to be derived from the services of the scientifically trained mind in the control of production. One must admit, however, that the scientist in Industry is not receiving his proper reward, and that some method must be devised to control sensibly the production of scientific workers available for this field, for like all human beings, they too easily become the prey of modern industrial practices.

PATRIOTISM FOR SALE

In a report from Montreal we hear that Armistice Day was celebrated in that city in pre-war splendour. There was a large military parade to the cenotaph in St. James Square and it took two hours to lay the wreaths. The town was duly decorated. Among the many clever window displays boosting charitable organizations built up on the Remembrance Day emotions, one of the most outstanding was that of a candy shoppe whose window contained a Ross rifle, a trench mortar, a six inch shell, two officers' swords, a bayonet, an entrenching tool, a water bottle, an officer's cap, four flags . . . and a plate of nuts.

VIC AND O. C. E. HAVE MERRY TIME

Gerald Anglin proclaimed the novelty numbers in a style befitting the medieval setting of the party.

Mixing cool, refreshing cider with the melodious music of Harold Taylor's orchestra, the Victoria JTS party was held at Wymilwood on Friday night and unanimously voted a tremendous success by all participants.

A feature of the evening was the taking of moving pictures of the class and orchestra. These pictures will be shown at a later date.

The dancers enthusiastically indulged in the folk dances conducted under the leadership of Mr. Madsen during the intermission.

A merry crowd of ragamuffins gathered themselves together in the gymnasium of O.C.E. last Friday night. The occasion was the O.C.E. hard time party. The music of Carl Mueller and his orchestra, the unique decorations which were employed, and the desperately ragged costumes of the guests, all combined to make the evening one of carefree enjoyment. Credit is due the committee in charge, Jean Dowling, Mary McKay, Herm Hass, Tony Wright and Fred Wright.

Entertainment was provided by Jess Fitton in the form of a clog dancer and tumbler, and Mr. Thorman, a master magician.

Jess Fitton also came to the fore as prize winner in the novel costume contest.

There is an exhibition of wood-cuts by Eric Gill now in the Sketch Room which is an admirable supplement to the show at the Gallery. Since it would be pointless to write on Mr. Gill's wood cuts again we can only hope that the City Fathers will declare November 12-19 "Eric Gill Week" and invite the citizens of Toronto to make the most of a rare opportunity.

Royal Alexandra

Friday evening's presentation of the Abbey Theatre Players, Grogan and the Ferret, was a delightful piece of Irishness—and an excellent political farce. It seems to have caught the feeling of the Ireland of 1914—and Ireland in the midst of internal disorder and uprising, on the verge of the World War. That is the background of the play, but the seriousness of these problems is blended with delicious Irish humour to produce a human comedy.

The story is centred on the rout of Felix Grogan by his inveterate enemy, Miss Hatty, the Ferret. Through this cunning and malicious lady's conniving Grogan is driven to bankruptcy. He is forced to abandon his shop to sleep in the horse-stall, and to depend on the kindness of the Byrnes for his meagre fare. There still remains in him the desire to return to his old home, now in the possession of his brother Paddy and the Mountain Woman. But this desire seems impossible of fulfilment since his daughter Rose will probably take him back with her to Scotland, if his pension is assured. But Miss Hatty's schemes prevent his getting the pension, and the complete satisfaction of having him sent to the workhouse seems about to be achieved. However, Fred Byrne takes the plight of Grogan to heart and sets about retrieving the pension.

Through the fabric of this story are woven the frustrated efforts of Irish patriots for Home Rule and the distant fears of European war.

The performances of all the actors were exceptionally fine. Their portrayals of Irish character are typical, but with the added charm of brilliant individual touches. Eileen Crowe as the Ferret was superb. Her every motion, her every intonation was the essence of sniping small town interferer. One is forced to say of her as did one of the other characters, "You'd stick your nose through the gates of hell for news." F. J. McCormick as Felix Grogan was excellent, as were P. J. Carolan (John Byrne), Dennis O'Dea as Fred Byrne, and Arthur Shields. But of all the characters Barry Fitzgerald seems most typical and delightfully Irish in his role as Paddy Grogan. LETTERS WE'RE SCARED TO MAIL

Miss Professor Rose,
Household Science Faculty.

Dear Miss Rose:

As an ultimate consumer I protest the manner in which Household Science is taught at the University. I have never met the finished product, but I think that each student, to avoid mistakes, should be made to state her motives for taking the course at registration. If she says dietitian, nurse, analyzer, let her continue, but housewife, never.

My reasons are simple. I have honourable intentions against a girl in Household Economics whom I have known since she was a mere child. Before taking your course she was a good cook and could make fudge with the best of them, and even could make good French Toast, but she has been too busy lately to practise cooking, and likes to go out and eat at a restaurant (1), (a).

Also, she once knitted me a sweater for Christmas, which, because I picked (Continued on Page 4)

J'ACCUSE!!

The Editor, The Varsity.

Sir:

I accuse, before every righteous, rational, human being of this University, and before all humanity, with complete sincerity and seriousness, in the name of freedom of opinion, of brotherhood, of harmony, of progress itself, all those responsible for displaying a body of uninformed men, with rifles and bayonets in front of a memorial to men of this institution who laid down their lives that we might not have war, of desecrating the memory of the dead, on the day of the Prince of Peace, and the anniversary of the termination of a futile struggle of disillusionment, engineered by the criminal leaders of a rotten society!

I accuse them, furthermore, of deceiving us, the Youth, of the true significance of four hellish years of killing. (Continued on Page 4)

Let's Go Places

If ever the members of the French Department, who are at present backing the series of French pictures at the Hollywood Theatre, should lose interest in the project, which, in the light of its unexpectedly great success, is unlikely, the League of Nations Society might well support the venture as a method of promoting international goodwill. It is much easier to understand the Press reports of happenings in France after seeing a French newsreel, and discovering that a French mob is really like any other mob of people (just a little more excitable), and it would be hard to consider the French as barbarians, after seeing the influence of our own culture in the trailer of next week's picture, Somptueux et Magnifique, et digne de vos something or other, just as we see it in every trailer here. In fact, our own (Continued on Page 4)

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

VARSITY, QUEEN'S PLAYOFF FOR TITLE HERE SATURDAY

RUGGER CHAMPS TAKE WANDERERS

Taking Wanderers by a 6-3 count, Varsity rugby team, now intercollegiate champions, won their fifth straight game. The game was played on the back campus, and was very fast and hard throughout, neither team scoring until after half time.

Magner scored first for the Blues when he plunged over from a throw-in five yards out. Shortly afterwards, Battye of Wanderers broke through the whole Varsity squad at the 50 yard mark and streaked for the line. Three yards out a desperate flying tackle by McClatchie knocked him down, but he slid over the line for the tying score. It was the best run of the game. Whillans of Varsity then kicked the play back into enemy territory and Egan made some long gains. Caverhill and Stothart combined in a plunging attack that resulted in Stothart breaking loose and scoring from 30 yards out.

For the Wanderers Heath, Blanche and Dawson were the best.

SECONDS WIN GROUP DEFEATING OTTAWA

came too late in the game to halt the Varsity attack. Edwards, Miller and Jackson were the outstanding performers for the Blue team, the former pair for their handling of forward passes, the latter for his tricky running.

It was Jackson who started the scoring for the Varsity Seconds. He ran around the end of the Ottawa line for a touchdown early in the first period. After catching a thirty-five yard pass from Whitley Miller, Edwards ran over for another touch soon after the first. Ottawa were kept continually in their own territory for the rest of the period, and Gray of Varsity tried a field goal which missed and counted for a point.

The Varsity team continued to keep the play wide open throughout the remainder of the half. Miller threw another pass to Edwards, this time for a gain of forty yards. On the next down Miller took the ball over for a touchdown which was converted. The end runs were next used by Varsity to some advantage, and once more Gray kicked a placement to add three points to the score. It added up to 20-3 at half time.

Two more placements by Barry Gray rendered useless the magnificent run of Nixon of Ottawa in the third quarter. The rest of the time was spent by each team in trying for field goals, two of which went for single points for each of them. Syd Jackson demonstrated his ability to run through a broken field by running fifty yards, bringing the ball into position for the last attempted placement.

Ottawa: Kealy, Sweeney, Nixon, Gagner, Benoit, Vale, Desjardins, Phillips, Govielle, Coridian, Corcoran, Leclaire; subs, Brennan, Bellefleur, LaFleur, Sweetman, Jassin, Lusier, Gignac.

Varsity: Macpherson, Jackson, G. Powell, Tafts, Miller, Williams, Gib-Powell, Buck; subs, Jacobs, Kuntz, son, MacLachlan, Thomas, Bridle, T. Willoughby, Edwards, Gray, Ripley, Hicks, McBean.

The Nazi sterilization programme will include the "slightly feeble minded", Dr. von Holst announced today.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By Ken Burn

This morning we are confronted with the pleasant task of passing out bouquets to the various Varsity squads that went into action over the week-end. Of course, at the head of the parade come Warren Stevens and his senior team. As a result of their win in Montreal on Saturday, while the amazing Mustangs were taking Queen's, they are now the sole tenants of first place in the intercollegiate loop. Due to the new ruling enacted last summer they will meet Queen's here on Saturday to settle the question of who will hold the Yates Cup for the ensuing year.

The game next Saturday is not nominally a Varsity home game and season tickets will not be honoured. However, the Athletic Directorate have decided that students will be admitted on the presentation of their student season ticket plus twenty-five cents. Start saving today, gentlemen, as it should be a real struggle. The two teams this year have each won their home game against each other by the narrow margin of one point and we may have the pleasure of viewing a Queen's-Varsity tilt that will be reminiscent of the days of Batstone and Snyder.

Needing a win to cinch their group, the Seconds didn't fool in their game Saturday against Ottawa. If the existing arrangements are carried out, Bishop's College will journey here to meet the Seconds in the intermediate semi-final. The winner will play either McMaster or O.A.C. if the powers that be decide to settle the western section title on the field instead of in the committee room.

While the Juniors have not been very impressive to date they proved themselves strong enough to eliminate Dundas from O.R.F.U. competition. They are granted a bye into the intercollegiate finals which will also take place next week-end.

To the Harrier Club goes the honour of bringing the third title to Varsity this season. Their victory is all the more pleasant as McGill produced the winning team last year.

Saturday saw the drop of the curtain on the regular rugby season. Locally, we were treated to the finest game of the year when Argos defeated Montreal after giving them an eight point handicap in the first half. The roaring Tigers from Hamilton and points south are once again champions of the Big Four and should re-establish their mortgage on the Dominion title.

O.A.C., MEDS AND TRINITY WIN IN INTERFACULTY RUGBY TILTS

Victoria Defeated 12-0 by O. A. C.

Defeating Victoria College gridders by a score of 12-0, O.A.C. won the right to continue in the quest for the Mulock Cup. The Aggies lost their first game with U.C., but after winning the remainder of the schedule are strong favourites to win the coveted trophy.

O.A.C. scored one point in the first half and followed this up with another single early in the fourth quarter, both being scored on Victoria fumbles. The Torontonians were only in a scoring position once but the luckless Victorians failed to hold the aggressive Aggies out and the kick was blocked.

The game started with fast play and for a while Victoria forced their opponents back, only to have a stubborn defence stop them when their real opportunity came. Any hopes Vic had of launching a strong fourth quarter attack were shattered when Elsley, the snap, was penalized for tripping.

O.A.C. made yards three times while Victoria showed more plunging power and got four first downs. The superb kicking of Theal and the deadly tackling of Young and Doucette featured the play for Aggies. For Victoria Pratt, speedy backfielder, put in a superb effort while Cockfield, Gillespie, and Hills were strong defensively.

Junior Meds Win Over Junior School 8-0

In a closely contested interfaculty rugby game played on the Trinity campus Friday, Jr. Meds defeated Jr. S.P.S. by the score of 8-0. School, although handicapped by the absence of four regulars due to injuries, gave the powerful Medicals a real battle before conceding defeat.

Newton opened the scoring in the first half when he intercepted an S.P.S. forward pass to run 20 yards for a touchdown which was unconverted. He soon added another point to his total by kicking a rouge, which was followed by another single by Carverth.

In the second half School came back strongly but their attempt at a field goal was blocked and the ball recovered by Meds. The latter retaliated by kicking a rouge to complete the score of the game.

Trinity Downs Forestry in Close Game

On Friday afternoon Trinity eked out a 2-1 win over Forestry in an interesting interfaculty rugby game. Trinity by virtue of their win are still in the running for the group honours. At present they are trailing Meds by one game but still have a chance.

Trinity tried numerous forward passes but none of them clicked. One was intercepted and was good for a long gain by Forestry. A'Court was the standout man for Trinity. His kicks scored the team's only points and were good for long gains at all times. For Forestry, Hick, at quarter, was the mainstay of the team.

Picture Of Smart Varsity Men "In the Know"

The Med. on the right and the Engineer on the left have discovered the Men's Shop. The Men's Shop in turn some time ago found that Varsity men want dashing, authentic style yet demand thrift . . . real, honest-to-goodness thrift. So we combined the two features—as a glance at the sketch and then at the prices will prove.

That's why so many Varsity men shop here. They know value and style.

All coats made up from finest Canadian and imported wools. Styles mentioned above $25 and $35. Other coats from $45 to $75.

Sketched right: Sandhurst—a fitted model of semi-formal persuasion in suitable weight imported cloth. Note the higher waisted effect so popular with the younger man. $25 and $35.

Sketched left: Double breasted Ulster in All-Wool Fleece cloth. Generous collar and lapels. Depend on it. He'll be warm. $25 and $35.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Tonight the Vic Juniors will take the floor against St. Mike's in the seventh game of the interfaculty basketball series. Both outfits have one win and no losses chalked up to their credit and if this is a decisive victory for either outfit it will pretty well point out the group's representative in the playoffs. We have St. Mike's slated as a very probable candidate in the finals, and feel that the odds are rather in favour of the U.C. Seniors emerging on top in the third division. But Wednesday night will tell the tale—and it should be an exciting one. The game tonight and that on Wednesday are really vital and if you turn out we can guarantee an hour's good basketball.

Baseball dawns on the sports' horizon tonight and will continue to shine periodically throughout the month. The initial contest takes place tonight at 6, the Vic gym is the scene of the conflict. Vic at present hold the title and they have a strong nine who will be giving all they have to retain the honour. St. Mike's have assembled a team of sterling quality also, and are firmly resolved to snatch the trophy from the scarlet and gold outfit. It will be a tussle until the very last lap, and it seems almost certain that it will be Vic and St. Mike's who will clash in the playoffs. But we have never seen the Medley Team in action; it certainly would be a terrific upset if these eleventh hour fans came out on the top end of the final tally.

This continued exhortation to you swimmers to get in there from the very start may seem rather previous and all that, but such is not the case. The girls who have starred in past years are those who have worked steadily; this putting on a big last minute spurt just is not sufficient if you really want to amount to anything in the interfaculty meet. Billy Cochrane reports plenty of good new material among those who have turned out so far. Perhaps there will be someone to rank with Kay Brown and Vi Ord as time goes on.

ST. MICHAEL'S DEFEAT HAMILTON TIGER CUBS

Completing their best season since their entry into Senior O.R.F.U. ranks, St. Michael's College turned aside the efforts of the Cub edition of Hamilton Tigers by a score of 3-2, to gain second place in the O.R.F.U. race, in the last scheduled game of the season played in Maple Leaf Stadium Saturday. The youthful collegian squad lost innumerable chances for a major score, fumbling when well in Hamilton territory. However, victory was not to be denied to the Storen coached squad, which kept up a constant aerial attack, completing 11 forward passes, gaining a slight edge over the Mountain City lads.

For St. Michael's the work of Marks, Connelly and Ripley was outstanding, with Talbot and Peck also making valuable gains, while Lanza and Harrison were the best for the Cubs, with Harrison accounting for the two Hamilton points.

St. Michael's: Stewart, flying wing; McKernan, Connelly, Marks, halves; Ripley, quarter; Living, snap; Caza-bon, Pung, insides; Miller, Olezewski, middles; McMillan, Meagher, outsides; Burke, Peck, Marchedon, Talbot and Metras, subs.

game when he kicked a single near the end of the first half.

Play was more even in the last half, with the crowd on their toes all the time. Cahill had the edge in the kicking and was a big factor on the offence. At centre field Casson broke through and blocked a kick. Carruthers, right on the snap's heels, scooped up the ball and ran forty yards for the touch, amid the groans of the large crowd. This touchdown was converted. Cahill got one point back when he kicked a single from forty yards out.

In the last quarter Dundas really turned it on with forward passes, with DeMurchie tossing them. This attack ultimately placed them at the eight yard line, but on two bucks they were thrown for a loss and had to be content with a single to end the scoring.

LET'S GO PLACES

culture has evidently invaded next week's picture itself, for it evidently has chorus girl scenes mixed in with desert warfare just like any American film.

Saturday's film, Le Barbier de Seville, although our ears have not become tuned to the French wavelenght yet, was easy to follow, thanks to the eloquent gestures and voice inflections. The music was brought in very nicely, and Figaro's song in itself was worth going to hear. The costumes and settings seemed much more natural than they ever do in costume pictures from Hollywood. Even to the beginner the language at times is understandable, when there is a pause long enough for the sounds to digest and turn into words.

A great deal of credit is due to the members of the French Department who organized this venture, and also to Mr. Allen of the Hollywood Theatre, one of the more progressive theatre managers, who is always willing to try something new. Two years ago he brought Maedchen in Uniform to Toronto, with great success. By the way, Mr. Allen is a graduate of the University, where he consistently took first class honours in German.

WOMEN'S INTERFACULTY DEBATE

Monday at 4.30 p.m. at the Women's Union the first of a series of inter-faculty debates takes place, "Resolved that women can prevent war". Victoria College upholds the affirmative, University College the negative. At the close of the debate there will be discussion from the floor.

GRAY'S KICK GIVES BLUES VICTORY BY 4-3 SCORE

forward passes which put them within striking distance. A Coulter to Upper combination was successful for the first one and on the next play Holden made a sensational catch of Coulter's toss to put Varsity on the McGill 20 yard line. Gray made no mistake when he tried a placement, which although sent from an angle, went straight between the bars to tie the score.

McGill had a slight edge in the territorial play in the third quarter, although toward the end Gray was outdistancing Riddell, who relieved Smith on the kicking chores. In the fourth quarter, Gus Greco began ripping the McGill line for the first time in the game. The stone wall which had held fast for the first half of the game, slowly crumpled and Varsity moved steadily into Montreal territory. Gray sent one long boot to McLernon, who took it behind his line, but wormed his way to the 25 before being brought down. Upper then went wide on a long line which took them to the 20 yard line and Gray sent a punt bounding to the deadline for the winning point.

For Varsity, the work of Cam Gray, who scored all four of the winning points, was especially good. Gus Greco also was a valuable man when he took over the plunging duties in the third and fourth quarters. The forward passing attack of the Blue team was never so effective as it was Saturday, while the McGill offensive looked rather weak in this department. Coulter, Holden and Upper also deserve special mention.

On the Montreal squad, the work of Don Young was, as it has been for the past seven years, bordering on the sensational. McLernon and Smith were also dangerous men on the offensive, while Horning was hard to beat on the defensive.

Varsity: Flying wing, Dawson; halves, Upper, Webber, Gray; quarter, Coulter; snap, Williams; insides, Perry, Warren; middles, Greco, Laing; outsides, Allen, Henderson; subs, Brebner, Harris, Keith, Holden, Hennessy, Isbister, Fenner, Taylor.

McGill: Flying wing, Young; halves, Riddell, McLernon, Markham; quarter, Smith; snap, Wigle; insides, Rusch, Stockdale; middles, Drury, Horning; outsides, Letourneau, Degnan; subs, Richert, Wagner, Hedge, Mack, Robb, Byrne, Pierce, McArthur.

ART, MUSIC AND DRAMA

With complete understanding and artistry he portrays the ignorant, cunning, wife-ridden Irish farmer. Michael J. Dolan is a remarkably good Blakes—a role which is strikingly Micawberish. Maureen Delaney as Mrs. Byrne is slightly disappointing, and May Craig is vocally excellent as the tongue lashing Rose, who finally vanquishes her father's old enemy in a battle of words and wits.

The Abbey Players bring a refreshing and genuine artistry to their work. Their work in building a national Irish Theatre should lend new impetus to the struggle for a typical Canadian drama.

Massey Hall

Saturday afternoon at Massey Hall, Toronto's premier piano quintet once again thrilled a capacity house, with a duplication of their programme given last October 22 in Varsity Arena.

Playing as their opening number a Toccata and Fugue in D minor by Bach, the ensemble showed a marked improvement over their previous performance, due in some degree to the decided advantages of the acoustics in the Hall. On Wings of Song by Mendelssohn, as in the previous recital, was so well received as to be replayed.

The central part of the programme was the only section which showed any change from the previous concert. Here, were inserted two Etudes of Chopin, Opus 25, Nos. 1 and 2. Also the Waltz in D flat by Chopin. This popular salon number was hailed with such enthusiasm that it likewise was repeated. The dazzling speed of this number quite adequately vouched for the technical integrity of the two lead pianos, Mr. Stewart and Mr. Seitz.

The final number before the intermission, Espana, Chabrier, made a rousing, rhythmic finish to this first group. The distribution of the parts was more effective in this number in regard to the leads. First one piano had the melody, then another picked it up in unaccented beats, the entire piece being brilliantly executed.

The final group was composed of the Moonlight Sonata, Beethoven, and four numbers by Liszt (two being by "Paganini-Liszt").

The Moonlight Sonata in this performance was better played than before from a point of view of teamwork. Last time a noticeable tendency to make it predominantly rhythmic made the atmosphere decidedly foreign to those familiar to the numerous solo interpretations. In this rendition, however, a judicious observance of melodic line was adhered to throughout, made the entire effect very satisfying.

La Campanella, a Paganini-Liszt arrangement, formed a fitting finale to a very successful recital.

Mr. Stewart's masterful leading of the ensemble is to be sincerely commended, as likewise are the faithful followers of the ensemble, each sacrificing his own individual interpretation of the various number in an endeavour to make a complete and blended whole. Verification of their success could be well measured by the appreciation shown by the three thousand enthusiasts that filled the hall.

Among many fine recitals, that of John Charles Thomas stands as unique. And this not because of the programme whose fine beginning was somewhat alloyed by the dictates of popular taste. When nearly perfect ensembles are rare, it is a tragedy to waste such artistry as this on anything but the finest and best.

Many moons shall pass before such perfect balance between soloist and accompanist is again heard. So often accompaniment is merely an excuse for weak, insipid pianism. Mr. Hollister's work was art in itself, quite as strong and artistic in its own way as the singer himself. The result was a supremely satisfying artistic whole.

John Charles Thomas, though baritone in range, possesses a pure, fine, resonant voice of tenor quality. One cannot but be impressed with the chaste dignity and restraint which characterizes his singing. He brings to his technical accomplishment an intellectual comprehension and with his instinctive musicianship and distinctive personality even the trivial song glows.

It is unusual for an accompanist to play without notes and the experiment, so eminently conducive to precision and artistic balance, cannot be passed unmentioned.

Friday Afternoon Recital

Three well-known Toronto artists, Joyce Hornyansky, Herbert Pye and Viggo Kihl, combined their artistry to provide the programme of the Friday afternoon Hart House musicale.

The choice of trios was especially interesting considering the contrast between early Beethoven and later Brahms. The instrumental combination of 'cello, clarinet and piano, is not frequently met with and among other things the successful composer must possess a fine sense of the colour values of these instruments.

Beethoven has attached relatively little importance to tone colour in this trio (Op. 11). Following usual methods, he tended to isolate the various instruments, tossing themes from clarinet to cello in various imitative combinations and providing elaborate interludes for the piano.

The Brahms trio (Op. 114), which is the greater and finer work of the two, shows the greater development in form and construction so typical of the logical conclusion of Brahms. Greater consistency and organic unity is strikingly apparent due to the intricate contrapuntal texture of the work. This trio conveys a wealth of meaning and poetic content. The different instruments are so deftly handled as to produce something almost akin to orchestral warmth and colour.

Eaton Auditorium

This evening Harold Samuel opens the Music Master Series of piano recitals at Eaton Auditorium. Samuel is one of the world's leading exponents of Bach and this evening he will confine all of his programme to interpretation of the works of Bach. There are still a good many seats available, and we commend not only this recital, but the whole series, to those who are interested in the development of music.

I learned on good authority that each member of the class is sewing on a pair of bl—mers. Apart from the unpractical nature of the project, I emphatically declare that this represents the spirit of reaction in the most radical manner (b).

The figure (1) above represents a series of Expensive, and the letters (a), (b), impractical habits acquired at the Lillian Massey building. Above all, and classing as (2) and (c), is the home-planning idea that she has received from your lectures.

I am a bank clerk, and am not allowed to take home samples, which has a confining effect on my income. We had just agreed on a three room apartment when she started this course, but now nothing will suit her short of a $10,000 house that you couldn't build for 25 grand, with a built-in garage, (she takes the car for granted), a nursery large enough to discourage Ovilva "Count-Em" Dionne, and enough electric devices to force the Hydro Board to make Niagara Falls work nights.

And, to add to this, you make her cut up frogs, cats, and bunnies in a most disgusting manner, which she describes to me in detail after a hard day's work at the bank, which is more than an ordinary man can stand.

Yours sincerely,

Conscientious Objector.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13th, 1934

No. 33

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Washington—The treasury yesterday lifted the barriers set up against export of capital. Americans may now transfer credit or currency to foreign countries regardless of the purpose of the transfer. However, free export of gold certificates and gold metal is still banned.

Ottawa—Evidence of low wages paid by chain stores was presented to the Mass Buying Commission when it opened its inquiry into the merchandising practices of these vast organizations with stores dotting the country. Yet the chain stores survived the depression with less injury than most industries, certainly less injury than manufacturers and farmers, according to Fred P. Higgins, Toronto auditor.

Paris—Premier Flandin last night issued an appeal to French parties to forget their differences; as fresh warnings of an armed menace in Germany, coupled with domestic disorders attending the Armistice celebrations, arose.

Washington—Washington opens a new campaign for ratification of the St. Lawrence Treaty with Canada. Negotiations are already under way with Canada toward slight modification of this pact, ratification of which was defeated during the last session of the United States Senate.

Ottawa—Organization of the Ottawa bureau of the recently formed National Retail Trade Federation of Canada was being undertaken, as the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass Buying began its inquiry into chain store merchandising.

TENSE OPPOSITION STUDENTS PACIFIC

Varied Opinions of Parade and Colourful Ceremony

MOMENTARY ENTHUSIASM

Of ten University of Toronto students approached at random by The Varsity yesterday regarding the letter entitled "J'Accuse," published in yesterday's issue, eight declared their opposition to war. Two would, or could, make no statement.

Murdo MacKinnon, Vic I, expressed the opinion of most of those interviewed when he stated: "I am heartily in sympathy with Mr. Acker's views, although I am afraid his bombastic form of utterance tends to weaken, rather than strengthen, his argument."

Jack Thompson, U.C. II, was another who supported this view: "I agree with the writer in opposing war. But this attitude turns many against his ideal."

"I agree that there should be no show of arms at an Armistice Day service," stated D. Gardstein, II Law, University College. "There could be a quiet service of remembrance. But why a parade? Parade and pomp gives people a different, and wrong, view of war." He was of the opinion that we must forget our militarism, our racialism, and nationalism, and remember that we are human beings and not animals, if we are to abolish war.

"I am one hundred per cent for him," said C. Jack Woodley, II Meds. "It is ironical to display the implements and means of furthering war on the day when we should be trying to rid the world of it. We should commemorate the slain by other means than by encouraging war, for the abolishing of which they died."

"The writer deserves our wholehearted support if he is trying to com-

"Many are the achievements of the united forces of women—who, thirty years ago would have thought of woman suffrage? War is no longer of the glamorous type, but a shrewdly contrived plan." Such were the statements of Muriel Eastwood of Vic in upholding the affirmative side at the first interfaculty debate of the year yesterday afternoon, "Resolved that women can prevent war."

Nora Loch in no uncertain terms asserted that although Canadian women are fortunate enough to have suffrage, statistics show that they don't use it. In Italy women have no representation whatsoever—do they complain? Many women think it an honour to send a son to war. Over ninety-five per cent of the women in Germany voted for Hitler—does this show they want to

"The cultural diversity of Europe is being threatened today by the inroads of changing nationalism," said Dr. Paul Dengler, in an address at the Art Gallery last evening. "South Tyrol will probably be Italian within the next generation. We are living in an age of transition; the old is slowly being erased." This was the keynote of the talk of Dr. Dengler, who is the director of an institution for cultural interchange with Americans in Vienna.

"Colourful Europe is being made uniform by the stagnation of modern times; the force of tradition is waning. The radio is replacing the old folk-tales, while improved transportation is bringing the peoples closer together." But while the old traditions are fading "Europeans are becoming more and

SOOTHING SONGS SUGGEST SUNSHINE

Delightful Lullabies from Africa Captivate Audience

"The room seemed full of South African sunshine when Patric Price gave her recital of Songs and Sketches of Childhood," is critic Arthur Mee's comment of the entertainer at the Women's Canadian Club on Monday afternoon.

With a lightness of treatment that captivated the audience, Miss Price first presented some of the more familiar comic sketches from "Alice in Wonderland," set to descriptive music by Frazer Simpson. The well-known Duchess' Lullaby to her baby expresses in the music even the shake she gives him at the end of each line. All tempo instructions are in English, and that of this sketch is "violent." Another is described as "slow as in practicing scales".

"The price of peace is enormous, a whole new basis of civilization, but that of war is higher," said Miss Dorothy Deter, addressing the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at luncheon yesterday. "It is a tragedy that munition is made the devil."

The fight against munitions is a long standing one. The League of Nations organized a munitions convention in 1925. The American representative,

PRAISE HART HOUSE

The two English debaters from Oxford and Cambridge who are to take part tomorrow evening in the Hart House debate on Pacifism, arrived in Toronto Sunday night and are already delighted with our University. They are unreserved in their praise of Hart House, admitting that there is nothing in England to compare with it, and envying us our extreme fortune in having such an institution.

They are particularly impressed with our debates system, declaring it far superior to any other they have met on their trip. (They have already taken part in eight debates in Newfoundland and Eastern Canada.) It is very similar, evidently, to the world-famous Unions of their own Universities. In some instances over here they have had to debate before judges, which makes their goal not that of true argument, to convince an audience, but the more academic one of impressing a judge with their skill. They would applaud the trend which they meet here away from the "card-index system"; and in general have formed a remarkably favourable conception of war methods.

Both of them regard debating not as an indoor sport in itself, but as a

Modern Girl Prefers Dutch Date Rather Than a Lonely Fate

"The first move must come from the ladies, God bless 'em," was the answer from ninety per cent of the men that The Varsity pestered for opinions on the matter of Dutch Dates. "We want Dutch Dates," say seventy-five per cent of the women who write in to the Varsity Date Bureau. But still nobody does anything about it. At the University of British Columbia the women's executive have decreed that no girl shall allow a man to pay for her entertainment. But here in Toronto, a vastly bigger University, such a move might not be practical. Perhaps there are a good many women who still favour the old system of making the man pay; there may even be a few men with the same thoughts, but we doubt it. Still there is no reason why we can't try the Dutch Date idea, say by starting a Dutch Date Club for women. Then if enough enthusiasm is shown the scope could be broadened. The idea of Dutch Dates is one that we must consider very seriously today and one which is meeting with widespread discussion all over the world. In Saturday's Star Weekly an article appeared over the signature of Alice Tildesley in which motion picture stars were interviewed on the subject and answers were given to each side of the argument. That men enjoyed paying for their women was the view of Virginia Bruce (idealistic rot if you ask us), and that women hated being paid for was the point made by Isabel Jewel (more ditto).

But to return to the Dutch Date Club. If any considerable number of the women on this campus would band together and swear not to allow of any dates among themselves but Dutch ones, could we not at least have the opportunity of watching the system in operation and judging for ourselves the benefits or otherwise derived therefrom? Does anyone want to start a Dutch Date Club?

CRUOE BUT DIGNIFIED

English sixteenth century furniture was about seventy-five years behind that of the continent, Miss Ruth Home explained in her Monday afternoon lecture on period furniture at the Museum.

The furniture of the time was in keeping with the homes. In the stern castles of olden days, built originally for fortification, was found, as might be expected, furniture majestically dignified but excessively uncomfortable; in the manor houses, the furniture was on a less grand style, but equally uncomfortable.

Chests, which were rather extensively used in those days, were chiefly

Canadian Women Given Opportunities To Further Studies

The Canadian Federation of University Women is offering a Travelling Scholarship, valued at $1,250, open to women holding a degree from a Canadian University. In general, preference will be given to those candidates who have completed at least two years at graduate study and have a definite plan of advanced study or of research in view. The award is based on evidence of character and ability of the candidate and promise of success in the subject to which she is devoting herself.

Further details concerning the conditions of the scholarship will be found on notice boards posted in the various colleges.

TO OFFER STUDENT STANO Desire Students to Think More Seriously About War Question

Staff Special

Montreal, Nov. 12. — A world-wide survey will be made by the International Student Service soon, to determine the attitude of University students toward war, and to find out what attitude they would take in case of war, it was learned by The Varsity today.

The survey will be made with the co-operation of college newspapers, which will be asked to publish a standard questionnaire which will ask the student's reaction to war in Canada, the United States, Europe and elsewhere, under specified political conditions. The final form which this questionnaire will take has not yet been decided upon. The survey in Canada is being left in the hands of the McGill Daily, which will seek assistance from outstanding college papers, including The Varsity.

Each question will demand an answer which will definitely show the student's

The next three or four weeks will see a lot of activity in the neighbourhood of the boxing, wrestling and fencing rooms in Hart House, as students from the various faculties prepare for the junior interfaculty assault, which is scheduled to take place on the 12th and 13th of December.

The attention of everyone is drawn to the fact that only those who have not previously won a bout in either junior or senior interfaculty competition are eligible to compete in the junior assault. As this ruling is especially designed to encourage beginners to enter, it is to be hoped that all who are interested in the many arts of self defense will turn out and try for a place on their faculty team, whether they have had any previous experience or not.

SIGMA NU WANTS CHARTER REVOKED

Queen's A. M. S. Considers Leniency if Local Members Resign

The A.M.S. of Queen's have received official notice from Beta Sigma chapter of Sigma Nu that they have instituted proceedings to have their international charter revoked. Accordingly, they ask that the sentence passed on them be revoked.

Vice-Principal McNeill of the University and Athletic Board of Control desired the A.M.S. to make its own decision, noting, "We have had the utmost favourable publicity from coast to coast of my twenty-five years."

The executive wished definite proof of this revocation and the resignation of the individual local members before considering leniency. It was decided that a two-thirds majority would be necessary to rescind the court decision passed on Sigma Nu.

CLOTHES MAY MAKE THE STUDENT

At this University, we are somewhat hampered by the standards of clothing of a big city being thrust upon the students. The cost of clothing at University is very burdensome to the undergraduate or graduate who finds himself economically distressed by spending four years, as far as money is concerned, ungainfully employed.

Many University centres in United States overcome the difficulty of clothing for men, by having the students wear a traditional American college attire which consists mainly of a simple, brown corduroy suit. This is the costume at all campus activities including the most formal affairs. The usefulness of such a regulated dress is not only apparent in the matter of cost, which has been estimated at about fifty dollars for a whole college career, but it tends to supply a common bond between all the students. Clothes, in such cases, are not matters of class demarcation, but rather a distinctive apparel for all students.

Although any plan to institute a similar practice on our own campus would be fraught with many difficulties, we believe it deserves some serious consideration on behalf of University of Toronto students.

FOR A THOROUGH PHYSICAL EXAMINATION

A college student was seriously hurt in an interfaculty rugby game yesterday afternoon. We are told it was purely an accident but we could not help thinking about the general physical condition of college men. Freshmen and sophomores are compelled to pay five dollars each year for a physical examination which would draw a laugh in any musical comedy. It consists mainly of taking histories, the diligent use of a stethoscope and a rather peremptory exploration with a tongue; and the student is then given a hearty farewell. After this slight examination the student goes on his merry way through rugby, football, hockey, basketball and the other athletic pastimes discoverable in college life.

We have heard plenty about the lack of proper physical examination for high school students, but the special five dollar fee that college students pay has a reassuring effect which has been responsible for the lack of consideration the matter has received.

We, of course, do not intend to criticize as much as to focus attention on the present method of physical examination. The University has been fortunate in that no serious harm has been incurred by anyone on account of the lack of proper physical condition. For this we must congratulate those in charge of physical examinations. We do feel, however, that with the many medical facilities with which the University is blessed, the students ought to receive a more thorough examination that would be more assuring and definite, and which would be more in proportion to a five-dollar fee.

MR. SMITH OBJECTS

To the Editor of The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

A lot of dribble has appeared lately in connection with Van Loon's History of Mankind, as to whether Evolution or the book of Genesis is "right". As usual, the matter is one of interpretations.

As for the book of Genesis, personally, I do not know what in exact detail the first chapter means; nor have I ever met anyone who could explain it to me. Several people have given their interpretations, and as we know, most of them have been either meaningless or untenable; but that does not necessitate the abolition of the account. When we can find out what the chapter is saying, we shall discover that it is saying precisely the truth.

As for Evolution, it too may be misunderstood. Some fifty years ago Science went unquestioned and supreme; since that time man has learned that Science deals with a limited field only, and that true Science and true Religion cannot conflict, mainly because they have never come near enough each other. Science can no more disprove Religion than the splitting up of atoms can disprove poetry.

Scientists become objectionable when they try to expand Science outside its own field. That is just what Van Loon is doing. He not only presents Evolution, he interprets it—and he goes as completely astray as those ignorant puritans who interpret Genesis I, Like

"He who can does—he who cannot reviews." This Shavian witicism with amendment may not be universal in application but it expresses the hesitancy with which we approach this critical evaluation of last evening's Bach recital by Harold Samuel.

It ought to be generally known that Bach wrote all his clavier music for clavier and none for piano. The content of Bach's music is such that it depends relatively little on the instrument used as a medium and suffers least from transcription and adaptation. There are therefore two courses open to the interpretative artist—either that of modernizing Bach, using the full resources of the modern piano or confining the instrumental effects so far as possible to the period of the work, with the aim of realizing the original spirit and flavour in every detail.

Mr. Samuel has chosen a judicious middle course. He is acclaimed a specialist in the field of Bach's clavier music and his serious and scholarly approach to Bach proves his right to the honour.

Generally speaking, this artist's playing is characterized by solidity and strength rather than finesse and delicate nuance. Bach does not allow for much indulgence in variations of tone and the tricks of modern schools of impressionistic and romantic music, but infinite variety is possible in the subtleties of rhythmic treatment. Mr. Samuel made generous use of the pedal, sometimes with some indiscretion. The Italian Concerto seemed a trifle too vigorous and heavy considering the nature of the composition. The Partita and some of the shorter pieces were done with taste and discrimination so that the rhythmic pattern was in no way obscured by haste, blurriness or exaggerated dynamics.

The concert was admirably played, nearly always satisfying and had its frequent moments of aesthetic thrills. F.B.S.

The U.C. Players' Guild

This week the U.C. Players' Guild presents "Lake Dore" by Jesse E. Middleton, under the direction of Mr. Reg Watters. The play is a Canadian one, with all the limitations of a rough northern setting and a property list of twenty-five articles. At the same time it has many of the good qualities of an emerging national drama and is marked by a sturdy simplicity and directness, verging almost on the naive.

Mr. Watters is a well known director of the Guild and his cast includes two familiar names. Miss Ruth Wood and Mr. Dick Fonger are well able to handle the melodramatic situations which emerge from time to time. Mr. Tom Dale is a newcomer and has yet to prove his mettle. The parts have been well chosen and the contrast between voices is particularly good.

Mrs. Pyper, who was expected to address the Guild this week, unfortunately will not be able to come until after Christmas. In spite of this disappointment, the audience should be well satisfied with the programme being offered.

There he sat, all curled up on his newel-post like an anchovy, and weeping bitterly. He was right at the foot of the stairs in the east wing of U.C., not far from Mr. McAndrew's office, and it was only the lack of anybody else in sight that made him noticeable. A little tear was trickling down his face. "What's wrong?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "the Champus Cat has gone around and written about all the Famous Institutions in the University, and has overlooked me just as everyone else does."

"Well, who are you?" I asked.
"Oh, you don't know me either," he sobbed. "I'm Oscar. If the Cat won't notice me, you go and write about me for him."

And so this article. On my way to The Varsity office, I asked several people if they knew Oscar, but they either didn't, or thought he was a gargoyle or dragon. But he must be a salamander, because he sat through the great Fire, according to his story.

Yes, Oscar is an Institution, and not Famous only because familiarity breeds contempt. You have probably had many a rendezvous right by Oscar's ear, and said things to him or her that you wouldn't want repeated, but he just sits and listens, and never says a word. When he comes upstairs from craps in what is more euphemistically known as the locker-room, or from what is more euphemistically known as the Point of Knowledge, they can talk away in confidence of Oscar without any fear. But when he tells, then many people will have to catch the 11.30 flier to Chicago, because Oscar has heard plenty.

Well, he asked me to tell you that

Let's Go Places

Most of the people around here are too hard-boiled to enjoy their sentiment in large portions, which is the way Mrs. Wiggs serves it from the Cabbage Patch, but it is noteworthy that in spite of this slight failing, two of the hard-berledest managed to sit through the picture and enjoy almost every minute of it, thanks to Pauline Lord, ZaSu Pitts and our old friend, W. C. Fields, who brought out all the humour of the story by their very human portrayal of some out-of-the-way characters. That sentence, by the way, was almost as long as the one that Daddy Warbucks handed to Phil O. Bluster.

The plot of the story is absolutely nothing, and goes almost unnoticed. Mortgages being paid off at the last second, with the villain sitting in the best chair, waiting to take possession, and other old favourites meet us at

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By W. A. Crocker

At yesterday's Mulock Cup game between Trinity and Jr. School we witnessed a very unfortunate accident. Young Peter Parker as a result is in the hospital with a severe concussion of the brain. Luckily there are no complications but he will be kept in the hospital for a day or two under observation. The accident came as a result of a tackle and Parker was knocked unconscious. The officials approached the unfortunate player and soon a cry of "Water" went up. No water. A few minutes of artificial respiration convinced the officials that the accident was serious. A frenzied cry of "Doctor" went up. No doctor. As a result young Parker was left on the field in what might have been a serious condition. A mad dash to Hart House proved a failure as Dr. Porter was out. All this is meant to point out a few vital facts in connection with Mulock Cup games. We can't understand why a first aid kit and water are not to be found on the sidelines in these games. We also can't understand why medical attention is not to be had at a moment's notice. The lads who participate in interfaculty sports have every right in the world to be protected as well as the players who draw big gates up at the Stadium. Yesterday's accident might have proved fatal and University officials would have had a lot of explaining to do. There should be no necessity for a frantic search for doctors such as occurred yesterday and we hope that this element of safety will not be overlooked in the future.

Today Warren Stevens will start his crew on their final round of practices for the season. This Saturday will mark the final appearance for the senior Blue squad. Nothing definite is known about the intermediate or junior crews. Indications point to the fact that the Bishop's College intermediate crew will journey here to play the Seconds. The junior Blue squad however is not to be honoured by a visit of the Bishop's College juniors and as a result will probably hang up their togger for the season. The Varsity-Queen's game here on Saturday is bound to be a classic. Stung by an unexpected reverse at the hands of the lowly Mustangs, Teddy Reeve's lads will show their best for Toronto patrons of the fall pastime. It seems that every Tricolour squad puts on its best performance of the year at Varsity Stadium and we sometimes wish that Saturday's game were to be played in Kingston. However, we feel confident that Stevens' lads are going to show their real strength on Saturday and win by a margin of at least five points—early fumbles on the part of the Blue squad notwithstanding.

With the end of November drawing near the Mulock Cup will soon find a resting place. Four teams remain in a contention position for the interfaculty football title. O.A.C. and Dents have made playoff berths while Jr. Meds and Trinity will fight it out for the right to get the third berth in the playoffs. These two squads will replay an unfinished game up at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2.30. O.A.C. and Dents will lock horns in the semi-final, the winner to meet the survivor of the Trinity-Jr. Meds struggle in the finals.

In discussing the chances of the various teams of taking the Mulock Cup one ends up in a muddle. O.A.C. is reputed to have the smoothest working machine, with a very strong line. Dents seem to have a fair team with a great deal of fighting spirit. Trinity has a good coach and a good backfield. The Jr. Meds squad seems to be the pick of the lot. The Medicals have two of last year's intermediate stars and have built a better than ordinary organization around them. They have the pick of the plungers in the interfaculty series in Chuck Newton and Al Medlock. Their greatest asset is probably a heady pair of quarters, "Mucker" McGee and Marv Sigel. Trinity has a star in Bill Ruddick while Dents have a bundle of energy in Dore. What these stalwarts will do in the Mulock Cup playoffs will determine the championship.

With signs of increased activities in the athletic wing one is reminded that the B. W. and F. and basketball seasons are under way. Lew Hayman's voice is once again filling the big gym as he imparts knowledge of the cage pastime to his hopefuls. This year will probably see the end of McGill's four-year reign in the intercollegiate basketball series as Hayman seems to have very good material on hand.

At a meeting of the Big Six last night the report that St. Michael's and Niagara Falls would not operate squads this year was verified. Consequently there is a wealth of material to be had over at the Bay St. college. Marks and Connelly would be welcomed by any coach as would Meagher, centre on last year's Irish quintet. In addition there must be many more cage players of senior calibre around the Irish halls. Hayman has the nucleus of a fine forward line and if Marks and Connelly turn out to team up with Gold on the Blue defence, one might just as well give the senior intercollegiate basketball laurels to the Blues.

Incidentally, while on the subject of basketball, it appears that the barriers which have existed between St. Michael's and the athletic wing at Hart House are disappearing. As a result St. Mike's may operate a squad in the interfaculty basketball series. All other contending teams please note.

With signs of animation in the rooms above him Bill Winterburn has swung into action in real earnest and appears to have assembled a strong senior water polo squad. The swimmers will operate in a four-team group composed of three Toronto squads—West End Y, Canadian Swimming Club and Varsity—and a St. Catharines crew. The Blues start operations in St. Catharines on Saturday night.

SENIOR U.C. TEAM VICTORS OVER O.C.E.

Senior U.C. overwhelmed O.C.E. in the upper gym yesterday afternoon in a scheduled volleyball fixture, by the scores of 15-3, 15-0. From the onlooker's point of view it was just so much time wasted. O.C.E. quite evidently had not practised wisely or too well, and could not cope with the sparkling form displayed by the winners. The U.C. aggregation showed plenty of class, particularly in their clever combination plays.

Chang, who was spiking for the victors, turned in a noble effort, completely squelching the Teachers with his vicious drives. The games were keenly contested, despite their one-sided nature and with a little practise O.C.E. could make things interesting for some of the other teams.

Senior U.C.: Chang, Himel, Goulding, Damsky, Culmer, Lipman, Haig, Levy.

O.C.E.: DeMuy, Colmer, Grab, Flannery, Scherbarth, Henderson.

ACCIDENT MARS MULOCK CUP GAME

Trinity Warmed up to Game Promises Good Fight Today

SCHOOL'S PLAY BRILLIANT

The regular Mulock Cup game between Jr. School and Trinity was called at half time on account of darkness yesterday afternoon, and will be continued today, with the Engineers leading the Black and Red by 6 to 5. An extremely unfortunate accident marred the match when Peter Parker, of the Trinity team, received a slight concussion after tackling Bill Ballagh, star backfielder of Jr. School.

Jr. School on the play deserved the one point lead, and in the first quarter seemed unable to make a mistake. They intercepted Trinity passes, plunged and kicked effectively. Their first points came when Shaw picked up a blocked ball and raced forty yards before being tackled on Trinity's one yard line. Clark carried the ball over and a convert gave them a six point lead.

In the second quarter Trinity came to life, and commenced to march slowly down the field. A long pass paved the way for Ruddick to cross the Engineers' goal line on an extension and to pull the Red and Black almost on even terms. The first half ended with Trinity pressing hard but unable to get the equalizer.

Jr. School, playing over their heads, had the edge of the play. They nipped Trinity extensions before they gained any ground, stopped plunging and had a stonewall defence against forwards. However, Trinity began to get their feet on the ground near the end of the first half and promised to make it really hot for the Engineers in the rest of the game.

VICTORIA JUNIORS GAIN VICTORY

Group Leadership Captured from St. Mike's Team by Victoria

DESPERATE FIGHT

Last night at O.C.E. gym Victoria Juniors captured the group leadership by a decisive 22-10 win over St. Mike's. Both teams, with a victory over U.C. Freshies to their credit, fought desperately for the top-rung of the section, but the superior checking of the Vic defence and the dead-end shooting of the Scarlet and Gold forwards was too much for the St. Mike's sextette and they had to give way to a better team, at least on the night's play.

Mary Vining of St. Mike's opened the scoring in the first half by catching Vic unawares in the game stood 2-1 with the Saints ahead. But their lead was very short-lived when Dot Henderson and Marian Best each popped baskets for Vic and Muriel Beaton, going out a scoring spree all her own, hooped three in a row, to put the Victoria lassies nine points in front. Betty Herring of St. Mike's finished the scoring for the half, and when the whistle blew Vic was on the large side of an 11-4 score.

Mary McCarthy added two points to the St. Mike's total with a basket at the start of the second half and Muriel Beaton immediately came back with another basket for Vic. At this point in the game, play waxed fast and furious but both teams got nowhere until Betty Herring pulled a Hairbreadth

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Well, it looks as though the Victoria Juniors will win a position in the semi-finals. Last night they gave St. Mike's quite a beating, trouncing them by a 22-10 score. We just have to wait until Wednesday night to get a line on the third team which will make the playoffs; at that time Vic Seniors and U.C. Seniors clash and it will be a real game.

The Vic team is really superior to the St. Mike's outfit but their play is not so much better as last night's score would indicate. The Vic defence was sure and steady and St. Mike's had a hard time breaking loose to score. Their forwards did not let them down and shot with a deadly eye for the basket. Dot Henderson, Marion Best, and Muriel Beaton all played real basketball and with Alice Bossett's help chalked up the 22 points which Vic carried away from the contest.

The St. Mike's defense found the Junior forwards just too much for them. The forwards were equally handicapped by the sterling Scarlet and Gold defense line and could only mount up 10 points with the united efforts of Betty Herring, Mary Vining and Mary McCarthy. St. Mike's realized they were being outclassed and put on an extra spurt in the final half but it was all to no avail. Their shooting grew reckless and they attempted a number of long shots which failed to amount to anything.

The baseball season got off to a good start last night when Vic took the first game by defeating St. Mike's 18 to 13. Vic kept the lead consistently during the whole game and really deserved the victory. It looks as though the Scarlet and Gold nine will come out on top again this year in the interfaculty baseball series. The St. Mike's outfit put up a good fight but were outclassed quite definitely.

No one was particularly outstanding on the losing team. For Vic Ruby Townsend shone, as did Jean Blundell, the pitcher, and Greta Maxwell, the catcher. Greta has been in college three years but has never turned out for baseball before. She certainly is a real addition to the Vic squad and is going to be an A1 catcher.

At 5 p.m. today there is to be a Medley Team practice at the Little Vic gym. If this is poorly attended the team may just retire from the series. All this would be very confusing as the schedule has been arranged to include the three teams, and it surely should not be necessary for the Medley outfit to withdraw.

SQUASH GAME AT MCGILL MET BY GREAT ACCLAIM

Seven Varsity Squash players invaded McGill last Saturday in an attempt to have the game recognized as an intercollegiate sport, and succeeded in trouncing the Red and White team by winning six of the seven games played. The match, played on the courts of the Montreal Bannington and Squash Club, was received with such acclaim that efforts will be made to bring the McGill team here early in the New Year, and inaugurate an annual home and home series. Results:

C. W. McCutcheon V, defeated L. O'Brien M; M. Gunn V defeated L. Schlamm M; J. Crowson V defeated G. McIntyre M; J. Boegel V defeated K. Reynolds M; J. Kerrigan M defeated J. Labelle V; N. Pivnick V defeated A. Hutchinson M; M. Pasternack V defeated J. Angus M.

VIC WINS FIRST GAME OF BASEBALL SERIES

Vic came out on top of an 18-13 score last night when they met St. Mike's in the first game of the women's baseball series.

Vic showed its superiority right from the time the first ball spun across the plate. The play was not outstanding on either side and the errors were almost as numerous as the runs and hits. Vic's catcher played real ball and Jean Blundell pitched a very nice game.

Victoria: Greta Maxwell, Jean Blundell, Jean Randle, Ruby Townsend, Muriel Eastwood, Marion Pixley, Lillian Bull, Eleanor Hart.

St. Mike's: Mary McGuire, Justina McMartin, Catherine Carroll, Mary Mosbough, Doris March, Pauline Simon, Pauline Schnurr, Viola Lynch, Eileen Phelan.

but the armament makers," was the opinion of Nels MacFarland, Vic I, "but if his intention is to criticize the Alumni Association, who were trying to show their respect for those who died for what they thought was the right, I cannot sympathize with him." Asked what he thought of a display of arms at a Memorial Service, this student was of the opinion that it is in keeping for the soldier of today to mourn his blood-brother of yesterday—the parade is an honour accorded to the military man.

Commenting on the subject of military training in the University, G. Brewer, U.C. II, felt that a majority of University men are in favour of abolishing the type of training given by the C.O.T.C. "There are more conscientious objectors today than ever before—this article is in keeping with this spirit." The whole life and viewpoint of the victim-combatant is changed—for the worse. "It is monstrous for a human being to consider going to war, for war destroys all human ideals."

Linley Chapman, of Victoria, and a member of the C.O.T.C., was of the opinion that students who enlist in the University military organization do not do so because they want war. "The men in the C.O.T.C. do not want war. But they think war is possible—if not inevitable, I can't see how, in the present situation, we can avoid another war. And if we must go to war, we must not be the underdogs. What the writer says is true enough, and I agree with him. But the tendency of all is to agree at the moment, and then to let it pass."

WOMEN UNABLE TO PREVENT WAR

prevent it "As long as there is racial distinction, social injustices, and capitalism, our civilization is founded on a volcano."

"Women voted for Hitler," refuted Miss Lewis of Victoria College, "not on any thought of war but because he promised economic stability. A child never makes social distinctions or has racial prejudices until influenced. The home, the school, the rearing of the child, is a woman's duty. Her ideas will reflect on them. The importance of the school teacher cannot be stressed too much. The notions of a being are instilled in its childhood days. It is hard to teach a boy idealism with a gun in his hand! Naturally boys like the glamour of a uniform but if women did not encourage this the enrolment would be less, as how different from the shining uniform is dirty warfare."

"What can mothers do (some who call themselves that are only social butterflies or business women) when the children are at the mercy of the teacher, who is just repeating what she has been told by the Board of Education?" was Audrey Howard's retort. "Our men are unemployed—they have no place to go, nothing to do. War at least offers variation. Although soldiers have gone through torture, what man's pride does not glow at the thought of war—to fight is their very nature since they were five years old. Men's logic is better than women's—we have not faced war—and have done nothing about it. What has the League of Nations done in big deeds (admitted it has helped slavery, and drugs)? As long as states insist on state sovereignty how can they hope to create a super-state?"

The judges decided in favour of the negative, upheld by Nora Loch and Audrey Howard of U.C.

MUNITIONS CITED AS CAUSE OF WAR

Senator Burton, was disappointed by the general inefficiency and, on his return to the United States, presented a bill to prevent the exporting of firearms to foreign countries at war. It failed. The bill was revived in 1931 by Miss Dettler because of the Sino-Japanese war. A hearing was refused as the State was afraid "the public might be interested." The war between Paraguay and Bolivia is kept alive only by American munitions. Delegates from the two countries conferred with an American deputy. They drew up a bill giving the President the power to issue an embargo on the export of firearms whenever he thought it expedient. This of Gothic design. Their early simplicity later gave way to considerable ornamentation, in the way of bright paints, gilt, and decorative iron works, as Miss Home illustrated with slides. In the time of Henry VIII, inlay work was applied to chests.

Chairs, in such abundance now, were very scarce in sixteenth century England, but considering the extreme discomfort of the few that did exist, the scarcity can hardly be regarded as a serious loss. The chairs were box-like in shape, with stiff, high, straight backs and carved work on the panels. The Italian scissor chair was introduced, but was very slightly used as it was too open and airy.

Another piece of furniture used was the hutch, a low table placed on the main table and from which the food was served. This was also Gothic in style, with detail carved in fairly high relief on its panels. Miss Home showed a hutch with carvings of Henry VII and Elizabeth of York on it.

Beds, also of Gothic design, consisted of the framework, and a straw pallette, on which was a feather bed. Curtains were at first hung about the bed from the ceiling, and later from posts attached to the bed.

The furniture was more crude than that of the rest of Europe, but ornate and very dignified, although most uninviting as far as comfort was concerned.

JUNIORS TRAINED FOR SELF DEFENCE

In case any further inducement is needed, it has definitely been decided to send the Varsity boxing and wrestling teams on two out of town trips this winter. The first trip will be to the intercollegiate assault at Kingston, while at a later date the boxing squad will go to Cornell and the wrestlers will visit Rochester. The dates for these outings have not yet been decided, but they will follow shortly after the senior interfaculty assault, which is to be held held on the 31st of January and the 1st of February. Incidentally it might be mentioned that the senior assault is open to everybody, and the University teams will be chosen from the winners in this tournament.

Local fans will get their chance to see the Varsity squad in action on the 26th of January, when a team from Syracuse University will visit Hart House.

At this early date, it is impossible to predict who will make places on the Varsity team, as the faculties have not yet held their individual assaults. However, it is certain that a team will be assembled which will have an excellent chance of winning the intercollegiate title for Varsity for the third year in a row.

expectancy for this grand occasion. A big surprise in the form of a musical comedy with original numbers will be a feature for the evening.

The adoption of the idea of one large presentation is an innovation that is expected to achieve good results. With this year a starting point the University College Follies is certain to become one of the major activities of University College students, according to the producers.

Producer Saul Rac and associates stated that there is still room for people of all years in University College who have talent and some original ideas. Students who will be able to contribute to the entertainment are asked to be present at the rehearsals.

every turn, but they do not in the least spoil the effect of Mrs. Wiggs happily telling the same villain that wherever she goes she will be happier than he, because wherever he goes, he will have to have himself along all the time. Another of Mrs. Wiggs' remarks was a piece of advice to ZaSu Pitts, who was seeking a husband to "take one who was kind of tamed down, even if he wasn't so sprightly." The man under scrutiny happened to be W. C. Fields, who, however, showed no signs of being tamed down.

No, you won't go and weep over it like the lady who sat behind us, but we guarantee that you will like the people in it, in somewhat the same way that you liked the people that the Abbey Players showed us, poor, with no hope of better conditions, but blessed with a faculty for enjoying life, even if each of the little girls has to wear one glove, and carry a stocking in the other hand to look like its mate.

a few other fool scientists, he believes that man is merely an animal. He gives as the only reason for studying man rather than some other part of the universe, that "Man was the first to use his brain for the purpose of conquering the forces of Nature" which shows that although he has his facts right, he is quite incapable of distinguishing between causes, evidences, and effects. He further asserts that the earth is a "little planet, lost in the vastness of the universe." Here he is altogether mistaken, for the earth is not lost. He is apparently not aware that the soul of the dirtiest wretch in our prisons is infinitely greater than the solar system, and that the tiny earth which is the scene of man's history is far more important than the hugest star. Again, Mr. Van Loon states that if mankind were destroyed it would not really matter, and the world would go on just the same. Now he obviously has no grounds for such a blasphemous statement; and the work of an author holding these views should certainly not be, singled out as the text-book for our secondary schools.

In closing, might I point out with disgust, that The Varsity, pretending to give the opinion of the Faculty on this controversy between some Christians and some scientists, quoted the views of members of the Science department only.

Baton Rouge, La.—Senator Huey P. Long yesterday carried, among 43 other bills, an enactment that provides for a two-year moratorium on all debts, with a provision that seizures and foreclosures be halted immediately.

SIMPLE COSTUMES TO BE FAVOURED

Originality and Simplicity as Well as Beauty Stressed

PRIZES FOR COSTUMES

An innovation is being made in the judging of costumes at the Hart House Masquerade this year. The Varsity has been informed by the House Committee, which is in charge of this brilliant social event.

Stress has been laid by the committee this year upon the desirability of persons attending making their own costumes or devising some simple attire for the occasion. At the same time it is the desire of the committee that those who come in elaborate and beautiful costumes shall not go unrewarded for their efforts. Consequently the costumes will be judged on the basis of beauty and simplicity. These will be the two classes in which the selection will be made so that everyone will have an opportunity to participate in the prizes offered for the most beautiful and the most simple costumes.

Dr. H. J. Cody, President of the University, will be the guest of honour. The patronesses are Mrs. H. J. Cody, Mrs. Vincent Massey, Mrs. N. A. Maekene, Mrs. V. E. Henderson, Mrs. F. H. Cosgrave, and Mrs. C. H. Mitchell.

The members of the House Committee who have charge of all arrangements for the Masquerade are the Rev. E. C. LeBel (Chairman), Mr. J. B. Bickersteth (Warden), J. W. Copland (secretary), Prof. W. J. T. Wright, J. R. Gilley, W. R. Cowan, J. M. Langton, G. A. Hendry, L. Malania, F. L. Shipp, W. R. Alexander, R. J. Brennan, N. C. S. Goldring, P. J. B. Hussey, P. M. Morley, B. Penlington, B. T. Rogers, W. W. Seccombe and F. W. Woods.

For the benefit of members who have not yet secured their tickets, they will go on sale today at the Hall Porter's desk in Hart House.

SUNDAY EVENING CONCERT

PEACE AND WAR DEBATE SUBJECT

Meaning of 'Pacifism' to be Restricted at Debate Tonight

The debate on Pacifism in the Debates Room of Hart House tonight, has been limited to a discussion of the merits of peace and war, it was learned by The Varsity. "We have decided that the topic of the debate be confined so as to make the term 'pacifism' mean refusal of the individual to take any part in an international war," said Mr. A. C. Smith, Speaker of the House. "This does not necessarily include refusal to participate in a class war or in police work under the League of Nations," he further remarked. "We do not want the League to figure as an issue in this debate."

FAVOUR CREATION OF PSYCHIATRIST

Appointment of an Unofficial Psychiatrist for Students Desirable

DISCUSSED LAST YEAR

"The appointment of an unofficial psychiatrist would be of great benefit to the University," said Dr. E. P. Lewis, assistant professor of Psychiatry, when interviewed by a member of the staff of The Varsity yesterday. As yet there has been no such appointment. Such a position would fill the need of many university students who have problems which trouble them. When asked if many students came to him with questions on this line, he replied that about ten had come to him last year and about the same number had gone to Dr. Farrar, head of the department. Dr. Lewis declined to discuss the nature of the problems presented to him other than the fact that they were the student's personal difficulties.

Mr. Ketchum, Professor of Psychology, stated that the department had

CANADIAN ARTISTS HAVE PERSONALITY

Mr. Lismer Advises Sympathy in Criticizing New School

EXHIBITION DEMOCRATIC

"Whatever our art is, we are not in a decadent but a juvenile stage," declared Mr. Arthur Lismer in an informal gallery talk on the exhibition of Canadian paintings now on view at the Art Gallery. Canadian painters should not be expected to model their work on the masterpieces of other countries as any art to be worth while must spring from the particular characteristics of the people and landscape of its own country. Thus, as Canada is a country of strongly-marked patterns, with no soft twilights, the colours used are brilliant, and in some cases crude, with design occupying a more important place than drawing.

Canadian painters, stated Mr. Lismer, have begun in the last few years to paint more typically Canadian scenery. Such beauty spots as the Rocky Mountains, Gaspé, and Nova Scotia are being painted instead of a slavish imitation of European landscapes. Snow scenes, in particular, offer great scope for the use of strong pattern and light.

The fall staff party takes place tonight in the Oak Room of the Union Station. Final lists have been posted in both editorial rooms. Please get in touch with your partner immediately.

Uniformity is Considered Dull Some Prefer No Clothes at All

The American idea of male students all wearing the same style of clothes seems to be received with some doubtfulness here. Some agree with The Varsity editorial of Tuesday and think that the Americans have got hold of a really good thing. Jack Orgill, 3T6, expressed this group's opinion in the words, "I think that it's a smart idea. It would make things a lot cheaper." There is another faction who seem to disagree. They hold that it is enough like a prison without making us dress like a bunch of convicts. Bill Noble, 3T4, said, "You would get tired of wearing them. I think that the gown is much preferable." (He is a Trinity man.)

INFANTRY REMAINS BACKBONE OF ARMY IN EVENT OF WAR

Infantry Still Indispensable in Spite of Innovations in Warfare

MAIN ARM OF SERVICE

Lieut.-Col. J. R. Cockburn Gives Views on Modern Military Methods

"It is not known what form a war would take, were one to break out in the near future, but the highest military authorities are convinced that 'the infantry would still be absolutely indispensable.'" Professor Cockburn told The Varsity in a recent interview when asked what form he believed war would take in case of an outbreak anywhere. Lieut.-Col. J. R. Cockburn, M.C., V.D., commanding University of Toronto contingent, C.O.T.C., served during the Great War, both on the western front and in Palestine.

"Despite the fact that countless inventions, hitherto unknown, were utilized in the last war, the infantry was the main arm of the service," Professor Cockburn stated, "and I see no reason why the same thing would not be true in the unfortunate event of another war, in spite of talk concerning chemical warfare and the like."

This practically answered the next question which was directed to ascertain the purpose underlying the type of training given, for example, by the C.O.T.C. In addition, Professor Cockburn pointed out that they do not pretend to train men for service in any particular field, but rather to give instruction in fundamental principles. With such a grounding, university men could upon demand, quickly adapt themselves to the particular requirements of the situation.

NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

A new monthly magazine has made its bow to the Canadian student public. "The Student," the official publication of the Student League of Canada, under the editorship of Sally Lunn, its aim, as stated in its first editorial, is "To describe truthfully and to analyze clearly the economic position of the student," and regarding the various problems of the student of today "to give some lead on the action which should be taken."

"The Student" will champion the cause of the Student League, whose programme, printed in the first issue, is in favour of lower tuition fees for students, a united front against imperialistic war and fascism (including abolition of the C.O.T.C.), opposed to discrimination against women in schools or faculties, in favour of freedom for

Attitude of Student to War Is Subject of Questionnaire

HON. MR. VINCENT MASSEY

Who will be guest speaker at the 45th Annual Dinner of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering, in Hart House on Tuesday, November 20.

MASSEY TO SPEAK AT SCHOOL DINNER

Was Instrumental in Foundation of Hart House for Students

BRILLIANT CAREER

This year finds the Engineers very fortunate in having the Hon. Vincent Massey as their guest speaker at their 45th Annual School Dinner.

The Hon. Mr. Massey has had a most brilliant career as a statesman in the service of Canada. It is a well known fact that he acted as Canada's first Minister to the United States and met everywhere in that country with a generous welcome as befits a man of his calibre. The courtesy and sincerity of the official welcome which Mr. Massey received at the hands of the President of the United States has gracefully symbolized the reception which everywhere is given to this distinguished gentleman.

Were it not for the interest and generous feeling towards the University that Mr. Massey has always evidenced we should be without one of the most important institutions of undergraduate life—Hart House, for it was due to his influence that the Massey Foundation saw fit to donate to us this tower famous edifice.

Mr. Massey's remarks concerning his ability as a public speaker run somewhat as follows: "I am impressed by the lesson of the riddle, 'Why is a diplomat like an oyster?' The answer

First Term Fees Must Be Paid

The attention of all students is drawn to the following general University regulation:

"Students must have paid the fees due in the first term before proceeding with the work of the second term."

It is the intention of the University authorities to enforce this regulation in all faculties. Students should, therefore, make the necessary arrangements for the payment of all fees for the first term before the opening of the second term on January 3rd, 1935, in order that they may be eligible to continue their registration for the second term.

Student is Asked What Sort of War is Justified, If Any

WAYS OF OPPOSING

Through a letter just received from the editor of the McGill Daily, The Varsity has been formally invited to join the Daily in running a student questionnaire in its columns to ascertain the opinion of Toronto students in the event another war should take place. Similar invitations have already been sent by the International Student Service at Geneva to such centres of student life as Oxford, Prague, Yale and the University of London. In this way it is felt that a very balanced and representative result will be obtained. The results of this questionnaire in Canada will be tabulated, and a thousand word report will be sent to Geneva.

The proposed questionnaire is very thorough in its demands and covers every possible phase of student opinion on the subject of war. The student is asked whether he believes there will always be wars, and if so, will he support the Canadian Government in any war, or only in those which he considers justifiable?

He will be asked what sort of war he considers justifiable for Canada to enter, one where Canada is invaded by a foreign country, where Canadian life and property are endangered abroad, where Great Britain is invaded, where the League of Nations demands assistance, even when the U.S.A. is invaded.

If the Canadian Government declares war, he will be asked to say whether he will enlist voluntarily, serve when conscripted, serve when the al-

GROWTH OF MUSEUM TRACED BY SPEAKER

Industrial Art Improved by Museums, Says Dr. C. T. Currelly

HAVE EFFECT ON ART

"When man first had time to sit back without worry of his home being plundered he gave thought to the fine outstanding work of the world." Thus spoke Dr. C. T. Currelly last night at the Museum on the Rise of the Modern Museum of Industrial Art.

The Romans were the first people to be able to do this and they surrounded themselves with Egyptian and Grecian works. Unfortunately of this energetic excavation on their part only one collection has come down to modern times.

For a long time the Princes of the Church and State were the only people who could afford to indulge in the classical arts. The interest however, extended north to France and England, and it was the latter country which broke down the barrier in the middle of the 17th century by opening the British Museum for everybody.

Up to Napoleon's time the objects were essentially classic but he grasped the modern idea that every period excels in that which it is interested. Therefore if the products of different ages could be distributed throughout France at those places where such work was being done, interest might be raised and a higher type of work developed. Consequently museums arose all over France and produced the desired result.

In London in 1851 during Queen Victoria's reign, the gathered nations saw the beautiful things the French made which were incomparable. England divined the reason and erected the famous museum at South Kensington

TOWARDS A DEBATING UNION

Hart House debates are one of the most outstanding and fascinating events in our University life. It is a tribute to those who have guided and managed these debates that their appeal has never flagged. Among the factors which give the debates so much popularity are the annual meetings at which students from the Universities of Great Britain are guest speakers. These students are brought to Canada by the National Federation of Canadian University Students. The visiting debaters are, not only an attraction because of their historic ability but also because they present to Canada the attitudes and moods of the British students.

Hart House Debates Room is hardly adequate for a debate with such distinguished visitors, because of the popularity of the debates and because it is just as much University women as University men who pay the expenses of the touring team.

This consideration, however, is not only one which crops up when the N.F.C.U.S. brings visitors but whenever the whole system of debates in the University is under discussion. Debating, we all realize, is one of the most broadening and interesting activities and there is no reason why some system is not devised which would fill the large gap in the campus life. This gap is chiefly that there is no opportunity for the whole University to take part in debates. Hart House debates are not generally open to women and the co-eds have no way of organizing throughout all the colleges and faculties because they have no building or organization to bind them together.

We suggest that some planning be done to set up, on the parliamentary scheme, a regular series of debates in Convocation Hall at which any student is welcome to listen and grow wiser or speak and enlighten hoi polloi.

RUSSIAN WRITING ENJOYS FREEDOM

Freedom of Artistic Creation Necessary to Become Real Artist

PHASES ARE TRACED

"It is only through freedom of artistic creation that men become real artists and world builders," declared Mr. I. Derch in an address on "Literature in the Soviet Union," before the Student Branch of the Soviet Union, Monday. "Writers in Russia today are free from the visible and invisible chains which fetter writers in capitalist countries," he said.

Mr. Derch traced the history of Russian literature from the time of the revolution to the present day. After 1917 the spirit of utility and pessimism present in pre-revolutionary works, was completely routed and gave place to a literature charged with bombast and crudities, illustrated particularly in Mayakovsky. Slowly a change was felt; phases of cultural life began to be dealt with, especially in the works of the old intelligentsia, who though sympathetic, were not intimately connected with the communist party.

With the advent of the Five Year Plan, new developments required the writers to describe the new material, and this necessity has had a dynamic effect on the literature of Russia. A new aspect of realism has developed called socialist realism, which not only reproduces the social scene in its entirety but also outlines it in artistic form.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB HEARS MEMBERS' VERSE

Cynicism and Sentiment too Prominent but Talent Shown

That "the poetry of earth is never dead" was fully evinced by the members of the Women's Press Club, who yesterday read their original literary contributions at the Women's Union.

The efforts were made with a view to winning one of the pins which are awarded to those whose work comes up to the standard set by the executive, and though many of the poems showed that their authors had talent, it is as yet untrained and displays that excessive cynicism and sentiment which betrays the very youthful writer. The fact that the authors' names were unknown allowed for free criticism which frequently conflicted and gave rise to several heated arguments. The author of an interesting travel talk on Nassau was accused of securing her information from books, whereas, be it known, she has spent most of her life there.

The president announced that the "Canadian Stylis" was on the lookout for short humorous articles from students and also that The Varsity was expecting several contributions for its Literary Christmas number. The Women's Press Club is hoping to hear Bride Broder, who conducts the column "The Woman's Point of View" in The Mail and Empire, at its next meeting.

A new bridge in Port Credit is believed to be the longest cement structure of its kind in the Dominion.

Art, Music and Drama

Toronto Symphony

Opening the Symphony Concert last evening in Massey Hall with the Overture Egmont by Beethoven, the orchestra under the guiding hand of Dr. MacMillan proceeded with Dvorak's New World Symphony, with fine success. The latter number containing the decidedly American folk song atmosphere mixed with Bohemian colourings, seems invariably to make a strong appeal to all music lovers, probably as it can be understood by not only students of symphonic literature, but by every music enthusiast who likes to listen to music at all. The rendition of this number by the orchestra was all that could be desired.

After the ten minute intermission the capacity Massey Hall audience was treated to one of Sibelius' better known tone poems, Tapiola (ancient Forest God). The work is all made out of one basic phrase, which assumes the different aspects of the forest at dawn, at noon, at evening, during heavy winds and storms. Many moods are depicted thus. Though the piece is prefaced with poetry, nothing, to my mind, seemed more remote from verse than this stark, rugged, and at times awe inspiring piece of musical individualism. The strong virile rhythm, together with intermittent series of harsh discords gave the entire aspect, one of breadth and vastness mingled with a feeling of downright hollowness of life itself in the presence of this great forest so strongly portrayed. Many people could give many varied impressions of this work with few opinions forming any focal point. Enough to say that though it was not the most beautiful number on the programme, it was by far the most rugged and strong.

For sheer melodic beauty and actual sweetness, Haydn's Serenade for Strings was the outstanding number in the menu. It seemed that in this little symphonic gem, that Haydn actually "out-Schuberted" Schubert, in unalloyed beauty of melody. The first violins swept simply over the melody, while the cellos and basses and second violins made a perfect pizzicato background.

The concluding number of the evening was by a modern English writer, Walton, designated Portsmouth Point. It was least pleasing to my mind of the group. The orchestra found considerable difficulty in handling it for one thing, and the irregular rhythmic proved to be an actual hazard to the listener as well as the musicians.

Have you a little Granny in your home? Do her little eyes light up as she toddles to meet you at the door? Does she explore your pockets for the "surprise" you promised to bring her? Make some other little Granny happy this Christmas. Thousands of poor unfortunate little Grannies are living in uninhabitable little crannies right here in our own city. How can one of these poor Grannies buy toys out of her $3.50 weekly cigarette money? Won't you help now? . . .

D-L: Professor Creighton

M-Z: Professor McDougall.

The Ds and Es apparently have to supply essays for both Mr. Brown and Mr. Creighton.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Editor of The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

I was glad to see your editorial regarding Remembrance Day. It reminded us of what we are prone to forget: how dismally we have failed to keep faith with our Dead.

1. We sent them forth to a horrible war to end war. Today the nations are spending more than ever for war, and even in our own University we are teaching war, as we did not do before. Even our Remembrance Services are dominated by the jarring notes of jangling arms and beating drums. True it is, we have established a League of Nations, but we give it only lukewarm support, and then only when our own selfish interests are not jeopardized.

2. We sent them forth to a horrible war to establish democracy in the world. Today we have more autocracy than ever before, less freedom of speech, less freedom of action.

3. We sent them forth to a horrible war to establish the rights of men in the world. Today we have the tragic spectacle of colossal wealth on one side and abject poverty on the other, millions of men and women denied even the opportunity to make a livelihood, among them over 10,000 returned men in our own Dominion, a situation too tragic for words. And to add to the tragedy of the picture is the fact that the colossal wealth in the hands of the few was largely built up by man's exploitation of his fellow-man.

And yet, despite all this, we dare unashamedly approach the sanctum of our Dead and pretend to do them honour! How can we?

T. J. Meek.

EVOLUTION IS ALL RIGHT, BUT . . .

To the Editor of The Varsity.

After reading the article appearing in last Friday's Varsity I have almost come to the conclusion that, nowadays, all one has to do to be classed as intelligent is to accept evolution without any questions or misgivings. One is not surprised to find this attitude in the unenlightened general public, but it is most depressing to find students after several years at college still swallowing holus bolus all that is told them without any original thinking on their part.

Evolution is a wonderful theory and as a working hypothesis its usefulness cannot be denied. It's the best theory we have discovered so far but it has its limitations and when we find a better one evolution will be discarded.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

The U.C. seniors are still undefeated. They took the Vic seniors last night in a hard fought and closely contested game. It was the best exhibition of basketball we have had so far this year since both teams are really good and are very evenly matched. At the half U.C. had a 2 point lead and when the final whistle blew they had chalked up the 4 point surplus.

Kay Brown was quite outstanding as we had expected. She has a very tricky shot with one hand under the guard's arm which succeeds quite regularly. Her pivoting is also exceptional. She played her usual quick game which was just a little too much for the strong Scarlet and Gold defence. Pat Pethick was right in there from the start and was responsible for 6 of the U.C. points. Lorna Reid was the chief defence player and managed to get in on a lot of plays. The entire U.C. defence line held well and Vic deserves credit for scoring as many as 14 points against them.

For Vic Marion Bernhard stood out as a very able guard although her lack of height is rather against her. It would seem that Vic's game would improve if they could speed up their passes and eliminate the stalling at centre floor. In spite of these minor flaws Vic played lovely basketball and we can by no means say U.C. has the group title in the bag. Their defence line is a real threat.

U.C. juniors defeated the Nurses' outfit last night to clinch the second position in their group. This victory was anticipated as the Nurses' outfit is definitely not up to the juniors' level. However, their game last night was better than the score shows and they are improving with each contest. Their enthusiasm quite makes up for any deficiency in technique.

U.C. had the edge in both passing and shooting. Their whole game was more finished than that displayed by the Public Health outfit. N. May was the high scorer and played a good all round game, as did H. Doey and R. Thomas. The juniors' defence line was very strong and was largely responsible for the small amount of scoring done by the opposing squad.

In the Nurses outfit Dorothy Clark, Anna Soper and D. Pequenat were the star players. It was good work on the part of the U.C. defence rather than poor playing by the Nurses' forwards that explains the small score they made.

In both games last night the throw-in at centre floor was used in preference to the toss-up.

We are now half way through the basketball schedule and the results to date are as follows.

- (1) St. Hilda's—played 2, won 2.
- (2) U.C. Juniors—Played 2, won 1.
- (3) Nurses—Played 2, lost 2.

- (1) U.C. Seniors—played 2, won 2.
- (2) Vic Seniors—played 2, won 1.
- (3) Meds—Played 2, lost 2.

- (1) Vic Juniors—Played 2, won 2.
- (2) St. Mike's—Played 2, won 1.
- (3) U.C. Freshies—Played 2, lost 2.

TRINITY VICTORS IN SECOND EFFORT

Defeat Druggists 15-9 to Assert Strong Claim in the Series

SCHOOLMEN DEFEATED

Yesterday afternoon Trinity and Jr. School finished up their interfaculty rugby game on the back campus, with Trinity the final winners by the score of 12-6. On Monday the teams played the first half but due to the unfortunate accident to Peter Parker of Trinity were unable to complete the game before dark. At the end of the first session Jr. School were on top by the score of 6-5.

Failing to play the brand of ball they did on Monday Junior School were outplayed by the Black and Red squad. Trinity started off strongly and recovered two S.P.S. blocked kicks to put them in a scoring position. A'Court kicked for a single to tie up the score. In this quarter the Engineers had the wind at their backs but failed to capitalize on it.

On the first play after they had turned around Trinity scored another single to forge into the lead. At this stage they looked to be the better team, the S.P.S. line being very weak and their kicking atrocious. After brilliant runs by Harry Parker and Owen, Trinity found themselves five yards out and on the next play A'Court went over for an unconverted touch.

Trinity: Flying wing, Kirk; halves, A'Court, Owen Riddick; quarter, Welch; snap, Stratton; insides, Hamilton, Osler; middles, Lash, E. Fraser; outsides, Scrivener, Young; subs, Morgan, Murrell-Wright, Jefferies, C. L. Fraser, MacMillan, Millyard, Tucker, Reid and H. Parker.

Senior School: Flying wing, Schmidt, halves, Leeworthy, McLeod, Pidduck; quarter, Ballagh; snap, Walker; insides, Otter, Black; middles, Clark, MacDougal; outsides, Mitchell, W. Burgess; subs, Stiles, Gray, Quance and Busby.

Officials: Lamberti and Vaughan.

VICTORIA TAKES KNOX WITH A 4-1 VICTORY

Slippery Field, Drizzling Rain, Mark Interfaculty Soccer Encounter

Playing on a slippery field caused by the drizzling rain, Victoria defeated Knox yesterday in an interfaculty soccer game by the one sided score of 4-1. However, the play was more even than the score indicated and both teams showed they were capable of playing good soccer.

The first half was very even in the play and the scoring was opened by Grills, to put Vic in the lead. Before half time however Millroy scored a nice goal to tie it up for Knox.

In the second half Vic demonstrated their superior passing ability and were soon again put into the lead by Rowlinson. This was followed with a score by Cochran and a penalty shot scored by Rowlinson, which was accomplished in semi-darkness.

Victoria: Dyke, Cooper, Scott, Cochran, Simpson, Woods, Campbell, Rowlinson, Grills, Taylor, Poppleton; subs, Macdonald, Neeb, Rutherford.

Knox: Dunn, Long, Thompson, R. Esler, Rowland, Young, Milroy, M. Esler, Johnson, Weir, Taylor; subs, Evans, Macdonald.

TRINITY TAKE PHARMACY IN LACROSSE CONTEST

Trinity College lacrosse team showed that they will be one of the main contenders for the Dr. W. A. Dafoe trophy when they defeated Pharmacy by a 15-9 score yesterday in the big gym.

Pharmacy held the Trinity men even in the first period each team netting the ball three times, but Trinity came back very fast in the second period, scoring seven goals to one by Pharmacy.

Bordie Allison, as usual, was the standout for Trinity. His terrific shots accounted for nine of their goals. Birchall and Bell were the other Trinity marksmen. Pronger and Armour with two goals apiece were the standouts for the embryo druggists.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By R. J. McGuire

Already many football togs have been bundled into the moth balls and next Saturday night will be celebrated by many teams, performing the same little deed. Hamilton Tigers will face Sarnia in the clash which will produce the Dominion champions. The team, of course, will not be crowned at the end of Saturday's encounter but defeating the Western team will likely be merely a formality. In the intercollegiate union, Varsity will play hosts to Queen's in a championship struggle. This contest will be the classic of the season. However, classics at this time of the year occasionally have some of the colour (and gate), taken from them by the sudden appearance of several feet of snow or a sudden drop of the temperature. All of which is a very unpleasant thought.

Varsity, it will be recalled, nosed out the Kingston squad in the playoff game here last season. Whether history will repeat itself is hard to tell. Queen's lost Saturday's game to the Mustangs, something no other team in the series were able to do. However the Mustangs were at their best Saturday and the Kingston squad were coasting. Abe Zvonkin and Reg Barker were enjoying the scenery from row X at Molson Stadium in Montreal when their brethren were being trampled by the London Mustangs. Whether the boys were down because they liked Montreal or because they wished to get a look at a Varsity team in action without having to make a tackle to bring said action to a halt is also a simple problem. Whether they succeeded in their little scouting venture will be told on Saturday.

Sarnia Imperials will probably go into action Saturday a slight favourite to beat the Hamilton Tigers. The O.R.F.U. squad with have Bummer Sterling on their backfield and the Sterling individual is the highest scoring man in senior football. Hamilton have been the surprise team of the season and have apparently departed from the mass attack plan which in former years carried them down the field with the force of a steam roller. This season they have featured a fast breaking open type of game, and if anything will beat Sarnia it is this style. However, the Tigers still can hit the line for yards and old Brian Timmis, who has cleats on his slippers, is still good for that extra yard when they need it for a first down.

When the winner of this struggle is declared they will face the Regina Roughriders. The Western team are fresh from a victory at Vancouver and will entrain for Eastern Canada in their annual effort for a Dominion title. The press agents have as yet not had time to get to work on them but we have no doubt but that they will be the greatest team ever to come out of the west. They always are. This season they will be without the guiding influence of Al Ritchie, which is a departure from the usual custom of Rider teams.

IMPORTANCE OF "MAKE-UP" IS STRESSED AT GROUP

The plans for this year's activities of the "Make-up Group" of the Victoria College Dramatic Club were announced at the first meeting in Wymilwood last night. Jean Fraser explained the essentials of make up, giving a practical demonstration of its use in juvenile roles. A group will be instructed each week until the beginning of the one-act plays in the art of preparing character roles for the footlights, it was announced. The group will be divided into two sections, each using the other as subjects, thus gaining practical experience for the major production, "The Crime at Blossoms" and the eight one-act plays to be presented at Hart House.

The importance of make up in dramatic art will be exercised to the full this year. Adequate instruction has been arranged for and excellent training is assured.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR BASKETBALL

Senior Cagers Should Prove Strong Threat to McGill This Season

ALL TEAMS STRONG

With the football season ending on Saturday, the centre of sport interest shifts to basketball and sport fans will find the Varsity basketball teams plenty interesting. Each of the three squads have more than enough men trying out and the competition for each place is keen, resulting in snappy practice sessions every night.

The senior team in particular is up on the bit, and McGill, who have won the basketball title for the last four years, will have a tough time making it five in a row. With Gold, Bodrug, Himmel and Caplan of last year's team and Filton from McMaster playing guard, Varsity should be as strong defensively as they were last year. Lofy Willis, Vanderleek of last year's intermediates, and Munro from Western, all play the centre position well, and they are sure to have good support from the wings in Normie Newman, Gordon and Levy of last year's team, strengthened by Castigan and Mencil from Assumption College.

Besides their intercollegiate activities Varsity seniors are entered in the Big Six League, which in spite of several alterations is still the Big Six. Their first game in this league is on December 1st against West End.

Due to St. Mike's retiring from the Big Six group, several of their star players, notably Connelly and Marks, are eligible to play for Varsity, but to date none of the St. Mike's boys have shown up for practice.

The intermediates are a pre-season uncertainty but there is no apparent reason why they should not repeat last year's win in the intercollegiate group. They have Magwood, Gibson, Mitchell, H. Newman and Ranson of last year's squad and Kinsey and Cracker from last year's juniors. They will probably be entered in a Toronto league as well as in the intercollegiate.

The Varsity junior team is still in the embryo state but it contains several fine prospects. Miller, Harlock, Toole and Cooper are back again. Several freshmen, notably Olch, Demme and Anderson, have looked good in the practices. There will be no regular intercollegiate series for the juniors but they will play exhibition games with other universities, and possibly in a Toronto league.

376 PHARMACY DANCE TO TAKE PLACE SOON

Pharmacy dances are traditionally gay and happy affairs. The Pharmacy 376 dance which takes place Thursday, November 15, at the Alexandra Room of the King Edward Hotel, will be no exception to this rule. The sale of tickets has been exceptionally good, and the committee, which has been untiring in its efforts to ensure a good evening of entertainment, predict a sell-out. Karl Mueller's Varsity Entertainers will supply the music, and there will be novelty dances for which prizes will be awarded. Tickets may be obtained from any Pharmacy student.

FARMS OF PALESTINE DESCRIBED BY SPEAKER

"Although there are several types of communal farms in Palestine, the one known as the 'Kvutza' is the 'most famous,' stated Miss Esther Walstein at an open meeting of the University League for Labour in Palestine held in her home on Brunswick Ave. last evening.

On the Kvutza which is composed of comparatively young people, land is owned and worked in common and the work on the farm is arranged according to the individual's ability.

Machinery, and even clothing, is a common possession in the Kvutza. Animals are a source of great pride to the so-called comrades of the communal farm and one of the first buildings to be erected on the farm is the barn.

ATHLETIC AT-HOME TO BE HELD SOON

December 7th is announced as the date of the annual Athletic At-Home. This well known event will be held as usual in Hart House.

The guests of honour will be the first "T" holders of the current year. A list will be posted in the Athletic office during next week, to be signed by others who would care to attend. This list will be reviewed by the Athletic Directorate and invitations issued to the most suitable men, to the number of about three hundred. Preference will be given to the senior men who are actively interested in athletics.

Leo Romanelli will furnish the music for dancing, in the big gym. Special lighting and decorations will be installed, details of which are not yet available. Refreshments will be served in the Great Hall. The At-Home will be strictly formal.

CANADIAN ARTISTS

which is in accordance with the development of Canadian art. Another very noticeable feature of Canadian art is its democratic spirit, pictures by all kinds of people being hung in this exhibition.

Canadians should be ready to view Canadian art with sympathy, not expecting every picture to please them personally, but basing their criticism on the extent to which the artist has succeeded in making clear to the observer his own interpretation of the subject. Only in this way will Canada have a vigorous school of painting, expressing her own personality.

INCONSEQUENCE

They shall not grow old as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning,
We will remember them.

Lawrence Binyon—To the Fallen.
There may be others who dislike this poem as the writer does. For that, however, the poet is not to be blamed. Remembering what has passed since the first Armistice Day—the bickering of European powers, the struggles for markets, the re-arming of Europe, the growth of dictatorships, combines, bread-lines, the exquisitely worded lines of this piece seem like a ghastly mockery. We cannot, however, blame the poet for that. He represents an era during and after the war, when honest and conscientious Christians were struggling hard to reconcile their hatred of the war they had just passed through with the undeniable fact that they had participated in it and had supported it. They were trying desperately to find some crumb of comfort, some salve for their aching consciences, some indication that the war was not wholly the blot of horror and bloodshed that it seemed to have been. Thus grew up a romantic legend of the war, a legend which people in many quarters who can not or will not face the real truth of the matter still lull themselves into believing to be true.

With proud thanksgiving a mother for her children,
England mourns for her dead across the sea—

Rather than admit to themselves that the mourning of England for her soldier dead was mere crocodile weeping, the great illusion was promulgated. Hundreds of thousands of our finest young men were slaughtered overseas. Why did they die? The answer was given "They died for a great ideal. They waged a war to end war, to make the world safe for democracy."

"Age shall not weary them nor the years condemn."

That's the pity of it! We can't condemn them. They fought and died in a conflict that most curiously mingled the heights and the depths. They fought through a brutal war with a high ideal and they died fighting for it. Nor do we doubt that many of the soldiers who died at the front were so actuated. We cannot condemn them for the seeming futility of the action they took. On the other hand, they have every right to condemn us.

Man is a curious mixture of diverse qualities, the altruist and the egoist struggle within him, the builder and the destroyer are ever at odds. Who, then, would have thought that these two mutually incompatible qualities, the idealist and the animal, would have united in so strange a pact. A war, fought for a great ideal, a war fought to end war, a war fought to make the world safe for democracy. Surely it must be an illusion. And yet hundreds of thousands of aching hearts believed it then, tens of thousands believe it yet. Wars should not be related to Church services. Yet they have been, and during the last war they were again and again. Ministers from their pulpits preached the gospel of the war to end war, and when the war was over, a victor, beaten in spite of victory, tired, bedraggled and disillusioned, tried to keep its courage up by whistling in the dark. "They died for a great cause" they chanted and have chanted every eleventh of November since. "Their sacrifice has not been in vain." We look around us and smile sadly. It is our only consolation, but the iron sticks deep in our soul. . . .

national and racial minorities, in favour of complete separation of church and school, as well as free speech and press and student control of student affairs.

In this initial issue is found a report of the First National Conference of the Student League of Canada, an account of the Montreal High School strike against increased fees, an article on Hitler's opposition to higher education, except for a select few, and discussions of the problems of unemployed graduates and the student's attitude towards war.

MASSEY TO SPEAK

is "Because the normal condition of both is silence and when either opens his mouth he gets into trouble" but records show that at conventions, banquets, and other functions his talks have been the highlight of the occasion.

Hence our personal observation is that anyone with any powers of discernment and judgment can see that in the sphere of entertainment the 45th Annual School Dinner will eclipse any previous event of a similar nature.

RUSSIAN LITERATURE

It has frequently been suggested that force has been employed to make the writers of the U.S.S.R. accept these views, but so vast is the field presented to them that, asserted the speaker, there was little likelihood of this being the case, and he felt that the immediate future held much for the literature of Russia.

Recently thirteen people travelled on one railway ticket, the mother and twelve children all under five years; there were two sets of triplets and three sets of twins.
